"STEM education with focus on science, technology, engineering, and math skills is a widely known initiative with several programs being integrated into high school classrooms. An equally important area for high school students would be learning an entrepreneurship mindset and skill set, by introducing the HI-STEEM learning initiative (High school STEM with entrepreneurship). This would instill confidence in them to be better prepared for college, empower them to start the application of STEM principles towards creating successful products, and have an impact on our future in the way we live and work," said Ronak. "Another anticipated byproduct of this HI-STEEM initiative would be an increase in the diversity of future company founders and business leaders with more representation from women and underserved communities as demonstrated by this camp with nearly 50 percent girl participants and 20 percent camp participants from low income schools."

'The Entrepreneurship camp enabled us to progress the HI-STEEM learning initiative and at the same time achieve the mission of Shooting Stars non-profit, which is, 'enabling access of education for one generation, we can empower them to break the cycle of poverty'," said Keya. "This camp addressed the mission by providing opportunity to students from low income neighborhood schools in San Jose and also raised the funds towards sponsorship of full college education of two first generation students, one from Nakuru, Kenya going to attend Rift Valley College, and another from Maharashtra, India going to attend Sastra Deemed university," said Ronak.

With prior training from Venturelab.org, MIT LaunchX online course, and Shooting Stars volunteer mentors, Ronak and Keva coached the camp participants with topics such as Entrepreneurship mindset, skillset, and various components required for a business pitch (mission, idea generation, design thinking, prototype, test of product, customer, marketing strategies, and revenue model). Students then brainstormed on several ideas ranging from business, non-profit, to problems being faced in the community. Teams were created based on the alignment of their ideas, followed by industry speaker training with presentation slides, workshops, whiteboard lessons, and Q&A interactions in sessions spread across the entire week.

Senior Marketing executive from VoiceBase (AI analytics based Startup) and founder of Vimana (Networking device to enable safe internet access for children) covered end-to-end entrepreneurship topics, from how a real-life problem led to starting a company, hiring talent, and benefits and challenges of a startup. Senior VP executive from Finisar Corp covered the fundamentals of Product development cycle (development to manufacturing stages of product). A panel of speakers from Facebook introduced company culture, VR technology, networking lab, data center strategy and how to design to scale faster.

A full tour of Levi's Stadium, introduced to business side of football with the San Francisco 49ers organization, such as predictable revenue models, corporate suites, seat licensing, and dynamic pricing strategies. Marketing and community relation executives also covered different marketing strategies, signing of players, and the importance and methods of community customer relations.

Speakers from Intel Venture Capital spoke about financial planning, raising the capital, and branding and marketing, covered by the Intel communications group. An introduction to emerging technologies such as AI was covered by Intel AIPG group. Design thinking strategies and leadership topics were covered by architects and leaders from Intel CIG IP technology group. Students had a great time enjoying campus experience, and workshops, as well as learning topics related to entrepreneurship, values, and culture to stay as a successful business for more than 50 years.

Students collaborated in teams to refine their ideas with feedback from Intel speakers and camp coaches, did market research, financial modeling, and concluded the camp by presenting their business pitches to judges from Intel Capital venture, CIG groups in areas ranging from business, non-profit, to the problems being faced in the community. Upon successful camp experience, to continue their journey, they left camp with a snapshot of a great quote in Intel Museum by co-founder Robert Noyce, "Don't be encumbered by history. Go off and do something wonderful."

The Entrepreneurship camp is fully documented and scalable. Science Fair held at Quimby Oak Middle School

The Evergreen School District Science Fair was held at Quimby Oak Middle School recently.

The fair, which is an integral part of the science curriculum at the school, challenges students to expand their knowledge and present projects to the judges.

This year's Jr. Scientists did experiments focusing on topics ranging from "green living" and certain effects of tragedies on the environment to the medical aspects through a simple project.

Many teachers took their time off from their busy day and made it to the science fair including school principal: Dr. Nguyen.

Parents, as well as supporting teachers and the principal, help make this event possible each year. Participants range from first grade to sixth grade. With the guidance and direction of our wonderful faculty at our school, we have come together as a community to celebrate this great learning experience and the children are all winners as they grow in confidence in their understanding of science.

When Barnhill was asked what words of wisdom he could bestow on future musicians, he responded: "Practice not only your instrument but the art of discipline as well. Most important, find your passion, otherwise you're just making noises."

Barnhill

Asked why he decided to retire now, "There isn't really anything that I planned to do in my career that I haven't already accomplished," said Barnhill. "Additionally my shoulders and back can't take the prolonged stress of daily conducting much longer and all of my students, current and future, deserve my very best effort."

Barnhill, a native of San Jose, graduated from San Jose State University in the spring of 1984. He began his music teaching career at William C. Overfelt High School in the fall of 1984 and taught there until becoming Music Director at Evergreen Valley High School in the fall of 2006.

Barnhill first got involved in music when a neighborhood buddy in the sixth grade convinced him to come with him to see the music teacher at San Antonio Middle School, Mr. Bill Nicolosi.

"Bill guided me from that very first minute we met, allowing me to run as fast as I could to pursue my new passion for music," explained Barnhill. "He helped me buy my first bass trombone, gave me my first teaching gig with the Alum Rock District Jazz Band (a group that I had played in during my 7th & 8th grade years), helped set up my program at Overfelt and has been that rock for me ever since. I owe him more than I can ever repay."

"I was also fortunate to join the Santa Clara Vanguard Drum & Bugle Corps Organization in 1975 and have been connected with and affected by the organization ever since," said Barnhill. "The great people that my life has been touched by through that experience formed so much of what I have done and become; and by the way Bill got me into that too."

EVHS Band Boosters

"The EVHS Band Boosters, parents and students helped me unlock some skills and passions that I didn't realize that I actually had," said Barnhill. "Antoinette Battiste, Judy Mendoza, Jim Stainton, and Andy and Clarissa Aganad were early Boosters that saw what the potential was for us here and truly helped to get things jump started. Since then Jim Del Rosario and the Nyams have been tremendous support, but the two that have really made my life and the experience for all our musicians so rich have been Mrs. Pauline Benton, our amazing treasurer, partner and friend and most importantly my loving and beautiful wife Erlinda Papa. This all would have been impossible without those two. The support that I have received from the EVHS Band & Orchestra parents has been nothing less than amazing!"

When asked about the most memorable highlights of his teaching career, Barnhill said: "Most memorable are the daily commitment to excellence that my students and I hold ourselves to as well as being a small part of so many great people's early start towards their success. In addition to that I would have to say that the four trips with the EVHS Advanced Strings and Wind Ensemble performing at Carnegie Hall in New York City; those were truly life-changing experiences. The most special young people in my life playing in the world's greatest concert hall in the most exciting city; what can top that?"

Marching Band

Evergreen High School Marching Band has been at the top of the Western Band Association Class AA division since 2012 and very competitive in the years prior. "Prior to that, the marching band at Overfelt had a very similar status from 1988 until its final season in 1995," said Barnhill.

CMEA

Evergreen Valley High School hosts many California Music Education Association (CMEA) events. 'We have been rated very highly every year since I started at EVHS with many, many Unanimous Superior ratings," said Barnhill.

Last concert

Barnhill's "Final Concert" as Music Director for Evergreen Valley High School will take place at the historic California Theater on May 21, 2019 at 7 p.m. in downtown San Jose. The concert will celebrate Barnhill's long career and See BARNHILL, next page Times Community

Rotary Club of Evergreen Valley is dedicated to community service

By Charlie Wasser Special to the Times

e started to build our new Rotary club in the East San Jose Evergreen area at the end of September 2018. Then on March 5, 2019, Rotary International granted us a charter as a full-fledged Rotary club.

That was five months from inception to charter. The usual time frame to do this is 10-12 months. What is it about us that helped us do this so quickly? We are a group of professionals that are dedicated to the concept of community service. We look to serve the communities in East San Jose and the Villages in Evergreen. The club is made up of residents of the Villages and the surrounding San Jose areas. For example, I live in Cambrian. We also have a Young Professionals satellite club. The YP members are in their 20s to 30s. There are nine YP members with seven in their 20s. We have 31 members of which 12 are women.

Wait a minute? I know some of you are thinking Rotary is only for rich, old white guys that only care about their rich neighborhoods and write checks. Well, the Rotary Club of Evergreen Valley begs to differ. One of the main reasons this new club was formed was to build a Rotary club that is built on the diversity model stressed by Rotary International. We are leading the way even in Rotary with our diverse makeup which as you have read includes a YP group. The YP group members are full members of Evergreen Valley. They also meet socially 1 - 2 times a month as they did earlier this week.

Whet your appetite yet to come check us out? We meet Mondays at 12:15 and end by 1:30 pm in the Clubhouse restaurant at the Villages Golf and Country Club in Evergreen. The management at the Villages has been very supportive of the club being built. The restaurant is usually closed on Mondays but they allow us to use the restaurant. We order off a full menu from their Bistro and have a marvelous lunch.

We are now starting to decide and plan community service projects. This is why people join a new Rotary club. This is the time to develop ideas with which the members have a passion.

Interested but not sure yet? The following is a list of speakers we have had as guests and some that are scheduled over the next few weeks.

Dan Orum, San Jose Giants CEO, was scheduled to speak February 25. Unfortunately, he was ill but sent one of the executives from the San Jose Giants. The executive told us about their history and ball club structure. She told us how one of their players was Buster Posey before he went on to the San Francisco Giants. The best part was when we discussed a potential fund raiser as part of the San Jose Giants community outreach and the Rotary club is starting to consider doing. Stay tuned. Think tailgating and partying and watching the home team in action. Bottom line, help us raise money for community projects.

On March 4, we had a seminar on membership and how to increase the size of a volunteer community service based group.

On March 11, we had the Consul General of Mexico speak describing what his office and staff do for the local community residents with a Mexican background. He explained how the Consulate is set up to give free flu shots for anyone, not just Mexican citizens, who walk into the office.

On March 18, Jessica Molina of Catholic Charities, presented to us explaining all the services the organization offers. There is so much going on the Rotary club is considering doing projects with them. On the membership side, Jessica had visited us the week before to hear the Consul General. She was so taken by the group and the caliber of speakers we get, she joined the club and is one of the 31 members.

On March 25, Jeannette R. Marsala, who is an estate planning and elder law attorney practicing here in Evergreen, presented to us. Prior to starting Marsala Law Firm and focusing on estate planning and elder law, she helped clients protect their assets through bankruptcy proceedings and creditor rights actions. She gave a presentation on "Long Term Care Options for Seniors" in which she discussed what is long term care, various options available for seniors and veterans who require long term care, and how to qualify for aid. By the way, Jeannette is a member of the club and the YP satellite.

On April 1, Bryan Dang will be speaking about how he is working with simulations to help teach nursing students. Brvan is a nurse with a tech research background. He works on more natural ways in which people and software interact. Most of his time is spent at a startup called Syminar, or at Stanford Health Care, creating simple software experiences to help educators create clinicians who communicate more effectively. At SJSU, he is teaching student nurses skills and procedures used daily in the clinical setting. Bryan will discuss how he aims to bring Syminar beyond health education, into general education. He will describe how his team believes students and schools can benefit when teachers can bring live lessons online, in a natural way that doesn't interfere with their teaching style. Syminar helps teachers do so, all by themselves, without hours of training and media production teams on standby. By the way, Bryan is a member of the club and the YP satellite. (Notice the pattern of high achievers that join the club or come to speak to us.)

On April 8, Lisa J. Blanchard – Executive Director and Founder of The Grateful Garment will speak to us. Lisa's vision for the Grateful Garment Project is that no victim of sexual assault ever experience further suffering due to lack of resources. Lisa's talk will describe how The Grateful Garment Project provides new clothing and tangible resources to survivors who have had their dignity stolen through an act of sexual violence.

On April 15, Kristi Roberts, of the Alzheimer's Association will be speaking. She is the Walk Director for the Silicon Valley Walk to End Alzheimer's and has extensive experience in volunteer management, peer-to-peer fundraising and special event management. In 2018 The Walk raised $1.45M for care and support and research to end Alzheimer's Disease. Kristi's talk will help attendees learn about the Alzheimer's Association's programs, including care and support groups, 24 hour helpline, political advocacy and the exciting research the Association dedication to excellence. The performance will feature the 53-member EVHS Advanced Strings and the 56-member Wind Ensemble.

"We are all looking forward to the "Final Concert" and we anticipate a full house for the performance," said Barnhill. "I really want to make sure that my students, and myself are thoroughly prepared and mentally strong so that any emotions that do bubble up won't affect the excellence that we all are expecting to execute. We invite the community to the event and I'm looking forward to seeing my past students in the audience on that special night!"

Students give thanks

"Mr. B- Thanks for making my high school experience as a whole less bland and much more involved. I have held your 'excellence in all things' motto in high esteem and will continue to use it throughout my life. Thanks for everything you've done!" -Akhil Pappu

Words of wisdom

When Barnhill was asked what words of wisdom he could bestow on future musicians, he responded: "Practice not only your instrument but the art of discipline as well. Most important, find your passion, otherwise you're just making noises.

Lastly, for any future (or present teachers out there) find the passion for the art of teaching – that is essential to a long career."

Fans will be able to experience the scope and grandeur of this beloved film in a live symphonic concert experience, when the Star Wars: A New Hope performs in San Jose March 29 through 31 at San Jose Center for the Performing Arts.

Legendary composer Williams is well known for scoring all eight of the Star Wars saga films to date, beginning with 1977's Star Wars: A New Hope for which he earned an Academy Award® for Best Original Score. By Greg Gates Senior Pastor of the Point Church Hypocrisy is a very popular word today.

A hypocrite is someone who tries to convince others that they are good but in reality, they aren't so good.

People like to say churches are full of hypocrites. But that's not true.

Our church has many empty seats. It is far from being full.

Nobody likes a hypocrite, especially Jesus. He was a huge critic of them and he saved his most fiery outbursts and verbal thrashings for the selfishly ambitious people who only acted like respectable religious people.

What causes someone to become a hypocrite? Being an accomplished hypocrite myself I can speak from my own experience. What made me a hypocrite was having a secret problem, out of control spending.

I was too embarrassed to tell anyone

Even though I was too embarrassed to tell anyone about it, that never kept me from giving financial advice to others. The bottom line for me, I didn't want to come clean for fear of losing the friends I had gained from my double life. All the while I knew full well that I was deceiving people and my spending was destroying me.

Since nobody wants to be a hypocrite, how can we best help each other live authentic lives instead?

Here are 3 things God's word tells us about how to end our hypocrisy and walk in truth and authenticity instead.

Proverbs 28:13: Whoever conceals their sins does not prosper, but the one who confesses and renounces them finds mercy.

Hiding our sins only deepens its crushing force on our lives

Hypocrisy only exists when our destructive behaviors are a secret. Every hypocrite knows it is only a matter of time before they will be found out and his or her true character will emerge and ruin the fake reputation they have carefully crafted. Hiding our sins only deepens its crushing force in our lives.

James 5:16: Therefore confess your sins to each other and pray for each other so that you may be healed. The prayer of a righteous person is powerful and effective.

Churches are often identified as hotbeds of hypocrisy. But in reality, churches are safe places for hypocrites to let down their guard and be honest with themselves and others. It's where you can find a person you can trust to confess your sin to and have them effectively pray for you.

Galatians 6:1: Brothers and sisters, if someone is caught in a sin, you who live by the Spirit should restore that person gently.

God's house is not a museum for saints but a hospital for sinners

God wants us to remember that his house (churches) is not a museum for saints but a hospital for sinners. Churches are a safe place where people who want to come clean are restored by gentle and humble people who remember what it was like when they were hypocrites and sinners too.

People in our hurting and broken world should be able to look at followers of Jesus and see hope and healing. People should be able to see that the lives of people who follow Jesus aren't perfect, but that we do live a forgiven life. As powerful as hypocrisy is at repelling people from Jesus, authenticity is that compelling in attracting people to him.

Jesus hated hypocrisy but he had unlimited grace for anyone who would turn to him. There's always room in churches for more recovering hypocrites like me.

Our world has changed in the last century

By Bob Gill Special to the Times

ll the world leaders have to think about people and peace. There is no sense in fighting, arguing and being silently angry at each other.

Think about the food we share in the world and if there is something unfortunate that occurs how we all join hands to help. World leaders work for our well being

In the news and headlines we often read and see negative choices done by unstable people to disrupt the fabric of our universe.

World leaders are picked and chosen by the people, so their work is not about them; it is about the people they serve. They need to touch people's personal lives and everyday needs.

The world leader's goal should be to make peace in the world and make the best for all people so they can have a strong economy with hopes and dreams and a belief in a higher power that are kept alive and have healthy nutritious food on their family's table each morning, noon and night.

We all have to believe in a higher power because we cannot control nature. You cannot control the rain or shine. We must know that each of us are not in control and instead we look towards a higher power to guide us.

Rather than pick apart each religion and find faults, it is best to find the goodness in what the beliefs give the world.

I visit all religious centers, churches in the community and vast groups and organizations. I learn from them. I listen and use their knowledge every day in my life because I find good in what they do. I would like you to do the same and help your children to understand other religious beliefs for this helps fight prejudice. Your children are tomorrow's leaders.

The world has changed

Today, with vast technology the world has changed. We need to work as a team with our children because their thoughts are different than what we experienced decades ago.

We have a problem because our children are exposed to so much information. Social interactions are tough and different than what we grew up with.

I was playing with my children and sharing my everyday things. We took time to look into each other's eyes and the eye contact meant a lot. I made sure to hug my children and wife each day and tell them, "I love you." Sometimes I would do this many times a day. This sharing of time brought us closer together as a family.

Families today have it tough due to the bombardment of the internet. Too much information is being compressed each moment into the minds of children and young adults. Facebook, Google and SnapChap are taking family time away from the hands of nurturing of mom, dad, sister and brother.

When your wife prepares food and brings it to the table, don't forget to leave the phones turned off and say, "honey you are the best chef and your food is the most delicious in the world." Those kinds of sincere complements will bring joy to all, make your home atmosphere warm and educate your children on how to treat others well.

Take your time when you eat. Take more time. When you eat and rush it will affect your digestion. You cannot digest food quick. Have a regular time to eat and share thoughts and get opinions. More brains are better than one. Keep the politics out of dinner and focus on beautiful joyous things in your personal lives. Keep the negativity out!

Time is love

Spend time with your children in a way that does not include the use of technology and make sure to listen to them. Their ideas are important because they live today and we live in the past.

Each of us has the power to make a positive change in our world

As a member of the Santa Clara County Behavioral Health Board I have learned a great deal on the subject of mental health. Our President, Mayor, Police, School Leaders and others do not have the capability to monitor everything. So, we need to give them input. Often a person who is causing harm to others is known by friends and family to having a difficult time in their life and somebody will know about it and they should help them. One of the important ways we as a society must contribute is to reach out to organizations and county support agencies to get the person help.

We must think about our family living in the world around us today and we must get people mental health support if we believe they are in need. Too often, some do not wish to get involved and things can spiral out of control and the troubled person could have been helped at an earlier time to avoid negative incidences.

Often somebody could have spoken up because they were aware of probable negative incidences that might happen in the future. Your County of Santa Clara and Your Federal Offices, your State offices, your County offices your City of San Jose offices and many nonprofit support agencies have lots of resources to help you and others.

The world has changed in the last century. Wellbeing starts with our family. We have to ensure we spend the right time in nurturing our children. We must make time to help all around us in our community feel connected and respected to each other.

Do not create a conflict of interest to hate each other. Share your thoughts with each political leader of what you want for your community because the budget and spending purse is under their control. Do not hate your politician instead work with them. Find ways to find the good in each person and leader.

Though we may not agree with all the views of who is talking to us, we must find it in our hearts to understand each person's personal truths.

Technology also can help us communicate

Boy Scout Troop 296 welcomes all Webelos 2 Scouts

n Tuesday, February 19, Troop 296 invited Webelos 2 scouts from the Evergreen, San Jose area to come and gave them a taste of what they will experience in their Boy Scout journey.

The troop allocated jobs to several troop members and played Webelos games that relate to scouting to teach the boys some basic scouting necessities. This is an annual routine that the boys in Troop 296 do every year to welcome the Webelos into the troop, which we now called the Webelos Meet-&-Greet.

One of these games involved life-saving, seeing who could tie and throw the monkey knot the farthest and most accurate to save the "drowning person." Another one of the games was human knot where the scouts learn one of the most essential skills in life, working with others. The Webelos worked together to untie themselves. This taught them collaboration, which is a much-needed skill in Boy Scouts. The human knot game also teaches scout spirit by showing that teamwork can pretty much help you accomplish anything.

The following meeting, the troop went to work on creating games, food menus, and skits for the annual Webelos Weekend, which will be held on Saturday, March 30 at 10 a.m. The troop invites all the packs in the area to come and experience a boy scout campout, where the troop guides for the year (Dhruv Agarwal, Ayush Agarwal, and Rushil Chandrupatla) will lead the campout and teach the Webelos important life survival and scout skills through fun games and activities!

Haven't received your invitation to our Webelos Weekend? Contact Troop 296's Bridging Coordinator (Harsha Nagarajuh arshanm@yahoo.com) or Committee Chair (Richard Sanowrsanow@earthlink.net), or feel free to stop by any week. Meetings are held every Tuesday at 7:00 p.m. at the Evergreen Valley United Methodist Church, 3520 San Felipe Rd, San Jose.

Reducing Crime and Keeping California Safe Act

By Johnny Khamis

San Jose City Councilman ne of the frustrations I hear from constituents is that many criminals seem to be getting away with their crimes - breaking into cars, committing burglaries, and even more severe crimes.

Our police are also frustrated that the pendulum of justice has swung too far in favor of the criminal, and I agree with them. Our system needed reforms to ensure all people are treated fairly and that those who have committed minor crimes have a chance to redeem themselves, but as with most reforms, they came with unintended consequences.

To fx the major flaws we've seen develop in our criminal justice system, California's citizens have placed on the 2020 ballot the Reducing Crime and Keeping California Safe Act which will fix the biggest flaws in our criminal justice system while preserving the elements that ensure equal treatment under the law and an opportunity for restorative justice for those willing to change their ways. To understand a bit about how we got to where we are today and why voter action is necessary, I asked my staff to pull together a history of the issue.

The Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS) is the most authoritative court in our political system, with the power to review Administrative and Legislative actions to determine if they align with the U.S. Constitution. The judicial path taken by the SCOTUS has ramifications that can ripple through all aspects of the justice system. One such ripple was felt in 2011 when the SCOTUS ruled that California prisons were in violation of the Constitution's 8th Amendment due to severe overcrowding. Soon thereafter, Propositions 47 and, later, 57 were drafted to dramatically reduce the prison population. Prop 47 allowed nonviolent felonies to be reduced to misdemeanors, and Prop 57, penned by former Governor Jerry Brown, allowed for non-violent felons to apply for early parole. These two initiatives, combined, allowed for the immediate release of 7,000 inmates across California.

Although the effects of Prop 47 and 57 are, without a doubt, cause for concern, a proposition from 2000, titled Prop 21, compounded the issue. This proposition intended to alter juvenile sentencing; however, it also included language that made it more difficult to change the violent felony penal code by requiring any bill that would do so to receive a super-majority - 2/3rds - of both houses of the State legislature. There have since been many attempts to add non-violent felonies to the violent felon penal code but they have all died at the State Capitol. Opponents often cited the court-ordered caps on inmate populations as the reason for their opposition, and supporters were not able to secure the votes needed to fix the penal code.

Therefore, the abduction of a child for prostitution, an assault on a police officer, and the rape of an intoxicated person, among many other inherently violent crimes, are not considered violent felonies in the State of California. The Reducing Crime and Keeping California Safe Act was written in a way that patches the gaping holes in the laws left by Props 47 and 57. While the felony penal code, dating back to 1976, has always included the obvious, violent felonies such as murder and the sexual abuse of a child, it lacks the inclusion of certain rape crimes and domestic violence crimes that blatantly have the words "assault" and "violence" prefacing the name of the crime.

Summer bulbs for life in your garden

 $B_{\rm you}^{\rm ees}$ and butterflies add buzz and beauty to your green oasis. If you want to enjoy bees and butterflies in your garden, make sure to fill it with flowers. The perfect choice? Summer bulbs! Pollen and nectar

Delighting in the dazzling colors of butterfly wings and listening to the heavenly hum of bees: you could imagine yourself far away in the woods somewhere. Actually, however, bees and butterflies are hard at work everywhere in search of more flowers with pollen and nectar. Yet many of these plants are disappearing as towns and cities spread. By filling your garden or balcony with lots of flowers, you'll enjoy the buzzing and fluttering of insects and serve them up the food they need.

Fluttering butterflies

How can you attract butterflies to your garden? It's not so difficult. First of all, butterflies need the heat of the sun to warm up their body and wings. And they also need flowers that produce syrupy nectar that they can reach by uncurling their long tongue called a proboscis. This nectar contains not only sugar but small quantities of proteins and vitamins that the females in particular need to produce their eggs. With lots of high-nectar flowers in your garden, butterflies will be attracted in no time.

Buzzing bees

Bees are essential for biodiversity. Did you know that insects pollinate more than 75% of our food crops? Honeybees, solitary bees and bumblebees are major pollinators that need good sources of pollen and nectar. So why wait? Feed the bees by adding summer bulbs to your garden or balcony. The ones that produce the most pollen and nectar are Crocosmia, Dahlias, Blazing Star (Liatris) and gladioli. Plant them and you'll soon be attracting both bees and butterflies.

Changing the classification of felonies has historically required piecemeal legislation and voter initiatives; Reducing Crime and Keeping California Safe Act, on the ballot in 2020, will re-classify the violent acts currently classified as non-violent felonies as violent felonies, expand DNA collection, and reform the parole system. Because the courts don't make legislation, but instead determine whether administrative actions and legislation is consistent with the Constitution, it is sometimes up to the legislature to fix the law when unintended consequences of court rulings result. If the legislature fails to act, the California Constitution allows the people to take action. With the Reducing Crime and Keeping California Safe Act, voters will finally have a chance to fix the issues that resulted from court rulings and the interactions among Props 47, 57, and 21.

Preservation Action Council's Director Brian Grayson to retire

N o one is more the face of local preservation than Brian Grayson.

Grayson is retiring from the helm of Preservation Action Council who has stood between many San Jose developers and endangered local historic assets, many times saying "hold on a minute, not so fast."

He's calmly led San Jose's most active preservation group in its efforts to educate, advocate, and fundraise for heritage asset protection for 11 years, and was on its board for eight years before that.

Grayson is proud of saving the Century 21 Theater, the IBM 25 Building, and helping recover the missing Orchard Supply Hardware sign. Yes, a couple of his saves have burned down, and he once lost his cool when Code Enforcement cleared salvage from the fire gutted Donner House site. "I went nuts," he recalls, laughing. But being on TV more times than he can count wasn't all bad.

What started out as a scrappy, small, grassroots preservation group has grown over nearly 30 years into a calmer, more professional, more collaborative, still small, grassroots preservation group--but a respected one with a seat at the table.

PACSJ nowadays often gets called by the Planning Department before development plans get underway; thanks to Grayson's steady leadership. He's attended zillions of civic meetings, knows everybody who's anybody locally, and has politely twisted quite a few arms along the way.

Eight years on the San Jose Planning Commission before PACSJ, and eleven as Senior Field Representative to Congressman Norm Mineta before that, and what we have here is a seriously cool guy with the coolest of careers behind him. He's now embarking on a new life, much like the assets PACSJ moves, repurposes, or outright sues to save.

Grayson's decision to step out from between the bulldozers and the Victorians, to chill in his restored vintage 1960's house and travel with wife Nina, has San Jose waiting for a new preservation marshal to ride into town and take up Grayson's gauntlet. PACSJ is now seeking a new cool headed leader to do the coolest job in town.

"Brian's departure means a really vital role, Executive Director of PACSJ, needs to be filled with just the right person, at a time we have a lot of big developments like Google coming in," said Cindy Atmore, PACSJ Board Member. "There are about 30 historic assets in the path of Google's Grayson has calmly led San Jose's most active preservation group in its efforts to educate, advocate, and fundraise for heritage asset protection for 11 years.

new development alone, so it's in all our best interests to find the right person to carry on Brian's crucial work preserving San Jose's heritage assets." "It's been a ride of historic proportions," Grayson says. "I thank everyone who has helped preserve San Jose's history so current and future generations will always be reminded of our heritage."

Blvd BombS Car Club and Boulevard Bombs Foundation donation update

By Sean Eastwood Times staff writer

From the year of 2006 thru 2010, Tony and Sylvia Martinez and their family and friends would go to Saint James Park to handout coats, sleeping bags, care packages and food to the homeless.

As the years went by, many people were getting out of new cars, busses and clearly people that did not need the help were getting in line which took away from the homeless. Tony decided they needed to find a homeless shelter.

Blvd BombS Car Club started in 2008; their mission is to help the less fortunate and the homeless. In the year 2011 Tony picked a local homeless shelter and it was a match made in heaven.

"Our community, friends and family donate coats and money to help with their causes," said Tony. "This year the office of Councilwoman Sylvia Arenas – District 8 donated three bags of coats for the homeless kids." Tony and Sylvia also picked a local shelter that houses homeless children under their wings. Last year with their amazing volunteers during the rain each of them stayed to feed the homeless, handout coats, tote bags, smiles and conversations. They do this every year but this one was heartfelt because it was raining so hard. The homeless lined up and waited patiently as they prepared the tables with coats, clothes, purses with personal items for women, food, etc. The bags are donated from Walmart, food donated from McDonalds, Wienerschnitzel, CWC, and donations from their family and friends. Pictures can be seen on their website www. blvdbombs.com.

On November 2015 Tony and Sylvia Martinez started the nonprofit Boulevard Bombs Foundation. Their hopes were to get more donations to help with their causes in helping the less fortunate and the homeless. The donations have helped purchase turkeys, water bottles, toys, food, sleeping bags, items for the homeless care packages such as umbrellas, beanie caps, socks, gloves, fleece blankets, hand warmers, hand sanitizer, toothbrush/toothpaste kits, water bottles, refillable water bottles, and much more.

Just to name a few yearly scheduled events: Summer - handout water bottles and umbrellas to the homeless. July-Backpack Drive not only for the children but they will also be given to the homeless. August-Juvenile Hall display a few vehicles, October-Donate A Coat Drive, October-Day In The Park, November-Drop Off Turkey Drive, December-handout coats, food, care packages, and more. A wonderful DJ Raymundo plays music for the homeless and it is magical because the homeless will sing and dance and they are so happy! December-Christmas gifts are purchased for the kids at a local homeless shelter. Gifts are also donated from friends and family. They have their own Santa Claus, Isaac Rodriguez, who hands out the gifts to the kids.

Continued from previous page by Councilwoman Arenas to participate in District 8 Homelessness Roundtable that she is in the process of forming. "It will be an honor to be part of something so dear to their hearts," said Sylvia. "Blvd BombS Car Club will once again be displaying their classic vehicles at the Day In The Park event on October 12, 2019 located at Cunningham Park."

Tragedy strikes

This year tragedy has hit home. Tony's sister and brother in law's ranch home caught on fire on February 5, 2019; it was not only their home, but also the space in which they run their nonprofit Rottweiler dog rescue. They are not only devastated by the loss of their home but also by the tragic loss of three of their dogs. They currently have several Rottweilers from puppies to seniors that need to be fostered or adopted into a forever loving home.

If interested in helping please call 408.218.9729.

"Life can change in a blink of an eye. Sylvia's grandmother would say to her, when they would walk to the store and once in a while would see a homeless person, she would tell her in Spanish today it is them, and tomorrow it could be us," said Sylvia. "Blvd BombS Car Club and Boulevard Bombs Foundation would like to thank everyone for past and future donations; we couldn't do it without you. Thank you to all their wonderful volunteers (Angels) for their hard work. Not only do they handout the food, coats, etc., they lift the spirits of our homeless. The attention they give our homeless is priceless; it is an everlasting moment for them and deeply appreciated. The smile and laughter on their faces is unforgettable. It lets them know people care."

Please help Boulevard Bombs Foundation with a donation, there is no donation to small, every bit helps. You can donate on-line www.blvdbombs.com or mail a check payable to Boulevard Bomb Foundation, P.O. Box 731634, San Jose, CA 95173-1634. Your donation is tax deductible and helps so many homeless in our community.
