What is this current market?
When you hear it's a seller's market, what does that mean? It means that there are not enough houses on the market for the amount of buyers. It's all about supply and demand. Once this happens it drives the prices of houses up and sometimes multiple offers come from this.

market. When we tell people homes are selling above asking price they find it hard to believe, but it is happening every day. The inventory continues to remain low so if you are thinking about selling, now is the time to put your home on the market and get a good price on it.
