Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Professional relationships grow stronger. But you might still need to ease some problems with someone in your personal life. One way could be to try to be less rigid in your views.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You might be too close to that perplexing personal situation to even attempt to make a rational decision about it right now. Stepping back could help you gain a wider perspective.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Being asked to choose between the positions of two friends is an unfair imposition on you. It's best to reject the "demands" and insist they try harder to work things out on their own.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A change of mind about a workplace decision might be called for once you hear more arguments, pro and con. A personal event suddenly takes an unexpected (but pleasant!) turn.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Romance once again looms large for single Leos and Leonas, with Cupid favoring Taurus and Libra to inspire those warm and fuzzy Leonine feelings. Expect another workplace change.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A surprise gift -- and, happily, with no strings attached -- could come just when you need it to avoid a delay in getting your project done. Expect education to dominate the week.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Someone close to you might ask for your support as she or he faces a demanding personal challenge. Offer it, by all means. But be careful you don't neglect your own needs at this time.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) An unexpected development could put your relationship with a partner or spouse to an emotionally demanding test. But your determination to get to the truth should save the day.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A recent agreement appears to be coming apart over the surfacing of unexpected complications. You might need to have expert advice on how to resolve the situation.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your keen business sense helps you get to the truth about a suspicious business deal. Expect to have many colleagues rally to support your efforts in this important matter.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Someone who once moved in and out of your life through the years might now want to come back in on a more permanent basis. Give yourself a lot of time to weigh your decision.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Showing frustration over a delayed workplace decision might get someone's attention, but not necessarily make him or her move any sooner. Best advice would be to be patient and wait it out.

'Burning' Tattoo Forces Halt to MRI

DEAR DR. ROACH: Can you please explain how an MRI machine affects the pigment in a tattoo? My friend's MRI procedure was stopped because she was experiencing a burning sensation at her lower eyelids, which had previously been tattooed with black ink. Does this happen only with black ink? Which colors are safer? -- J.H.

ANSWER: Reactions between the ink in tattoos and MRI scanners are well-documented in the literature. Some inks -- mostly black, red and brown -- are made with iron or titanium oxides. Only 1.5 percent of people with tattoos have reported bad experiences in MRI machines.

Iron and titanium oxides conduct electricity, and the strong magnetic field in an MRI scanner can cause a current to travel between different tattoos or different portions of a tattoo -- especially those with loops in the pattern. The electric current causes heat, and even can cause minor burns. Cold packs or ice placed on the area during MRI can minimize damage, but some MRI facilities will not perform an MRI on tattooed individuals, especially if the tattoo covers a large area.

If a magnet draws up the skin with a tattoo, then that area is at risk.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I recently was diagnosed with transient global amnesia. I had never heard of this. My primary care doctor sent me for further testing, which included an MRI and MRA with contrast, and a CT scan. All were normal. Can you elaborate on this condition? -- M.T.M.

ANSWER: Transient global amnesia is a cause of retrograde amnesia ("retrograde" meaning you don't remember things from the past, usually the past day to a month, but sometimes longer; "anterograde" means memory loss forward from the time of the event). Its cause is unknown, but it occurs more frequently in men and women over 50. Your doctor ordered the appropriate tests to make sure it wasn't a transient ischemic attack or stroke. Epilepsy sometimes can look similar to TGA, so sometimes an EEG is obtained.

As scary as it sounds, TGA usually doesn't happen again and doesn't predict a higher risk of developing memory troubles, stroke or epilepsy in the future.

DEAR DR. ROACH: My wife has COPD. She is not coping very well. Her doctors are treating her with the standard medications. She has heard about an experimental treatment where they take her stem cells and make them into something that is inhaled. Have you heard about this treatment? Is it safe? Each treatment is $7,000. -- J.W.

ANSWER: Stem cells are cells that can develop into many kinds of mature cells. In theory, they can grow and replace cells that have been damaged or destroyed due to a disease process. Stem cells hold great promise for many diseases, but there isn't enough information for me to make a recommendation for stem cells in COPD, for either safety or effectiveness.

If you are going to look into it further, I would recommend doing so only as part of a clinical trial. You can find out about clinical trials at www.clinicaltrials.gov. I was able to find some trials on the site that are recruiting subjects. I also would recommend www.closerlookatstemcells.org/ to anyone considering stem cell treatment.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

PIEDMONT PETS

April 4, 2019
 By Paulette Dean

It's odd how random moments can be remembered for years. I had such a moment in the mid-1980s when I was working in Utah. I was on a lunch break and was listening to some talk show on the radio as I drove around getting some errands done.

A story was told about a family who had had a cat since he was a kitten. He was elderly now and they decided to purchase a younger cat. Suddenly, the perfectly litter box trained cat started having accidents all over the house. The family put up with it as long as they could, but finally made the decision to have the senior cat euthanized. When they returned home, they found that it was the new cat that had been having the accidents, not the older one. I remember that I sat in my car in a parking lot and cried for the elderly cat.

All these years later, I have personally been a witness to many such situations. Some people adopt or acquire animals in other ways because as their pets get older, they believe a young pet may help the older one get a new lease on life. Others think it will help them with the sadness of the inevitable death of the older one. Each of those reasons can make a lot of sense.

However, what is disappointing is when people ask if they can bring an older pet to us and adopt a kitten or puppy. Some people ask if they can donate the older one in exchange for a younger one.

Younger people who come to the shelter to adopt a dog or cat may be taken aback by my question, "How do you see this animal fitting into your life as you finish college, find a job, get married, and have children?" It is a question that I think should be asked. Animals deserve to be in homes that make a lifetime commitment to the animal.

As they age, pets may need more visits to their veterinarian, special food, and other accommodations for their aging bodies. Years of the best care and treatment are what the shelter animals deserve and why we ask certain questions.

Giving our hearts to a pet comes with the sad fact that, most of the time, we will outlive that pet. The depth of grief we experience when they die is a good testament of the depth of love we had for them.

The elderly cat in the story told above did not deserve to be cast aside.

Reworked Filing Cabinet

Decorating has once again become informal, like the "country furniture" era in the 1980s that led to rooms with "non-furniture furniture." An old cobbler's bench became a coffee table, a was made in Ohio before 1898, when Edwin Seibels tried to patent a way to file a flat letter in a lateral file folder instead of stacking mail inside its envelope in a drawer. Reworked factory and office furniture of the past has become more popular for the living room, and it is going up in price. There are even reproductions available.

This 48-drawer filing cabinet was used to store folded business mail in the late 19th century. But mail is now filed in page size folders in a file with much larger drawers. It was repurposed into a storage cabinet for jewelry or some other small items. The price at auction was $1,331.

cranberry scoop was a magazine rack, stacked orange crates were shelving and tin Grape Nuts signs were hung as art. A new "technology" style began about six years ago. A refinished workbench with a polished vice or gears is a dining table, and a church bench replaces three or four chairs. Refinished oak filing cabinets from an office or library provide storage for jewelry or folded shirts, and wall-to-wall carpeting is out, replaced by polished wood floors.

The result is unique and childproof since the pieces have survived bumps and spills all day. And the clever buyer can find solid wooden pieces for bargain prices. An Ohmer's Sons office filing cabinet with 48 drawers and the original brass hardware was auctioned in Maine for $1,331. It

Q. I have a piece of Niloak pottery, which has some stains that look like drips, possibly from furniture polish. Is there a way to clean this?

A. Niloak Pottery was made at the Hyten Brothers Pottery in Benton, Arkansas, from 1910 to 1918, and again from 1921 to 1947. The pottery was made from kaolin, a soft, white clay. The name "Niloak" is "kaolin" spelled backward. To clean Niloak pottery, use a soft cloth dampened with water. If the drips are furniture polish, they may be hard to remove since the polish probably contains oil, wax or another water-resistant ingredient. Some people recommend using a mild solution of water and dish detergent. Don't soak the pottery, avoid rubbing the surface too hard and be sure to blot it dry.

HOLLYWOOD
by Tony Rizzo

Matt Smith as "Doctor Who"

HOLLYWOOD — In 1985, a 59-year-old Rock Hudson was the first major movie star to die from AIDS, and his passing finally brought attention to the HIV disease. Rock starred in more than 60 major films, including "Magnificent Obsession" (1954); "All That Heaven Allows" (1955); "Giant" (1956), his only Oscar nomination; and "Pillow Talk" (1959), with Doris Day. It was while filming "Dynasty" (1984-85) that people realized he was deathly ill. Given the choice of filming "Dynasty" or going to France for treatment that could prolong his life, Rock chose "Dynasty." By the time he finally went to France, the disease had progressed beyond the point where the treatment could save him.

He began his career in 1949 at Universal Pictures playing indians and pirates, so it's only fitting that Universal will tell the story of his life and death in the upcoming "All That Heaven Allows," based on Mark Griffin's book of the same name. Marc Christian, one of Rock's past lovers, sued him and won a multimillion-dollar lawsuit because Rock didn't tell him he had AIDS. I met Rock through his mother, who was a friend of a friend, and he always treated me as a friend. At the beginning of his career, he hid his homosexuality, and at the end of his career, he hid his AIDS.

Former "Doctor Who" and "The Crown" star Matt Smith will become Charles Manson for the film "Charlie Says," which focuses on the women of the Manson family. It's a far cry from a space hero and a prince of England to a psychopathic killer.

Johnny Depp, who allegedly hid his assets to divorce Amber Heard, now is embroiled in two lawsuits. He's suing his former wife for $50 million for defamation, because she claimed he abused her, which he asserts was a hoax to further her career (it comes to trial Sept. 16). The second lawsuit, for $30 million, is against his former business managers for malpractice. Insiders allege these problems have soured his chances to do the reboot of "The Pirates of the Caribbean," but that seems unlikely, since he was a key component in the original films.

The two men who allege in the documentary "Leaving Neverland" that they were sexually assaulted as kids by Michael Jackson have prompted the producers of the Michael Jackson musical "Don't Stop 'Til You Get Enough" to cancel their Broadway tryout. The Chicago Theater has replaced it with "Once Upon a One More Time," a musical comedy featuring songs by Britney Spears, set for Oct. 29-Dec. 1. Some of us have had enough and don't need one more time!

A Healthy Family Lifestyle Study

Researchers at the University of Virginia invite all interested families of children ages 5 to 12 to join a healthy lifestyle study that is part of a team effort between Danville Parks and Recreation, Sovah Pediatrics, PATHS and the University of Virginia. With a flip of a coin, you will be randomized into one of these programs: Family Connections or iChoose. Programs will be offered at locations in Danville and Chatham.

The purpose of the study is to compare two healthy lifestyle programs to see which one is the best fit for your community. The study includes health screenings, small group healthy living classes and telephone support calls, all offered at no cost. Families will receive $300 in gift cards for participating in the study.

Primary Investigator: Dr. Jamie Zoellner (IRB #19748)

To learn more about the study and see if you qualify, please call Danielle Montague at 434.799.5150.

Let's Celebrate Grandparents As Parents: Filling the GAP in the life of a child

April 13, 2019, from 1:00 pm – 4:00 pm
Trinity United Methodist, 409 Arnett Blvd., Danville, VA
Danville, VA: Every second Saturday of each month (except July), members of the Grandparents as Parents (GAP) organization meet at Trinity United Methodist Church at 409 Arnett Blvd in Danville from 10 am to 11:30 am. Join GAP April 13, 2019, from 1 – 4 pm for a celebration event to mark six years of meetings in our community.

Despite the name, membership is not limited to grandparents. Aunts, uncles, neighbors, older siblings – anyone that is raising a child that isn't their own is welcome. When parents are absent or unable to raise their children, grandparents are often the ones who step in. Raising a second generation brings many rewards, including the fulfillment of giving your grandkids a sense of security, developing a deeper relationship, and keeping the family together. It also comes with many challenges. No matter how much you love your grandkids, taking them into your home requires major adjustments. But with the right guidelines and support, you can roll back the years and make a real difference in the lives of your grandchildren.

GAP celebration events will include games, prizes, speakers, valuable community information and food (while supplies last).

River District Association to Begin Search for New Executive Director

DANVILLE, VA –

Diana Schwartz, Executive Director of the River District Association, announced Tuesday that she will be leaving her post in late April 2019. Schwartz has accepted a position with the Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development as a Community Development Program Administrator.

"I know this is unexpected news for our community, and the decision is not something I take lightly," said Schwartz, "In no way is my departure a reflection of my love for our community, our organization, or the work that we do. In fact, it is quite the opposite. Danville sets the gold standard in downtown revitalization, and this organization is strong and ready to continue moving forward. My goal now is to work with communities throughout the Commonwealth of Virginia to continue successful revitalization efforts just as Danville has done here over the past 10 years".

Schwartz relocated to Danville 18 months ago from Ocala, Florida bringing 20 years of non-profit, revitalization, and economic development experience to lead the River District Association. During that time, the RDA Board of Directors have guided a renewed focus and driven significant increases in organizational capacity; a new strategic plan was set in motion in early 2018 that will continue to direct the RDA events, programs, and services through the next several years.

Schwartz new role is projected to allow for some oversight via the Virginia Main Street program, the state coordinating program accredited by the National Main Street Center, however she will not be involved in the day to day operations of the organization. "I still have a very strong, personally vested interest in the success of this organization and this area" said Schwartz. "I will continue to be a resident of Danville, and I have the great fortune to be able to continue working from this community in my new role. I have no doubt that RDA will advance the tremendous momentum we have built as a team, and I very much look forward to witnessing the continued success."

Ted Laws currently serves as the President of the Board of the River District Association, confirmed the move. "The RDA's board of directors congratulates Diana on her new role with DHCD and looks forward to working with her as the River District continues to build on the initiatives that have brought Danville recognition as a vibrant and growing Virginia Main Street community. We will begin the search process for an Executive Director that has the energy and vision that Diana brought to the role," according to Mr. Laws, "Through her experience and dedication, Diana has shown us what is possible, and we intend to continue in that direction."

Now here's a tip! by Jo Ann Derson

* If you're forgetful, experts say to "speak up" when completing a task. Not sure you turned off the oven? When you take the pan out, say, "I'm shutting off the oven!" You're more likely to remember if you've given yourself a verbal reminder.

* Lock your device! Just as you wouldn't leave your door unlocked, so too should you not leave your phone unlocked, particularly if you have applications on your smartphone which can be easily accessed. Lock it up, and be smart.

* "Cut the bitterness in a cup of coffee by adding a pinch of salt. Enhance the flavor of sweets with a pinch of salt. Salt is my secret weapon!" -- F.L. in Alabama

* Cut cotton pads in half to double your supply. They are typically big enough for two uses, and you can always use two halves if you need a whole.

* "Use correction fluid to mask a scratch in a white cabinet. If the cabinet has a gloss on it, you can try painting over the correction fluid (after it has dried, of course) with clear nail polish. It won't cover a big gash or anything, but it's good for little nicks." -- J.B. in New Mexico

* "When you need to change your password monthly, like for work, you might benefit from this motivational tip: Choose a phrase to focus on for the month. For example: "Listening does more than talking" can be translated to "listening>TALKing" for a strong, but motivational password that you'll have to think about each time you log in." -- T.B. in Florida

How to ace job interviews when switching careers

Millions of people change careers every year. Whereas professionals may have once worked for the same company for the majority, if not the entirety, of their careers, nowadays it's not uncommon for men and women to change jobs several times before reaching retirement.

Changing jobs and changing careers are not necessarily the same thing. Professionals mulling a career change will have to consider a host of factors that men and women looking to change jobs may never have to contemplate. Such factors may include returning to school and lifestyle changes designed to make living on less income more feasible.

Professionals changing careers may also need to develop a strategy for handling job interviews. When changing jobs as opposed to careers, professionals can draw attention to their résumés, essentially letting their experience speak for itself. But while experience is often a feather in a job candidate's cap, professionals changing careers may need to focus more on their futures than their pasts when interviewing for a new career.

- Draw attention to those skills that will apply to your new career. All of your experience and skills likely won't transfer to your new career, but that does not mean you're going in with an empty briefcase. Make a list of your most transferable skills, and develop an interview strategy that highlights those skills and explains how they can be applied in both the near future and over the course of your new career.

- Use your contacts to your advantage. Even if much of your experience won't transfer to your new career, your professional network might still be valuable to a prospective employer. The longer you have been working the larger your professional network likely is, so highlight those contacts in your interview and illustrate how you can put them to good use should you be hired.

- Showcase how you have adapted in the past. Much of the business world moves at a breakneck pace. That pace has become even faster thanks to advancements in technology that routinely affect how businesses operate. Even if you have never before changed careers, that does not mean you have not adapted to change. Make a list of the changes your employers have instituted throughout your career, highlighting how you adapted to those changes and benefitted from them in their aftermath.

- Remain positive throughout the interview. Even if you are changing careers because you're unhappy and/or unfulfilled in your present line of work, avoid badmouthing that industry and your past employers. Doing so will only reflect negatively on you and raise a red flag with prospective employers. Instead, explain your reasons for pursuing a new career path in terms that excite potential employers about your candidate.

The decision to change careers can induce both excitement and anxiety. Maintaining a positive attitude and employing various strategies when interviewing with prospective employers can help make the transition to a new career go smoothly.

SHRIMP BOIL FOIL PACKS

INGREDIENTS

Easy, tasty shrimp boil dinners baked or grilled in foil with homemade seasoning, fresh lemon, and brown butter sauce.

Ingredients

- 1 pound shrimp, peeled and de-veined
- 2 ears of corn on the cob, husked
- 1/2 pound andouille sausage
- 1 pound baby red potatoes OR baby yellow potatoes
- 3 tablespoons old bay seasoning OR homemade seasoning (see note)
- salt and pepper, to taste
- 1 tablespoon minced garlic
- juice of 1/2 lemon, plus lemon wedges for serving
- 3 tablespoons butter melted + 1/2 cup, divided
- chopped fresh parsley, for topping

INSTRUCTIONS

Chop corn into thirds, then chop each third in half lengthwise. Chop potatoes into 2 inch pieces. Boil corn and potatoes for 10 minutes. Drain and set aside.

In a large bowl combine shrimp, sausage, corn, and potatoes. Stir together melted 3 tablespoons butter, Old Bay seasoning, garlic, juice from half a lemon, and salt and pepper to taste and pour over shrimp, sausage, and veggies. Stir to coat.

Divide between four 12x12 inch sheets of aluminum foil. Fold edges of foil up around the food to create a closed packet.

Cook on preheated grill over medium-high heat for 8-10 minutes on one side, then flip and cook another 5-6 minutes on the second side. Alternately, you can bake the packets at 400 degrees for 15-20 minutes until corn is tender and shrimp are pink and fully cooked.

While packets are cooking, melt remaining butter in a medium sauce pan over medium-high heat. Once melted, continue to stir gently over medium heat for 3-4 minutes longer until color changes from pale yellow to a golden amber (but be careful not to burn it).

Serve shrimp boil packs topped with chopped parsley, lemon wedges for squeezing, and browned butter for drizzling over the top or dipping.

VETERANS POST

VA Releases Ratings on 101 Nursing Homes

For the first time, the Department of Veterans Affairs has released health care inspection reports for 101 of its Community Living Centers, formerly known as nursing homes. Facilities are surveyed in a number of ways, including having enough staff, managing medication, protecting residents from physical and mental abuse and properly storing and preparing food. Of those, staffing might be the most important: If there aren't enough registered nurses, vocational nurses and nursing aides, care doesn't happen at all. Per the reports, the VA has fewer low-performing facilities (17.2 percent versus 19.7 percent) and more high-performing facilities (17.2 percent versus 10.8 percent) than the private sector. These numbers aren't bad, they say, considering that the veterans at these facilities have more serious conditions than are generally seen in civilian facilities. Of the total, only eight VA facilities were rated one star. Reports for the remaining centers will be released by October. To see reports of centers near you, check online at www.va.gov/QUALITYOFCARE/apps/aspire/clcsurvey.aspx and use the drop box. To view the comparisons between VA and non-VA care, see www.accesstocare.va.gov/Healthcare/QualityOfCare. However, one wonders why the VA is just now getting around to releasing the results of those reports. The General Accountability Office was asked to step in years ago to investigate complaints. Its report, titled "Actions Needed to Better Manage Risks to Veterans' Quality of Life and Care," outlined a lot of problems, with pain management being at the top of the list and a general failure to respond to and address deficiencies.

It's disheartening to see the ratings for the facility nearest to me. Percentages of short-term patients with moderate to severe pain are nearly four times higher than the national average. Long-term patients with moderate to severe pain see percentages nearly 10 times as high as the national average. The facility rates one star.
