Ellisville and Laurel to be represented in 69th annual Mississippi Miss Hospitality Competition

Submitted

Katye Avera of Laurel, Kaitlyn Warden of Ellisville, and Natalie Welch of Jones County will represent their regions in the 69th Miss Hospitality Competition at the Historic Hattiesburg Saenger Theater in Downtown Hattiesburg on July 20-21 at 8 p.m. each evening.

Avera is a sophomore at Meridian Community College in the Dental Hygiene program where she serves as fundraiser chairman. She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society. Upon graduation, Avera plans to further her education at the University Medical Center in Jackson to obtain a bachelor's degree. Avera will represent Laurel in this year's Miss Hospitality Competition.

Katye Avera

Warden, who is representing Ellisville, is a magna cum laude and Hall of Fame graduate of South Jones High School, where she served as a Student Advisory Council representative. She will be attending Pearl River Community College in the fall. After graduating from PRCC, she will attend Mississippi State University to obtain a degree in fashion merchandising.

Serving Jones County, Welch attends Jones County Junior College and is studying elementary education. She is a member of Phi Theta Kappa and plans to graduate with a master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi. Welch graduated summa cum laude from West Jones High School and was elected Most Admired.

In its 21st year as host city, Hattiesburg will showcase this year's best and brightest young women as they compete for the title of Mississippi's Miss Hospitality. Thirty-one women, who represent all regions of the state, will vie for the title of Mississippi's Miss Hospitality, with the winner serving for a full year as the state's official ambassador for economic development and tourism. For the first time, the Mississippi Miss Hospitality Competition has added a Little Miss Hospitality component. Each local representative has selected a young girl between the ages of 6 and 10 from her hometown to mentor throughout her reign. Little Misses will appear on stage during competition and be invited to official events. If crowned the next Mississippi Miss Hospitality, the contestant's Little Miss will be able to serve alongside her as she fulfills her duties and responsibilities as Mississippi's Goodwill Ambassador. Avery Ladner of Laurel, KeriAna Warden of Ellisville, and Brayleigh Thornton of Jones County will represent their regions as this year's Little Miss Hospitality.

"As the contestants, along with their friends, family, and Little Miss participants, travel to Hattiesburg, we are eager to welcome them and showcase our city. From the beautiful campus of the University of Southern Mississippi to the Historic Saenger Theater and Hattiesburg Zoo, these young women and their supporters will get to know Hattiesburg quite well during competition week," Marlo Dorsey, executive director of VisitHATTIESBURG, said.

Arriving on July 15, the contestants will be welcomed to the University of Southern Mississippi before starting their week-long journey to the crowning ceremony on July 21. Throughout competition week in Hattiesburg, contestants will attend social events, participate in community service projects, and attend required rehearsals and competitions. The public is invited to meet the contestants at the Miss Hospitality autograph party at Hattiesburg Zoo

Happy Fourth of July, everyone! I hope everyone has a fun-filled, safe holiday. Everyone loves when holidays fall in the middle of the week, right? So much for that three-day weekend...

Holidays used to be simple when it came to fashion. The only holiday that really required any thought to what you should wear was Halloween. Every other holiday was just another day when it came to picking out clothes. Well, except for Christmas. Growing up, my brothers and I had closets full of Christmas sweaters, t-shirts and sweatshirts.

This was way before tacky Christmas sweaters became fun party wear. Back then, it was totally normal to have a sweater that depicted an entire Christmas village on it. And more often than not, to wear it while having a family photo taken, probably at the mall. The JC Penney photo studio used to get a lot of business around Christmas. I don't know if they even still take pictures

The holidays are different now. If you walk into any local boutique in the weeks leading up to a holiday, you will find racks filled with themed shirts and outfits for that particular day. I scrolled through Facebook this morning and saw tons of posts promoting stars and stripes outfits, graphic t-shirts with various American slogans on them, and enough red, white and blue to fill up an entire closet. Everything I saw was cute, but it got me thinking... Is it really practical to buy a holiday-themed outfit you can only wear once a year? Let's look at various big holidays and see what makes sense.

Valentine's Day: Sorry to all of the romantics out there, but this is a resounding no from me. I am not a big believer in Valentine's Day to begin with. If you love someone, tell them every day. We don't need a designated holiday to express our feelings with overpriced chocolates and $9 greeting cards. Besides, do we really want to celebrate love on a day honoring a saint who was beheaded? With that said, I will never buy a shirt I can only wear on Valentine's Day. You can barely convince me to wear red that day, let alone cover myself in hearts. However, I will concede that most Valentine-themed shirts can be worn year-round, so if you do buy one of those shirts, you can get lots of use out of it.

St. Patrick's Day: Again, it's a no from me. This is truly a one-and-done holiday. I don't foresee many people running around in shirts adorned with leprechauns and four-leaf clovers outside of March 17th... unless you are actually Irish, I guess. But then it would just be weird. That's like wearing the t-shirt you bought at a concert to the actual concert. Nope.

Easter: Eh, maybe. It depends on the shirt. I saw one this year that was just the outline of a bunny nose, whiskers, and ears. It was pretty cute, and not overtly themed to Easter. I also saw one that said, "Hoppy Easter." Are you going to wear that in September? Doubtful.

Fourth of July: This one can go either way. Everyone loves to be patriotic. You also have Memorial Day, which follows the same outfit guidelines, so you definitely have two days out of the year to fly your flag colors. Just like Easter, the outfit of choice really defines this one. Basic stars and stripes or shirts that scream varying degrees of "Yay, America!" can be worn whenever your heart desires, but anything that says "July 4th" or "Independence Day" is definitely a one-off.

Halloween: This is costume-driven and doesn't really apply. Also, if you don't dress up for Halloween, we can't be friends.

Thanksgiving: No. Giant, colorful turkeys belong to one day and one day only. Now that I'm thinking about it, I don't remember seeing too many Thanksgiving-themed shirts.

Christmas: Yes, yes, yes!!! You can start wearing Christmas shirts on December 1st, so you get an entire month of good, jolly fun. My favorite Christmas shirt is a basic green v-neck t-shirt. In big white block letters, it simply says, "Resting Grinch Face." I would wear it every day of my life if I could.

I think that about covers all of the big holidays. But like I say every week, these are only my opinions. Based on the success of the boutiques, not everyone shares those opinions, and that's great. The world would be pretty boring if we all followed the same fashion beliefs, right?

Sharon - Shady Grove Fire Protection District gets better insurance rating

Submitted

It is with great pride that we announce (effective May 2) the Sharon – Shady Grove Fire Protection District, informally referred to as District 2 in Jones County, has received a better insurance rating from the Mississippi State Rating Bureau. Out of the six districts across Jones County, District 2 comprises the only communities to have their classification reduced from 8 to 7, which implies lower insurance prices for homeowners in the Sharon and Shady Grove communities. Sharon and Shady Grove Volunteer Fire Departments have achieved this rating by providing above-standard fire protection services to the communities in which they serve, as well as meeting or exceeding the standard requirements for public fire hydrant locations, and the required five-mile radius placement of the responding department within a community.

What many people do not realize is that the fire protection and medical first responder services are facilitated and provided by men and women who willingly volunteer their time to ensure the safety and protection of the community, saving both lives and property. Without these dedicated individuals who fight on behalf of their community to ensure above-standard fire protection, insurance ratings could and would most likely be much higher, raising the general insurance premium prices for homeowners, as well as reducing the overall protection for life and property.

Volunteer Fire Departments across the country rely on specific avenues for financial coverage, and one of those avenues is directly related to the community which is serviced by volunteers. The Sharon Volunteer Fire Department has reported that it receives “water money” from less than or closely equal to 50 percent of all households covered in the Sharon area. The water money that is referred to is the optional $1 donation included in each household’s water bill.

Many areas do not offer this $1 donation as optional, and therefore is already included in a standard water bill. However, the Sharon community is granted the option to donate $1 per water bill to the Sharon Volunteer Fire Department, and at this time, only half of the homeowners in the Sharon community do so. The Sharon Volunteer Fire Department, like many other volunteer fire departments across our county and nation, rely heavily upon donations to maintain operations and continue to provide above-standard services to the communities in which they serve. The difference that a $1 donation per water bill could make is outstanding. The members of the Sharon Volunteer Fire Department request that people of the Sharon community recognize the premiere fire protection services provided by the Sharon Volunteer Fire Department and consider whole-heartedly in providing support for your local volunteer fire service by giving that small $1 donation on each of your water bills.

There is an ever-growing need for better equipment, fire apparatus and training in the volunteer fire service, and even though the Sharon-Shady Grove area has been granted a better insurance rating, this does not negate the fact that these two volunteer fire departments are in continuous need of financial donations from their communities.

It is therefore requested that each household or business in the Sharon community that receives a monthly water bill consider donating $1 per bill to the Sharon Volunteer Fire Department so that they can continue to maintain a Class 7 rating and help lower your insurance rates while providing superior fire protection and emergency medical services to each and every member of the Sharon community.

Moselle Elementary student wins first prize at 45th National Junior Beta Club Convention

(Submitted) - Clark Piercy, a 5th grade student from Moselle Elementary won first prize in the woodworking division at the 45th National Junior Beta Club Convention held recently in Savannah, GA. Mississippi holds Beta Conventions across the state and out of state where kids from a variety of schools can attend and compete. This year’s convention venue boasted nearly 25,000 attendees from all over the nation, marking the event to be the largest in Savannah’s history.

Contest participants get to showcase not just their work but also their academic and leadership abilities with peers from across the states. Many children put their skills to the test making a diversity of entries but Piercy’s meticulously made billiard pool cue with 92 intricately designed inlays of synthetic ivory, silver, ebony, cherry, and blue mahoe, with a bird’s eye maple as forearm outclassed all other entries and bagged this year’s coveted award. The eleven year old has been consistently top of all his competitions, receiving first place in Division 1 of 4th and 5th grade for woodworking at the State Beta Convention held in Biloxi, MS, last March, which advanced him to compete in Savannah, GA, in June.

The experience has inspired confidence and ambition in Piercy that he aims to join the contest again next year and stated, “I would like to push myself and do more to show the talents and skills that my family, especially my father, has shown me.” Clark credits his family for their love and support, as well as, helping him in his faith journey. He stated that he “trusted God’s guidance” in all his activities and is thankful for all the blessings he has received. The Piercy family are parishioners at St. Thomas Aquinas Catholic Church in Hattiesburg. Piercy is also actively involved with their youth program which according to him has helped foster strong family bonds and values that he was able to put into practice.

JCJC's McGowen accepted into Rural Physician Scholarship Program

The long list of honors and awards just got longer for recent Jones County Junior College graduate, Katelynn McGowen. The Moselle native and daughter of Hugh and Robin McGowen officially learned she was selected to participate in the undergraduate portion of the Mississippi Rural Physicians Scholarship Program (MRPSP). This program provides a way for rural Mississippi students to earn a seat in medical school, receive mentoring during the medical school application process and earn a $120,000 medical school scholarship in return for four years of service while learning the art of healing from practicing rural physicians. The biological sciences/pre-medicine major has a long-term goal of working in the pediatric field. She said being a part of the MRPSP has been a dream that she has worked long and hard to accomplish.

"I am grateful to be accepted into the Mississippi Rural Physicians Scholarship Program because I have always wanted to enter the medical field since I was about seven years old," said McGowen. "The program is a huge blessing in helping to pave my route to medical school while offering guidance, scholarships, and a medical family that will always be by my side. I am excited to see where the MRPSP journey takes me!"

In the fall, McGowen will be a junior at the University of Mississippi as one of 15 students named a prestigious Lyceum Scholar. At Jones, she was a member of the Charles Pickering Honors Institute, Phi Theta Kappa honor society where she served as the VP of Leadership and Service, and she was selected as a New Century Pathway Scholar. Other honors she has earned include JCJC's Who's Who, Hall of Fame and Letter "J" Awards, the Presidential Scholarship and she was a member of the JCJC Student Government Association, Baptist Student Union, Sigma Kappa Delta English Honors Society, and the College Republicans Club.

McGowen was the Maroon Typhoon Lead Drum Major both years, additionally, she served as Ellisville's 2016 Miss Hospitality, and she currently volunteers with the Hattiesburg Elks Lodge and in the Emergency room at Forrest General Hospital.

"I am so thankful for my professors, my academics, and the endless opportunities Jones County Junior College offered me. I have made many connections by being involved on and off campus, and I pray to always inspire greatness in other people's lives," McGowen said.

Created in 2007, MRPSP identifies college sophomores and juniors who demonstrate the necessary commitment and academic achievement to become competent, well-trained rural primary care physicians in Mississippi. The program offers undergraduate academic enrichment and a clinical experience in a rural setting. Upon completion of all medical school admissions requirements, the student can be admitted to the University of Mississippi School of Medicine or William Carey University College of Osteopathic Medicine.

During medical school, each MRPSP scholar may receive $30,000 per year based on available funding. Consistent legislative support of MRPSP translates to 60 medical students receiving a total of $1,800,000 to support their education this fall. Additional benefits include personalized mentoring from practicing rural physicians and academic support.

Upon completion of medical training, MRPSP Scholars must enter a residency program in one of five primary care specialties: family medicine, general internal medicine, medicine-pediatrics, obstetrics/gynecology or pediatrics. The MRPSP Scholar must provide four years of service in a clinic-based practice in an approved Mississippi community of 15,000 or less, located more than 20 miles from a medically served area.

The Mississippi Rural Physicians Scholarship Program and the Mississippi Rural Dentists Scholarship Program are state-funded efforts to increase the number of dentists and physicians serving the health-care needs of Mississippians in rural areas. Housed at the University of Mississippi Medical Center in Jackson, and collaborating with its schools of medicine and dentistry and the College of Osteopathic Medicine at William Carey University in Hattiesburg, the programs use various outreach, mentoring and training methods to identify, support, educate and deploy new generations of health-care workers for Mississippi's underserved populations.

Our Heavenly Father will always walk with us through the storms of life

By Dr. Bill Myers

No storm is too big for our God!

"But now, this is what the Lord says—"Do not fear, for I have redeemed you. I have summoned you by name; you are mine. When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and when you pass through the rivers, they will not sweep over you. When you walk through the fire, you will not be burned; the flames will not set you ablaze." (Isaiah 43: 1-2)

As we go through trials (and we will go through them), God has promised to walk with us each step and not allow the trial to defeat us. He never said that the storms wouldn't come, but He did say He will be with us and the storms will not overtake us! God is our loving Abba Father of protection, comfort, and care. When I faced our horrible storm eight years ago, I can say that I don't think I would have made it had it not been for my Heavenly Father holding me up when I was crumbling. He was there each step I took!

"You are my hiding place, O Lord; you will protect me from trouble and surround me with songs of deliverance." (Psalm 32:7)

I love the fact that there is a comforting place to go when we face trials, and that place is in the arms of God. His Word states He will protect us. Sometimes I picture God standing in a rainstorm with an umbrella asking us to come out of the rain and stand next to him under the umbrella so we will be protected from the storm. Sadly many feel isolated during a storm (which the devil loves), feeling no one cares. We should reassure ourselves that Jesus loves us and is with us 24/7!

Trusting God is a choice. Some believe that God expects us to be independent and "use our brains" to figure how to stay protected from the storms. Friends, I choose to "trust" my loving Heavenly Father to protect, guide, and comfort me. I choose to lean on Him for everything. Our God is faithful, caring, comforting, and loving.

Today, if you are suffering or going through a painful, emotional storm, call on Jesus. His name is powerful! He is waiting to take care of you! Yes, He is the answer and will answer you, I promise. He will walk with you and even carry you if you're too weak to take another step.

Call to Him! He's lovingly waiting for you. Remember, nothing you are going through is too big for our God.

Your storm might be big, but Jesus walked on top of the big waves! He'll take care of you, I promise!

Did You Know . . . Relocating for a Job & Degrees in Demand

In a survey of 3,500 working professionals, Allied Van Lines found that 17 percent had relocated for a job. Roughly 50 percent of those who relocated did so for career advancement and/or more money, while 8 percent moved to be closer to family or for other relationship reasons. Moving is often characterized as stressful, and 31 percent of survey respondents who moved indicated that finding a home was the most challenging part of relocating for a job.

Acclimating to a new community (29 percent), finding services such as utilities and medical care (13 percent) and making friends (12 percent) were also cited as some of the most challenging parts of relocating for a job. As difficult as relocating can be, 64 percent of those who had relocated expressed positive sentiments toward their job relocation, while just 7.5 percent harbored negative feelings about relocating

Degrees in Demand

As the cost of college tuition continues to rise and the job market grows increasingly competitive, college students are giving greater consideration to their prospects of being hired before choosing a major. A 2015 study commissioned by the National Association of Colleges and Employers asked 201 employers, including companies like Aetna, Macy's and Procter & Gamble, which degrees are most in demand, even distinguishing between the most in demand bachelor's degrees, master's degrees and doctorates. The following are the results of that study, courtesy of the NACE.

MOST IN DEMAND BACHELOR'S DEGREES:

1. Accounting
2. Computer Science
3. Finance
4. Business Administration/Management
5. Mechanical Engineering

MOST IN DEMAND MASTER'S DEGREES:

1. Computer Science
2. Electrical Engineering
3. Mechanical Engineering
4. Information Sciences & Systems

Steps to make applying to college less stressful

The college application process can affect students' lives for years to come, so it's understandable why some teenagers might feel stressed as they apply to college. BS187091

Applying to colleges is exciting for many high school students. But that excitement is sometimes tempered by anxiety. The college application process can affect students' lives for years to come, so it's understandable why some teenagers might feel stressed as they apply to college.

The National Center for Educational Statistics says 69 percent of high school graduates in the United States enroll in college the fall after graduating from high school. Many students begin applying to college before entering their senior year of high school. Students can employ various strategies to make applying to college less stressful.

Create an inventory of student experiences and awards

When completing their college applications, students submit a variety of materials. In addition to students' track records in the classroom, schools will be interested in kids' extracurricular activities, hobbies, volunteer work, and even things they do during their free time.

Parents and students can work together to develop a master list that includes information about what students have accomplished during high school. These may include involvement in certain clubs, participation in sports teams, advanced ranking in scouting programs, or even a list of books read. Having this document handy will make it that much simpler to fill out college applications.

Investigate the Common Application

The Common Application began as a niche program for select private liberal arts colleges, but now has grown into an organization that services more than 750 schools. The organization enables students to create an account and complete one basic form that will be accepted by all institutions who are members. The CA helps students streamline the college application process and reduce redundancy. An alert system also helps applicants manage application deadlines.

Avoid applying everywhere

Some students think that applying to dozens of schools will improve their chances of being admitted. However, applicants may be wasting their time applying to schools they have no intention of attending, and that only adds to the stress of meeting deadlines. Narrow down the possibilities to a handful of favorite schools and go from there.

Use the resources at your disposal

Students who have access to guidance counselors, mentors, college centers, or even teachers who are willing to help with the application process should use these resources wisely. In addition, iPhone and Android apps can help streamline the college application process.

Consider scholarships concurrently

Some schools automatically consider applicants for scholarships, grants and work-study programs. But that's not so with every school, so students may have to apply on their own or rely on third parties for scholarships. Fastweb is a leading online resource to find scholarships to pay for school. Advance preparation can make the college application process a lot less stressful for students and their parents.

JCJC names Pellegrin new women's assistant basketball coach

By Shawn Wansley

Jones County Junior College head coach Missy Bilderback is excited to announce the addition of Scott Pellegrin to her staff. Pellegrin comes from Trinity Valley Community College (Texas), where he was an assistant last season.

The Lady Cardinals finished the 2017-2018 season as the NJCAA Division I National Tournament runnerup. Pellegrin was part of two National Championships during his time at Trinity Valley. Some of his duties as an assistant coach at Trinity Valley included recruiting, scouting, running the strength and conditioning program, setting up academic success plans and video operations.

Pellegrin also spent time as an assistant coach at Wabash Valley College (Indiana) and at Florida State University as an assistant Video Coordinator.

In his first season at Wabash Valley, the team qualified for the national tournament in a 31-win season – the best season in school history. Pellegrin also recruited a two-time All-American to Wabash Valley.

While at Florida State some of his duties included maintaining the video library and working on different edits including: recruit, self-scout, personnel and opponent. He assisted in other duties like film exchange, team travel and team camp.

"We are thrilled to have Scott join our program and family at Jones," Bilderback said. "I believe he is one of the brightest young coaches in the country. He has worked for very successful coaches and programs throughout his career.

"Scott has a great understanding of what it takes to be successful on the national level in the NJCAA. He is a tireless worker and has a great love and passion for the game of basketball. He has great contacts in recruiting and is just overall a really good basketball coach.

"But I am most impressed with how he invests himself in the student-athlete and program's overall growth. We are continuing to strive to take this program to another level and I really believe Scott has the ability to help us get there."

Pellegrin, who has a degree from Texas A&M-Commerce, joins assistant coach Devin Cooper on Bilderback's staff. Former JCJC assistant coach Brooke Rhodes recently accepted a coaching position at Presbyterian College in South Carolina.

Factors to consider before choosing a honeymoon destination

Engaged couples spend lots of time and money planning their weddings. The Knot 2017 Real Weddings Study found that the average couple who married in 2017 spent more than $33,000 on their weddings. If that figure raises eyebrows, couples may be even more surprised to learn it does not include the cost of a honeymoon.

ter tying the knot.

The 2017 Real Weddings Study found that the average engagement length in 2017 was 14 months, and many couples are no doubt ready for a getaway after spending more than a year planning their weddings. Whether couples are working with shoestring budgets or have some financial flexibility, it's wise to consider various factors before choosing a honeymoon destination.

AMENITIES

Many resorts offer honeymoon packages that include a host of amenities, including all-inclusive food and beverage, spa access, access to water sports, and even airport pickup and dropoff. Such packages can save couples substantial amounts of money, which can help those who might have spent more on their weddings than they initially intended.

RECREATION

Couples also may want to consider the accessibility of local recreational activities before choosing a honeymoon destination. Some couples may just want to spend the duration of their honeymoons unwinding on a beach, while others may want to mix relaxation with exploration. All-inclusive resort packages may or may not include off-site resort activities.

Couples who want to do some exploring away from their resorts should investigate both the accessibility and safety of doing so.

BUDGET

If budgets were stretched for the wedding, couples should not discount the benefits of planning a post-wedding weekend getaway and then saving some money for a more traditional honeymoon down the road. This option still affords couples a chance to spend a few post-wedding days away from home and can help them save for a honeymoon trip they will never forget. Couples should consider a host of factors before choosing a honeymoon destination.

DISTANCE

A remote, exotic island might sound like the perfect place for couples to visit on their honeymoons. However, couples who spent more than a year planning their weddings may prefer somewhere less remote than an exotic isle that requires multiple flight transfers and possibly even days of travel to get to.

Couples should discuss how much travel they're willing to endure during their honeymoons, and then find somewhere that both partners are excited about.

The beach is not only a popular destination for summer family vacations but also for newly weds.

Did You Know . . . The rising cost of weddings

How much money a couple spends on their wedding depends largely on where they decide to tie the knot. While couples across the nation spend an average of roughly $27,000 on their weddings, the cost of tying the knot is considerably higher in major cities such as New York and Chicago.

According to TheKnot.com, the average cost of a wedding in New York City in 2011 was a shade under $66,000, making the Big Apple the most expensive city in the country to get married.

That's considerably more than the runner-up, the Windy City, where couples spent just more than $53,000 to get married. Couples who win at those figures should know that there are more affordable places to get married.

The state of West Virginia, for example, is the least expensive place to get married in the United States. Couples who tie the knot in the Mountain State spend an average of $14,203, nearly 80 percent less than their counterparts who walk down the aisle in the Empire State.
