Lots of Snow

It was a disastrous year for the farmers. The snow fell and fell until the government relief agency had to step in and lend a hand.

"It must have been terrible," said the government man to a farmer. "All that snow."

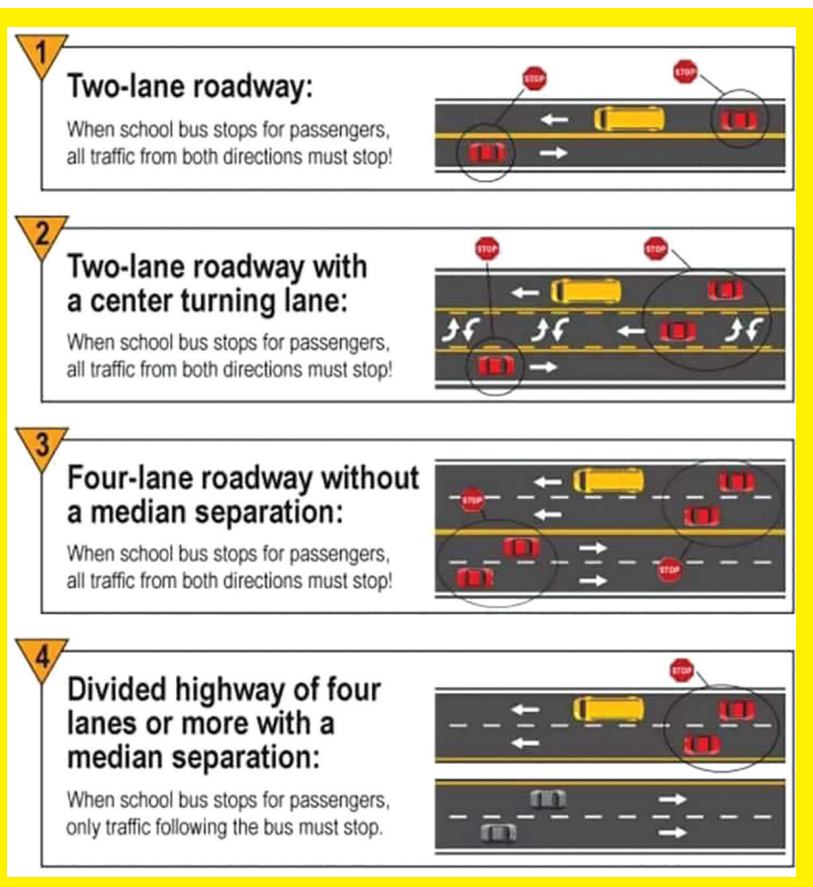

"Could have been worse," calmly answered the farmer. "My neighbor had more snow than me."

"How's that?" asked the government man.

"More land," replied the farmer.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

* It was British Prime Minister Winston Churchill who made the following sage observation: "A lie gets half-way around the world before the truth has a chance to get its pants on."

* There are lots of sports fans out there, and a lot of sports to enjoy: football, basketball, soccer, baseball, hockey ... olive oil wrestling? OK, maybe there aren't a lot of oiled wrestling events here in America, but in Turkey it's the national sport. Kirkpinar, as it's known there, has been popular since the Ottoman Empire. The Turkish town of Edirne has been hosting the annual tournament since 1361.

* If you do much printing, you might not be surprised to learn that if you figure out the cost by volume, printer ink costs far more than Dom Perignon champagne or Chanel No. 5 perfume.

* The name of Alcatraz Island -- famed location of a high-security prison that's now a tourist attraction -- comes from the Spanish "Isla de los Alcatrazes," or "Island of Pelicans."

* The murre, a bird found in the Arctic, actually dives into the water and swims to catch the small fish that comprise its diet. Interestingly, its eggs aren't like those of any other bird in the world: The whites are blue, not white, and the yolks are bright red.

* Those who study such things claim that the oceans eventually will dry up -- in about a billion years or so.

* The Transportation Security Administration banned cigarette lighters on carry-on luggage between 2005 and 2007. During that time, TSA screeners confiscated 22,978 lighters [SET ITAL]every day[END ITAL]. Safe disposal of those lighters cost the taxpayers approximately $4 million every year.

August 16, 2018
By Paulette Dean

Several years ago, a well-known yogurt company came under criticism for the shape of their containers. Stray animals and small wildlife, attracted by the smell, would put their heads in the containers, and the narrow opening would not allow them to get their heads back out.

Trash that is carelessly thrown out and not properly disposed of can cause many problems for animals. We have personally seen many cases of animals - wild and domesticated - in danger because containers were stuck on their heads.

The first one I personally saw was a stray cat that was living at a dumpster in an apartment complex. He was a young gray tabby cat and desperately needed help. The food container had evidently been torn on the bottom and he stuck his head inside. The clear top was still on the container, causing the cat's head to be completely encased. We were told that he had been seen that way for a few days, so we knew time was running out for this cat. Unfortunately, feral cats do not understand you are trying to help them. The cat ran away from us and went into the wooded area. April searched in the woods, but we couldn't find him again. Employees returned for a few days.

The cat, weak from several days of being without food and probably getting water just from condensation in the container, was finally cornered late one evening by our shelter manager's husband, Tony Hogan. He and April were finally able to get the container off the cat's head and we brought him to the shelter.

A dog with a plastic container stuck on his head was also chased for several days, until finally being caught by a police officer.

After that dog, the next animal we tried to capture was a raccoon with a glass jar on his head. The raccoon finally ran into a building and the glass jar broke. Sadly, the jagged edge of the top was still stuck on the raccoon's neck and I am sure he did not have an easy death. I thought about that raccoon when we recently had a report of a groundhog with a glass jar on his head; he had left the area before we arrived. With the soaring temperature at that time, we believe he also died.

These are just a few examples of what we have seen, and they provide sad examples of why littering is never a good idea. With a little bit of effort, trash can be properly disposed.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your honesty might upset some people, but you inevitably win more admirers for having the courage to tell the truth when others are more likely to scramble for cover.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your efforts to defend your project begin to show favorable results. You should soon be able to win over even the most determined detractors who had lined up against it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You win praise for your selfless efforts in a very difficult situation. But be careful not to allow your generous nature to be exploited by those who have their own agenda.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A trusted colleague sheds light on a recent spate of puzzling workplace situations. This should give you the information you need to bring to your superior's attention.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A shift in workplace management could be helpful for talented Leos and Leonas who have been waiting to have their accomplishments rewarded by receptive leadership.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A misunderstanding between you and someone you care for should be corrected immediately. This relationship is too important to lose over a bruised ego.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A welcome piece of good news helps clear the air in a family situation. A job-related incident also eases as more information provides a clearer focus on the problem.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Quick action to heal bruised feelings pays off in a big way. Now you'll be able to move forward with your plans without that problem holding you back.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your creativity combined with a positive attitude should give you a considerable edge in finding a way to get around the negativity you've run into.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) That sudden streak of stubbornness could cause some problems. Try to be more open to helpful suggestions and more flexible in making needed changes.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Now that that special relationship appears to be well and truly restored, you can spend more time dealing with those long-needed workplace changes.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A new opportunity sounds promising. But watch out for any conditions that might be attached. Before making a decision, ask that each one be explained in detail.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can be distracted by promises of good times, yet you ultimately reach the goals you set for yourself.

DCC Students Take Flight with College's New Drone Program

Danville, Va., August 14, 2018 – It's not a bird, not quite a plane, and definitely not Superman, but Danville Community College (DCC) students getting a bird's eye view of the world thanks to the college's new drone/unmanned aerial systems (UAS) class.

Twelve students joined DCC Instructor Steven Carrigan for a three-hour introductory training session at the college on Friday, August 10, and then got to stretch their wings on Saturday during the hands-on portion at a remote site in Pittsylvania County.

Dry Fork resident David "Hutch" Hutcherson said that the introductory course delivered exactly what he was looking for.

"It was an excellent class and I'm also taking the full class to get my license for instructing cadets in Civil Air Patrol," Hutcherson said. "We are part of the Air Force and we meet at Tunstall High School. I will also use it for videos in my video business Virginia Multimedia. I've flown jets with the Air National Guard, as well as private planes. I'm just as excited about what I can do with drones in my video business."

Carrigan had some help instructing the students on the dos and don'ts of drone flight.

"Shane Mitchell, Dale Nesselrode, Samantha Smith-Herndon, and Vincent Kendrick, all Certified 107 Pilots, donated their time to help me with my students," Carrigan said. "With their help, we managed to keep five drones flying at the same time so nobody had to sit and wait too long to get their turn. These individuals will also be teaching with me in the upcoming training classes."

Carrigan explained that the applications of drone flight are about as limited as a person's own imagination, including documentaries, news broadcasts, and live television events, real estate advertisement, farming, including livestock and vegetation, search and rescue, emergency crews, forestry, including fire prevention and identification, and personal land management, including hunting and security.

"Remote pilot certification is important because of Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) laws surrounding drone flight," Carrigan said. "The number one thing to understand when flying a drone is that ignorance of the law is no excuse and you are held responsible for any violations or damage you may cause."

If you are a hobbyist, flying just for fun, and not making money with it, Carrigan added, no certification is required.

"You are still required to follow all FAA rules," Carrigan said. "If you fly professionally, meaning if you make money or are given something tangible in return for the video or photographs and flight, then certification is required. This includes flying for the company you own or for your employer."

Graduates of the UAS/drone program will successfully pass the Remote Pilot 107 industry certification. Students are currently flying the following DJI drone models: Phantom 3, Phantom 4, and Inspire 1.

The next Remote Pilot 107 training course begins on August 18, and will run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturdays for four weeks. Limited space is still available by contacting Patricia Dayberry at 434-797-8430 or patricia.dayberry@dcc.vccs.edu.

JEREMIAH WILLIAMS ELECTED TO NATIONAL HTEC COUNCIL

(DANVILLE, Va.) – Danville Community College (DCC) and the Institute for Advanced Learning and Research (IALR) are pleased to announce the election of Jeremiah Williams, DCC’s Director of Integrated Machine Technology, to the national Haas Technical Education Center (HTEC) Council. Williams oversees the Gene Haas Center for Integrated Machining at IALR and is one of 15 HTEC Council members for the 2018-2019 term.

“We are very proud of Jeremiah and all of his accomplishments in support of creating a work-ready community in Southern Virginia. His representation on the HTEC Council will ensure that the role of community colleges in workforce development continues to grow exponentially,” said DCC President Dr. Bruce Scism.

Williams serves as one of the community college representatives on the HTEC Council and was elected by HTEC Network members during the 2018 HTEC Americas Computer Numerical Control (CNC) Educators Conference, hosted by DCC at IALR. A graduate himself of DCC’s Precision Machining Technology program, Williams worked as a senior machinist at one of the Commonwealth of Virginia’s top employers, Rolls-Royce Crosspointe, before returning to DCC to assume his current leadership role. He played a critical role in developing the third-year Capstone program at the Gene Haas Center for Integrated Machining at IALR.

“This is an incredible opportunity for Jeremiah and our region to continue our voice on the national stage for CNC machining education,” said Mark Gignac, Executive Director of IALR. “As a product himself of DCC’s renowned curriculum, Jeremiah has been instrumental in helping create a capacity of future skilled workers to enter the advanced manufacturing workforce—thereby, attracting and retaining high-quality employers.”

“The fact that Jeremiah’s professional peers elected him to the national HTEC Council clearly demonstrates the level of respect he has garnered in his field,” said Troy Simpson, Director of Advanced Manufacturing at IALR. “His election is a testament for how DCC’s innovative approach to skilled training is becoming a model for how to prepare technicians to be globally competitive in advanced manufacturing.”

The HTEC Council includes representatives from universities, community and technical colleges, and high schools. It serves as a guiding council for the HTEC Network, an industry- and education-led initiative that enables manufacturing technology educators and their schools to acquire the latest CNC machine tools and related CNC ancillary equipment, software and educational materials. The network’s goal centers on producing work-ready CNC machinists, programmers and engineers for today’s industrial employers.

For more information about Danville Community College’s more than 100 programs of study and short-term career training options, visit www.danville.edu or call 434-797-8594.

The Institute for Advanced Learning and Research serves Virginia as a regional catalyst for economic transformation with applied research, advanced learning, conference center services and economic development efforts. The Institute’s major footprint focuses within Southern Virginia, including the counties of Patrick, Henry, Franklin, Pittsylvania, Halifax and Mecklenburg along with the cities of Martinsville and Danville.

Averett University Honored Among National Colleges of Distinction

DANVILLE, Va. (Aug. 9, 2018) –Averett University today announced it has once again been recognized for its committed implementation of high-impact educational practices, retaining its title as one of the nation’s Colleges of Distinction. Additionally, Averett was recognized in three fields of study for innovative leadership: business, education and nursing.

This is the University’s sixth consecutive year receiving the honor. Averett is one of only 10 colleges recognized from Virginia, and one of only five private Virginia colleges.

“We are delighted and proud to receive this wonderful honor for the sixth year in a row,” said Averett University President Dr. Tiffany M. Franks. “It’s a true testament to our innovative teaching, dedicated faculty and staff, and our students who are so engaged in the community. It’s yet another demonstration as to why things like our commitment to service-learning and real-world experiences during the college years are so meaningful for our students.”

Colleges of Distinction’s selection process consists of a review of each institution’s freshman experience and retention efforts alongside its general education programs, alumni success, strategic plan, student satisfaction and more. Schools are accepted on the basis that they adhere to the four distinctions: Engaged Students, Great Teaching, Vibrant Community and Successful Outcomes.

“We are absolutely thrilled to recognize Averett University as a College of Distinction for its effective dedication to student success,” said Tyson Schritter, chief operating officer for Colleges of Distinction. “Colleges of Distinction is so impressed with Averett University’s curriculum, which is enriched with the kind of high-impact educational practices that are most crucial for student development. Such innovative engagement is preparing the next generation of young adults to thrive after college.”

When we lost you, we lost ourselves too. We feel lost and alone and we don't know what to do. It's a never ending nightmare of pain that feels like nails are being driven into our heart and then pulled out again. Night and day the prevailing thought in our head is that you're gone. We know we will never get over it, but somehow we have to get through it. We take small steps through the darkness guided by our grieving hearts, time and distance have disappeared as we've been torn apart. The grief road is so long and it stretches lifelong so its hard to carry on and be strong. We know we'll be lost until we find you, so we look for you everywhere, we know you're there we just can't see you. Sometimes we stop and share because we think we've seen you but its just someone who looks like you. We look at photos using your eyes to give us a clue, its so hard to accept that we've lost you. We could walk endless miles through wind and rain and back again, We would climb mountains, walk through deserts and sail stormy seas. We would walk until we fell to our knees for every mile we would shed a tear and every year we would endure the pain, if only we could find you again. We will meet one day at the Pearly Gates of Heaven on the other side of the beautiful shore. Till then we love and miss you dearly.

"Walking A Mile In Very Dangerous Shoes"

"Pray, don't find fault with the man that limps, or stumbles along the road, unless you have worn the moccasins he wears, or stumbled beneath the same load." (Mary T. Lathrap, Judge Softly.)

"Before you criticize someone, you should walk a mile in their shoes. That way when you criticize them, you are a mile away from them and you have their shoes." (Jack Handey)

There are many variations on that old phrase, some serious, some facetious. But if I may offer a new version of it based on current events...

"Before you find fault with the police, pull on the uniform and badge and do a week of night shifts."

The current NFL season is upon us once again, and for the third year in a row the conversation will be somewhat dominated by talk of players kneeling and protesting during the national anthem. This goes back as far as August of 2016 when then San Francisco 49ers quarterback Colin Kaepernick was photographed on the field wearing socks depicting police officers as pigs. The players who have followed him into this sustained protest have stated on multiple occasions that their purpose is to bring attention to police brutality against minorities.

I have loved NFL football since I was a child, Sunday was always the happiest day of the week for me both because of church and because my Dolphins would be beating up on the hapless Colts or Patriots. Yet I have not watched any football for the past two years, and likely will skip it this year also because it has become a bitter political brouhaha rather than a pleasant diversion from the stress of the week.

If there was a solution, I would love to see it be implemented. But maybe there is.

Galatians 6:2 says, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ." That is much akin to the Mary Lathrap sentiment of "walking a mile in another man's moccasins." When we take it upon ourselves to truly shoulder the burden of others, it changes both them and us.

For full disclosure, I am absolutely pro-law enforcement. One of my dear friends was an officer for many years till he was gunned down in the line of duty by a criminal with a rap sheet as long as my arm. He left behind a wife and daughter.

I understand full well that there always have been and always will be bad cops out there, even officers that harbor deep racism in their hearts. But with over one million officers in the United States, how could that not be true? Take any group at all of one million or more, and I do not care if they are girl scouts, candy strippers, doctors, preachers, teachers, or nuns, and you will surely find very bad apples among them. Those bad apples in every field and at every level should be dealt with. But police officers by and large are the most unjustly maligned group of people in our land. They risk their lives each and every day to protect people who bitterly hate them, and they do so for pitifully small salaries. Then they turn out the tv each Sunday and see multi-millionaires who play a game for a living protesting their existence.

So here is my proposed solution. For one week's time, have all 911 calls routed to the homes of NFL players and compel them to respond. The next time a woman calls 911 screaming that her husband has a gun to her head, have a quarterback get out of bed and go to that home to handle it.

And then let him handle the fallout from the fact that if he lives through that volatile situation, no matter how he handles it he is going to get ripped to shreds afterward by someone.

When the call comes in to 911 that there have been shots fired in a neighborhood and the suspect is a young African American male, send a wide receiver to deal with it. Let him worry all the way there about being shot and killed, while at the same time thinking about the current racial tension in America and the fact that his life will forever be ruined if he has to shoot the suspect, and he will never escape the labels that will be applied to him.

When the call comes in to 911 that a store is being robbed, send an offensive lineman. Let him feel the fear of having to draw a gun and go into that store and confront a desperate criminal, while also fearing the lifelong nightmares he will have if a fire fight breaks out and he accidentally shoots a child.

Of course I not serious about these suggestions. I would never ask any untrained person to put themselves in harm's way. But I am very serious about asking everyone who despises the police to, at least in their own minds, "bear their burdens" for a while as Paul the Apostle said. Mentally slide into that uniform, clip on the badge, strap on the gun, and wade into hell day after day and night after night, all while being called epithets like "racist and fascist." I think the blisters one would get from walking in those shoes may make them much slower to hate a million good men and women of all races over the abhorrent actions of a few.

1. What do the films "Chariots of Fire," "Blade Runner" and "1492: Conquest of Paradise" have in common?
2. Which group had a hit with "That's the Way (I Like It)"?
3. Who first released "How Do You Do It?"
4. How many Paris sisters were there?
5. Name the song that contains this lyric: "I can see the love shining in your eyes, And it comes as such a sweet surprise, If seeing's believing it's worth the wait, So hold me and tell me it's not too late."

Answers

1. All were films that had scores created by Vangelis. "Chariots of Fire" won an Academy Award for Best Original Score.
2. KC and the Sunshine Band, in 1975. The song climbed charts around the world, including in Ireland, Belgium and the Netherlands.
3. Gerry and the Pacemakers, in 1963. The song was first offered to the Beatles, who tinkered with it before rejecting it as not fitting them. Gerry and the Pacemakers, however, took the song to No. 1.
4. Three: Priscilla, Albeth and Sherrell. They were a Phil Spector girl group best known for their 1961 hit "I Love How You Love Me."
5. "Miss You Like Crazy" by Natalie Cole in 1989. The song went to the top of both the adult contemporary and R&B charts.

HOT GOOEY CARAMEL PIE

Easy to make, this decadent Hot Gooey Caramel Pie is like a cross between blondies, cheesecake and cookies, all in a graham cracker crust. And caramel. Always caramel.

Ingredients

- 2 sticks (1 cup) butter or trans-fat-free margarine
  - 8 ounces cream cheese or soy cream cheese
  - 1 1/2 cups brown sugar
  - 1/4 cup light corn syrup
  - 2 eggs
  - 1 teaspoon baking soda
  - 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
  - 1 1/2 cups flour
  - 1 cup caramel chips* (see note below)
  - 2 ready-made graham cracker pie crusts
- For serving: vanilla ice cream; caramel sauce (both optional)
- Directions

Heat oven to 350°F.
In the bowl of an electric mixer, on medium speed, cream together butter and cream cheese until smooth. Add brown sugar and corn syrup; beat until smooth and creamy.
Add eggs, baking soda, and vanilla, beating to combine after each addition.
Reduce mixer speed to low; add flour. Beat until combined. Stir in caramel chips.
Divide batter between pie crusts. Bake for 30-35 minutes, until the center is just set (it will still be jiggly).

Serve warm with ice cream and caramel sauce (optional).

Cutting: As the name suggests, the pie is gooey—and it doesn't cut into the neatest slices when warm. For a fancier presentation, make mini pies or serve it closer to room temperature, when it won't be as gooey.

Makes 2 pies, each 8-10 servings.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

Elvis Presley

HOLLYWOOD — August 16 marks the 41st anniversary of the passing of “The King of Rock & Roll,” Elvis Presley. I remember early radio reports saying Elvis was suffering from colon cancer, but they were quickly eliminated from future coverage, which might explain the laundry list of drugs, as later reported, he used in relieving the pain of his worsening colon problems. He reportedly spent the last night of his life in his room, with daughter, Lisa Marie, then took a large amount of drugs and went into his bathroom to die. He was just 42.

Now, more than 40 years later, his wife, Priscilla Presley, has revealed in interviews, including in the HBO documentary, “Elvis Presley: The Searcher,” that she believes he planned his demise. Two years after the death of his longtime friend and road manager, Joe Esposito, new details surfaced. Allegedly, when Elvis died, his longtime manager, Colonel Tom Parker, sent Esposito to Graceland to clean up all remaining drug bottles and instructed him to take away a suicide note written by Elvis, which emerged last December. It said, “I’m sick and tired of my life, I need a long rest.” Elvis’ stepbrother, Rick Stanley, publicly admitted: “The handwritten note appears to be genuine to me. It’s a clear indication suicide was on his mind.”

If you wait long enough, when the people who suppress the truth pass on, the truth comes out, as it has with Marilyn Monroe and JFK’s deaths. The Colonel preferred to have us believe Elvis was a drug addict rather than lose the insurance money for the gigs he couldn’t play. From the times I met Elvis, I don’t believe he was sick of his life, but could no longer endure the pain and suffering from chronic constipation

Winning an Oscar for “Three Billboards” has made Sam Rockwell as hot as a bonfire. In addition to the upcoming “Blaze,” for actor/director Ethan Hawke, with Steve Zahn (out Sept. 7), and “Backseat,” with Christian Bale, Amy Adams and Steve Carell (Dec. 14), he also has “The Best of Enemies,” with Taraji P. Henson; “Blue Iguana,” with Ben Schwartz; animated comedy “The One and Only Ivan,” with Helen Mirren, Angelina Jolie, Bryan Cranston and Danny DeVito; and “JoJo Rabbit,” with Scarlett Johansson, awaiting release dates.

Rockwell also will play Bob Fosse, who won an Oscar, a Tony and an Emmy in the same year (for “Cabaret,” “Pippin” and “Liza With a Z”) to Michelle Williams’ Gwen Verdon — Lola in “Damn Yankees” (1958) and “Cocoon” 1985 — in an as-yet-untitled eight episode FX limited series produced by Lin-Manuel Miranda. Fosse wrote and directed his autobiography, “All That Jazz” (1979), and as Robin Williams referenced in “The Birdcage,” “Fosse, Fosse, Fosse!”

* If you often wake up in the morning with a neckache, try a new pillow. You can get them with cooling gel inserts, or ones designed especially for side sleepers or in ergonomic shapes. There must be one that will help you wake up refreshed.

* "I save the Tyvek envelopes from Federal Express and other mailings to make cheap, sturdy aprons for my children's art projects. The material is really durable, and it doesn't cost me a thing, so I can throw it away without washing if I have a mind to." -- A Reader via email

* "It's time to clean the window screens again, but this year I busted out my small shop vacuum to clean them without having to remove the screens from the window itself. It did a pretty good job and was easy to port around the house." -- D.L. in Pennsylvania

* "I had a super-cute sock with a hole in the toe, and although I didn't want to wear it, I wanted to keep it. I snipped the foot portion off and now use it as a bottle warmer or a condensation catcher, depending on what is in the drinking vessel. It's easy to slip on, and works like a charm." -- A Reader via email

* Back to school hack: A little lemon juice on a cotton swab can help "erase" highlighter marks on glossy paper.

* Clean your air ducts in one fell swoop by removing the grates and lining them up on a sheet outside. I use my driveway, but you could use a deck or patio. Lay the sheet flat, then line the grates up. Scrub with a brush and soapy water, then use a hose to rinse. The sheet keeps ground dirt off the grates, and the water goes right through the sheet. Let dry and replace.
