Lansoprazole, a cheap and widely used drug used to treat conditions such as heartburn, gastritis and ulcers, could work against the bacteria that cause tuberculosis (TB), according to new research published in PLOS Medicine. People who used lansoprazole, as opposed to the similar drugs omeprazole or pantoprazole, were a third less likely to develop TB. In 2016, 10.4 million people fell ill with tuberculosis and it is in the top ten causes of death globally, killing more people than any other infectious disease. In England, there were a total of 5,664 TB cases in 2016, with London accounting for almost 40 per cent of all cases. According to a report by the London Assembly in 2015, one third of London's boroughs exceed the World Health Organization "high incidence" threshold of 40 cases per 100,000 population per year and some boroughs have incidence levels as high as 113 per 100,000 people per year-significantly higher than countries such as Rwanda, Algeria, Iraq and Guatemala.

In a study published in The Annals of Family Medicine of long-term associations between adverse clinical outcomes in older adults and anticholinergic burden (ACB-the cumulative effect of using multiple medications that block the effects of acetylcholine in the body), the ACB showed the strongest, most consistent dose-response relationships with risk of all four adverse outcomes studied: emergency department visits, all-cause hospitalizations, hospitalizations for fractures, and incident dementia. Medications with anticholinergic properties-including Parkinson's medications, diphenhydramine (Benadryl), trihexyphenidyl (Artane), benztropine mesylate (Cogentin), biperiden (Akineton), antipsychotics, clomipramine (Anafranil), and chlorpromazine (Thorazine)-comprise 30 to 50 percent of all medications commonly prescribed to older adults.

In Loving Memory Of

Comer Allen Adamson

The family of Comer Allen Adamson would like to thank everyone who said a prayer, called, visited, brought food, sent flowers or cards; we were deeply touched. Thanks to CRMC H.H. & Hospice for the care and compassion shown during our difficult time. Thank you Cullman Heritage Funeral Home, Rev. Brandon Berry and Rev. Harold Widener for the beautiful service. Thanks to Quinton & Janice Posey & Stanley Reeves for the singing. The songs touched our hearts and brought comfort.

Comer retired from Cullman Products after 37 years. He was a faithful Christian and member of Pine Hill Church for over 40 years. He was a wonderful, loving husband for 65 years, a father to 2 sons, a papaw to 6 grandchildren and 6 great-grandchildren.

He will be greatly missed by all who knew him, but we have faith that he was welcomed into Heaven with joy and love.

Thanks so much and may God bless all of you.

Mrs. Comer Adamson, Allen, Carolyn, Steve, Culline and families.

Most so-called Christian churches do not teach what The Holy Christ said to do and He is the impeccable Holy Truth (Jn 14:6). Some claim their preacher is preaching the Word of God yet Christ's command to sin no more is not demanded. They mock Him with claiming to be under grace not law and they cannot out sin His love (Rom 1:18-32, 1Jn 3:1-24, Rev 22:14-15). Obviously, many certainly do not realize they are rejecting The Holy Father Elohim's Word (Jn 1:1-14), not preaching it! So Be It!

SHOP TODAY'S LOW PRICE TAGS:
 We have HUNDREDS of non-advertised items marked down throughout our entire store. More savings passed on to our customers. Just look for blue tags on the shelves.

NO LIMITS:
 Our competitors also have advertised specials. The difference is, in most cases, they have a limit on how many of an item you can buy at the sale price...we don't have any limits to family shoppers.

Saving You MONEY

SHOP TODAY'S LOW PRICE TAGS:
We have HUNDREDS of face-advertorial items marked down throughout our entire store. More savings passed on to our customers. Just look for blue tags on the shelves.

NO LIMITS:
Our competitors also have advertised specials. The difference is, in most cases, they have a limit on how many of an item you can buy at the sale price...we don't have any limits to family shoppers.
