New PTA program begins this fall

The physical therapist assistant (PTA) program at Wor-Wic Community College was recently granted

"candidate for accreditation" status, which enables the college to admit its first 16 students for classes beginning this fall. Applications from prospective students will be accepted through Friday, June 26.

"Labor market analysis demonstrates that the occupational demand for PTAs between 2013 and 2020 will grow by 24 percent nationally, but by 35 percent on the Lower Shore of Maryland," said Jon C. Waxham, associate professor and PTA department head. "This growth is supported by the increasing number of people who are choosing the Eastern Shore as a retirement destination and the desire of people reaching retirement age to remain active and healthy."

Wor-Wic's ability to start this new program is due, in large part, to the generous contributions of donors to the college's "Providing for Today While Ensuring Tomorrow" fundraising campaign.

"This has been a goal for Wor-Wic for a long time," Waxham said. "It is very exciting that this program has finally arrived and we can start accepting students into the program."

"Candidate for accreditation" status was granted by the Commission on Accreditation in Physical Therapy Education, 1111 N. Fairfax St., Alexandria, Va., 22314, (703) 706-3245, (www.capteonline.org<<http://www.capteonline.org>>).

Expect to see a few more flags around your neighborhood this weekend. Sunday is the patriotic, but often under-appreciated, National Flag Day.

Although the look of the American flag has changed since Congress authorized it as the nation's official symbol on June 14, 1777, the American flag still stands as a patriotic symbol of freedom, strength, equality and more.

Despite being established by the Proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson in 1916, it wasn't until President Truman signed an Act of Congress in 1949 that National Flag Day was officially recognized as a day of observance.

Every year since then, the president issues a proclamation encouraging U.S. citizens to fly the American flag during National Flag Week (the week of June 14) outside their homes and businesses to honor the history and heritage that the flag represents.

Nicknamed "Old Glory," "Stars and Stripes," and "Star-Spangled Banner," the flag has remained a powerful symbol of patriotism and unity since 1777.

County adopts FY 2016 budget

On June 2, the Worcester County Commissioners approved the FY 2015/2016 Operating Budget of $182,450,109 in appropriations for the coming fiscal year. This reflects an increase of $4,468,976 or 2.5% more than the FY15 budget while reducing the requested expenditures of $189.8 million by $7.4 million. The budget includes a property tax increase of 6.5 cents and an income tax increase of one half percent to 1.75%.

Since FY09, the County's assessable base has declined $5.3 billion dollars or 26%. Multiple years of restructuring, involving cuts to all county departments, maintenance of effort funding for the Board of Education and a lackluster economic recovery, along with the combination of cuts in state funding and absorption of previous state responsibilities have now left the County with no choice but to raise taxes.

The full extent of state cuts and transferred funding responsibilities include:

Dedicated Highway User Revenues reduced from $4,416,781 in FY09 to $241,128 in FY10 and has been slightly increased to $497,452 in FY16. To pave roads, the county must allocate funds from our general operating budget; $1 million is included in FY16.

The state reduced reimbursement to the county for expenses incurred by housing state prisoners at the local jail from $419,619 in FY09 to $50,000 in FY10-FY16.

State Park receipts, roughly $399,000 in revenue annually were eliminated FY10-FY14.

Teacher Pensions of $1.271 million transferred to the county in FY13 cost the County $1.95 million in FY16; in FY17 this will become part of the Maintenance of Effort formula.

Local State Department of Assessment and Taxation operating costs transferred to the county in FY12 in the amount of $978,315 has continued annually, FY16 includes $647,986.

The planned use of budget stabilization funds to supplement county revenues as the county recovers from the recession has been re-evaluated based upon the current multi-year revenue projections. As a result, the commissioners have determined that the useful life of these funds must be extended. The stable but flat economic growth projection and property tax estimates, along with the tax increases, will result in the need for these budget stabilization funds through FY2018 and beyond to supplement other revenues and satisfy projected increases in expenditures.

The commissioners would like to thank county departments and agencies for maintaining and/or reducing operating expenses in their FY 16 Budget.

While deserved, the commissioners were unable to include funds for a cost of living increase, step increment or longevity pay in salary accounts for county employees and the Board of Education.

Consequently, Worcester County leaders made some hard decisions to develop a balanced FY16 budget, a budget that protects vital taxpayer services and funds the BOE above the Maintenance of Effort level. This fiscally conservative budget maintains funding for valuable public services residents can count on, such as public safety, education, infrastructure and existing social service programs.

Anticipated General Fund Revenues

Based on the Real Property tax rate of $.835 net property taxes increased by $9,109,247.

The Homestead Credit cap remains unchanged at 3% and is estimated to be $1,248,609 for the county's qualified principal resident homeowners effective July 1, 2015.

The local income tax rate will increase from 1.25% to 1.75% beginning January 1, 2016. Revenues are anticipated to increase by $2,200,000 over the current year based on actual receipts.

Other local taxes, a decrease of $250,000 due to an increase of $250,000 in transfer tax and a decrease in recordation tax of $500,000 based on current year estimates

State shared revenues increased

$5,917 due to a slight increase in Highway User Taxes.

Distribution from Liquor Control Department decreased $186,629 based on anticipated revenue reductions

Federal grants project an overall increase of $148,330. This account category includes an additional $127,800 in Homeland Security Grants and $20,492 for the Emergency Shelter Grant

State Grants increased $593,524; the primary increase is due to additional funds of $366,154 for the State Aid for Bridges, the State reinstatement of the County's share of State Park receipts with decreases to grants for Tourism, Waterway Improvements and Program Open Space

Licenses and Permits increased $126,550 due to increased estimates for occupational and environmental permits for $49,500 and increased estimates of $50,000 for liquor licenses at the current fees

Charges for Services decreased by $307,635 mainly due to decreases for Jail use fees

Interest on Investments decreased $75,000 due to lower outstanding note balances and rates of return below 1%.

Transfers in

Other funds decreased by $499,352 based on the transfer in of bond premium proceeds. Funds will be used for 2014 Bond interest expense payments & various bond related expenses.

Casino/Local Impact Grant Funds shows an increase of $2,700 for the debt payment for the Worcester Career and Technical High School in FY16.

Transfers In of existing Budget Stabilization funds decreased by $6,393,201 due to the use of increased revenues from property and income taxes. This will extend the useful life of the budget stabilization fund to future years to cover revenue shortfalls

Budget decreases are outlined as follows

Recreation Department decreased by $544,763 due to reduced Program Open Space funds from prior year upon completion of the addition to the Recreation Center.

Tourism Department decreased

Childlike diversion

There aren't too many times when as an adult you can again experience a childlike innocence. We're so often weighed down by adult responsibilities that our inner-child rarely surfaces; remaining hidden away like an old pair

It's All About. . .

By Chip Bertino

of roller skates or box of dog-eared baseball cards that have been traded among friends countless times.

There are occasions though when we have opportunity to lapse into a sort of child-like experience that rolls back time and once again makes vibrant the Kodachrome hues of our youth. Maybe it's going to an amusement park to again feel the exhilaration of a favorite roller coaster that was first ridden during a teenage outing. Maybe it's enjoying an impromptu catch with your father as you're waiting for your own son (his grandson) to retrieve his glove under the bed. Maybe it's finding an old photograph of you holding a fish you caught one summer day long ago. Or perhaps it's a song playing on the radio that conjures up recollections of a younger you standing beside the dance floor trying to screw up enough courage to ask the pretty girl from homeroom to dance.

Several years ago my children bought me a backyard hammock for Father's Day. I had wanted one for years before they finally got the hint and convinced their mother to make the purchase, promising to pay her back later.

Many a spring, summer and fall weekend afternoon I can be found lounging in the hammock either reading or sleeping. It's one of my favorite places, positioned as it is just under a shade tree and angled to enjoy streaming breezes. Many an hour I've spent suspended just above the ground, swaying gently. Listening to the rustling leaves above or the back and forth calls of birds is as great a tonic as ever there was. It's very easy to fall asleep listening to nature's soundtrack. I've done so often.

Sometimes I settle into the hammock as evening's twilight emerges. I lay there looking up as the sky darkens to reveal ever brighter stars of blue.

It's during these times when my thoughts and imagination wander unfettered across a universe of anything's possible. It's during these times when thickened adult layers are shed to reveal a childlike center buoyed by wonder and amazement. It's easy to get lost in thought and dreams and all the other things that were once the center of a child's universe. It can be a spiritual experience setting aside what is to reconnect with what could be. Such are the therapeutic powers of the hammock in our backyard.

I don't know whether my children ever repaid their mother for this gift given on a Father's Day many years ago. I really don't want to ask. I think I already know the answer. I will say though it's the best gift they've ever asked their mother to purchase for me on their behalf.

Symbolism of the American flag

Did you know that at military funerals, the 21 gun salute stands for the sum of the numbers in the year 1776.

Have you ever noticed how the honor guard pays meticulous attention to correctly folding the American flag 13 times?

The 1st fold of our flag is a symbol of life.

The 2nd fold is a symbol of our belief in eternal life.

The 3rd fold is made in honor and remembrance of the veterans departing our ranks who gave a portion of their lives for the defense of our country to attain peace throughout the world.

The 4th fold represents our weaker nature, for as American citizens trusting in God, it is to Him we turn in times of peace as well as in time of war for His divine guidance.

The 5th fold is a tribute to our country, for in the words of Stephen Decaur, "Our Country," in dealing with other countries, may she always be right; but it is still our country, right or wrong.

The 6th fold is for where our hearts lie. It is with our heart that We pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the republic for which it stands, one Nation under God, Indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

The 7th fold is a tribute to our Armed Forces, for it is through the Armed Forces that we protect our country and our flag against all her enemies, whether they be found within or without the boundaries of our republic.

The 8th fold is a tribute to the one who entered into the valley of the shadow of death, that we might see the light of day.

The 9th fold is a tribute to womanhood, and Mothers. For it has been through their faith, their love, loyalty and devotion that the character of the men and women who have made this country great has been molded.

The 10th fold is a tribute to the father, for he, too, has given his sons and daughters for defense of our country since they were first born.

The 11th fold represents the lower portion of the seal of King David and King Solomon and glorifies in the Hebrews eyes, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

The 12th fold represents an emblem of eternity and glorifies, in the Christians' eyes, God the Father, the Son, and Holy Spirit.

The 13th fold, or when the flag is completely folded, the stars are uppermost reminding us of our nations motto, "In God We Trust."

After the flag is completely folded and tucked in, it takes on the appearance of a cocked hat, Ever reminding us of the soldiers who served under General George Washington, and the Sailors and Marines who served under Captain John Paul Jones, who were followed by their comrades and shipmates in the Armed Forces of the United States, preserving for us the rights, privileges and freedoms we enjoy today.

The Goldfinch

by Donna Tartt

In the 17th century, goldfinches were popular pets because they could be trained to draw water from a bowl with a miniature bucket. So it is not surprising that a painter of that era, Carel Fabritius, a student of Rembrandt, chose the bird as a fitting subject for his prized little painting. In her Pulitzer Prize winning novel, "The Goldfinch," Donna Tartt focuses on this lesser known work by a 17th century Dutch painter as the catalyst for her latest work of fiction, relayed in the voice of narrator Theo Decker.

He starts writing his story when he is 13, after suffering a traumatic loss, and finishes when he is 26. He begins with the visit to a special art exhibit at a New York City museum. His mother has brought him here to view a special showing. A bomb explodes in one of the galleries, killing his mother. Theo escapes without physical harm, first presses on him a family ring while "rambling a bit, under his breath; foreign names, sums and numbers...but then his hand in mine was limp...it was time to leave." Before climbing over the debris Theo scoops up the priceless painting of "The Goldfinch," which has blown off the museum's wall, and stuffs it in his bookbag.

The painting becomes his talisman and helps to assuage the nights of intense guilt and grief he suffers over the death of his mother. Ms. Tart shows us how he bottles up his grief only to find release once he pulls out the painting, now perceived as his alone, and is mesmerized by the beautiful, chained bird returning his gaze. But the longer he hides "The Goldfinch" from the authorities the harder it is to part with. So he wraps the painting in cardboard, bubblewrap and yards of masking tape and stashes it in a pillow case. As he eventually moves to Las Vegas and then back to New York – the sequestered painting travels with him.

At one point Theo muses, "The painting, the magic and aliveness of it, was like that odd airy moment of the snow falling, and flakes whirling in...you just wanted to drink in that speechless windswept moment. When I looked at the painting I felt the same convergence on a single point: a flickering sun-struck instant that existed now and forever. Only occasionally did I notice the chain on the finch's ankle, or think what a cruel life for a little living creature – fluttering briefly, forced always to land in the same hopeless place."

Unfortunately for artist Fabritius, his life was cut short when he was killed in the explosion of the Delft gunpowder magazine in 1654, which destroyed a quarter of the city, including his studio and many of his paintings. It is interesting that Ms. Tartt here leads us to a parallel of Theo's mother and Fabritius – life ending explosions – one real and one fictional. But then again I find Ms. Tartt to be an author of unlimited scope and interest. She has a fine feel for nuance as well as the written language wherein nothing clichéd or trite passes between her characters in their communication with readers as they firmly hold onto a consistency of behavior.

In particular I see Ms. Tartt as paying homage to certain Dickensian characters of "Oliver Twist" with an Artful Dodger look-alike in Boris, her novel's unrepentant Russian boy. In their teens he and Theo dance with the devil from morning through the night smoking, drinking, doing drugs, shoplifting and skipping school. And she recaptures Mr. Brownlow, Oliver Twist's benefactor, who here appears as look-alike in "Hobie," a kind and caring man with no choice but to look after the orphaned Theo. And of course Mr. Decker might well be the doppelganger standing in for the nefarious Bill Sykes.

As we contemplate the array of subjects tendered in Ms. Tartt's book from furniture restoration to conversations in Russian, we can only guess the amount of research that preceded the book. In a pre-release interview she admitted to spending ten years writing it but within it all she heeds to every author's basic tenet – always tell a good story. And by goodness, she does just that.

mentary school teacher. During Beth's college years, she met her future husband, Tom. This month the couple will be celebrating a special milestone, their golden wedding anniversary, highlighting their 50 years as man and wife.

Tom was born and raised in Canton, OH and also graduated from Westminster College. Tom has turned over his business interest in three Arby Restaurants in Salisbury, MD to his son Todd Hershey. The transition has enabled Tom to have more leisure time to enjoy "sun, surf and boat."

Beth happily mentioned that they are proud parents of a daughter and son plus delighted grandparents to seven grandchildren. Mindy, their daughter, lives in Connecticut with her husband, two sons and daughter; ages, 18, 16 and 12. Their son, Todd, lives in Glen Riddle with his wife and four sons, ages 10, 9, 6 and 4. Beth mentioned that fun and mischief abound when all the family is joined together and one that they, as grandparents, thoroughly enjoy.

When inquiring what brought the Hersheys to Ocean Pines, Beth responded by saying that in the 1970s they bought a golf course lot. In 1982, Steen Builders, a major builder in Ocean Pines, then offered the Hersheys a lot on the water in Wood Duck II which they decided to buy. In 1996, they moved into their new home in Wood Duck II built by Steen Builders and still enjoy their home and their fun in the Pines.

Answers for June 3

That's how my garden grows...

By Betty McDermott

Hello Fellow Gardeners,

June is busting out all over and let's all celebrate the end of "The Yellow Dragon;" if you haven't guessed it, I am referring to the heavy yellow pollen we all suffered through this spring. I think it was the worst year for pollen that I have lived with since moving here in 1992.

Before I begin my list of gardening tips for this month, I just have to share with you some little unknown facts about an unsung hero who lives in Ocean Pines who is always going the extra mile for many people and organizations. This energetic man is a marvelous gardener who shares his knowledge, his many plants he grows from seed, is currently and has been for over five years president of the Ocean Pines Community Garden. He is also responsible for the lovely, colorful annuals that surround St. John Neumann Catholic Church. He is full of gardening information, makes his own organic compost tea as great fertilizer, and this year grew over 350 tomato plants from seed, many which he will give away. I happen to be a grateful recipient of his many plants... the Monday following Mother's Day this year, I found four tomato plants and my favorite cucumber plant on my front porch. All in blossom, all ready to be planted. No note. I knew who they were from, so called immediately to thank him.

From the end of March until Mother's Day, the rear of his house seems to be one big greenhouse with every vegetable and herb plant you can think of growing in flats. Some plants grow so tall he has to tie them to long wooden skewers with twisty ties or strips of cut up panty hose. One day a few years ago, I stopped by his house to deliver an item and his pick-up truck was in his driveway. As I walked past it, I looked in the bed of the truck and there were hundreds of flats of annuals making a kaleidoscope of color. There was not an inch of space left in the bed of the truck. Those many flats of flowers had been picked up at a local greenhouse and were slated to be planted by him and his crew of volunteers at St John Neumann Church.

In case you haven't already guessed who this unsung hero is, it is Lee Phillips. He is the most giving, generous man with his gifts of plants, knowledge, time and whatever help one needs. Mr. Phillips also volunteers at the local elementary school. Yes, Lee, my Hierloom Brandywine tomatoes, which are my favorite, are doing just great and are in full blossom as well as my cucumber plant. Thank you again for always thinking of me and have a fantastic gardening summer.

The bee population is in dire trouble. The numbers are way down and farmers are worried about their crops not being pollinated. All gardeners are worried about their vegetable plants, their annuals and perennials which may not be pollinated as a result of lack of bees. Please remember to plant colorful annuals in your gardens to attract and which will provide nectar for our bees. The farmers and fruit growers need their help in pollinating for growing peaches, watermelon, apples, and other foods we love. You can also help by not using pesticides or insecticides. Bees pollinate about a fourth of the foods Americans consume. The bee issue is so serious that a task force has been established to study the issue to try to come up with some answers. Be gentle to our bees; they need our help. This very cold winter may have had some effect on the dropping numbers of bees this spring.

flowering plants may need to be watered every day, preferably in the early morning; water at the base of the plant and not on the leaves. Plants growing in containers tend to dry out faster than those planted right in the ground.

Deadhead - blossoms or flowers that are spent and more blossoms will be generated. I even do my knock-out roses as the spent blossoms are so untidy looking. Weren't the knock-out rose blossoms just beautiful and bountiful this spring and summer? Perhaps they loved the cold winter.

Well, enjoy the month of June and remember get out there early in the morning while it is cooler to do your gardening work.

Easy ways to keep your dog's ears healthy

Many dog owners never give a second thought to the health of their dogs' ears. Unless Fido is not answering the dinner bell, pet owners may fail to recognize signs that man's best friend is dealing with ear trouble.

Though it is easily overlooked, maintaining a dog's ears is something owners must do throughout their four-legged friend's life. Such maintenance is simple, and owners who remember to make it a part of their dog's grooming routine can help ensure their dog stays clean and healthy for years to come.

Why must I prioritize ear maintenance for my dog?

The anatomy of dogs' ears is reason enough for dog owners to make ear maintenance part of the grooming routine they have for their pets. The inner ears of dogs are curvy and provide many spots for bacteria, parasites and yeast to hide and grow. The winding nature of dogs' inner ears also can make it difficult to expel any debris that enters the ear canal, and trapped debris can cause infection.

What are some signs that suggest my dog's ears

The total FY2016 Worcester County Education funding per student based on the estimated student population of 6,654 equates to $16,483 per student. The following does not include Restricted Program funds of $12,164,582 from the State and Federal agencies.

County Funding is $79,171,634 which includes $1,952,488 for Teacher Pension Shift included for per student estimate. State and Other funding totals $19,577,630. School Debt totals $10,927,474. This totals $109,676,738 or $16,483 per student.

aren't up to snuff?

Much like their owners, dogs may suffer from wax buildup in their ears. But unlike humans, dogs who have wax buildup in their ears may be coping with microscopic ear mites, which can infect dogs' inner and external ear canals and lead to infection if left untreated.

Ear mites can be difficult to see, but the presence of a black or brown waxy secretion may be indicative of ear mites. Dogs with ear mites may also rub or scratch their ears excessively, and that behavior can lead to ruptured blood vessels within the dog's ear flap, which will look swollen and cause the dog considerable pain.

Other signs that dogs may be having problems with their ears include redness in and around the ear, swelling, crusty skin, and hair loss. Any of the aforementioned symptoms should be brought to the attention of a veterinarian immediately.

How can I protect my dog from ear troubles?

Simple and routine maintenance is often enough to safeguard dogs from ear troubles. Apply a cotton ball dampened with hydrogen peroxide or mineral oil to dirty areas of dogs' inner ears. The skin inside dogs' inner ears is delicate, so be gentle when cleaning such areas, even asking your veterinarian to show you the proper technique if you are concerned you might hurt the animal.

Some dogs, not unlike some dog owners, may grow hair in their ears. While the hair is relatively harmless, it's still a good idea to discuss its growth with your veterinarian, who can teach you how to remove the hair or even let you know if the hair needs to be removed at all.

It's important that dog owners do not clean their dog's ears too often. The skin inside dogs' ears is

Consider hosting a Wine Event at Sisters

The long-anticipated warm, breezy days spent with close friends and family are finally here and with these days comes a beautiful pairing — sipping wine together. You will find a wealth of opportunities to enjoy a glass or two on Berlin's Main Street. One of these opportunities is in the cozy lounge area of the Sisters store that features a bar with comfortable seating and often musical accompaniment.

Now in its fourth season in Berlin, the Sisters store carries the motto "Unique Shopping Experience," offering an extensive array of jewelry, fashion accessories, baby, teen and boutique products, as well as gourmet and home & garden décor items. Additionally, Sisters also offers craft beer and select wines by the glass or bottle. Through their concept of "you can find a gift for anyone," it's an ideal setting to shop for gifts and/or a little something for yourself and then to sip a delicious cocktail to celebrate.

The seed for the store's concept started in December 2011 when the two sister owners, Donna Compher and Michael Ann Phillips, were in BJ's restaurant in Ocean City enjoying what else? You guessed it — a glass of wine. They tossed around the idea of doing something different and their joint venture was the outcome. The sisters are close in age and in heart as they run their business. Donna focuses on the front end work such as customers and events while Michael Ann does the back-end functions like bookkeeping and ordering.

In serving Maryland and in particular the Eastern Shore, Sisters has partnered with their neighbor, the Maryland Wine Bar, to bottle and sell their own wine produced by the Bordeleau winery in Eden. The three businesses worked together to create a unique wine label of Main Street in Berlin. Sisters hosts wine tastings during most Berlin Main Street events; typically two red and two white wines are sampled. Available for tastings and for purchase are wines from the Bordeleau winery, Layton's Chance winery in Vienna, Costa Ventosa winery in Whaleyville, as well as from their wine distributors, Reliable Churchill and Dops. Donna's personal favorite wine is Whitehaven by Marlborough; it is a crisp white with a grapefruit flavor. Michael Ann favors Santa Carolina's Cabernet Sauvignon, a velvety smooth red that she refers to as "the best Cab ever." Additionally, the sisters have the wine called Wildflowers on order that is a delicious chillable red wine that they say would be delicious for the beach.

Having lost their mother to lung cancer, Donna and Michael Ann chose their mother's favorite bird, the hummingbird, as their business logo in her honor. A central way the sisters pay tribute to their mother's memory is to give back to the community. Donna and Michael Ann invite and encourage people — whether individuals, teams, or companies — to host a private function or fundraising event in their lounge. If you're considering an event, you can choose your own guest bartenders and bring in food. Sisters will supply the cocktails, shopping fun, and great music. The entertainment is near to Donna's heart as it is the band Spare Change that consists of her husband Kevin and his friend, Mike Hughes. For the charitable events, Donna and Michael Ann donate 20% of the bar ring and 20% of all store sales that evening. As Donna relates, they have hosted over 40 events since their opening in 2012 benefitting such charities as American Cancer Society's Relay for Life, the K-9 Foundation in Wicomico County, church mission trips, and the Hammerhead Swim Team.

Upcoming events you won't want to miss are Berlin's Bathtub Races on July 17, the annual Peach Festival on August 1 where Sisters will have lots of peach wine on hand direct from Bordeleau's orchards, and a wine tasting on September 19 as part of the Paint Berlin and Fiddlers Convention festivities. As you're strolling Berlin's Main Street this summer, you may want to explore all that Sisters has to offer. You'll come away with an appreciation of their unique concept, some delicious wines to bring home, and possibly even a date on the calendar to host an event of your own.

very sensitive, so overcleaning the ears can cause irritation.

When cleaning dogs' ears, dog owners should never insert anything inside their dogs' ear canals.

Dog owners who let their dogs go swimming from time to time should dry the dogs' ears immediately after they get out of the water. Make sure ears are as dry as possible before letting Fido run off, as wet ears can cause infection and irritation.

Ears may not be the first thing dog owners think of when trying to protect their pets from potentially painful health problems. But ear maintenance should be a part of every dog owner's dog-grooming routine.
