Out & About with Rachel Morin Recalling presidential visits to L-A with local historian Douglas Hodgkin

Story and photos by

Rachel Morin Well-known local historian, author, and Bates College Political Science Professor Emeritus Douglas Hodgkin visited Auburn Public Library recently to discuss his latest book, "When Presidents and Hopefuls Came to Town." The program was part of the Curious Minds Lecture Series, an annual collaboration of Auburn Public Library and USM's Lewiston-Auburn Senior College.

A few of us Senior College folks who had been anticipating this presentation gathered together before the program. We knew it would be good and very interesting. We were curious about how many presidents and presidential candidates have visited our cities through the years. We were surprised to learn just how many have actually been here to receive a warm and gracious welcome from local residents.

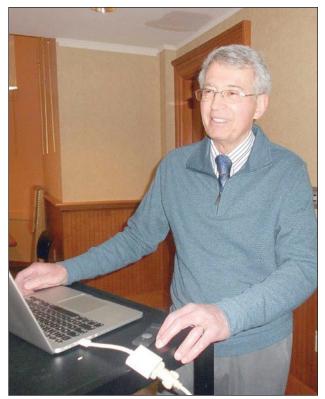

Hodgkin covered the visits of presidents and presidential candidates to Lewiston and Auburn from James A. Garfield in 1878-79 to Donald J. Trump in October of 2016, although we must clarify that candidate Trump actually visited nearby Lisbon.

Hodgkin's presentation, accompanied by slides of the politicians and events, illustrated changes in technology and how election laws have affected the travel patterns of presidential candidates, encouraging them to make campaign visits to relatively small cities.

When incumbent President Theodore Roosevelt came to Auburn in 1902, he came by train and disembarked at the Auburn railroad station. There he was greeted by a large parade, which escorted him over the bridge, up Main Street to Lisbon Street - where all the buildings were festooned with red, white, and blue bunting - and on to Lewiston City Park.

We saw old photos of Lewiston City Hall, the Gateway Building at Lisbon and Main Streets in Lewiston, and the old Fire Station at Court and Spring Streets in Auburn, among so many other buildings.

vacation in 1912, he played golf at the famous Poland Spring Resort. It was noted at the resort that he owned a house in Biddeford Pool that he would pass on to his heirs.

It was a bitter cold night when the young, vibrant John F. Kennedy came to Lewiston City Park for a campaign stop in November of 1960, just days before the election. Word came to the assembled crowd of 14,000 that he would be delayed. There were additional delays as the night grew darker and colder. As the See historian, page 9

Bates College junior Kirsten Pelletier of Sidney, Maine was named the New England Small College Athletic Conference Softball Pitcher of the Week after she recently propelled the Bobcats to a 4-0 record for the week, including a threegame series sweep of rival Colby.

Pelletier threw backto-back seven-inning shutouts on Saturday, a one-hitter and a two-hitter, as the Bobcats completed a sweep of Colby. She gave up three runs in a complete-game victory against the Mules in the series opener on Friday, and on Thursday she earned a save with three shutout innings of relief at Saint Joseph's.

In a 4-0 week for Bates, Pelletier was 3-0 with a 0.88 ERA over 24.0 innings, striking out 22 batters and allowing a .161 batting average.

On the season, Pelletier has pitched 93.1 innings, 26 more than any other pitcher in the conference. She leads the NESCAC in strikeouts (93) and ranks third in earned-run average (1.80).

Pelletier twice won NESCAC Pitcher of the Week awards last season, en route to Second Team All-NESCAC honors.

CHAMPOUX INSURANCE DELIVERING ON THE PROMISE

150 East Avenue ~ Lewiston, ME 04240 (207) 783-2246 www.MaineInsuranceOnline.com

Governor's Address: Fulfilling My Promise for a New and Better Direction for Our State

During my campaign for governor, I promised a new and better direction for our state. In these first one hundred days, I believe my administration has delivered on that promise.

In the last 100 days, my administration has made significant progress in ensuring that Maine people have access to affordable health care, in protecting Maine's environment, in addressing climate change, in investing in public education, and in strengthening our economy.

Thanks to Medicaid expansion, more than 19,000 people across the state now have access to life-saving health care coverage, and the influx of millions of federal dollars will help support the financial stability of our rural hospitals.

We have protected health care coverage for Maine families by enshrining patient protections under the Affordable Care Act in state law, and we have started to rebuild our public health infrastructure through measures like hiring public health nurses to combat any potential outbreaks of disease.

We have taken serious and significant steps to address the opioid epidemic that is ravaging our communities. More than 35,000 doses of the life-saving drug Naloxone will soon be distributed to health entities across the state, and 250 recovery coaches are being recruited and trained to ensure that Maine people get the treatment they need to turn their lives around. And we have established the Prevention and Recovery Cabinet to mobilize state government to work together to stem the tide of this deadly epidemic.

We are embracing renewable energy opportunities that will grow our economy and fight climate change. Maine has joined the U.S. Climate Alliance, and we are creating the Maine Climate Council to advance public policy to cut Maine's carbon emissions, reduce our reliance on fossil fuels, and address climate change before it is too late. We are investing in our schools, our teachers, and our students to provide the foundations for greater opportunity and life-long learning in Maine.

And we are promoting economic development statewide by creating - for the first time in decades a long-term development strategy, expanding our supports for small businesses, investing in high-speed internet, and leveraging private funding to spur innovation.

I am proud of these accomplishments, and I am grateful for the work of our talented commissioners, lawmakers on both sides of the aisle, and dedicated employees across state government who are helping to advance these changes.

My administration will continue to ensure that state government will be effective and responsive to the needs of Maine people, and we will do so responsibly and within our means.

Most of all, I will continue to promote Maine - my home state as the best place to live, work, and raise a family. I welcome everyone back home to Maine.

> Thank You, Janet Mills Governor

Lewiston Youth Advisory Council seeks applicants

The City of Lewiston is seeking applicants for the 2019-20 Lewiston Youth Advisory Council, whose year of service will run from July 2019 through July 2020. First established by the Lewiston City Council in October of 2001, the Lewiston Youth Advisory Council serves as a liaison between City officials and community youth while working on various service projects that seek to empower youth and enhance quality of life in the community.

Since its founding, the LYAC has received local, state, and national recognition for its work. The current council is administering an anti-bullying campaign and a "Shine on Lewiston" campaign to promote positive aspects of Lewiston.

To be considered for membership, applicants must be residents of Lewiston who will be in grade 9 through 12 at Lewiston High School or St. Dominic Academy during the upcoming school year. Homeschooled students are also encouraged to apply. Current members may re-apply for another year of service.

The deadline to apply is May 17. The application can be printed and mailed to: Lewiston City Administrator's Office, 27 Pine Street, Lewiston, ME 04240. Applications may also be submitted online at www.lewistonmaine. gov/lyacapplication19.

A selection committee will review all applications, conduct interviews, and appoint up to fifteen members. The committee will make its selections by the last Friday in June; those selected will be notified and then officially appointed during a July 2019 Lewiston City Council meeting. An orientation will occur in August of 2019. For more information about the Lewiston Youth Advisory Council, see www.lewistonmaine.gov/lyac.

Op-Ed: Time to Get Our Hous(ing) in Order: Lewiston Voters Demand Change of Course

By Maura Murphy

Whether you are in favor of or opposed to the new "mixed income" Avesta housing project proposal that has sailed through Lewiston city hearings without much meaningful discussion by the planning board or the city council, it is time for we the people to examine the implications of this project within the wider, deeper context of what we want Lewiston's development to look like, now and into the future.

While "mixed income housing" might sound fine upon first hearing, the picture changes when we look beyond the frame developers and supporters of the proposal have used to limit the public's awareness and understanding of who will really benefit from this project and other similar projects it will pave the way for.

More than 30% of Lewiston's land is already non-taxable due to non-profit status. As the footprints of the city's three largest non-profits (Bates College and the two hospitals) continue to expand, how much sense does it make to continue to enter into TIF (tax increment financing) agreements with developers who will pay only half of their fair share of taxes for 20 years?

A recent review showed that Lewiston's untaxed property development is growing at a rate four times that of taxed properties. This is an unsustainable economic trajectory for any city, especially one like Lewiston that has been barely treading water for too long. Under the terms of this project, the out-of-town developers will be paid, the architect will be paid, the builders will be paid, and the out-of-town investors will reap their profits, all while Lewiston tax payers pick up a disproportionate share of the tab.

If this were a business relocation or expansion that would add lots of new, well-paying jobs to our local economy, it would be an overall benefit to the community. But projects like this one will only ensure that we continue to expand our growing population of those dependent on various taxpayer-funded systems and services. While those already living here in substandard housing upgrade to the new building, the substandard housing they vacate will continue to be a magnet for those desperate and vulnerable enough to move in.

How would this help the overall picture of well-being and potential for long-awaited prosperity in Lewiston? With a school system that everyone agrees is already beyond capacity and struggling to achieve quality, would it not make sense to stabilize the situation we have now before inviting another influx of new students? Requiring that new subsidized housing be linked to the removal of substandard units from the market could create a meaningful shift in central Lewiston's housing landscape; but adding it without removing those units, as this project does, guarantees that we will be beckoning new hardships and challenges to the community. Building new subsidized housing when we are still so far from "putting our house in order" in so many ways does nothing to remedy our current and numerous problems with housing and beyond. Without confronting the economic, social, and demographic realities that have made Lewiston an unattractive choice for significant investment and relocation at every level, we will continue the one-stepforward, two-steps-backwards shuffle we have been locked in for too many years.

Does it make sense to anyone that Maine's second largest city should be passed over repeatedly by even chain stores and restaurants that can be found in Augusta, Bangor, Topsham and Waterville? Does it not sting when visitors notice that the most visible new storefronts seem to be tattoo parlors, marijuana sellers, and dollar stores? Does it not hurt when those who grew up here and return to visit are shocked to see the neglect and decay that characterize much of a central Lewiston they once loved?

Avesta has requested contract rezoning that will more than triple the currently allowed number of units allowed on its postage-stamp patch of land - 35 units proposed for a space that currently allows 11. The developer and city government have argued that, because nearby properties are not in compliance with city land use regulations, this project should be exempt from them also.

If Avesta succeeds, the groundwork will be firmly laid for other TIF-seeking developers to demand the same advantage and subsidy from Lewiston's taxpayers. Real estate inquiries are already being made for as many as seven more developments similar to the Avesta project. Is a central Lewiston packed with new, high-density, low-income housing blocks really the best strategy to improve the current and long-term health of a city that is already slipping off the banks of the Androscoggin in too many ways?

We cannot talk big about attracting investment but make decisions that repeatedly undermine what we say we aspire to. If we really love Lewiston as much as we say we do, we need to stop the schizophrenia of defensive, manic cheerleading about how wonderful and worthy Lewiston is while simultaneously allowing our leaders to make decisions and policies that harm our broader and longer-term picture. We can't have it both ways.

It is imperative that we begin to look at Lewiston's whole picture when we consider development projects; we must begin to prioritize investments that will improve our overall health and contribute to growth, rather than further depletion.

A citizens' petition is currently being circulated to overturn the city council's recent decision to re-zone property that would triple the maximum density currently allowed at the Avesta development location. For the question to appear as a voter referendum on the November ballot, signatures of 973 registered Lewiston voters must be gathered before June 8. To add your name to the petition, contact Maura Murphy at maurakmurphy@gmail. com or Benjamin Martin at bmartin0285@gmail.com or (207) 333-1084.

Elmet Technologies VP named 2019 Fellow Award recipient by APMI

John Johnson, VP of Technology at Elmet Technologies in Lewiston, has been named a recipient of the American Powder Metallurgy Institute (APMI) International's 2019 Fellow Award.

Established in 1998, the Fellow Award is APMI International's most prestigious award, recognizing members who hold a high level of expertise in the technology, practice, or overall business of the powder metallurgy (PM) and particulate materials industry.

Johnson, who has over 20 years of experience in the PM industry, has authored more than 100 technical papers. He holds a Ph. D from Pennsylvania State University and has served on various committees and boards, including the APMI Board of Directors and the MPIF Technical Board. These contributions to the PM industry, among many others, made Dr. Johnson a model recipient for the Fellow Award

APMI International will honor the 2019 award winners at POWDER-MET2019, an International Conference on Powder Metallurgy & Particulate Materials, which will take place in Phoenix, Arizona in June.

Established in 1929, Elmet Technologies LLC was formerly Royal Philips' U.S. tungsten/moly production facility. Today, they are a 100% U.S.-owned and operated, fully-integrated primary manufacturer of molybdenum, tungsten products, and alloys. They employ over 200 professionals, including 30 engineers and metallurgists. Their well-equipped on-site laboratory supports both production and R&D activities.

At their 220,000 square-foot plant in Lewiston, which features a full chemical plant and large-capacity powder reduction furnaces, Elmet's manufacturing begins with molybdenum and tungsten chemical precursors, which are reduced in-house to pure metal powders. They utilize state-of-the-art powder metallurgy processes to dope (if required), press, sinter roll, and swage the powder to fully dense mill products. They are the only U.S.based moly and tungsten manufacturer that produces both flat and long/round mill products under one roof, making plate, sheet, and foil flat-rolled products, plus rod and wire.

Elmet Technologies employs industry-leading machining, fabrication, and assembly capabilities. Their lathes, vertical machining centers, wire EDMs, and other equipment have large work envelopes to manufacture products with levels of precision required by their markets, which include the aerospace, automotive, coating, crystal growth, defense, high-temperature furnace, sapphire growth, electronics, energy, LED, lighting, semiconductor, flat panel display (FPD), medical imaging, and many other industries.

A specialty metals business with over 85 years of molybdenum and tungsten production experience, Elmet Technologies is ITAR-registered and their quality systems are ISO 9001 and AS9100 certified. They are also members of NAC/DOTC.

This will be the first of four "Keeper of the Maine Outdoors" Experiences to be offered this year by the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries & Wildlife. The department will hold contests to give the lucky winners a "day-inthe-life experience" with wildlife biologists or game wardens to learn how they protect Maine's wildlife through Maine's four seasons

This first experience will give one person and a friend a day with Tika, Storm, Ruby, Piper, Breezy, and other pups in the Maine Warden Service K-9 program. The winner will attend a team training with the dogs and their Game Warden handlers, learn about each dog's specialty, and assist with training scenarios and exercises. There will also be plenty of time for questions or selfies with the human and canine team members.

Entrants must be at least 18 years old and complete a five-question Keeper Experience quiz to be eligible. The K-9 Experience entry deadline is May 13.

ness campaign, which educated the public about the department's mission and programs.

"We've always had a great reaction from the public when we share a glimpse of the day-to-day things Inland Fisheries & Wildlife employees do throughout Maine," said Department of Inland Fisheries & Wildlife Graphics and Media Supervisor Emily MacCabe. "We're excited about giving people a chance to be in the field with biologists or game wardens to learn about the important work they do and have some fun."

The Department of Inland Fisheries of Wildlife preserves, protects, and enhances the inland fisheries and wildlife resources of Maine. Established in 1880 to protect big game populations, the department has since evolved in scope to include protection and management of fish, nongame wildlife, and habitats, as well as restoration of endangered species like the bald eagle.

In addition to its conservation duties, the department is also responsible for enabling and promoting the safe enjoyment of Maine's outdoors, from whitewater rafting to boating, snowmobiling, hunting, fishing, and wildlife observation.

Preference will be given to applicants who will be in the first generation of their family to attend college. There is also a preference for students attending accredited colleges in Androscoggin County, with secondary preference to those attending schools elsewhere in Maine. Applications from students attending school outside of Maine will be given the lowest priority.

Lewiston plans Clean-Up Assistance Week

During the last full week of April (Monday, April 22 through Friday, April 26), Lewiston's Public Works Department will collect brush from residential properties. Brush must be placed with butt ends facing the street and all brush must be at curbside no later than Sunday, April 21. Quantities will be limited to no more than one standard pick-up truck load per residence.

City staff will collect curbside brush throughout the week. Once they have collected brush from a given street, they will not return to collect more brush from that street.

Please note that Lewiston Public Works Department staff will not collect any tree stumps, wood greater than 12" in diameter, or any demolition wood, such as fencing, old decking, or wood from construction or demolition projects.

Please also note that the Solid Waste Facility will not waive normal tip fees or use of the ePass during this week. The City of Lewiston allows residential property owners to set up an ePass account good for one year from the date of issue. There is no charge to establish the account, which can be done at the Lewiston Treasurer's Office (second floor, City Hall, 27 Pine Street) or at the Scale House at the City's Solid Waste Facility at 424 River Road.

Once an ePass account has been set up, a resident can dispose of up to 1,000 pounds of household waste (construction and demolition waste, appliances, old furniture, yard debris, tires, electronic items, etc.) at no cost. Once the 1,000 pound limit has been reached, residents will be charged a disposal fee ($93 per ton; or $95 per ton for construction and demolition waste) for any overage.

Residents who are tenants of rental property may also obtain an ePass account, but they will be required to pay $20 for this service.

Residents can dispose of their household waste at the Solid Waste Facility during normal business hours, which are 7:15 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. on weekdays and 8 a.m. to 11:50 a.m. on Saturdays.

The gates are closed at these closing times. Please arrive 15 minutes before closing to assure that you have adequate time to dispose of your waste items.

For more information about Lewiston's Clean-Up Assistance Week, call the Solid Waste Facility at 513-3006 (TTY/TDD: 513-3007).

Orders due April 26 for AVSWCD's annual Plant Sale

Androscoggin Valley Soil and Water Conservation District will present its annual Plant Sale on Saturday, May 18, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Whiting Farm in Auburn. The event will feature fun activities for all ages. Host Whiting Farm has resource professionals who can help you pick your plants, which are sourced locally.

Orders are due by April 26. The pick-up date will be May 18, with a rain date of May 19. For order forms, contact Androscoggin Valley SWCD at 753-5377 or districtmanager@ androscogginswcd.org.

Located at 876 Summer Street in Auburn and owned by John F. Murphy Homes, Whiting Farm is a working four-season farm dedicated to community enrichment, education, and the support of adults with developmental disabilities.

St Dom's alum makes matching challenge to raise $300k for scholarship fund

Donald Dion, a 1972 graduate of Saint Dominic Academy (previously Saint Dominic Regional High School), is challenging the community to help raise $300,000 in scholarships to help local families facing financial challenges send their children to the school he credits with launching his successful career in finance.

Through May 1, Dion will match every dollar donated to the scholarship fund, up to a maximum of $150,000.

After graduating from Saint Dominic, Dion earned a bachelor's degree in economics and business administration from Saint Michael's College in Vermont before receiving a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Maine Law School and a master's of law degree from Boston University Law School.

He founded Dion Money Management, an investment advisory firm in 1996; served as the publisher of the Fidelity Independent Advisor; and is the trustee of the Dion Family Foundation, which focuses on helping individuals by offering tuition assistance at Catholic institutions.

"Our success as an institution is measured by the lives we impact," said Donald Fournier, principal of Saint Dominic Academy. "Many alumni, including Mr. Dion, attribute their success in life in part due to the education they received here.

"Each time a student is unable to attend or leaves us early due to financial considerations, an opportunity is lost," he continued. "Please help us make the most of this incredible opportunity. I have already made my gift; please make yours today!"

To donate, text DION to (207) 222-7203, call Nicole Nadeau Adams at 782-6911, or visit: https:// aware3.net/give/appeal/CNmgYd3.

Donors can also send a check, noting "Dion Scholarship Fund" in the subject line, to Saint Dominic Academy, 121 Gracelawn Road, Auburn, ME 04210-6452.

We all remember when President Lyndon Baines Johnson came by car to Lewiston from the Portland airport in 1966. LBJ had the driver stop at the Dairy Joy in Lisbon to get him a cone. "LBJ ATE HERE," declared the sign on its roof for many years after. LBJ, with Lady Bird and their daughters, mingled with the crowd at the city park, now named John F. Kennedy Park.

Former President Jimmy Carter came to Lewiston in 1985 to attend the dedication of the Edmund S. Muskie Archive at Bates College. The Muskie Archive houses more than 5 million documents that span Muskie's years as Governor of Maine, U.S. Senator, and Secretary of State. Muskie is a native of Rumford and a graduate of Bates College.

President George H.W. and First Lady Barbara Bush came to Lewiston by helicopter from Kennebunkport to visit Farwell Elementary School on the first day of the school year, September 3, 1991, when the First Lady read stories to a group of Kindergarteners. President Bush later visited Lewiston High School, where he addressed an assembly of students and faculty. He returned in 2000, this time as a former President, to campaign for his son, George W., who was running for the presidency himself. And, of course, the entire Bush family were frequent visitors to the family summer home at Walker's Point in Kennebunkport. Earlier records also indicate that a much younger George and Barbara Bush lived briefly in the Twin City area in 1945, while he was getting additional Navy flight training at the Auburn Airport during WWII. A few years later, in 1948, while students at Yale University, George and Barbara participated in a promotion for Bates Manufacturing Co., which is documented in the archives at Museum LA.

Vice President Al Gore visited Lewiston just after Ice Storm 1998 to review with Central Maine Power crews the extensive, widespread damage it caused to trees and power lines.

Former President Bill Clinton stumped for Mike Michaud in September of 2014 during a tight three-way race for Governor of Maine. Clinton returned in June of 2018 to visit with former President George H.W. Bush at Walker's Point in Kennebunkport.

Andro. Historical Society looks at "19th Century Maps"

Matthew Edney is the faculty scholar of the Osher Map Library in Portland.

Matthew Edney of the Osher Map Library in Portland will discuss "19th Century Maps" for the next program of the Androscoggin Historical Society on Tuesday, April 23 at 7 p.m.

The program will take place at the Society's Davis-Wagg Museum on the third floor of the County Building. Please enter the building at the side door on Court Street and proceed to the third floor. An elevator is available.

Edney is interested in the way people think about maps and mapping. He likes nothing more than helping people understand maps and their history. In his presentation, he will discuss how mapping evolved in the 19th century and how Lewiston-Auburn fits into those trends. How did residents, businesses, and publishing companies decide how and what to record as they put our local environment down on paper and created atlases of the local area? What would you put on a map of the Twin Cities?

Matthew Edney is a professor of geography and the Osher Professor in the History of Cartography at the University of Southern Maine. He is also the faculty scholar of the Osher Map Library. Since 2005, he has also directed the History of Cartography Project at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. A recent publication is "Cartography: The Ideal and Its History." He holds degrees from the University of London (UK) and the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Admission to the program is free of charge, but donations will be gratefully accepted. For more information about the Society, call 784-0586 or visit www. androhistory.org.

Curious Minds series presents final programs

The last two presenters will be Senior College instructors Alan Elze (l.) and Martin Gagnon. (Photo by Rachel Morin)

Auburn Public Library will host the final two programs of the annual Curious Minds lecture series, one on "The Rise of Fake News" on Tuesday, April 23 at 2 p.m. and the other on Frank Baum, the creator of the Wizard of Oz, on Tuesday, April 30 at 2 p.m.

The fake news program will be presented by Senior College instructor Martin Gagnon. This brief session will provide participants with tips for critically evaluating and analyzing digital, television, and print media resources. Through videos and slides, the session will examine the history of misinformation, the role of technology in its creation and spread, the psychology of irrational thought brought about by biases, and resources to help verify images and stories.

Gagnon graduated from La Salle University and spent several years working for newspapers in New Hampshire and Maine. An avid consumer of news who loves to analyze the media and its role in society, he has taught courses for Lewiston-Auburn Senior College and presents a variety of media programs throughout the state.

The program on L. Frank Baum will be presented by historian and Senior College instructor Alan Elze. He will discuss how events from Baum's life helped inspire the legendary Wizard of Oz novels. Baum wrote 14 novels in the Oz series, plus 41 other novels, 83 short stories, over 200 poems, and at least 42 scripts. He made numerous attempts to bring his works to the stage and the nascent medium of film; the 1939 adaptation of the first Oz book would become a landmark of 20th-century cinema.

His works anticipated such century-later commonplaces as television, augmented reality, laptop computers (The Master Key), wireless telephones (Tik-Tok of Oz), women in high-risk and action-heavy occupations (Mary Louise in the Country), and the ubiquity of advertising on clothing (Aunt Jane's Nieces at Work).

The Curious Minds series is a collaboration of Auburn Public Library and Lewiston-Auburn Senior College. For more information about L-A Senior College, see https://usm.maine. edu/seniorcollege.

Café Shalom Musical Variety Show

The program will feature live performances of Jazz, Pop, Classical, Rock, Blues, Irish, French, American, Yiddish, and Klezmer music, plus magic and a special surprise.

Temple Shalom of Auburn will present a Café Shalom Musical Variety Show on Saturday, April 27. There will be a pre-show wine and cheese reception at 6 p.m. Beginning at 7:00, the program will feature live performances of Jazz, Pop, Classical, Rock, Blues, Irish, French, American, Yiddish, and Klezmer music, magic, and a special surprise. The event will be hosted by Rebbetzin of Ceremonies Lisa Mayer. The cost is $10 per person. Temple Shalom is located at 74 Bradman Street. For more information, see www.templeshalomauburn.org.

HR Thursdays presents "Discrimination and Retaliation Law Overview"

The next HR Thursdays workshop will be a "Discrimination and Retaliation Law Overview" on Thursday, April 25, from 12 to 1:30 p.m. Taking place at the Lewiston-Auburn Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce, HR Thursdays programs are presented in collaboration with the Central Maine Human Resource Association and the Lewiston CareerCenter.

This program will provide guidelines for what employers need to know about discrimination, retaliation, and Whistleblower laws. Presenters Sarah Newell and Ryan Dumais of Eaton Peabody will provide those attending with an overview of federal and state protections and exceptions. Federal protections to be discussed include Title VII, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), and Age Discrimination in Employment (ADEA). Maine provisions will include the Maine Human Rights Act (MHRA) and Maine Whistleblower Protection Act (MWPA).

The presenters will discuss the protected classes under the law as related to sex discrimination, race discrimination, and the creation of hostile work environments. They will cover ADA, FMLA, Worker's Compensation, Leave Time, social media dangers and implications, and, most importantly for employers, the top five strategies for avoiding lawsuits.

The workshop is $25 for Chamber members, $50 for non-members, and free of charge for CMHRA members. For more information, call 783-2249. To register, see www.LAMetroChamber.com.

Celtic roots band to perform at Frontier Theater

Josephine County members Erica Brown, Matt Shipman, Hanz Araki, and Colleen Raney draw from their collective knowledge of traditional music from the United States, French Canada, and Ireland. (Photo by Katie Way)

Celtic roots band Josephine County will perform in concert at the Frontier Theater in Brunswick on Friday, April 19 at 8 p.m. More than the combination of four musicians, Josephine County is a gathering of friends Erica Brown, Matt Shipman, Hanz Araki, and Colleen Raney, who combine their vast knowledge of and enthusiasm for traditional music from the United States, French Canada, and Ireland to create an exceptional musical experience. Award-winning fiddler and singer Erica Brown dedicated herself to traditional music at a very young age. Her repertoire spans classical, French Canadian, bluegrass, and country music, and her talent for combining the precision of classical with the spontaneity of country and bluegrass makes for a fun-filled performance every time she plays.

Songwriter and multi-instrumentalist Matt Shipman's love of traditional music is apparent in his mastery of bluegrass, country, and Irish musical styles. His detailed and thoughtful guitar, bouzouki, and banjo playing captivate and delight audiences, while his singing is clear and rooted in the traditions he loves. No stranger to national and international touring, he has called Maine his home for many years. Traditional Irish flute player and singer Hanz Araki is well-known for his innovative approach. his exquisite instrumental work on both Irish whistle and flute, and a haunting singing voice that was born to tell tales. His unique musical sensibility, both inspired and disciplined, has won accolades from the UK to Japan.

Colleen Raney is among the finest interpreters of traditional songs of her generation. Her singing brings warmth and authenticity to the songs she collects, and her bodhrán playing is both driving and nuanced as it weaves between melody and rhythm. Inspired by the beauty of traditional Irish songs, she has committed herself to honoring the music, not just with her voice, but in her tireless research of the origins and story behind each piece. Frontier Theater is in the Mill 3 Building at Fort Andross, located at 14 Maine Street in Brunswick. Tickets are $15 in advance or $18 on the day of the show. They may be purchased by calling the box office at 725-5222 or at brownpapertickets.com. For more information, see www. explorefrontier.com.

Girl Scouts plan Green ME Up! Earth Day Fest at L.L. Bean

Girl Scouts of Maine will host their second annual Green ME Up! Earth Day Festival at the L.L. Bean Flagship Store Campus in Freeport on Saturday, April 20, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Kid-friendly, free, and open to the public, Green ME Up! is a sustainability-focused Earth Day celebration aiming to inspire families to learn more about sustainability and help them be good stewards of the earth.

Green ME Up! will offer various hands-on activities to get families active in the outdoors, including rock climbing on EVO's climbing wall, archery, fly casting, and a demo on catch and release with the L.L. Bean Outdoor Discovery Program.

The events will also include dozens of fun and interactive activities to help families take action and support the environment. These will include making reusable food wraps, composting with Wormainea, recycling games with ecomaine, "Leave No Trace" activities, making tree jewelry with Project Learning Tree, and showcasing the latest in bio-fuel technology with the L.L. Bean Boot Mobile.

Music will be provided by Earth Jams and Planet Pan. Lori Voornas of Q97.9 will broadcast live from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. and there will be an appearance by Miranda Paul, author of children's book "One Plastic Bag.

The first 500 kids to complete the Green ME Up! Passport Challenge will receive a reusable stainless steel drinking straw courtesy of L.L. Bean and, while supplies last, families that bring plastic grocery bags to be recycled will receive a free reusable shopping bag. Girl Scouts who attend wearing their Girl Scout uniform or swag will receive a special Green ME Up! patch and a 10% discount at Ben & Jerry's Ice Cream Shop and Coffee By Design.

Green ME Up! is free and open to the public; however, pre-registration is recommended. To learn more about the festival and the dozens of community partners who will offer demos and activities, find Green ME Up! on Facebook @ girlscoutsofmaine or visit www.girlscoutsofmaine. org.

"Girl Scouts have always had a meaningful relationship with the outdoors and the environment. It's in our DNA!" said Girl Scouts of Maine CEO Joanne Crepeau. "Our mission is to build girls of courage, confidence, and character who make the world a better place. Girl Scouts believes developing a connection to the outdoors can literally transform lives. Enjoying and taking care of our natural world is one of the cornerstones of our movement, and we hope to inspire everyone to take action in their own lives to make Maine - and the world - a greener place."

Girl Scouts prepares girls for a lifetime of leadership, success, and adventure in a safe, no-limits place designed for and by girls! GSME provides services and support to over 12,000 girl and adult members statewide and operates service centers and shops in South Portland and Bangor. For more information or to join Girl Scouts in Maine, find them on Facebook, Twitter, or Instagram, call 888-922-4763, or see www. girlscoutsofmaine.org.

3D Mammography Now Offered at Central Maine Medical Center

Central Maine Medical Center's Sam & Jennie Bennett Breast Care Center is proud to be the only facility in the Lewiston/Auburn area to offer 3D breast imaging to every woman having a screening mammogram. Also known as tomosynthesis, 3D mammography is a safe and proven technology that has a number of benefits over traditional 2D methods, including:

• More accurate findings

12 High Street, Suite 103

Lewiston, ME 04240

- Better detection in dense breast tissue
- Earlier diagnosis
- Fewer callbacks for "false alarms"

The Bennett Center offers comprehensive breast care from prevention to diagnosis to treatment and ongoing support. Care is provided by a multidisciplinary team of clinicians who specialize in breast health, including a nurse navigator who helps guide patients through the process from diagnosis to recovery.
