TOP 5 STORIES

from 2018 that make us excited to be in
DECATUR-MORGAN COUNTY

As we launch into 2019, it is important as a community to look back and reflect on a year of news and events that have shaped where we find ourselves today. At times, the news around us is full of conflict, which often drowns out the news we should celebrate. There is much happening in Decatur-Morgan County that shows our high quality of life, and those stories must be told.

With that thought in mind, the Chamber would like to share the top five stories from 2018 that make us excited to be in Decatur-Morgan County.

Mazda Toyota announcement impacts entire region

Just after the New Year, Japanese automakers Mazda and Toyota announced a partnership to build a $1.6 billion manufacturing facility in Limestone County only 10 miles from downtown Decatur. Once fully operational, the plant will directly employ 4,000 people and produce 300,000 vehicles annually – including the Toyota Corolla and a new small Mazda SUV. Not only will those numbers create a dramatic economic impact, the plant has the potential to attract two and a half times the original job number announcement in the form of suppliers, contractors and construction crews. Alabama – tied for fifth as the largest producer of vehicles in the U.S. – winning the national competition for landing the facility speaks to our region's business friendly environment, our highly trained and technical workforce, and our area's high quality of life. The ripple effect of Mazda-Toyota will reap benefits for generations in our housing markets, our schools, our infrastructure and our local tax base.

OneDecatur is our city's roadmap

The Decatur City Council in February adopted the OneDecatur comprehensive plan as the roadmap for future growth and development of our community. The plan, which includes feedback from more than 1,000 residents and nearly a dozen public meetings and information sessions, is the result of a multi-year agreement with municipal consultant PlanningNext to address community topics such as land use, residential growth, city branding, efficient government and zoning guidelines. Since February, portions of the plan have already been implemented and produced positive results, including the selection of award-winning national branding and advertising agency Big Communication of Birmingham to lead a rebranding initiative for the city. The OneDecatur plan provides a vision of how our city will grow together as our region transforms over the next decade.

New schools, new campuses, new future

August marked the beginning of a school year where approximately 60 percent of Decatur City Schools students found themselves attending classes on a new campus. From late May to early August, six schools moved to different – and in some cases, new – locations around our city, a feat never accomplished in the system’s history. The new state-of-the-art Austin and Decatur High Schools, with a combined size of more than 440,000 square feet, welcomed students where each had for the first time their own separate football stadiums. The new Career Academies of Decatur was established at the renovated former Austin campus as a career tech center, Oak Park Middle became Decatur Middle at the former Decatur High campus, Somerville Road Elementary moved from the recently closed Brookhaven Middle campus they shared to the former Oak Park Middle campus and became Oak Park Elementary, and the Brookhaven Middle student body was realigned to the already existing Cedar Ridge Middle and the newly created Austin Junior High. The new facilities, the campus moves and the realignment of the feeder patterns for the entire system have provided new opportunities to develop the more than 8,700 students in the system to be the next generation of leaders.

Relationships improve our quality of life

In June, Sen. Richard Shelby announced Wheeler Wildlife Refuge was to receive a $5.4 million grant as part of the Fish and Wildlife Service's annual construction projects operating plan. The award will improve refuge access, construct a handicap-accessible wildlife observation tower, add new restroom facilities and other improvements that will add to our quality of life and attract visitors to support our local economy. The grant was one of the largest awards ever from the Fish and Wildlife Service. And in December, Sen. Shelby announced a more than $14 million federal grant for the construction of an overpass bridge on Alabama Highway 20 in the city-annexed portion of Limestone County. The project includes access roads, entrance and exit ramps and accommodations for pedestrian access. With the 2018 announcement of the Mazda-Toyota Manufacturing USA plant locating just a few miles east, along with approximately 4,000 direct jobs, this infrastructure improvement will be a critical part of supporting that economic development. The grant – which was awarded on the first submission attempt – will open up areas north and south of the project to commercial and residential development, the latter of which the Chamber is currently spearheading with a collection of regional business leaders with the goal of creating a healthy environment for growth. Both projects and the long-lasting impact they will have on our quality of life are a testament to partnerships and communication between governing bodies, elected officials and those who they represent.

The Partnership

will change the landscape

A year ago I heard Decatur-Morgan County Entrepreneurial Center Executive Director John Joseph in a speech make the observation that Decatur-Morgan County may be in the middle of a rebirth and we don't even realize it. In a recent conversation, John agreed that today we can say for sure that we are in the middle of the emergence of our area as one of the South's most vibrant communities.

Following on the heels of new high schools in Hartselle and Priceville, we have opened two new high schools in Decatur. The Austin Black Bears turned on the Friday Night Lights for the first time in their own stadium, and Decatur High students walk to class across a beautiful skywalk with a view of Delano Park and the famous Red Raider water tower in the background. It's a striking symbol of the old meeting the new. And it is not just facilities. Decatur is buzzing about our dynamic new superintendent, Dr. Michael Douglas, and his student-focused plans which have improved our system.

Soon, the Cook Museum of Natural Science will bring a quarter of a million visitors to our downtown as one of the south's newest destination attractions.

Students will continue to paint, sculpt and perform in our $20 million Alabama Center for the Arts in downtown. It's one of the best new art facilities in the nation.

OneDecatur, a comprehensive development plan for our community, is already bearing fruit as the roadmap our city needs to plan for the next generation.

At the beginning of 2018, the announcement of the new Mazda-Toyota assembly facility and the 4,000 high-tech manufacturing jobs it will bring just a few miles

Tim Lovelace
Chairman of the Board
Decatur-Morgan County Chamber of Commerce

from downtown Decatur – not to mention the suppliers and support industries – will change the face of economic development in our region.

Our elected officials are engaged, businesses are excited and citizens are optimistic. We are all encouraged but know we still have challenges.

What we have is a once in a century opportunity to address these challenges and we have got to get it right.

So what are we going to do?

The strength of your chamber has been in its ability to get citizens, business, and government in the same room and on the same page to accomplish common goals. After months of talking to our citizens, we are taking bold steps to make a hard charge at the four areas everyone agrees are gamechangers.

"The Partnership" is a plan for empowering Decatur-Morgan County to focus on education, talent development, residential growth and regional cooperation. To lead this effort – along with the chamber board and staff – we have recruited four local business and industry rock stars.

Decatur Morgan Hospital President Nat Richardson has rebuilt and run a hospital at the same time. He will lead our education efforts coming along side our superintendents and other stakeholders to work to improve test scores, drop-out rates and other key education initiatives.

In 3M Plant Manager Michelle Howell, we have a dynamic high energy leader that will work with business, educators, and government to train an outstanding talent pool that is work ready as part of our talent and workforce development initiative.

Jack Fite of Fite Building is a Decatur success story who has become known through the state. He will lead the efforts to bring new rooftops – both residential and commercial – to Decatur.

We are at the intersection

I've been in and around the construction industry my whole life. It's the family business, and being around it for as long as I have, I've come to understand there are certain principles to live by. One I've adopted over the years that always seems to be true: If you don't start with a plan, it's not going to work.

One thing became clear when the Chamber's consulting team started to interview area leaders about the needs in our community in developing our five-year strategic plan The Partnership. There was nearly 100 percent consensus a critical issue in our market was the lack of new quality residential housing options in Decatur-Morgan County. Whether it's single family residential or high-end multi-family homes, we have a consumer demand that's not being met.

When we have a demand without inventory, our community loses. This forces a newly recruited engineer to a local industry, a new Decatur City Schools teacher and their family from out of state, or a recent college graduate coming back to work in the family business to look outside Decatur-Morgan County for affordable and available options.

Once they establish themselves in Madison, Athens, Huntsville or another surrounding city, we have likely lost that opportunity to ever bring them back to this area. They find a church, open a bank account, discover a favorite local restaurant and get plugged into their school system. At that point, they've planted roots that are fed by that community despite where they work.

Just as important as having inventory is having a cohesive plan to address it. The Residential Development Task Team – made up of builders, realtors, appraisers, contractors, civil engineers, city officials, developers, young professionals and others – has already conducted strategy sessions. We are in the process of formulating the blueprint that will align the stakeholders, develop a community master plan and provide incentives that will entice builders and developers to our area. The Chamber's task team is uniquely positioned to make this happen because of long-standing relationships and recognizing a sense of urgency in our community.

Also, we have connected and continue to engage with our City Council to discuss zoning and land use issues, which was a major point of discussion coming out of the One Decatur comprehensive plan initiative. Some of these changes will be different from what our city has ever seen. But if we want to see something different, we have to do something different.

With the impending regional growth and the influx of a new workforce that will bring, now is the time and the opportunity for Decatur to establish itself as a great place to not just work, but to live, raise a family and have a high quality of life. We are at the intersection of great timing, a growing economy, a burst of new economic development and a new energy in The River City. We are well down the road towards the goal of saying "welcome" to new neighbors.

Joe Wheeler Electric President George Kitchens is gifted in working with multiple stakeholders and will take this to a new level working with our neighboring communities and businesses on taking full advantage of the opportunities Mazda-Toyota will bring.

This is a great plan with great leaders who are already operating at full speed. In fact, a few of the teams have already collected some wins on accomplishing goals on their five-year strategy. But, what will make it successful is who we are together. The true heart of Decatur and Morgan County is not something that is a narrative but something you have to experience.

On Saturday of Mothers Day weekend, go watch the Dragon Boats race on the Tennessee River at Point Mallard.

A few weeks later on Memorial Day weekend, go back and watch the balloon races.

If you watch closely you realize both these events are about more than boat and balloon races.

Christmas parades, Depot Days, Third Friday, Spirit of America, Carnegie Carnival, River Clay, Riverfest. The list goes on and on.

All these examples show what sets our area apart and drives us all to live in Decatur and Morgan County. We "get" community. We know how to live, work, and play. Most importantly, we know how to take care of each other. We understand that we are better together.

We have the opportunity as never before. We know the issues, we have the leadership and we have a plan. We can't wait to see how The Partnership will change the face of Decatur-Morgan County.

Tim Lovelace is the city president of Renasant Bank of Decatur and the 2018-2019 chairman of the Chamber's Board of Directors.

If you want to run far, run together

We can all agree Decatur-Morgan County has seen a burst of energy the past two years that we haven't seen in recent history. There are many reasons for this: among them, the soon-to-arrive Mazda-Toyota facility in Limestone County just a few miles from downtown; renewed movement of residential development in our city; a transformative city school system superintendent who is making changes in the district that will impact the next generation of graduates coming from the River City; an arts scene that continues to grow and attract creativity. There is a buzz about Decatur we've not heard in a long time.

What I find in common about all the different reasons for this energy is that it's coming not from people acting alone. Instead, groups – businesses, schools, industries, governments, chambers, non-profits – recognize a greater impact is possible if we work together. That strategy has been part of this chamber's DNA since its founding in the 1930s.

Examples are everywhere. The Alabama Center for the Arts in downtown Decatur is a partnership between Athens State University and Calhoun Community College. When the Cook Museum of Natural Science launches, it will be a part of a regional tourism partnership with the U.S. Space and Rocket Center and The Shoals to tell the story of the applied sciences in Huntsville, the natural sciences in Decatur and our cultural and musical history in Muscle Shoals, Florence and Tuscumbia. One of this Chamber's most active outreach activities is Partners in Education, which pairs up local businesses and schools across Morgan County to provide tutoring, mentoring, fundraising and volunteer opportunities to support our young people.

The Community Image, Partnerships and Development Task Team – which I'm honored to lead – is part of the Chamber's five-year strategy "The Partnership." The team will build on these and other examples of collaboration, and expand partnerships throughout the entire region with the goal of developing a common message that will promote our great assets and communicate a positive image.

A great example of this is currently in the works. The City of Decatur, with the guidance of an advisory committee made up of municipal and non-profit representatives, has retained national advertising and branding agency Big Communications of Birmingham to launch a rebranding initiative for Decatur. Their experience with clients like Amazon, Valvoline, Mercedes-Benz, as well as statewide campaigns like Go Build Alabama, "Made in Alabama," and Gulf Coast Seafood, will bring unparalleled creativity and imagination to how we tell our city's wonderful story.

We need to capitalize on the many positive developments happening in our downtown like the Princess Theatre Center for the Performing Arts and the Cook Museum, new restaurants and nightlife attractions, as well as our assets around the county like the Tennessee River and the Wheeler Wildlife Refuge that will soon undergo a $5 million facilities upgrade. These and other topics were outputs of the One Decatur comprehensive plan, which this task team will continue to implement with the City of Decatur.

Regionally, the Chamber and the team will continue to stay active in Launch 2035 – a three-county partnership rethinking our region's economy in the areas of entrepreneurship, land use and workforce training. Groups like Launch 2035 and collaboration between chambers of commerce give Decatur-Morgan County a stronger voice when advocating in Montgomery or Washington DC for issues like infrastructure, education, and space and defense industry recruitment. When we work together, we succeed.

There is an African proverb that says "if you want to run fast, run alone; if you want to run far, run together." As a community, we are running far... and we can run farther. A combination of technology, ease of travel and the changing ways of doing business in the 21st century have made our world smaller.

We need to continue taking advantage of that and seek new ways to forge relationships to improve the quality of life for Decatur-Morgan County and our region. We live in an amazing place. Events for families, recreational opportunities, faith groups involved in community development, a high rate of entrepreneurship and more go towards measuring the health of a community. Our heartbeat is very strong.

All of that that will help us better tell our story, and you can be a part of what's next.

George Kitchens is the general manager of Joe Wheeler Electric Membership Corporation, and task team leader for The Partnership's Community Image, Partnerships and Development initiative.

The unwritten commandment

I'm writing this now thanks entirely to the work of a teacher. Not the message, necessarily, though that's certainly the case as well. But the actual words, strung together in a sentence with nouns, verbs and adjectives to complete a thought from start to finish. And if you're able to read this, you owe the same debt to an educator who opened your eyes for the first time.

I get excited thinking about the more than 19,000 public school students in Morgan County along with the hundreds of private and home school students who are imagining a big bright world and what's in store for them. Life-changing transformations are happening just down the street.

Yet, in the midst of this excitement, our schools systems are facing real challenges in our community. Specifically, the perception our systems are not up to par in our region. Comparing apples to apples, our test scores are competitive, our facilities are world class with award-winning technology integration in every classroom, we have a forward thinking early childhood/Pre-K expansion strategy, and more nationally named Blue Ribbons Schools than our local media can keep up with. And that list doesn't even dive into our county's deep commitment to skilled trade and career technical education.

I believe we are on a positive track, but as leaders in business and industry there is more we can do to support and influence the positive changes our educational leaders are working towards. We have three first-class system superintendents and several outstanding private school headmasters; what are we doing to support them? Can we do more?

The Business and Industry Partnership with Education task team's mission is direct and to the point: this team will provide the platform for our business and industry leaders to champion our schools to provide the highest quality education possible for all our area students.

What will this partnership look like? There are several ideas on the table, many of which expand the reach of already established Chamber programs like Partners in Education, Edge and Equip Student Leadership, as well several long-time workforce training initiatives like Endless Opportunities, the Career and Workforce Expo, and SWeTy Camp for high school girls to learn the basics in welding and electrical trades.

Beyond that, creating something new with this partnership between business, industry and education allows an opportunity to listen and adapt to the needs of both educators and those businesses looking to hire well-trained young people for their future workforce.

As a parent and a grandparent, I subscribe to that unwritten commandment we are to give better to our children than we had ourselves. It is in that giving we have hope in how the next generation will innovate our world in ways we can't yet imagine. We owe it to them to do everything we can as leaders to prepare them for what's next.

Nat Richardson is president of Decatur Morgan Hospital, and task team leader for The Partnership's Business and Industry Partnership with Education initiative.

Plan now for success later

Each day I drive into the 3M site in Decatur, I'm reminded that on the acres and acres of the plant, and the tens of thousands of square feet of facilities, the one thing that makes our organization a success is our workforce.

Anyone in industry - a plant manager or a newly minted co-op student - will tell you success comes from a trained team of professionals who understand they are a part of a team. They understand for their coworker to do their job well, they themselves have to focus and succeed at the task at hand.

While our economy is growing and unemployment is low in Morgan County, the Chamber is looking to the horizon. We have to plan now for success later. That's why when the Chamber's team of staff and consultants approached me about leading an initiative focused on talent development and recruitment in business and industry, not only did I want to participate, but I wanted to help chart the course for the Chamber's five-year plan The Partnership.

Our region is on the edge of a boom. That's not speculation; that's real. We all know the Mazda-Toyota facility three and a half miles from the Decatur city limits will bring 4,000 hi-tech manufacturing jobs. But did you know another 10,000 are likely to follow in support, supplier and contract employment? Also, Nucor is growing their investment in our area, along with Hexel, Ruag, Alabama Farmers Co-Op, and Wolverine Tube is coming back online. Each day it seems there's another announcement for us to celebrate!

There needs to be a directed, driven and dedicated effort to supply these industries (and those on their way) with a pipeline of highly skilled men and women ready on day one to say "put me to work, I'm ready." Finding skilled workers in all industry sectors is a huge issue, not just locally but across the country.

The Chamber is uniquely positioned to coordinate this vital issue. Not only are they able to gather business and industry leaders, educators, state and local officials and investors in a room and develop solutions to fill the gaps, but it is also - based on years of relationship building and research - able to aggressively recruit willing, able and qualified workers to Decatur-Morgan County from across Alabama and the country.

I can't wait to see what's next, knowing the resources we have and what is happening across the region. And it will be our sons and daughters who will benefit then from the work we do now.

Michelle Howell is the site manager for 3M Decatur and task team leader for The Partnership's Business and Industry-Driven Talent Development and Recruitment initiative.

Morgan County is served by three award-winning and high performing public school systems: Morgan County, Decatur City, and Hartselle City. These systems meet the educational needs of area students and take pride in challenging them to excel.

Each has received recognition for programs and offerings, including a 2017 National Blue Ribbon Lighthouse School of Excellence recognition for Leon Sheffield Elementary in Decatur and Morgan County’s Priceville Elementary earned recognition as a “Lighthouse School” through the Leader in Me program. In Hartselle, Crestline Elementary, F.E. Burleson Elementary, and Hartselle High School earned the Blue Ribbon Lighthouse School of Excellence status and Barkley Bridge Elementary School has earned status as a Blue Ribbon Lighthouse School of Excellence and a National Blue Ribbon Lighthouse School of Excellence. Compared to State of Alabama data, each of the three system’s test scores exceed the State average.

The area is also served by several private and parochial schools, giving families many choices for their education. Each setting provides opportunities for all students to experience success in a safe environment while preparing to lead in the future.

Also in the Decatur-annexed portion of neighboring Limestone County is Calhoun Community College – the largest of 27 members in the Alabama Community College System. The college serves nearly 10,000 students and offers 49 associate degree programs and 52 career/certificate programs. In addition to the main campus just four miles from downtown Decatur, the college also has a campus in Huntsville near Cummings Research Park and Redstone Arsenal.

The Alabama Center for the Arts is a collaborative effort between the city of Decatur, Morgan County, Calhoun Community College, and Athens State University. The center – more than 90,000 square feet in two phases – is located in the heart of downtown Decatur and serves as a venue for college art instruction, community education and cultural events, performing arts, and will also serve as a catalyst for the region’s creative planning and expression.

3rd Friday Downtown

Let us gather together!

Decatur-Morgan County is a community that gathers and celebrates the best we have to offer. In fact, festivals are one of the things that sets us apart from other areas of north Alabama. January kicks off the year with the Festival of the Cranes at the Wheeler National Wildlife Refuge, welcoming thousands of bird watchers from across the country. Carnegie Carnival fills the first few months of the year with the region's largest collection of Mardi Gras parties, parades, king and queen candidates and events as a fundraiser for the Carnegie Visual Arts Center. From April to October, 3rd Friday Downtown attracts residents from across the county to Second Ave. to enjoy music, children's events, local history and downtown merchants. During the same period on the first Saturday of the month, Market On Bank adds an artesian marketplace on upper Bank Street that features local artists, vendors, food, music and an opportunity to highlight local craftsmen. Each Memorial Day weekend, hot air balloon pilots from across the country take to the skies for the Alabama Jubilee. The Independence Day holiday brings to life the Spirit of America Festival at Point Mallard, one of the largest of its kind in the state. September plays host to Riverfest music festival and BBQ competition, River Clay Fine Arts Festival, Hartselle's Depot Days, and Eva Frontier Days – each offering family-friendly activities that draw attendees from across the southeast. December rings in the holiday season with the Decatur Jaycees Christmas Parade, as well as the Historic Decatur Christmas Tour, the latter of which is one of the largest in the state. For more information on annual events and festivals, visit our friends at Decatur Morgan County Tourism at decaturcvb.org.

Point Mallard Park

An outdoors community

Our city has a regional reputation for having some of the best maintained and funded parks and recreation facilities in the South. Shaped by our natural resources and a community that enjoys the outdoors, our 27 city parks and 17 playgrounds offer something for everyone. Opened in 1970, Point Mallard Park is a regional attraction and features America's very first wave pool, a Pro Bowl slide, a children's area featuring the Squirt Factory & Duck Pond, the Scenic Lagoon, the Towering Sky Pond Speed Slide, Three Flume tube rides, an Olympic-sized pool, a sandy beach and a lazy river floating ride. The park also features a year-round ice complex, a public golf course, batting cages, soccer fields, a campground and hosts several large community events and concerts each year. Rhodes Ferry, located on the banks of the Tennessee River, is a beautiful venue for community events and gatherings. Parks like Jack Allen and Wilson Morgan offer athletic fields for local and regional competition, including international, national and travel sport competitions. Delano and Frasier parks provide quiet getaways among exquisitely manicured roses and Japanese water features. And at Delano, you'll find a playground for all children regardless of physical limitations. With mild temperatures, our area provides almost year-round opportunities to enjoy our great outdoors.

Princess Theatre for the Performing Arts

Arts is part of our business

Our community serves as a regional model for the development of an arts-based economy in a downtown city center. Since 1983, the Princess Theatre Center for the Performing Arts has presented a wide range of outstanding cultural events since opening as a vaudeville theater and movie house in the 1930s. Along with featuring such artists as Ray Charles, Dixie Carter, Arlo Guthrie, Tony Randell, St. Paul & the Broken Bones, Chris Botti, Del McCoury, Drive-By Truckers and the Glenn Mill Orchestra, the theater – which seats more than 675 and is on the National Historic Registry – has also welcomed national tours of Broadway musicals such as “Evita,” “Big River,” “Nunsense” and “Will Rogers Follies,” along with serving as a home for local performing groups, children’s theater, choral concerts, musicals and theater. In 2016, the theater upgraded its movie house infrastructure by adding state-of-the-art digital sound and projection to the theater, providing the ability to present film festivals and screenings of local productions. The Princess also added in 2017 The Listening Room – a second performance area seating approximately 125 for singer-songwriter and literature events. Also part of the arts footprint is the Carnegie Visual Arts Center, converted from a 1904-built Carnegie Library that now welcomes local and national touring exhibits, art classes, workshops, lectures and camps for all ages in the Daikin America Education Center. The Alabama Center for the Arts, a partnership between Calhoun Community College and Athens State University, features two phases and nearly 100,000 square feet of visual and performing arts spaces. A 250-seat recital hall, a 300-seat studio theater and a 1,000 square foot gallery of student and local art highlight the growing footprint of a community art scene in Decatur. As for outdoor performance spaces, Daikin Amphitheater is located in Founders Park in front of the Old State Bank and serves as a venue for a wide variety of events. Concerts, theater productions, school events, movies and community gatherings are among the long list of users since being established in 2015 with a large lawn seating area and grass berms to control the sound. Decatur-Morgan County recognizes that an active arts community benefits the quality of life for everyone.

Living in our history

Historical neighbors have always been a draw for visitors to witness the merging of grand front porches and mighty oaks with the bustling metropolis and progress of the city. "Old Decatur" and "Albany" historic districts, located near downtown off of the southern bank of the Tennessee River, boasts the largest concentration of Victorian era cottages and bungalows in Alabama. The two historic districts also feature houses and buildings from the early 1800s to the present, including representations of the Colonial Revival, California Cottage, Dutch Colonial and Frank Lloyd Wright influences. Walking and driving tour brochures and maps are available at the Old State Bank and Decatur-Morgan County Tourism.

Sandhill cranes at Wheeler Wildlife Refuge

A home for natural beauty

Established in 1938 by Pres. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Wheeler National Wildlife Refuge consists of 35,000 acres of federal land representing a diverse biological community and the first National Wildlife Refuge placed on a multi-purpose reservoir to provide habitat for wintering and migrating birds. Considered the easternmost Refuge in the Mississippi flyway, it attracts thousands of wintering waterfowl each year and is home to Alabama's largest wintering duck population. The Refuge also supports the largest concentration of Sandhill Cranes in the state and is the winter home for an increasing number of the endangered Whooping Crane. Both species of cranes can be easily viewed from the comfort of the Wildlife Observation Building which is a short walk from the Visitor Center. In addition to migratory birds, the Refuge hosts 115 species of fish, 74 species of reptiles and amphibians, 47 species of mammals, and 285 different species of songbirds. In January, the Refuge's Festival of the Cranes welcomes more than 20,000 cranes and thousands of feather-free guests to the habitat for events, educational seminars, fundraisers and birding classes to celebrate the natural beauty of the area.

Cook Museum of Natural Science's Forests exhibit under construction

Science on full display

In the heart of downtown Decatur, the new 60,000 square foot home of the Cook Museum of Natural Science will open in 2019. Originally developed in the early 1960s as an employee training center for Cook's Pest Control, the museum served as a regional attraction for school and church groups, travelers and anyone who has an interest in the natural sciences. Features of the new museum – located directly across the street from City Hall – will include a 15,000 gallon salt water aquarium, a fresh water aquarium, terrariums with live amphibians, live insect exhibits, mounted wildlife and cave structure exhibits, a retail center, a restaurant and an event space. Research studies say the attraction will bring more than 200,000 visitors through the doors annually, not including school groups. The project will provide a dramatic economic impact on the city center while creating an inspirational STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics) destination to encourage future generations.

Joe Wheeler EMC

A Touchstone Energy® Cooperative

Powering Morgan and Lawrence counties for more than 81 years

For anything to stand, it must be built on a firm foundation. Much of Joe Wheeler EMC's success can be credited to our humble beginnings and the dedication and determination of its founding members. Many years have passed since electricity was first brought to rural Morgan and Lawrence counties, and much has changed.

Before the formation of Joe Wheeler EMC, private power companies supplied electricity to a few towns and densely populated communities, but wouldn't build lines to the rural areas because of the financial risk. However, the people who lived JWEMC is ready for the challenge. As construction of the Toyota-Mazda plant gets underway across the river, Joe Wheeler EMC is working to support the Lawrence County Industrial Board and the Morgan County Economic Development Association to recruit businesses to our area. In addition to the hope of more job opportunities, there is the potential to see new home growth as people move into the area to work. We are happy to support these efforts and eager to see our region grow. This kind of growth helps create good jobs and allows families to enjoy a decent lifestyle. As your electric cooperative, we take pride in seeing our communities grow and prosper.

Another project Joe Wheeler EMC has recently taken on is the prospect of bringing high-speed broadband internet to the homes and businesses in our service area. In the spirit of our founding, JWEMC has recognized the need for the under-served areas of Lawrence and Morgan counties to have affordable options to be connected. Joe Wheeler EMC began studying the viability of system-wide broadband access in fall of 2017 and, pending member approval, should start to offer this service in the coming years. Once fully realized, our most rural members will have the kind of access to the world the founders of Joe Wheeler EMC could never have imagined.

After 81 years, Joe Wheeler EMC is still recognized as one of Alabama's most efficient and progressive cooperatives. Our dedication to community service, honest and dependable employees and visionary management have set us apart as a caring member of the Morgan and Lawrence County communities for more than 81 years, and we are determined to continue and expand the great relationship we have with our membership and the surrounding communities. We are just as proud of our past as we are of our goals for the future, and know that together, with our members, Joe Wheeler EMC can make things even better for the people of North Alabama for years to come.

in these areas were the people who could benefit most from electricity. With the idea of forming a member-owned cooperative, community leaders, farmers, and business owners from the area came together on March 23, 1937, for an organizational meeting held in Hartselle to form what would become Joe Wheeler EMC. Little did they know what the future would hold.

Operations began on October 1, 1937, with only 190 miles of line and 900 members. Today JWEMC is the fourth largest electric co-op in Alabama, with more than 4,200 miles of line, serving more than 43,000 meters. Through our ongoing dedication to economic development, serving industries both large and small, we sell more power than any other electric cooperative in Alabama and are the eighth largest electric cooperative in the seven-state TVA region.

Looking to the future, we recognize the potential for enormous growth in North Alabama, and

If you are able, please consider making a small donation that will have a meaningful impact on the lives of local families all year long.

OperationWARM is a limited energy program offered through Community Action of North Alabama which provides assistance on a one-time basis to persons who are elderly, handicapped, or in health crisis situations. Funding is provided by residents of Morgan and Lawrence counties through donations of $1 or more added to their monthly electric bills. Whether it's a young family struggling with unemployment or a senior adult living on a meager income, families all over our area can have hope – and heat – through OperationWARM.

If you are a Joe Wheeler EMC member, and wish to add a monthly contribution to your power bill, visit www.jwemc.coop and click on the OperationWARM logo, or call us at 256-552-2300 and let us help you brighten someone's life when they need it most.

What if I Need Help?

Joe Wheeler EMC offices do not have or accept applications or determine the need for assistance. Applications for assistance are available through Community Action of North Alabama. Call (256) 355-7843 for information on requirements for assistance or to get an application.

Past Chairs of the Board

From the past to the present, the Decatur-Morgan County Chamber of Commerce has led the community to thriving success by calling upon the area's most natural resource - our local business leaders. This group of dedicated individuals, through their foresight and love of community, has helped make Decatur-Morgan County what it is today. We salute these individuals as we celebrate more than eight decades of proven success.

The Chamber of Commerce in Decatur-Morgan County is in the quality of life business. With more than 950 investors made up of a diverse collection of international industries to independent entrepreneurs, the Chamber serves as the collective voice of our business community. Founded in 1931 by the late Barrett C. Shelton, the Chamber's mission is to promote business and serve as an advocate for business through volunteer leadership in economic, political and social development.

We provide resources for our members and the community through retail and residential recruitment, education and workforce development, leadership training, legislative advocacy and business development. We also serve as the hub for connecting professionals in Decatur-Morgan County and surrounding areas who have a shared interest in improving their business and their ability to make a positive impact on our community.

The Chamber has served as the launching pad for other business and community development organizations, including Decatur Morgan County Tourism (formerly known as the Convention and Visitors Bureau), the Morgan County Economic Development Association, the Decatur Downtown Redevelopment Authority, the Decatur-Morgan County Entrepreneurial Center and the Morgan County-Decatur Farmers Market. Our collaborations with these and other organizations help secure a vibrant business community for today and for the next generation.

The image shows the logo for HTI Contractors, which includes the letters 'HTI' in a stylized font above the word 'CONTRACTORS' in a bold, sans-serif font. Below this, it reads 'Industrial, Commercial & Residential'. To the right of the logo are four circular seals: the Alabama State Board of Contractors, the Alabama State Board of Professional Engineers, the Alabama State Board of Professional Surveyors, and the Home Builders License Board. The Home Builders License Board seal includes the text 'HOME BUILDERS LICENSE BOARD'.
