RA races line up for summer

Another exciting season of racing action is in store for motor sports fans this year, as Road America plans to host 10 racing weekends throughout the 2019 season, with a number of weekends encompassing multiple series.

“Road America is known for having the most active schedule of any road race circuit in the U.S., and we look forward to hosting the MotoAmerica Series, INDYCAR Series, Pirelli World Challenge Series, IMSA WeatherTech® SportsCar Championship, NASCAR XFINITY Series, Stadium SUPER Trucks, the Sports Car Club of America and three separate vintage events in 2019,” said Mike Kertscher, President and General Manager of Road America.

Road America’s first race weekend will be May 17-19, when it hosts the SVRA Spring Vintage Weekend. Two-wheeled action takes to the track when the MotoAmerica Dunlop Championship comes to Road America May 31 - June 2. The WeatherTech® Chicago Region SCCA June Sprints® returns to the 4-mile circuit from June 14-16 - Road America’s longest running annual sports car event.

The NTT IndyCar Series REV Group Grand Prix weekend takes center stage at Road America June 20-23 where an international lineup of drivers will have their chance to battle it out for glory on one of the world’s most revered road courses. The first NTT IndyCar race at Road America took place in 1982, when Hector Rebaque was crowned as the winner.

In 2000, Dario Franchitti set the track record with a lap of 1 minute, 39.866 seconds (145.924 mph) set in qualifying for the 2000 race. Legendary drivers Mario Andretti, Michael Andretti and Emerson Fittipaldi have each won three times at Road America, while Jacques Villeneuve and Paul Tracy were two-time winners on the high-speed course. Since the NTT IndyCar Series returned in 2016, Will Power, Scott Dixon and Josef Newgarden have earned titles at the storied circuit.

The NTT IndyCar Series will be joined by the Road to Indy Presented by Cooper Tires with doubleheader rounds for Indy Lights, Pro Mazda, and USF2000. Sanctioned by IndyCar, the Road to Indy develops the stars of tomorrow with several drivers on the IndyCar Series grid as graduates.

In addition, the Vintage Indy Registry will showcase over 20 vintage race cars over the course of the IndyCar race weekend. Cars will be on track and on display at various times through the weekend.

Sharing our Journeys

By Carol Edler Baumann

Is it May or Mae?

Well, spring is finally here! I know that April is supposed to be the harbinger of spring, but I can also remember a long ago Easter in early April when we had some snow showers that didn't do much to bring forth May flowers. So, in Wisconsin one is safer to think of May as the transitional month from winter to summer.

But I also have a personal reason for liking May. It's spelled the right way: Not "Mae" like my middle name. When I was born in the early 1930's Mae West was a sultry, siren of stage and screen and my parents made the unforgivable mistake of naming me after her. For years I suffered with the cutesy name of "Carol Mae." Later, when I was married I simply used my maiden name as my new middle name - hence - Carol Edler Baumann.

May Day is actually one of the oldest holidays we have, originating in pre-Christian agricultural societies as an expression of thankfulness to the gods for the arrival of spring and the rebirth of nature. One of the traditional ways of celebrating May Day is for children to dance around a May Pole, holding long, colorful ribbons attached to the top which they wind around the pole as they dance. These May Pole dances have their antecedents back to the ancient times of the Druids, Romans and Phoenicians who asked Mother Earth to be fruitful and give them a prosperous season. The May Pole was regarded as a symbol of life and fertility.

In modern times, Russia celebrated the first of May by massive parades in Red Square, which displayed its military might.

May Day parades in the United States were often associated with the labor movement and labor unions. For a time after World War II the United States recognized May 1st as "Loyalty Day" with parades and flags, but this petered out in the 1960's with the advent and disillusionment of the Vietnam War.

Most Americans probably think of Mother's Day as May's favorite family celebration. Its roots go back to the ancient Greeks and Romans who held annual festivals in honor of their mothers. In the United States, Julia Ward Howe (author of The Battle Hymn of the Republic) led the Mother's Day movement seeking to designate July 4th as Mother's Day and using it to promote international peace. But it didn't become an official holiday until 1914 when President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day, "a public expression of our love and reverence for the mothers of our country." We have been celebrating it every since.

And remember, its May, not Mae!

Rudnick reflects on growth

Outgoing village president looks back on spirit of cooperation

By Mike Mathes
for the Depot Dispatch

Outgoing Elkhart Lake Village President Alan Rudnick bid farewell to his 11-year tenure on the village board April 15.

In his final board meeting, he stepped down as village president after a 10-year run in the village's highest elected seat.

Rudnick leaves behind a sense of accomplishment in the decade he served, but acknowledges his was only a small role in a larger, cooperative community effort.

His praises ring loudly for his fellow public servants, local businesses, local and regional planning groups, investors and community visionaries, all of whom have played a role in Elkhart Lake's growth over the past 10 years.

One-by-one he recalled the individual success stories that, together, have spelled success for the village.

Closure of Osthoff TID

One of the major highlights of the decade was the closure of the tax incremental finance district used to support growth of the Osthoff Resort.

"It was one of the most successful TIF's in the state of Wisconsin. The revenue growth in that TIF truly allowed the village to create new infrastructure. We were able to improve streets, water systems, parks and the village beach," Rudnick said.

"As a reason, we were able to do quite a lot of things without placing the burden on the village taxpayers," he added.

Rudnick said financial estimates show that the work accomplished would have cost the average taxpayer $43,000 over the span of the TIF district.

Sargento expansion

Fortunately for the village, the closure of the Osthoff TIF district was just the beginning of an economic boom.

"Within just a few days of that TIF closing, Sargento approached us with a fairly major expansion to their facility in Elkhart Lake," Rudnick said. An expansion of research and development facilities and new office space would make for another TIF success story. "That is just starting to produce positive tax dollars to pay off the district.

After the Sargento TIF got underway, Osthoff approached the city about yet another TIF district to support the addition of a convention center.

"We were fortunate to be able to accommodate that," Rudnick said, pointing to the overwhelming success of the new addition.

"It has brought an inordinate amount of business into the village, opening up both convention business and wedding business opportunities in a beautiful facility," he said.

Rudnick noted that the project was squeezed into a pretty tight area, and one of the residual issues is a shortage of parking in the village.

"If that's your worst problem, you are doing pretty well," he acknowledged.

Private-public partnerships

The use of private-public partnerships

remains a strong tool for the community.

Just as those partnerships worked with two of the largest community businesses, so too have they been effective with other development.

Rudnick pointed to two auto sports related developments as key examples.

"Bart Wolf came to us with a proposal to do car condos. To his credit, he found a piece of land on which he thought he could do the project and we gave him our support," Rudnick said. The successful condo project was originally expected to be phased in with separate segments. However, the news of the project spread like wildfire, with all the units successfully selling as the project started.

Rudnick said that the use of TIF districts and other tools of village support have helped foster those private-public partnerships. "If the village can help, I feel it's a win-win for everyone. Not everybody agrees with that, but I think we have created some pretty good expansion with that philosophy."

Sargento Victory TIF

On the east side of Highway 67, in a portion of the Sargento Victory TIF, similar private-public partnerships have offered additional economic growth.

"We were able to work with the people at Throttlestop—adding phenomenal storage facility and showroom to the community. Dr. Jon did a fantastic job with the vet clinic," Rudnick said.

Part of the TIF still holds land available for a proposed 55-unit housing development. "That one is still in the works, still fermenting," Rudnick said. "Development sometimes takes a long time."

During all of the development efforts, the village board also worked with Switch Gear to get the local micro brewery set up in the village.

Shining star

As a result of all the TID work, little Elkhart Lake has made the world take notice.

Economic development in Elkhart Lake caused the village to lead the county in commercial growth in all categories—dollar value, percentage of business growth and other areas.

"That is one of the biggest highlights of my tenure with the village," Rudnick said. "And it all comes from our ability to work together."

He pointed to the efforts of the village board, who can feel very proud of the accomplishments of the past decade.

Maintenance efforts

While regular maintenance issues for the village might pale in comparison to the economic development stories, they are far from insignificant.

Moraine Drive was upgraded several years ago. Lake Street was improved two years ago.

The village continues to look at its water system with an eye to looping and modernizing it.

Through the efforts of Village Administrator Jessica Reilly, DNR grant funds were made available to assist businesses and home owners in replacing lead water piping.

Recently a 10-year garbage contract was signed to take care of recycling and trash pickup needs in the years ahead.

The village also passed a noxious weed ordinance to help keep proper appearances.

"People are always amazed by how well the lawns and gardens are kept in the village. It's something that every home owner and property owner takes seriously," Rudnick said.

"Especially because of our local tourism industry, first impressions are so important. I have to give a lot of credit to our public works staff who keeps our village properties looking good as well.

Many agencies contribute

Rudnick has no shortage of praise for those he has worked with in village government for the past 11 years.

"Our police department does an amazing job. Because of the inflow of people we get, we often deal with some of the same issues big cities have. On a vintage weekend, it's not unusual to have 15,000 or more people in the village," he added.

Rudnick shared praise for retired Chief Randy Boeldt who laid much of the groundwork for upgrades in the Elkhart Lake Police Department, along with kudos to current chief Mike Meeusen, who now leads the department after working under Boeldt. "Mike brings some additional talents to the table, and he and the rest of the department are doing a great job for the village," Rudnick said.

Public works focus

The village's public works department is headed by Pat Zorn. "He and his crew are dedicated, and they have taken ownership caring for the village infrastructure—from sweeping the streets, to repairing things and helping our residents. "We have expanded from two and a half to three full time people, as the workload has increased," Rudnick said.

"Snow plowing is one of their biggest challenges, and they are there when we need them, doing a great job 24-7 to keep our streets cleared."

Tourism directives continue

Elkhart Lake Tourism continues to be a wing of the village government, supported by the room tax.

"They run pretty autonomously. Kathleen Eickhoff has done a great job," Rudnick said. Funds raised by the room tax are cycled back into marketing and promotion to encourage ongoing success for the tourism trade, which is such a big part of the Elkhart Lake community.

"Their mission is to promote the community and literally put heads in beds," he said. "Tourism has also worked hard to develop and improve business in our slower season, bringing in conventions and groups when the weather turns cold."

Rudnick noted that Road America is a key strategic partner in tourism, and is represented on the tourism board. The village president and police chief have also worked closely with Road America for the mutual benefit of the track and the village.

Library remains strong

Though operated and administered independently, the Elkhart Lake Public Library is also connected to the village.

"Our librarian Betty McCarthy has been doing a great job for us. We have a wonderful library that is very community minded," Rudnick said. "They do a great job."

Administrative help

During Rudnick's tenure, he was fortunate to work with a solid, supporting administrative staff which runs the day-to-day operations of the village.

Village Administrator Jessica Reilly

came on board during his time in office, replacing the long-tenured Jeanette Moioffer upon her retirement.

Their administrative support comes from Kim Purkey and Katie Weir.

"I couldn't have done this job without Jessica and the other two ladies. I may bring in a project, but Jessica has the know-how to get it done. They are just a wonderful staff, and they stay on top of everything," he said.

Likewise, Rudnick shared praise for the village board members he has worked with over the years. "We didn't always agree, but we always worked to come to consensus," he said.

Rudnick is excited to welcome new board president Richard Sadiq to the role. Sadiq has been a member of the board for the past eight years, and recently the chairperson for administration and finance committees.

"Richard has worked a lot with budgets and finance and he is very well versed in that," Rudnick said.

Rudnick feels he is leaving the village helm in good hands, with many exciting potential projects and developments still ahead.

But, it's time to step aside and hand over the keys.

"Ten years is long enough," he said.

Preserving history in New Holstein

By Mike Mathes

for the Depot Dispatch

For one of the newest members of the Elkhart Lake Chamber, the mission is all about preserving the past.

The efforts of the New Holstein Historical Society preserve memories of the past that show details about how people of Eastern Wisconsin lived, worked and raised families since the early 1800's.

The mission of the New Holstein Historical Society is to collect, preserve, conserve and restore significant sites, artifacts and document that specifically relate to the New Holstein area and its citizens.

Formed in 1961, the New Holstein Historical Society owns two facilities, both of which portray historical significance.

The Timm House

The Herman C. Timm House, is a standout architectural restoration project at 1600 Wisconsin Avenue, in New Holstein's main thoroughfare. A stick-style Victorian home, the Timm House was built in 1873 and expanded in 1892.

Restoration of the Timm House, a $1.25 million project, which was supported by a lot of elbow grease and volunteer hours, dates back to 1974, when the historical group took ownership of the building.

From 2003 to 2007, the bulk of the restoration work took place on the interior and exterior of the building.

The Timm House is open to the public on Saturdays and Sundays from the first weekend in May through the end of October, with hours from 1 to 4 p.m.

At holiday time, the Timm House comes alive with special Christmas season decorations. A different theme is featured each year. The New Holstein Historical Society also offers tours from school groups and other groups by appointment.

"We have been real popular with bus tours, and especially with the Red-Hatters," spokesperson Terry Thiessen said.

The Timm House is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Pioneer Corner

In addition, the New Holstein Historical Society maintains the Pioneer Museum at 2013 Main Street.

At the museum, folks can catch a closer glimpse of New Holstein and area history through a series of rotating gallery exhibits.

One such exhibit, entitled "The Streets of Old New Holstein," features a recreation of New Holstein's main street from the early 1800's, around the founding of the city, with many vignettes of businesses that lined the central business district.

Other galleries and collections currently on exhibit include a furniture collection featuring the works of the Laun Companies, in a Tale of Two Cities.

Included in the rotation is one of the country's largest button collections is on display, known as the Fenn-Aggen Collection.

A World War I exhibit features stories about New Holstein service people and artifacts from that era.

Another popular display reveals the story of Gramma Clown, a popular New Holstein personality.

In the north gallery, a diorama of early New Holstein features a collection of farm tools, manufacturing items and other pieces from that era.

The Pioneer Museum is open to the public on Saturdays and Sundays from the first weekend in May through the end of October. Special tours can also be arranged by calling 920-898-5746.

Visitors can purchase a single ticket to either the Timm House or the Pioneer Museum for $7. A combo ticket for $10 admits one to both settings.

Other historical services

In addition to operating its two buildings the New Holstein Historical Society provides several other services to the community.

One such service is the identification of historical properties, and assisting owners with their preservation. Information is provided to the city's historic preservation commission, an arm of the New Holstein city government.

Antique appraisal days are held each year. Two certified appraisers hold court at the New Holstein Community center to help assess the value of items brought in by the general public. "This service is truly open to anyone. They don't have to be from New Holstein. We find that people bring in items anywhere from $50 to $1,000 in order to get a certified value.

Each April the New Holstein Historical Society holds its spring lunch with topics of general interest, such as fashion, landscaping, historical clothing, gardening or general interest.

Bus trips are scheduled in spring and summer, offering a chance for people from New Holstein and surrounding communities the opportunity to tour other historic sites in Wisconsin.

In the past, some of the selected sites include mansions of Milwaukee, the governor's mansion in Madison, the state capitol, Frank Lloyd Wright tours, Hearststone in Appleton and Ten Chimneys in the Waukesha area.

The group usually combines a tour of historic buildings, a garden area and a luncheon in a historic setting.

November is the month for the group's annual meeting, which features a historic program along with lunch.

Volunteer organization

The New Holstein Historical Society is a 100% volunteer organization, with a

A letter from the Friends... Support sought for marsh building goal

Dear Friends,
Let me begin by way of introduction. My name is Lil Pipping and I am the President of the Friends of the Broughton Sheboygan Marsh. As our mission statement below says, in part, we provide opportunities "...to learn about nature and the environment..." We started this non-profit organization in 2005 with a group of volunteers and we continue to not have any paid staff.

Our first project was to construct a wooden 80 foot observation tower (the tallest in the state) so people could enjoy seeing the marsh and surrounding area without the need for a water craft. If you haven't already climbed the tower I encourage you to take a drive out to the marsh and have a look for yourself.

In 2012 we began planning our next project—to construct a multi-purpose educational facility at the marsh. The main purpose of this new facility is to provide a safe space for students from the Sheboygan, Calumet and Fond du Lac areas to learn about nature and the environment. These classes will be provided primarily by licensed camp Y-Koda educators. The facility will be used for meetings and small gatherings, as a kitchenette is included to support those types of activities.

Because there are campgrounds at the marsh, we also planned for shower and bathroom facilities. Funds for this will be provided by the County. In addition, this new structure will also provide a safe storm enclosure to students and campers alike.

Funding for this project will come from private donations from businesses and private citizens. The cost of constructing this new building is $2.3 M. We have been soliciting funds via a "silent campaign" for the past several years. Some of the major supporters to date include Kohler Company, Brotz Family Foundation, Sheboygan County Conservation Association, Sargento, F.K. Bemis Family Foundation, Krier Charitable Foundation, Garton Foundation, Hayseen Foundation, FJC Foundation, Van Horn Automotive Group and many other contributors.

So why am I writing this letter? Because we are planning to break ground for the new building the summer of 2019 and we need your help. At present time we are approximately $450,000 short of our building goal. With your contribution we can reach our goal. If you are a business we can also provide you with a formal presentation at a place and time convenient to all parties involved.

Tax deductible contributions can be sent to The Friends of the Broughton Sheboygan Marsh, P.O. Box 301, Elkhart Lake, WI 53020.

Sincerely yours,
Lil Pipping, President

Rosé - Think Pink!

Every spring as the daffodils and the robins return, pink wine starts appearing on wine shop shelves. These pink wines known as rosés (“roh-says”) are made from red grapes, but in a special way that renders a rosy-pink, light and crisp beverage that is perfect for summer sipping.

Not to be confused with sweet “blush” wines, rosé is a dry pink wine that is carefully created by utilizing the pigment from popular red-skinned grapes like Pinot Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon, or Syrah. To create a rosé, the winemaker utilizes one of two methods. The first is the maceration method where the red-skinned grapes are carefully pressed to extract their clear juice but left in contact with the red skins for a few hours before being removed. This allows the juice to pick up some of the pigment to make it pink, but not completely red. It also keeps too much tannin from being extracted, which leaves the wine with lovely red-fruit notes, but no real tannic bitterness. The juice is then fermented as a white wine would be—typically in stainless steel and temperature controlled to protect the delicate aromatics and flavor.

The second rosé method is known as saignée (“sawn-yay”, meaning “to bleed”) and is actually a secondary-product of creating a deeper red wine. With this method the winemaker will start by pressing and macerating the grapes to make a red wine but will then bleed off a portion of the wine before it has steeped too long. This creates a darker rosé, as well as an even further concentrated red wine. Two wines from one harvest!

With both methods, rosé is fermented to a dry (little to no residual sugar) state, but they tend to be fresh and fruity. Some range from a nearly clear white color all the way to a dark magenta, depending on the grape type and skin contact duration. There are a lot of wonderful styles and varietals to explore in this category of wine. I have always been a big fan of rosé wines because of their wonderful food pairing possibilities and their refreshing quality.

“Inside the Bottle” will be a monthly column that dives into the world of wine, craft beer, spirits, and other beverages – fermented and beyond. Jaelyn Stuart, author of The Complete Idiot’s Guide to Wine & Food Pairing and owner of Vintage Elkhart Lake, will author the column and answer questions she frequently encounters inside her shop, at our wonderful Elkhart Lake area restaurants, and on her travels. If you have a question that you would like to see answered in this column, you can submit it to sommelier@vintage-elkhartlake.com.

Best when enjoyed chilled like white wine, they can be like strawberry lemonade on a hot summer day but can also be wonderful with turkey and mashed potatoes on Thanksgiving.

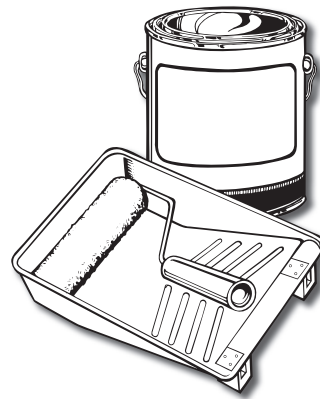

In the last few years, this style has boomed in popularity so there are now a number of new bottlings available from popular brands, but the boutique labels are where it is at. Provence, France is known as the epicenter for rosé and is a great place to start. This region’s style tends to be the perfect lakeside picnic pink and is wonderful with foods like summer salads, fresh fish, and cheese. Rosé from other French regions pair nicely with foods ranging from chicken salad to seafood and pork. Domestic rosés vary so much in style depending on where they are from and what grapes they are crafted from, but pork pairings are always a safe bet (including Sheboygan brats!). You can experience a plethora of rosés paired with porky delights at Vintage’s annual “Swine & Pink Wine” on June 23rd or check out some of the wonderful rosé options at our local restaurants.

With rosés being made in just about every major wine region that are reasonably priced, it is easy to explore the world through rosé colored glasses, so think pink and drink rosé!

Cheers!

New family takes reins at Siebkens

After more than 100 years and four generations of ownership, a prominent Elkhart Lake Resort has a new stewarding family.

Today, Siebkens Resort continues operation as a family run business, much as it has for over a century offering lodging, dining, and the famous Stop-Inn Tavern.

New owners Wendy and Rob Orth officially purchased the resort in early 2019.

Dating back to 1882

The history of Siebkens Resort dates back to 1882, when William Schwartz established the Belleview Hotel in Elkhart Lake, Wisconsin on his property at 284 South Lake Street.

Shortly thereafter, Schwartz built an opera house and tavern next to the Hotel and a lake cottage across the street. In 1916, Herman and Laura Siebken bought the property from Schwartz and for the next 103 years, Siebkens Resort was owned and operated by four generations of the Siebken family.

Wendy and Rob's stewardship of Siebkens began in March 2019 when they purchased the resort from 4th generation Siebken family members, Laurie Stecker and Lisa Sadiq, great-granddaughters of Herman and Laura Siebken.

Wisconsin connections

No strangers to Elkhart Lake, the Orths have a deep-rooted connection to both this resort community and the Badger State.

Wendy and Rob are both originally from Appleton, Wendy an Appleton East graduate and Rob a Xavier High School alumnus. They both graduated from UW-Madison.

Wendy has been coming to Elkhart since she was a baby. She grew up attending events at Road America, where her father raced for over 30 years. She has fond memories of swimming at Fireman's Park, and stopping at Siebkens Resort for sandwiches before her family would drive back to Appleton for the night.

Wendy and Rob began attending racing events together at Road America in 1996.

Wendy and Rob's children, Adele (10) and Conrad (8), have been coming to Elkhart Lake since they were babies. Feeding their fondness for the resort community, Wendy and Rob purchased a condo at Siebkens Resort in 2014.

Time in Texas

The Orth's have lived out of state for 19 of the last 20 years, the majority of that time in Houston, Texas.

Rob, a pediatric radiologist, recently began work at Children's Hospital of Wisconsin after 10 years at Texas Children's Hospital, where he was the Chief of Body Imaging.

Wendy has a background in environmental planning and wealth advising.

Owning a resort is a new venture for the Orths. However, both Wendy and Rob have a passion for food, hotels and travel; and bring skills to the business from their experiences in management, economics and finance, and event planning.

Plans to make Elkhart home

The Orths will live in Elkhart Lake full time and their children will attend school in the Elkhart Lake-Glenbeulah School System beginning fall, 2019.

With the help of Legacy Architecture, Wendy and Rob have submitted applications for the main resort buildings to be listed on the State and National Registers of Historic Places.

All buildings on the property will continue serving their historic functions; plans are in place to restore the Opera House to its original purpose as an entertainment and meeting space for private and community events.

Siebkens is currently open for business and anticipating a traditional busy summer season.

Please watch a forthcoming issue of the Depot Dispatch for more information on the plans Wendy and Rob have for Siebkens Resort.

Fischer joins the Magic of REINS

REINS, Inc. Equine Assisted Activities and Therapies is entering their 37th year of serving individuals with physical, cognitive and developmental disabilities. Their mission, REINS, Inc. provides personal growth, challenge and development through equine assisted activities and therapies to improve participants quality of life this year.

In December of 2018, Rachel Fischer, OTR/L, joined REINS as full-time Sr. Instructor and Equine Professional.

Originally from Oshkosh, Wisconsin, Rachel attended Concordia University Wisconsin, where she received her Master of Science in Occupational Therapy degree. While in college, she additionally became a PATH certified instructor.

Following graduate school, Rachel accepted an occupational therapy position at UW Health and eventually American Family Children's Hospital in acute care and inpatient rehabilitation. Although incredibly blessed to hold this position, Rachel had a large hole in her heart, that could only be filled with equine assisted activities and therapies!

Rachel provides high quality, participant-centered, evidence based and compassionate services to ensure participants achieve their desired goals. She has over five years' experience working with both adult and pediatric participants as a PATH Therapeutic Riding Instructor.

REINS continues to build a presence in Sheboygan and Manitowoc Counties but can not deny their entry into the Fond du Lac and Oshkosh Communities. The support of many is responsible for the success of REINS. Adding Rachel as a full-time staff member allows them to offer this quality driven program to over 100 participants during their 2019 season.

If you are interested in learning more about REINS visit www.reins-wi.org and #JoinTheMagic.

Memorial Day tribute program

The Village's annual Veterans Memorial Tribute program, sponsored by the Village of Elkhart Lake and the Elkhart Lake Lions Club, will be held Saturday, May 25, at 11 a.m. in Memorial Park at the corner of Chicago Street and State Hwy 67.

Kent Kalbacken will be the featured speaker. Kent Kalbacken is a Wisconsin native born and raised in the Madison area. He graduated High School in Mount Horeb in 1982. He attended and graduated from the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

He served in the United States Marine Corps in both Active duty and the Reserves from 1984 to 1992. During his time with the Marine Corps, he served in Infantry units at Camp Pendleton, CA and Camp Lejeune, NC. Mr. Kalbacken held various positions within the Infantry starting out as a Fire Team Leader, then Squad Leader, and finally a Platoon Sergeant. He was Honorably Discharged as an E-5 Sergeant.

While in the Marine Corps, Mr. Kalbacken served in Saudi Arabia and Kuwait during the Persian Gulf War in 1990 and 1991 for Operation Desert Storm and Operation Desert Shield.

Sergeant Kalbacken currently resides in Elkhart Lake with his wife Pam and four children Joseph, Jonathan, Kaylin, and Owen. Owen graduated Elkhart Lake-Glenbeulah High School two years ago and the other children are currently enrolled in the Elkhart Lake-Glenbeulah School System.

The program will feature the Elkhart Lake-Glenbeulah chorus under the direction of Holly Hellmer singing the National Anthem, the EL-GHS band under the direction of Jodi Voss playing patriotic songs, the Sheboygan County squadron of Civil Air Patrol cadets performing the raising of the flag ceremony, the American Legion Post 261 performing the ceremonial rifle volley and Pastor Deborah Tyler delivering the invocation and benediction.

The ceremony will be followed by a brat fry and refreshments by the Elkhart Lake Lions Club from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Proceeds will go toward upkeep of the memorial and park grounds.

The public is invited to attend and should bring lawn chairs or blankets. Parking is allowed along State Highway 67 and additional parking will be provided by Kees Corp. and Plyco Inc. in their parking lots.

In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be held in the Elkhart Lake-Glenbeulah High School.

EL-GHS National Honor Society helps recycle

The National Honor Society at Elkhart Lake-Glenbeulah High School recently held its 4th annual Electronics Recycling Drive.

Every year the event draws people from the surrounding area looking to get rid of their unwanted, outdated, or broken electronics. Most items are collected free of charge, with an exception for TVs, monitors, and refrigerators for which there is a nominal charge. In addition to electronics, anything metal is also accepted. All items collected are taken to Cyber Green in Green Bay where they are stripped down and valuable components are recycled.

This is a way to ensure that all hazardous materials are kept out of landfills while reducing our need to mine virgin materials.

On top of the environmental benefits, Cyber Green gives a portion of the proceeds back to the ELGHS National Honor Society. This is the group's biggest fundraiser and it funds scholarships to one or two NHS members every year.

The next event will be held in April 2020; check local papers or the Elkhart Lake-Glenbeulah School's website for details next Spring. The National Honor Society is advised by Science Chair Travis Moore.

Big Cheese event set for Osthoff

The Osthoff Resort in Elkhart Lake, Wis., is doing its part to pay homage to the Wisconsin cheese experience at its 2019 "The Big Cheese" event, set for Memorial Day weekend, May 24-26, with pleasantly surprising pairings of all sorts filling the schedule. There will be sessions dedicated to pairings of cheese and microbrews, cheese and bourbon, cheese and tea, cheese and cocktails, and of course cheese and wine. Cheesemaking workshops will have attendees making their own ricotta and mozzarella cheeses. There will be a cheese and cocktail cruise each day of the event. Also included on the schedule are an Italian cooking class at the resort's storied L'ecole de la Maison cooking school Saturday morning led by New York Times-published chef Adam Weisell of Chicago, a nine-course artisan cheese dinner Saturday evening hosted by Osthoff chef and culinary director Patrick O'Toole, and a cheese marketplace on Sunday.

For more details, visit www.TheBig-CheeseOsthoff.com. To purchase tickets to the event and make overnight reservations, call 855.714.9200. The resort is offering a suite rate starting at $239 plus tax per night.

Last year was the first year for The Big Cheese and it proved especially popular with foodies who like to plan their vacations around events like this one. A big part of the draw was the chance to hear from those who actually grade the cheeses during tasting sessions and the opportunity to rub elbows with the cheesemakers themselves at special meals, and both those opportunities return at the 2019 event. In between classes and cruises, attendees can also enjoy meals at the resort's three restaurants—Lola's on the Lake, Elkhart Inn and Otto's Restaurant—with menus to feature special Wisconsin cheese dishes created just for the event weekend.

The original inspiration for the event was the sheer number of award-winning cheesemakers in the Elkhart Lake area, including many with world championships to their names. The spotlight will be on those cheesemakers at the Saturday evening nine-course dinner hosted by Chef O'Toole.

Overnight guests of the resort as well as the general public are invited to pick and choose which classes and tastings they'd like to attend over the course of this cheese-centric weekend. Festivities begin Friday at 3:30 p.m. and wrap up Sunday evening. While at the resort, visitors are invited to enjoy live music at the lake deck, with the summer music season opening that weekend.

Lakeland U partners on food production

Lakeland University has partnered with some of Wisconsin's biggest food manufacturers to launch the nation's first bachelor's degree focused on the safe production of food.

Lakeland's bachelor's degree in food safety and quality blends the science of biology and chemistry with best business practices to prepare students for careers in food processing. Graduates will be well-rounded manufacturing professionals equipped to advance in the production of food, while also possessing finance, management philosophy and other skills needed to lead people to their potential.

Lakeland has enlisted several corporate food partners in development of the program, including Johnsonville, Sargento, Masters Gallery Foods, Old Wisconsin, Usinger's, Klement's Sausage and Miesfeld's.

"As we talked more with food industry employers, it became clear there was a need for this degree," said Brian Frink, dean of Lakeland's School of Science, Technology & Education. "Employers often struggle to find people interested in going into this industry, and many people don't understand these jobs exist."

"We've worked with these employers to create a program that will lead to rewarding, good-paying careers doing important work in a large, growing industry."

Unlike a food science degree, which prepares students for food research and development, Lakeland's food safety and quality program focuses on the safe production of food. Students in the program will learn from food industry leaders by working and earning credit both in Lakeland's classrooms and at local employers.

For food industry employers, the program provides a new pipeline for employees in a critically important part of their process.

For people already working in the food industry, the degree offers an opportunity to explore new roles or a new career path. Lakeland will work with experienced food service employees and their employers to design their own coursework that will allow them to earn academic credit for projects happening at their workplace.

Courses can be taken via Lakeland's

BlendEd and BlendEd Live formats, providing flexibility for students who have full-time jobs.

"Producing safe and wholesome products is mission critical for any food manufacturer," said Kevin Ladwig, vice president at Johnsonville Sausage. "With targeted classroom studies, combined with hands-on experience, students will be well prepared to find challenging and rewarding careers in the food industry."

Lakeland received a $500,000 gift from Johnsonville to fund creation of a state-of-the-art, on-campus lab allowing hands-on experience that replicates the work students will find on the job.

"We are so thankful to Johnsonville for being a corporate partner in this program and making this generous investment in our shared vision," said Lakeland President David Black. "Johnsonville's investment is an example of the partnership we are developing with local companies who are dedicated to developing the curriculum needed in this major to create a premier and sought-after degree in the food industry."

"Johnsonville is excited to partner with Lakeland to create a unique degree in the food industry combining science, technology and business acumen to enhance food safety and production throughout the entire industry," said Michael Stayer-Suprick, president, Johnsonville Sausage - International. "This will be a great opportunity for many in the years to come as they look for exciting and rewarding careers."

Frink said the degree is ideal for employers seeking professional development opportunities for their employees. The program is also open to those new to the industry and to high school graduates who may not be familiar with this career path.

For students planning to enroll full time at Lakeland's main campus in Sheboygan County, Lakeland's Cooperative Education Program will provide 12-18 months of full-time work experience at food producers, academic credit for their work and a combination of scholarships and wages that will significantly reduce or eliminate post-graduation debt.

Collaboration formed

Inspire Sheboygan County, Lakeland University connect

Inspire Sheboygan County, a collaboration of educators and employers whose mission is to connect students to career experiences, is expanding its base of operations to Lakeland University as part of a broad new partnership which will better serve local students, employers and young adults.

Inspire will have access to office space at Lakeland's main campus with a second location at Lakeland's space in Jake's Cafe in downtown Sheboygan.

"We have admired the work Inspire Sheboygan County does in assisting local students to determine the right pathway for their future success," said Lakeland President David Black. "Since we both use cooperative education as a primary tool to help students grow and achieve their goals, this partnership makes sense because it will allow us to work together and better serve this region."

"Inspire Sheboygan County and Lakeland will work together to help students use experiential education to select the pathway best for their future, whether that's employment, a two-year degree or a four-year degree," said Nikki Kiss, Executive Director for Inspire Sheboygan County.

Inspire connects local high school students to local employers in a variety of ways, including through its Youth Co-op work experience. Students in the youth co-op program receive on-the-job training and evaluation through carefully planned and supervised experiences to develop, improve and/or refine occupational competencies required for a given career objective.

Youth co-ops are available in a variety of career fields including manufacturing, automotive, healthcare, hospitality and small business entrepreneurship.

Lakeland launched its Cooperative Education program last fall by partnering with more than a dozen local employers. The university has adopted cooperative education across all academic majors as a new way for students to earn a bachelor's degree.

Today, 250 Lakeland students currently participate in the co-op program, working in full- or part-time, credit-bearing positions for partner companies, earning valuable work experience and networking opportunities while continuing to progress towards their degree. Between scholarships and wages, students in this program are counseled to use their earnings to significantly reduce or eliminate post-graduation debt.

This new partnership will create bridges by industry to potentially transition students from youth co-ops into Lakeland's program. Inspire and Lakeland will collaborate on employer and mentor training and support, and high school co-op students will be invited to attend some meetings and activities of Lakeland's Co-op Student Association.

Other highlights of the Inspire-Lakeland partnership include:

- Sharing advocates/trainers/liaisons for quality training of mentors and checks on student progress.
- Co-hosting educational events for employers.

- Offering the foundational courses for Lakeland co-op students as dual credit courses at local high schools.

Inspire was founded in 2013 as an outgrowth of the Business Education Partnership committee of the Sheboygan County Chamber of Commerce. It is funded solely by its member employers and school districts. Inspire typically serves more than 13,000 students per year in a variety of career based learning experiences experiential events that help high school student select a pathway following high school graduation. About 100 students currently participate in cooperative education while in high school.

Inspire Sheboygan County exists to support all schools in the offering of career experiences. Currently all public K-12 schools in Sheboygan County are served as well as three colleges and universities.

Strong partners fuel efforts to feed the hungry

New equipment offering distribution of fresh emergency food to 3,000 families made possible from growing partnership of two non-profit organizations.

Since 2012, the partnership between Making Spirits Bright (MSB) and Sheboygan County Food Bank (SCFB) has allowed SCFB to grow its organizational capacity, reach, and positive impact for hungry Sheboygan County families and residents.

Through the seven-year-long partnership, MSB has collected 473,724 pounds of pantry items donated by the community during their annual drive through the holiday lights show. In 2018 alone, MSB and SCFB worked together to collect a record 100,451 pounds from the community during the holiday season.

In addition to the donated items—which have an impact on feeding those in need for many months—monetary contributions have allowed SCFB to obtain its first box truck and lift gate, funded the purchase of diapers and specific healthy food items, and provided overall support.

To kick off 2019, Making Spirits Bright is excited to announce that it has fully funded the purchase of a 16-foot refrigerated truck and lift gate for Sheboygan County Food Bank. This essential piece of equipment will allow SCFB to safely pick up and distribute fresh, healthy foods to its growing network of 15 partner food pantries and other partner agencies. Patrick Boyle, SCFB Executive Director, says, "Our relationship with Making Spirits Bright is truly wonderful for the community and we can't thank them enough for their kindness and generosity. Now we will be able to accept more fresh, perishable food from generous local corporations with which we have established strong relationships."

In addition, SCFB will be able to offer more meat, which is a highly requested item from pantries and an essential protein source for clients—especially growing children. Lastly, SCFB will continue to expand its fresh and healthy foods that fall under MyPlate guidelines, such as frozen vegetables, juice concentrates, and cheeses.

Gerry Plehn, Making Spirits Bright Board President, says, "Since the inception of Making Spirits Bright, one of the main objectives has been to provide support for the many families who are served by Sheboygan County Food Bank. From generous monetary donations during the 2018 event, we are pleased to be able to provide the much-needed refrigerated truck, which will make healthy fresh foods more available to our neighbors in need of emergency food."

On any given day, 11,000 people in Sheboygan County struggle with hunger. Sheboygan County Food Bank leads the community by collecting and distributing healthy emergency food to its 15 partner food pantries and other partner agencies throughout Sheboygan County—at no cost—to ensure that 3,000 families don't go hungry. To donate today, or learn more, please visit: www.sheboygancountyfoodbank.com.

Making Spirits Bright is a drive through holiday lights show choreographed to music in Evergreen Park, Sheboygan. Originally conceived and presented by the three Rotary Clubs of Sheboygan County, the event has grown to encompass volunteers from throughout the area. The focus continues to be the collection of pantry item donations for Sheboygan County Food Bank. Annually the event runs the night after Thanksgiving through New Year's Eve. In addition to the lights show, across the street, Quarryview Center offers visits with Santa, concessions, wreath raffles, and trolley rides. # Sargento feted as Futuremaker partner in area

The Wisconsin Technical College System (WTCS) Board and Lakeshore Technical College (LTC) honored Sargento Foods, Inc. recently with a 'Futuremaker Partner' award. Among other efforts, the partners work together to deliver apprenticeship opportunities and assure that what students learn in the classroom is what employers need in the field.

During the 2018-19 academic year, LTC is providing classroom instruction to 14 Sargento employees who are registered apprentices, meaning they are also receiving On-the-Job Training at the company. This "earn while you learn" approach infuses needed talent at Sargento immediately, while offering team members an opportunity to continued learning, growth and advancement.

In addition, Sargento team members serve on numerous LTC program advisory committees, which consistently involve industry in the design of college programs and courses. As a result, LTC students in programs as varied as Culinary Arts, Business Management and Electro-mechanical Technology benefit from the knowledge and experience of Sargento professionals. The result is quality instruction and graduates who are in high demand because they have a unique understanding of industry.

"The future of our workforce in Wisconsin depends on successful partnerships between business and educational institutions. That's why Sargento is committed to workforce development and is honored to receive this recognition from Lakeshore Technical College. Our partnership has brought highly-skilled talent to our company and we look forward to building even more job opportunities to grow the Sargento Family," said Louie Gentine, CEO of Sargento Foods Inc.

With rapid changes in technology and the workplace, it is not only apprentices who continue to learn on the job. Sargento routinely looks to LTC for customized instruction and technical assistance that keeps team members' skills sharp and improves overall operational efficiency.

"This is typical of how our colleges work with employers across sectors and throughout the state," said WTCS Board President S. Mark Tyler. "But I have to say that these family-owned, Wisconsin businesses often have a unique appreciation for what our colleges do, and how to leverage that for the benefit of the company, team members and communities like Sheboygan, Manitowoc and so many others."

The value of these types of connections often results in companies' financial support of college students and operations. Sargento actively supports LTC's annual and scholarship funds.

"In addition to being an economic driver for the region and the state, Sargento is a valued college partner," said Lakeshore Technical College President Paul Carlsen. "Sargento supports strong collaboration with LTC across a broad range of initiatives, most notably the LTC Foundation and six program advisory committees."

Arbor Day Program

Patrick Robison, chair of the Elkhart Lake Tree Commission, led the Arbor Day Program at the Grashorn Civic Center on Friday, April 26. ELG 5th graders were commissioned to create poster depicting the Arbor Day meant to them. 3 winners were selected: Levi Gabrielse, Colin Merklein, and Kenya Reasby. Elkhart Lake has received the Tree City USA Award for 19th consecutive years. This year the Tree Commission will be planting a 5-6" round Linden tree in the Village Square Park.
