THE
AND YOU

BY NATHAN D. PACE
ATTORNEY AT LAW

STARTING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Those starting new businesses should know that the simplest form of business is a "sole proprietorship," which is not a legal entity and simply refers to a person who owns a business and is personally responsible for its debts. While this popular business form is easy and inexpensive to set up, the owner of a sole proprietorship remains personally liable for all the business's debts. A "corporation" is separate from its owner, which means that, with some exceptions, it is shielded from personal liability. The "limited liability company" (LLC), which is also protected from personal liability, is not required to adhere to corporate formalities such as annual meetings, recording meeting minutes, electing directors, and issuing stock certificates.

Forming an LLC or corporation is an essential step to protect your personal assets (such as your personal property or your child's college fund) from any liabilities of the company. Each structure its own advantages and disadvantages, depending on your specific circumstances.

To schedule a free consultation, please call or visit the Law Office of MACK & PACE. Our areas of specialization include small business, living wills and trusts, mortgages and foreclosures, powers of attorney, probate and estate law, and vehicle and traffic law. We keep our clients away from the courtroom unless conflicts arise.

HINT: While a corporation is subject to double taxation (profits are taxed both at the corporate level and when distributed to shareholders), a limited liability company (LLC) enjoys pass-through taxation, which is similar to a partnership.

Medina Students Make an Impact in the Community

About 150 Medina High School students and staff chose to do something good for their school and their community on their annual Make An Impact Day.

The teams spent half their day taking on service projects or beautifying their school. Medina School District had the afternoon off, but students volunteered their time instead of leaving.

The school has been participating in this great event for several years. The rain kept many of the projects indoors, but there were some teams that were up for braving the elements and cleaning up local parks.

Great job of giving back everyone!

MAKING A BIRD PARADISE

By Douglas H. Domedion

Last week I related to you how my little bird paradise was over come with new arriving birds next to my living room window. This didn't happen by chance, I have been feeding birds all year round for years and some definitely remember where the "free" stuff is from year to year.

So how can you have an enjoyable bird paradise by your house? Well, I will tell you what has worked for me for many years. I start by putting up a high "T" post of 1-inch pipe to hang the bird feeders on. The "T" is formed with a "T" coupling at the top of the pipe and a tight fitting sapling stuck through that coupling to hang out about a two feet from each end. The "T" ends being about 8 feet from the ground. In order not to bum up the threads on the top end of the pipe for the coupling I drive a larger pipe into the ground first and then the 1-inch pipe can be placed in that pipe. A screw placed on each end of that sapling keeps the feeders from slipping off should the wind get them swinging.

Now where do you place that feeding pole? Well, it needs to be place far enough (10 or 12 feet) from any trees, bushes or buildings that a squirrel can leap to the feeder from them. These guys are very clever and will consume most of your bird food if you don't address them.

The final addition to the feeding pole is a good cone guard about half way up the 1-inch pipe that will prevent the squirrel from climbing to the feeders. The pole itself can be place close to the house (for close bird observation) as long as the squirrels can not use the house to gain access to the feeder (like diving off the roof).

Now that we have solved the squirrel problem. They will still come, but will be limited to what the birds spill off the feeder. What do we put in the feeders? I use only black flower sunflower seeds. Yes, the shells falling to the ground after the birds bust open the seeds, to get the hearts, do make a mess, but most birds really love them. I buy mine in 50-pound bags from a feed store usually waiting for a special sale. Avoid those "birdseed mixes" as there gets to be a lot of junk seed in them that does not attract the birds we want to see.

So one side of the "T" pole has the sunflower seed feeder hanging from it and on the other side I hang a whole peanut feeder or this time of the year a grape and hummer feeder. Some where up there a wire cage of suet is also hung for the woodpeckers.

Now when the orioles show up I hang a homemade grape jelly feeder (fruit cup in a hole in a 8-inch square piece of plywood). Fine wire coming from each corner of the plywood is twisted together to form a loop will aid in hanging the feeder up. If you have enough over hang on your roof you can hang it from a hook under it right next to the window for really close observation!

The hummingbird feed can be hung from the over hang of the roof also or on one of those shepherd hooks you push in the ground. I prefer the over hanging roof as the squirrels like that sugar water so you will need a squirrel guard on the shepherd pole. Of course you could hang it on your "T" pole too, but I prefer to get those little guys really close to the window!

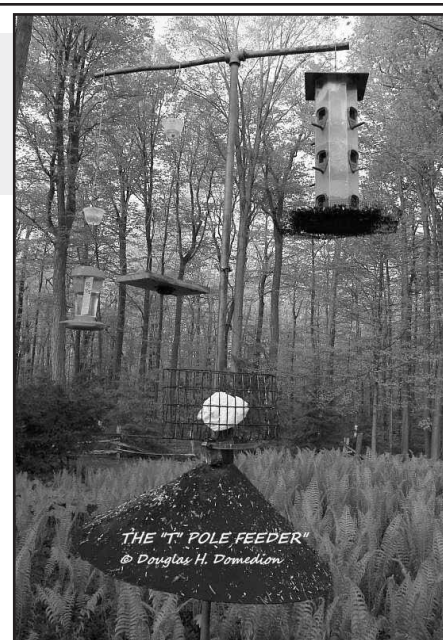

One other problem you will probably get is ants. They have a way of finding those oriole and hummingbird feeders. Solve this problem by making some "water moats" to hang between the feeder and whatever you hang the feeder from. I make these from those small plastic cups that the cocktail fruit comes in. I take a stiff piece of wire and stick it though a hole drilled in the bottom of the cup. A loop is made at the top to hang it from and a hook at the bottom to hang the feeder from. I use a silicon glue to seal around the wire and cup so it will not leak the water you will put in it. When the ants climb down the wire they can not get any farther because of the water moat!

Now those feeders are high so I use a pole with a hook on the end to raise and lower the feeders from the places they are hung from.

You are now set up to have a bird paradise right next to your window; just keep the feeders filled and I ensure you that you will enjoy their company year round like I do.

One other thing, change the sugar water about every five days in the hummingbird feeder to ensure it is not going bad and hurting the hummers. Clean them thoroughly each time to you refill too.

My contact information is 585-798-4022 or woodduck2020@yahoo.com

The sisters and brother of Richard D. Monacelli extend their sincere, heartfelt thank you to all our family and friends for the many gifts and expressions of sympathy shown to us during the passing of our brother Richard. A special thank you to Jacob Hebdon and Cooper Funeral Home and staff for their professional and personal services after his passing; and to the Rev. Daniel Fawls of Holy Trinity RC Parish Medina, and the Parish Bereavement Committees for their comforting pastoral care. We would also like to thank the Butts Clark Post American Legion Medina and the Lincoln Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Medina for honoring Richard with military honors. It gives us great joy knowing our brother's friendship extended to so many in the Medina, N.Y., Tempe, Ariz., and surrounding communities.

How to Employ Staging to Impress Buyers

Homeowners must consider a variety of factors when putting their homes on the market. One of the more important things to remember is the benefits of making a strong first impression on prospective buyers. That's why many homeowners rely on staging when selling their homes.

Staging requires more than just clearing out clutter or baking a batch of cookies to create a welcoming aroma. Staging helps potential buyers visualize the potential of a home and see themselves owning and living in the property.

While homeowners can effectively stage their own homes, sometimes it is well worth the investment to call in a professional designer or stager. Stagers often work their magic on vacant properties or those that have been sitting on the market awhile. A stager conducts careful research into the market of a particular area and learns about the neighborhood before deciding how to appeal to likely buyers. For example, when staging a coastal home, a stager may go with nautical themes and create the impression of a relaxing and laid-back property for entertaining by the beach.

Certain rules should be followed when staging a home. Furniture, decor and other amenities in the home should not detract from the house itself. Instead, such items should complement the architecture and feel of the space. Here are some additional staging suggestions.

- Remove personal effects. Homeowners are urged to replace personal photographs with neutral artwork and remove other decorative items that reflect their personalities. As an example, an avid outdoorsman probably will want to remove hunting trophies. The goal is to help buyers see themselves in the home, and that can be difficult if existing residents' personal effects are everywhere.

- Put away nonessential items. Staging helps homeowners create dream spaces. Coffeemakers, backpacks hanging on the wall and dishes in the drainboard may be part of daily living, but they can make it hard for buyers to see a home's potential. Store such items before holding an open house.

- Maximize lighting. Whenever possible, take down or open window treatments to display architectural moldings and let in as much natural light as possible.

- Opt for neutral colors and furnishings. Use neutral taupe and gray paint to keep homes prime for buyers. Homeowners who have more eclectic or colorful tastes can put their items in storage and rent neutral furnishings until the home sells.

Staging can improve the chances that a house sells quickly. Staging helps potential buyers see themselves in the space without distractions from the previous owners' decorating or belongings. ■

Tips on how to write CLASSIFIED ADS that sell!

- 1 USE A KEY WORD. This immediately tells the reader exactly what you have to sell.
- 2 Make your description CLEAR AND FACTUAL. State the year, make, model, color & size and tell what condition the item is in. Also, state the special features.
- 3 STATE THE PRICE. Successful classified advertisers have learned that the price in an ad helps increase the chances for results.
- 4 IF THERE IS A GENUINE SENSE OF URGENCY, say so. The words "We're moving," or "Must sell fast," suggest that readers respond immediately.
- 5 INCLUDE YOUR PHONE NUMBER. Classifieds get results fast and often generate immediate sales. If you cannot be available to answer the phone at all times, be sure to specify special calling times such as "after 9pm" or "before 11am."

Advanced Manufacturing and Engineering Program Celebrates HUNCH Partnership

The students in Bill Rakonczay's Advanced Manufacturing and Engineering Program had a celebration on May 11 at the Orleans Career and Technical Education Center. They were celebrating their sixth year of being part of the NASA High School Students United with NASA to Create Hardware (HUNCH) program. Eighty-two people were at the ceremony to celebrate the classes' achievement.

HUNCH is a partnership with schools that allows NASA to receive cost-effective hardware while students receive real-world, hands-on experiences and inspiration to become the next generation of researchers and space explorers. The students in Mr. Rakonczay's class have been making locker latches that will be sent to the International Space Station.

To commemorate their work on the project, earlier this year students signed locker doors that will be traveling to space. "I am very proud of my students," says Mr. Rakonczay and I want to thank the parents and other guests that came out Saturday to show their support. I also want to thank my teacher assistant Debbie Jackson and our Principal Dr. Michael Weyrauch for making all of this possible."

Tasty Sandwiches Perfect for Special Occasion Brunches

Spring is synonymous with special events worthy of celebration. From Mother's Day to graduations to communions and confirmations, spring provides a host of opportunities for families and friends to come together and show their love for one another.

The right food can make any party that much more spectacular. Lunch and brunch parties, whether they're at home or in a restaurant, provide great opportunities to enjoy fun, budget-friendly food with loved ones. For those who will be celebrating at home or attending a potluck-style gathering, this "Brandied Baked Ham With Mustard Butter" courtesy of Denise Gee's "Southern Appetizers" (Chronicle Books) can make for the perfect dish to serve or bring along. The decadent ham can be served as fashionable tea sandwiches, either in soft biscuits or rolls.

Brandied Baked Ham with Mustard Butter

(Serves 16 to 20; makes about 2 cups mustard butter)

For the ham:

- 1 1/2 cups packed dark brown sugar
- 1/4 cup brandy
- 2 tablespoons grainy mustard
- 1 5-pound bone-in, half ham, fully cooked
- 1 1/2 teaspoons whole cloves

In a small saucepan, stir to combine the brown sugar, brandy and mustard. Bring the mixture to a boil over medium-high heat and, stirring constantly, cook until the glaze is thick and syrupy, about 3 minutes. Store in an airtight container in the refrigerator for up to 2 days or use immediately.

Preheat the oven to 325 F. Line a shallow roasting pan with heavy-duty aluminum foil and place a wire rack on top.

Score the fat on top of the ham by making diagonal cuts in a diamond pattern. Insert the cloves into the intersections of each diamond. Place the ham on the rack. Insert a meat thermometer, making sure it doesn't touch the bone. Bake the ham for about 1 hour, or until the thermometer registers 125 F.

Remove the ham and brush on the brandy glaze. Return the ham to the oven and cook for 20 to 30 minutes more, or until the thermometer registers 135 F. Let it stand for 15 minutes. (The meat temperature will rise to 140 F).

For the mustard butter:

- 2 cups butter, softened
- 1/4 cup grated sweet onion
- 1/4 cup Dijon or Creole mustard

In a medium bowl, stir to combine the butter, sweet onion and mustard. Scrape it into a serving bowl.

Cut the ham into thin slices and build your sandwiches (or serve slices on their own on a platter). Offer with accompanied bowl of mustard butter. ■

Donna F. ★★★★★

I was greeted at the door at 3:15, test drove a car, received financing and drove out with my new vehicle a 5:15. Dennis (my salesman) was very friendly and kept me updated to every step of the process. I was very happy with my whole experience at the Bidleman dealership. Thank you! I will definitely be recommending you to family and friends.

Maggie D. ★★★★★

I just bought a used 2018 Traverse from Bidleman Chevy. Jen was the salesperson and she is amazing! She's knowledgeable, personable, friendly and not pushy. She tries very hard to find what you are looking for and she did! She made the car buying experience great! I would definitely buy from her again. Also, the Service Department is very accommodating. Wayne in particular. Great place to buy a car!

We're proud to offer the brands and faces you know and trust, plus a fresh new vision for our company.

A wide selection of new and preowned vehicles arriving daily!
