Proposed Dove Hill Medical Facility Project riles many

Suggested to be built along Highway 101

By Kevin Larsen
Times staff writer

Near Highway 101, a two building, 155 room, 248 bed, four story convalescent home is ready for City Council approval.

Many residents who live in the Ranch on Silver Creek Valley Road in Evergreen are fighting back.

They say the public was not informed enough about the proposed Dove Hill Medical Facility Project. One of their big requests is to hold another public meeting to discuss the project in December to answer some questions, which are listed at end of this article.

Resident speaks out

"It is extremely unfortunate that the Planning Department issued their opinion to support the four story Dove Hill Medical Care Facility project without first having community meetings this year to get the community involved in the actual design of the development," said Evergreen resident Robert

Reese. "When the Planning Department renders its opinions without timely community participation it makes it more difficult for the community and Councilwoman Sylvia Arenas to work on planning solutions acceptable to both the developer and the community. The senior medical care use is a much needed use, but the problem is that the height and density of the design are out of character for Evergreen," Reese continued.

The land is located near The Ranch Golf Club along Highway 101 and any horse corrals and buildings on the proposed site would be removed. Usage of the facility with the roads leading to the proposed site could impact other neighborhoods.

The project was presented for approval by a developer, and asks the City of San Jose to approve rezoning of approximately three of the 21 acres from "Agriculture" to "Planned Development."

According to the city website: "The project proposes to rezone three acres ("development footprint") of the 21-acre site from Agriculture to a (PD) Planned Development for the demolition of all existing buildings, structures, trees and landscaping, and associated improvements, and to develop a convalescent hospital facility with two buildings containing a total of 155 patient rooms and up to 248 beds, all within the development footprint of the three acres. The remaining 18 acres would stay zoned Agriculture and would be maintained as undeveloped, permanent private open space."

Some not pleased with the public outreach by the City of San Jose

In a public notice, City of San Jose representatives state that the public comment period for the proposed construction began April 9 and ended April 30.

Meetings have been held earlier for public comment but one meeting notice stated the wrong address and thus, the residents cite this as a lack of public notice by the city.

Those Evergreen residents who continue to oppose the project cite how the public input wasn't properly noticed or involved, and they also challenge many reports created by the City Planning Building and Code Enforcement Department.

164 page environmental impact report completed for public view

The City of San Jose performed an environmental review on the proposed development, but community members refute it and cite many areas that they believe need to be explored more.

In April 2016, the City of San Jose Planning Building and Code Enforcement Department released an initial study that found no significant effect on environment. It can be accessed by going to;

<http://www.sanjoseca.gov/index.aspx?NID=6068>

The "less than significant impact" ratings on vast numbers of check list project items were verified. A few items were deemed to be "less than significant impact with mitigation incorporated."

When compared to existing uses of the site, the new construction was estimated to create about 750 trip generations (going to and from) each day.

The conclusion of the 164 page report stated, "With the implementation of mitigation measures and standard permit conditions included in the project, the project would not result in significant environmental impacts."

Those in opposition to the project have also created some informational material to present their points of view.

Here are a few opinions by citizens opposed to the proposed project. These citizens also cite the option of another 8 acre parcel that is currently approved for commercial use that could be used instead of rezoning an area.

Some opinions of the concerned citizens against the proposed project

Among the concerns of the citizens opposed to the project are the possibilities that the City Council and Planning Commission did not handle the proposed Senior Medical Facility properly or follow a standard process to inform the community enough of the chance to participate in the development project. Other concerns listed include living conditions for seniors in the proposed facility, since it is adjacent to 101 and may have noise and air pollution, and possible safety issues with emergency vehicle access to the medical facility.

The concerned citizens also state that it is possible that outdated traffic studies dated 2015 were used to justify "no traffic impact" from the project.

To view the presentation created by the group opposed to the construction, go to https://docs.google.com/presentation/d/1hewgInh9QCNUVO5D_zhjyXgDZY087WijRQMh_pKXeQQ/edit#slide=id.p2

Literature provided by the residents in opposition also states that "the proposed location of Dove Hill senior medical facility will result in an unsafe traffic chokepoint and does not adequately account for critical emergency vehicle access."

The literature from these community members asks for four things to happen.

- Have a proper public hearing in December;
- Have a compatibility analysis with existing neighborhood;
- Have a DOT evaluation of road safety on Dove Hill road; and
- Have an updated traffic study done.

Editor's Note: To learn more go to the websites listed in this article. You can also find the reports done by the City of San Jose by web searching: Dove Hill Medical Care Facility Project.

The City Council of San Jose is scheduled to vote on the Dove Hill Medical Facility on Tuesday, October 23 (to know what time on the agenda this topic will be discussed, review the agenda on the City of San Jose website which is subject to update). A member of the public can fill out a speaker card and address the 10-member City Council. Understanding the upcoming State Ballot Propositions

By Lorraine Gabbert
Senior Staff Writer

“Democracy is not a spectator sport,” says Martha Beattie, Chair, Pros and Cons Presentations, League of Women Voters of San Jose and Santa Clara.

Beattie presented six of the statewide propositions at a recent Almaden Valley Community Association (AVCA) meeting but did not take a political stance as the League of Women Voters is unbiased. However, the League does provide an informational list of pros and cons on the voting measures.

“The elections have consequences and we should all make sure we cast our vote on November 6 and are counted,” says AVCA President Shiraz Kotadia. “People think local politics are not interesting... but the propositions we approve and the people we elect directly impact our lives.”

In voting on measures, Beattie says that the League advises residents to be careful and thoughtful as initiative laws are hard to change. They recommend asking:

- Is it good government?
- Does the measure deal with one issue that can be decided with a “yes” or “no” vote, or is it a more complex issue that should go to the legislature?
- What are the fiscal effects? Does it create its own revenue, or does it obligate general funds?

The League warns voters to beware of ads that appeal to the emotions and unsupported claims. They also strongly advise voters to check the facts and identify who is funding ad campaigns in order to determine any bias. Lastly, they urge residents to vote their principals.

On behalf of the League, Beattie commented on the propositions and offered both supporting and opposing arguments for each.

Prop 1: Affordable Housing Bond: Authorizes the state to issue $4 billion in general obligation bonds to fund existing affordable housing programs for low-income residents, veterans, farmworkers, manufactured and mobile homes, infill and transit-oriented housing. Fiscal Impact: Increased state costs to repay bonds averaging $171 million annually for 30 years.

“Should the state issue $4 billion in bonds for housing programs for low-income residents?” asks Beattie. “The situation is that houses in Calif. cost 2.5 the national average and the average rent is about 50 percent higher. In some instances, the state does provide low-interest loans or grants. We receive about $2 billion from federal government to support low income housing projects.”

She points out that principal and interest payments usually double the final cost of the bonds, so this bond will likely end up costing $8 billion. About $1.8 billion would fund affordable multi-family housing (developers receive low-interest loans to build affordable multi-family housing or apartments reserved for low-income households for 55 years). About $1 billion is set aside for home loans for low-income veterans. The remainder is allocated for building housing near public transportation in urban areas, infrastructure like parks, sewage, water and transportation, farmworker housing and more funding for a homeownership program (which offers down-payment assistance).

Supporting Argument: The

state faces an unprecedented housing crisis. This money provides relief by building some housing and helping those struggling to buy housing. It also honors veterans by providing home loan assistance.

Opposing Argument: This will help a limited number of people. Taxpayers are being asked to borrow more money through these bonds, which will end up costing everyone.

Prop 2: Authorizes $2 billion in bonds to fund existing housing program for individuals with mental illness who are homeless. Amends Mental Health Services Act to fund No Place Like Home program, which finances housing for homeless individuals with mental illness. Fiscal Impact: Allows state to use up to $140 million per year of county mental health funds to repay up to $2 billion in bonds. Estimated cost: 120 million per year for 30 years.

“Should $2 in bonds be issued and the Mental Health Services Act be amended to fund the No Place Like Home program?” says Beattie. This amends Prop 63 to allow use of the revenue for No Place Like Home. No more than $140 million per year can be used for No Place Like Home.

Supporting Argument: Provides housing paired with social and health services is one of the most effective ways to help the chronically homeless who suffer from mental illness. It is within the spirit of Prop 63 and its co-author, Sacramento Mayor Steinberg supports this initiative.

Opposing Argument: The state shouldn't have this come at the expense of basic mental health treatment. Restrictive housing zoning laws are not addressed. Some counties may already use Prop 63 revenue to offer housing and rent subsidies.

Prop 3: $8.9 Billion Water Infrastructure Bond: Authorizes bonds to fund projects for water supply and quality, watershed, fish, wildlife, water conveyance and groundwater sustainability and storage. It also includes flood protection. Authorizes $8.877 billion in state general obligation bond for infrastructure projects. Fiscal impact: About $430 million per year for 40 years. Local government savings for water-related

More than 150 San Jose residents rally in favor of Measure V

Mayor Sam Liccardo, housing advocates and more than 150 San Jose residents rallied in support of Measure V at the Yes on V, Vote Affordable San Jose Campaign Kickoff recently.

“Measure V will make room for us, so folks can afford to live in San Jose without having to choose between paying rent and paying for food, medicine and other basic necessities,” said Mayor Liccardo. “This is our city and we must do all we can to make sure our neighbors and our friends can continue to call San Jose home for generations to come. That’s why I’m grateful to the many housing advocates, labor organizations and community stakeholders who have joined our effort for a more affordable San Jose.”

Measure V supporters say it will help working parents, teachers, paramedics, seniors, and veterans who struggle to afford to live and work in San Jose.

Measure V is supported by the Silicon Valley Leadership Group, the League of Women Voters, the Santa Clara County Democratic Party, the Sierra Club, Habitat for Humanity, Housing Trust Silicon Valley, Catholic Charities, the California Alliance for Jobs and others.

Ballot

projects, likely averaging a couple hundred million dollars annually over the next few decades.

“Voters have authorized $31 billion in bonds for natural resources projects in the past 17 years,” says Beattie. “and several billion is still available.”

Supporting argument: It funds projects to meet Calif.’ Urgent need to secure a safe, reliable, clean water supply. It helps ensure that disadvantaged communities will have access to safe drinking water. Watershed restoration will also improve water quality and protect agricultural interests.

Opposing argument: We need more dams to collect rain and snow melt but they’re not included in the proposition. It makes recreation and wildlife a priority over farmers. Paying back the new bonds will raise taxes.

Prop 5: Portable Prop 13

Benefits: Removes current requirements for homeowners who are over 55-years-old or severely disabled to transfer their property tax base to a replacement residence of equal or lesser value: residence to be in specific county and transfer to occur only once. Removes similar replacement-value and location requirements on transfers for contaminated or disaster-destroyed property. Requires adjustments to the replacement property’s tax base, based on the new property’s value. Fiscal impact: Annual property tax losses for cities, counties and schools of around $150 million per year, growing over time to $1 billion or more per year.

“Tax rates are capped at 1.1 percent of new-owner assessed value, growing annually by no more than 2 percent,” she says. By the beginning of Jan. 1, 2019, designated homeowners can transfer their tax base to a replacement property if the value is the same or less, no matter the purchase price, to anywhere in the state.

Supporting Argument: Seniors and the disabled don’t face a moving penalty based upon the size of the property tax. It frees up reasonably priced homes which are in short supply in Calif.

Opposing Argument: It won’t alleviate the affordable housing crisis. It will leave less money for local fire services, police and health care. It gives a break to wealthy seniors and a windfall to realtors.

Prop 6: Gas Tax Repeal: Eliminates recently enacted road repair (local roads and state highways) and public transportation funding by repealing revenues dedicated for those purposes. Requires any measure to enact certain vehicle fuel taxes and vehicles fees to be submitted to voters for approval. Fiscal impact: Reduced annual state transportation tax revenue of $2.9 billion in 2018-19, increasing to $4.9 billion annually by 2020-21.

“Should the increase in vehicle fuel taxes and fees enacted in 2017 be reversed and should voter approval be required for transportation-related taxes and fees?” she says. Last year, the Road Repair and Accountability Act was passed with revenues estimated at $5.1 billion annually. It was dedicated to transportation usage by Prop 69.

Supporting Argument: Californian’s already pay some of the highest taxes in the nation, including one of the highest gas taxes. California has a $16 billion budget surplus, but politicians did not spend it to improve roads, bridges and highways. They reduced Caltrans funding by 18 percent over the last 10 years.

Opposing Argument: Calif. hasn’t raised its gas tax in decades and the state’s transportation infrastructure is crumbling. About 89 percent of counties have roads in poor or at-risk conditions and more than 1600 bridges and overpasses are structurally unsafe. Requiring voter approval risks ballot box budgeting.

Prop 10: Expanded Rent Control: Expands local governments’ authority to enact rent control on residential property. Repeals state law which currently restricts the scope of rent-control policies. Allows policies that would limit the rental rates that residential property owners may charge for new tenants, construction and single-family homes. Provides that rent-control policies may not violate landlords’ right to a fair financial return on their rental property. Fiscal impact: Likely reduces state and local revenues, especially for property taxes. Potential increase in local government costs of up to tens of millions of dollars per year, likely paid by fees on owners of rental housing.

“This allows cities and counties to regulate rents on housing property,” she says, “and allows the regulation of how much rent can be raised with a new tenant.” It retains the rights of fair return and doesn’t change the existing rent control laws.

Supporting Argument: Rents are too high, which hurts seniors and families with low or fixed incomes. This prop protects them. Will allow local areas to decide what makes sense for them without changing rent control measures.

Opposing Argument: Rent control laws reduce the amount of rental property available. Landlords will stop renting and developing isn’t being encouraged. It drives up the cost of existing housing as regulations will be an incentive to convert to other uses. It allows the creation of new local bureaucrats with the power to regulate rents on all types of residential property.

In closing, Beattie reminded residents to make sure they are correctly registered and to vote. “Your vote counts!” she says.

For more information on the League of Women Voters, please see: www.votersedge.org.

“Unlike the 3 ETA Union slate candidates, I have never, and will not seek nor accept endorsements or campaign contributions from our District unions or service contractors. In my eyes, this would be a conflict of interest & a violation of public trust.”

'Coffee with a Cop' comes to Evergreen Village Square

By Frank Shortt
Times staff writer

Evergreen Coffee Company at 4075 Evergreen Village Square, hosted 'Coffee With a Cop' on Oct. 3.

The event, which ran from 8-11 a.m., gives citizens the opportunity to meet local law enforcement close up and personal. This is also an opportunity to meet neighbors that you would not ordinarily meet on a daily basis. There are no agendas, no speeches, only a great chance to ask questions, voice concerns, about any problem that might exist or could possibly arise in ones' neighborhood.

With rising crime in the area, citizens could seek guidance in possibly allaying some of the incidents. It is alleged that the burglaries around the Evergreen area are being organized and carried out by persons from other neighboring cities, even coming from as far away as Oakland. It is a good idea to be vigilant at all times and keep doors and windows locked while away from home.

"Coffee With a Cop" was also held at three other neighborhood coffee shops throughout San Jose on this date. Denise Belisle, owner of Evergreen Coffee Company stated, "We had conducted one a couple of years ago and it was so successful we'd like to have this event more often."

Success Realty and Walmart provided delicious cookies and pastries and Evergreen Coffee Company provided the coffee. These treats were free to anyone who chose to congregate in front of Success Realty to greet the men and women who serve the public each and every day.

This is just another way that our people in uniform serve the public.

Apoorva Panidapu (left) is being interviewed at eBay's eWIT Speaker Series by eWIT President Ishita Majumdar.

Apoorva kicks off eBay's Women in Tech-Future Leaders speakers series Communities of Inclusion recently hosted another session of the eWIT (eBay Women in Tech) Speaker Series focusing on future leaders.

The first future leader invited to share her amazing personal journey was 13 year old Apoorva Panidapu - a student, teacher, mathematician, artist, and a social entrepreneur.

In case you missed it, watch the replay on YouTube featuring one of the Bay Area's youngest entrepreneurs, philanthropist, and resident Genius Junior & Prodigy.

Apoorva Panidapu isn't your typical 8th grader; she not only takes classes at San Jose State University, tutors kids in math, and is the founder of Apoorva Panidapu's Art Gallery an online venue to share her artwork and raise funds for charity. All the proceeds go directly to her charity, "Help Starving African Children" (administered through Save the Children).

She is also the grand prize winner of NASA Langley Research Center's Centennial Student Art Contest, as well as a recipient of two Presidential Volunteer Service Awards. Her love of art is matched by her passion for mathematics. Recently, she earned the nickname "Human Calculator" when representing the San Francisco Bay Area on the NBC show, "Genius Junior," hosted by Neil Patrick Harris.

During her talk and chat with eWIT president Ishita Majumdar, Apoorva shared with the audience her passion for math and art, and how she uses her gifts to give back to the community. She also shared her experiences competing as a "Super Brain" on NBC's Genius Junior show, along with her hope to inspire girls to pursue STEAM and encourage others who have the tenacity to achieve greater heights.

Apoorva's sister Anoohya and parents, Uma and Venkat Panidapu, also joined her on stage to share more interesting stories about Apoorva's home-schooling experiences, challenges, and her day-to-day activities.

The audience was highly engaged and asked questions throughout the session; many stayed after the event to speak with Apoorva and her family. While on campus, Apoorva met with several senior leaders including Dan Tarman, Mazen Al-Rawashdeh, Helen Kim, Lakshmi Durai Venkatesh, and Sam Bright to share her story and get different perspectives on "why eBay". It looks like eBay may have a new candidate for future intern cycles, or a new art seller on the platform - or both.

About eWIT

eWIT (eBay Women in Tech) is a grassroots-driven community empowering the visibility and leadership presence of women via recruitment, retention, and career advancement, which is currently 2000+ members strong with 14 chapters world-wide.

Keynote address

Apoorva keynote speaker session at Women In Tech, led to another invitation from the organizer of Bay Area Influencers and Tech Innovators, who watched her speech and was very inspired. Apoorva shared her story, passions and the love for giving back. She also motivated everyone in the audience to use their gifts, networks and groups to give back to the community.

MIT Math Prize for Girls

Apoorva was recently invited to Math Prize for Girls Invitational at MIT. The Advantage Testing Foundation Math Prize for Girls is the largest math prize for girls in the world. Each fall at MIT, nearly 300 young female mathematicians compete in a challenging test of mathematical creativity and insight. The goal is to promote gender equality in the STEM professions and to encourage young women with exceptional potential to become mathematical and scientific leaders.

"The Math Prize is far more than a prestigious math competition," said Maria De Vuono-Homberg, associate director for the Math Prize for Girls. "It is a weekend-long event which encourages the girls who attend to get to know each other and forge connections for their future in college, industry, and research."

The contest also creates a pipeline of talent to MIT, to which more than half of the top awardees have matriculated. "Every year, the girls who participate in this event never fail to impress us with

Dove Hill Medical Facility Project

PDC14-051 and PD16-019

The project proposes to rezone three acres to develop a convalescent hospital facility with two 4-story buildings housing 248 beds. Critical Issues:

- Complete negligence to follow standard process which robbed our community of the chance to participate in a development project that directly impacted us.
- Disgraceful living conditions for seniors in this facility. Being immediately adjacent to 101, noise and air pollution (exceeding acceptable cancer levels) were "addressed" by having the seniors stay trapped inside the facility 24-7!
- Egregious safety issues with inadequate emergency vehicle access on a single narrow lane road with no shoulders to the medical facility
- Outdated traffic studies dated 2015 which were used to justify "no traffic impact" with introduction of this facility.
- Neighborhood incompatibility - 4 story medical facility in the middle of 1-2 story residential neighborhood.
- Environmental impact - facility is being built on serpentine grassland and impact on endangered species has not been fully addressed.

Community Conditions for Approval of Dove Hill Project

ISSUE	CONDITIONS FOR APPROVAL
Safety issues on Dove Road & Neighborhood compatibility inadequately analyzed	1a. Development maximum height of 2 stories to adhere to compatibility with surrounding neighborhood OR 1b. Connect Dove Hill Road to Yerba Buena to relieve safety chokepoint OR 1c. Widen Dove Hill road to accommodate shoulder for emergency vehicle bypass 2. Proper construction safety plan must be developed including: a. Construction equipment and construction passenger vehicles must be safely parked only on construction site - not illegally on Dove or Hassler Rd. b. Construction traffic ingress and egress of equipment must not occur on peak community commute hours (7-9 am, 5-7 pm)
Proper community engagement process not followed	3. During construction process, transparency to community of progress, notification of any changes to plans and proper escalation path/contact in event of new issues. 4. If project up for review again in 2 years, notification to entire Ranch community (not just 1000 ft) for participation. 5. Traffic Demand Management - review of traffic impact on, at minimum, annual basis with transparency to community of results
Negative Impact on Environment	6. Developer to contribute to maintenance of shared Dove Road in lump sum of $50k initial payment to Ranch HOA and recurring annual payment TBD based on pro-rated portion of $500k annual Ranch landscaping expenses 7. Detailed plan on sewage system including mitigation in event of failure. Important since it is unproven precedent - building sewer for this long and on this steep of an uphill gradient.

their creative problem-solving skills and their enthusiasm for mathematics,” said Goemans. “This competition encourages more women into studying mathematics, and this is much needed.”

MIT hosted the 10th annual contest and a record 285 middle and high school female students from the United States and Canada arrived at MIT to compete in the prestigious Math competition. Young female “mathletes,” who qualified with a top score on the American Mathematics Competition exam in February were invited to attend the competition.

Apoorva won an Honorable mention award, moving on to the next level of competition, Math Prize Olympiad, which is a four hour proof based competition. The top 35 Math Prize performers are invited to compete in the next Olympiad in November 2018. Apoorva said she’s very excited to attend the Olympiad in November.

Omar's Dream Run 2018

Omar Hassan was a student at Tom Matsumoto Elementary School and our very own superhero. Having battled leukemia from age 2, he had to undergo a bone marrow transplant in 4th grade. Rather than face months of isolation, he participated in all his classroom activities via videoconference from his hospital room. He stayed in touch with his friends and remained a vital part of the class. Omar had a dream of extending this program to other children. Omar lost his battle to leukemia in 2012, his legacy continues through Omar's Dream Foundation.

Zero late fees for children's and young adult materials at library

Did you know?

"Once you learn to read, you will be forever free." — Frederick Douglass

Children's and young adults' materials at the library will now draw zero late fees. "This is a big win for our community, educators, students and library system. Our youth experience greater access to library materials and services that support their growth and learning," states Jill Bourne, City Librarian.

The San Jose library website explains, "It is the mission of San José Public Library to provide equal access to information, services, and opportunities that empower, enrich, and enhance the quality of life for all. Fines are a barrier to that access. Expanding access to youth materials is critical to the academic success and career achievement of students in San José and eliminating fines will encourage everyone in our community to utilize the resources the library offers."

Thanks Mayor Liccardo and City Council Members

In the 2018-2019 adopted operating budget, the Mayor and City Council unanimously agreed to fund a pilot program to evaluate the effectiveness of eliminating late fees on juvenile materials as a way to increase access for children and families.

They announced that the City Council approved the Mayor's proposal and any late fines for youth during Fiscal Year 2018/19 have been eliminated. It's something the Library and Early Education Commission identified as their top priority.

Can adults find a way to get their late fees waived too?

Sure. You can take control and regain access to the library by volunteering your time to help out at a local library branch. Your fines will be cleared when you volunteer at a rate of $20 per hour. Also you will be doing a good deed in helping.

Did you know that if you lost a library book you can replace it with a new and unused book as payment. Just bring that book to your local library and you can clear away your fines.

"There is more treasure in books than in all the pirate's loot on Treasure Island." — Walt Disney

Simple yet stunning Set the menu for easy entertaining

(Family Features) One of the best-kept chef secrets to hosting the most memorable at-home parties is keeping the food simple and adding small details to make it special. After all, a host who isn't hard at work in the kitchen is a host who can spend more time with guests.

One way to make every minute in the kitchen count and provide crowd-pleasing food is by using wholesome, quality core ingredients like olive oil, fresh bread, cheese and artisan chocolate to create flavorful dishes that are easy to prepare, and leave you with more time to enjoy what matters most: moments with the ones you love.

When it comes to cooking, focus on the essentials and the highlights of each dish. Building recipes around quality ingredients, such as Bertolli Extra Virgin Olive Oil, makes it easy to create show-stopping dishes time and time again. Planning ahead is key to entertaining, but when it comes to cooking, make things quick and easy with a little help from powerhouse ingredients that lend themselves well to a variety of flavors and preparations.

In keeping things simple, use olive oil to add a little extra zest and create dishes that pop off the plate, like this recipe for Beet Hummus. Or if you're looking for something comforting and wholesome, indulge in this creamy Tomato Soup with Olive Oil Croutons. For a larger event, try Mushroom Carpaccio and Creamed Spinach Au Gratin, which can leave a lasting impression on your guests. To top it all off, go for this Bitter Chocolate and Pistachio Cream Dessert for a perfect way to end a meal.

Make every moment count and find more simple recipes at Bertolli.com.
