Waterfalls

The majestic beauty and solace of falling water.

by Trisha Sandora

Ready to find a place where you can unplug, unwind, and refresh your body and mind? A waterfall will take you there. It's a powerful gift from nature that's both calming and exhilarating. Watching the water flow over a rocky ledge and free fall in slow motion as a luminous spray casts a rainbow of color is not only a stunning sight, but it also awakens the other senses as well. With the peaceful, surround-sound effect of the rushing water, it's a sensory experience unlike any other.

Tennessee's abundant waterfalls are one of the state's most significant natural resources. No two waterfalls are the same. Moment by moment, day-to-day, season-to-season, they are everchanging. Manchester is the perfect place to launch your waterfall adventure. So load up your backpack with the essentials and visit these nearby waterfalls — the first stop is less than five minutes from downtown.

Step Falls, Big Falls, and Blue Hole Falls

Easy 1.4-mile loop Old Stone Fort State Park
732 Stone Fort Dr., Manchester

The well-maintained and relatively flat Enclosure Trail loops between the forks of the Duck River, following a mound wall built by Native Americans 1,500-2,000 years ago. Step Falls is a beautiful series of cascading tiered waterfalls along the Little Duck River side of the trail. You can access the falls through several steep side trails. The largest of the waterfalls, at over 30 feet, is Big Falls located on the Big Duck River side. Though not easily accessible by foot, Big Falls can be viewed from the hiking trails above and below the fort, or the large rock sitting above the falls. Blue Hole Falls is nearly 30 feet in height and plunges into a magnificent blue pool along the Duck River.

Rutledge Falls

Easy .2 mile walk to the top of the falls
1289 Rutledge Falls Rd., Tullahoma

Rutledge Falls is located on private property in Tullahoma, but due to the generosity of the owners, the falls are open to the public from dawn to dusk. Just look for the big red barn. A wooden fence and a driveway with a millstone mark the entrance to the trail. The waterfall is a short walk from the parking area across from Rutledge Falls Baptist Church. At the top of the falls, you will be greeted by a stately female statue known as the Lady of the Falls, who was saved from destruction during a renovation project at the Tennessee State Capitol in Nashville. The rocky trail leading down to the swimming hole is steep, so be sure to wear good walking or hiking shoes. This waterfall also made its big screen debut in "Hannah Montana: The Movie." The swimming hole is the perfect remedy to Tennessee's hot summer days.

Machine Falls

Moderate 1.5 mile loop trail
Short Springs State Natural Area
2250 Short Springs Rd., Tullahoma

One of the tallest falls in the state, Machine Falls drops more than 60 feet and is almost as wide. The hike to the waterfall is short but can be slippery and steep in places. Watch for the signs when you get to the creek. The falls are hidden from the trail, but to get there, you just have to walk up the creek about 100 yards. You will not be disappointed. Seeing Machine Falls up close is well worth getting your feet a little wet. Parking and a map of the area can be found beneath the large white water tower on Short Springs Road.

Lower and Upper Busby Falls

Easy 1/2 mile trail off of Machine Falls loop in Short Springs State Natural Area

The Bobo Creek Trail loop branches off of the trailhead and then joins up before the Machine Falls loop. Wooden steps and flat rocks provide easy access to the water above the falls. Overlooks on the trail offer views of the Upper and Lower Busby Falls.

Greeter Falls

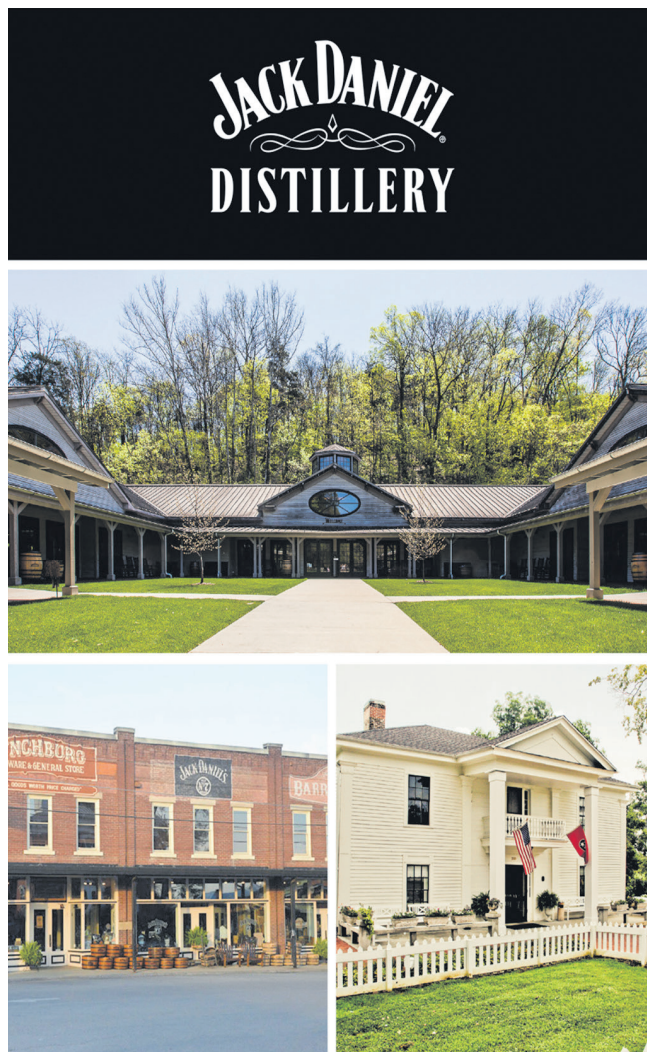

435 Greeter Falls Rd., Altamont

The scenic Greeter Falls is a 45-minute drive from Manchester at the Savage Gulf State Natural Area in Altamont. The two-tiered waterfall drops over a 15-foot upper ledge and then plummets over a 50-foot lower shelf into a cold, clear plunge pool. A flat and sandy path leads to the upper part. The lower area can be reached via several flights of stairs and a rocky, descending pathway to a swimming hole. This waterfall offers excellent options for wading in the water or sunbathing on the flat rocks.

Foster Falls

Easy/Moderate 1/4 mile hike
South Cumberland State Park
498 Foster Falls Rd., Sequatchie

Foster Falls is less than an hour from Manchester. Experience the 60-foot-tall waterfall from a cliff-top overlook a few minutes from the parking area, or take the rocky path to the bottom of the falls where a refreshing swimming hole awaits. Foster Falls is also home to a picturesque suspension bridge. The trailhead begins at Foster Falls Visitor Center in Sequatchie, Tennessee.

Tennessee Whisky

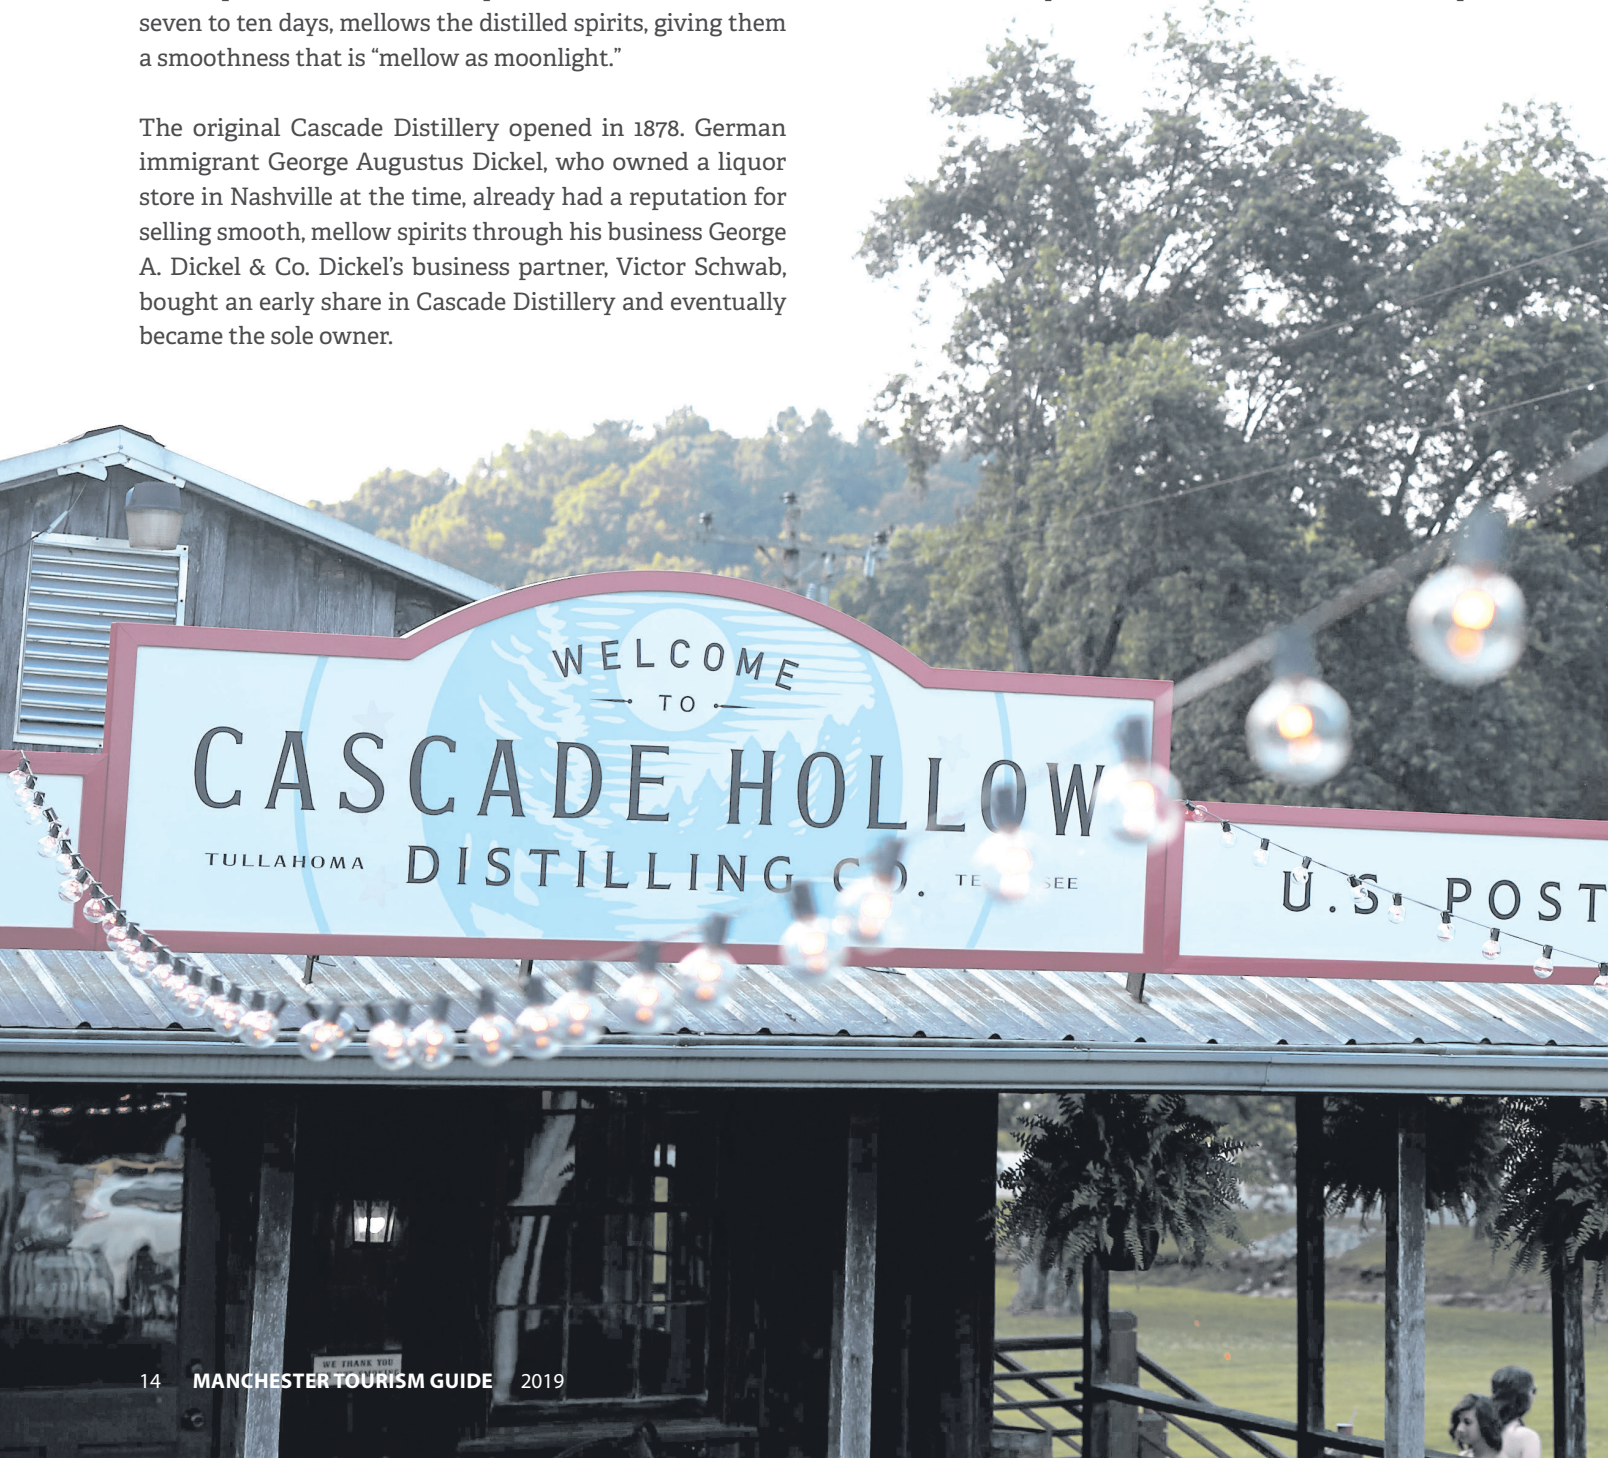

Cascade Hollow Distilling Co. Stays True to Tradition

by Trisha Sandora

One drop at a time, chilled whisky seeps through thirteen feet of sugar maple charcoal held in four giant steel vats at the Cascade Hollow Distilling Co. just outside of Tullahoma. It's a filtration method known as the Lincoln County Process, and it's what sets Tennessee Whiskey apart from all other whiskeys and bourbons. The process, which takes from seven to ten days, mellows the distilled spirits, giving them a smoothness that is "mellow as moonlight."

The original Cascade Distillery opened in 1878. German immigrant George Augustus Dickel, who owned a liquor store in Nashville at the time, already had a reputation for selling smooth, mellow spirits through his business George A. Dickel & Co. Dickel's business partner, Victor Schwab, bought an early share in Cascade Distillery and eventually became the sole owner.

The whisky business was booming, but unfortunately, Tennessee prohibition began in 1910 and distillers were given one year to shut their operations down as the state became "dry." However, thanks to the quick thinking of Schwab, the recipe was moved to the Stitzel distillery in Kentucky. In 1919, when national prohibition became law, the Kentucky distillery was one of six to receive a permit for medicinal spirits, which allowed the production of whisky to continue.

Bringing the Whisky Home

In 1958, near the same site and spring as the original Cascade Hollow Distillery, Ralph Dupps, who worked for one of the largest distillers in the nation, purchased 600 acres, built a replica of the distillery and brought the whisky back to its Tennessee home. It became the second registered distillery in Tennessee, just a few months after Jack Daniel's.

It's in the water

When it comes to making whisky, a pure water source is critical. It's so important, that many great distilleries are named after the water source.

At Cascade Springs, the water comes up from the ground through layers of limestone that act as a natural filter. The pure water, tapped at the source, has no iron content which can make the whisky taste bitter. It's the same water source George Dickel used in 1870 and is exclusively used by the distillery today.

Handmade the Hard Way

What does that mean? For one, the distillery isn't run by a computer. Every single step of the traditional production process is run by people who still take temperatures by hand and weigh grains on an old weigh scale. The charcoal is made onsite from 2" x 2" x 4' pieces of sugar maple wood perfectly stacked in ricks and then set on fire. Under careful supervision, the wood is burned down to a certain point and then doused with water. Afterward, it is laid out to dry and then broken down into piles of charcoal. Workers scoop up the charcoal into burlap sacks, and carry them up to the filtering vats in the distillery. Making fine whisky has never been easy, and Cascade Hollow Distilling Co. is keeping the process true to tradition. Today, General Manager and Distiller Nicole Austin oversees the brand's 148-year legacy of making Tennessee's award-winning craft whisky.

Nestled in the picture-perfect setting of Cascade Hollow, the distillery is surrounded by lush meadows and forested rolling hills with Cascade Creek winding its way through. Sit in one of the rocking chairs on the porch of the visitor's center and take in the beautiful view. Whether you are a whisky drinker or not, it's a wonderful place to experience a unique part of Tennessee history.

Did you know?

- Tennessee law states that the whisky has to be aged in charred new white oak barrels.
- Cascade Hollow Distilling Co. is the only distillery in Tennessee using single-storied warehouses - which helps keep the aging whisky at a uniform temperature and eliminates the need to rotate the barrels.
- George Dickel is the longest aged Tennessee Whisky.
- Dickel believed that whisky produced in the winter was smoother than that in the summer months. To this day, the distillery chills its liquid to 40 degrees before charcoal-filtering and is the only Tennessee distillery to do so.
- Whisky or Whiskey? It depends on where it is from - the Scots spell it whisky and the Irish spell it whiskey. George kept to the Scottish tradition.
- Whisky is taxed per gallon, before evaporation.

Manchester Music Series

Where there is music, there is community.

by Trisha Sandora

Great live music brings people together. It has the power to make people forget about their differences and to feel like they're a part of something bigger. That's just what the members of the Manchester Tourism and Community Development Commission had in mind when they launched the Manchester Music Series earlier this year. The effort, led by committee members Allison Dotson, John Richardson, Tim McFall, and Ryan French, builds on what the Downtown Manchester Movement has been trying to do for years—bring people back downtown and develop a sense of community.

Throughout small-town America, city squares are continually being bypassed by roads that lead to the newer parts of town. It's an all too common sight to see downtown squares with empty storefronts and abandoned historic buildings. A few folks in Manchester are making sure that the beautiful town square in this small Tennessee town is not forgotten, and they're showing it some love, with music.

The Downtown Revival is well underway, and it's already creating quite a buzz. The first two events were held at The Church @ 117, a beautiful event space housed in a restored

If you can bring in a good band, have food trucks on each corner, and let it be free, people will have a good time --that's a community. There's a lot of ways to do it, but that's our goal.

church with stained glass windows and a bell tower. “We started with the indoor events to get the word out and let people know we are serious about it,” Tim McFall says. “Our goal is to have outdoor music events on the square.”

So far two top high-energy bands have rocked the house. Rubiks Groove, an ‘80s and ‘90s tribute band, launched the series in February, and Vinyl Radio, a ‘70s tribute band, played to a full crowd in April. Burning Las Vegas, a band out of Nashville, will be headlining the 4th of July Celebration at Rotary Park in partnership with the Manchester Parks and Recreation. In August and September, the series will move back to the square. The commission hopes to present 5 to 6 music events per year.

Usually, to hear top-rated acts, you would have to travel to a bigger city. But through the financial support of several corporate sponsors, locals can listen to these acts without leaving their home town. “We are fortunate to be so close to Nashville with so many good musicians and so many good bands,” McFall says.

This year when the community of Manchester comes together, there will be music, food, laughter, little ones bopping to the music, lots of smiling, and community. So mark your calendars, dust off your dancing shoes, and head downtown. It's time for a revival, Manchester style.

The Bonnaroo Experience

by Trisha Sandora

Since 2002, Bonnaroo Music & Arts Festival has been filling Great Stage Park, the 700-acre farm and event space in Manchester, with a whole lotta love, music, and art—the “good stuff.” Just imagine, think of something good, something fun, something that makes you smile. Now, picture tens of thousands of people doing the same thing—that’s a lot of good vibes in one place. It’s a positivity that radiates throughout the festival.

Yes, there is music, from the main stages to the campsites, and everywhere else in between. There are also parades, brass bands, comedy shows, movies, light shows, and dance parties—it’s a wonderland of fun things to do. What you may not know is that there are also art installations, spa treatments, workshops, competitions, kids activities, and more. Here’s a look inside Bonnaroo at a few of the attractions that make this festival a one-of-a-kind experience.

Art Stroll

The open-air art show has been an integral part of the festival from the start, one that builds and expands every year. A few of the larger installations include the massive welcoming arch, an 80 foot clock tower, a mushroom-shaped fountain that festival goers can cool off underneath, and towering bobble-head sculptures. The wall around Centeroo serves as a canvas for artists of all kinds—an ever-changing collaborative effort. The Bonnaroo Poster Art Exhibit showcases the work of some of today’s top poster makers. The limited edition hand screen posters are a striking display of talent. Stop by and talk with the artists and purchase a poster to take home.

Bonnaroo Self-Love

Take some time to find your breath at a sunrise or sunset meditation. Unwind or recharge your body with a yoga practice. At the Roos Sanctuary of Self Love, you can have your hair styled and get a mini spa treatment. Top it all off with some glitter and a flower crown, and you’re good to go.

Run, Jump, Play

If you want to get a good run in, sign up for the 5k Roo Run x ASICS. The course weaves through the Bonnaroo campgrounds. Athletic shoes are required, but they go with everything, so get creative with a costume.

For those who want to feel some sand under their feet, there is beach volleyball complete with island boats and tropical drinks.

Get Inspired

Take a workshop in art, songwriting, percussion, henna tattooing, instrument building, gardening and more at the Academy. Learn about the therapeutic properties of several herbs and flowers such as cedar, lavender, rosemary, sage, and rose, or the benefits and science behind CBD. You can even learn to grow your own food at the Bonnaroo Learning Garden.

For the Kids

Inspire a love of music, culture, and creativity in your children by taking them to the Kidz Jam. There are performances, interactive games, sports, challenges, and fun recycling art projects. Instruments are provided for the children. Fresh water, sunblock, and earplugs are offered free of charge to help ensure that the little ones have a great festival experience too.

The word “Bonnaroo” is Creole slang for

Happy Campers

No story about Bonnaroo would be complete without mentioning the campground experience. It's a big part of the magic. Recognized as the largest camping festival in North America, 90% of festival attendees stay in the campgrounds. It's the smell of coffee brewing in the morning and kabobs sizzling on a charcoal grill in the afternoon. It's kicking back in a lawn chair and swapping stories or making some music. Whether you choose to sleep in a hammock hanging from a tree or in the comfort of a luxury motorhome, it's an experience where people get to know one another and develop lifelong friendships.

Manchester's proximity to several lakes and rivers makes it the ideal location to enjoy some quality time on the water. Whether it's fishing for crappies, kayaking, stand-up paddle-boarding, water-skiing or anything in between, there are plenty of places to get your feet wet.

Normandy Lake

Anglers will love this 3,160-acre lake filled with large-mouth bass, small-mouth bass, Kentucky bass, and crappie. In addition, the Duck River below Normandy Dam is regularly stocked with trout. Campgrounds and picnic areas are available making it the perfect setting for a weekend fish fry. This peaceful lake is also a great choice for paddling.

Tims Ford Lake

The largest of nearby lakes, Tims Ford stretches out over 10,700 acres with 265 miles of shoreline. It is known for being one of the most picturesque lakes in Tennessee. The deep clear water contains large populations of small-mouth bass, large-mouth bass, Kentucky bass, hybrids, crappie, and catfish. There are also numerous boat ramps, marinas, and campgrounds. Tims Ford Bass Club and the Middle Tennessee Crappie Club hold weekly fishing tournaments. If you are interested in learning more about the clubs, check out their Facebook pages.

Woods Reservoir

This 4,000-acre lake has a wide variety of fish species making it a local favorite. Considered one of the best crappie lakes in the state, Woods Reservoir is also known for its walleye, catfish, sunfish, muskie, and trophy-sized largemouth bass. Its unique surroundings make it a great place to explore. Although the lake is located at Arnold Air Force Base, it is managed by the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency (TWRA), and fishing is open to the public. There is also a campground available to past and present service members only.

Coy Gaither Bedford Lake

If you are looking for a little peace and quiet, the Coy Gaither Bedford Lake is the place. For over three-quarters of a century, this small 47-acre lake has been a local favorite. As one of Tennessee's family fishing lakes, it is just for fishing—no recreational canoeing, kayaking, or pleasure boating is permitted. The lake contains largemouth bass, bluegill, sunfish, black crappie and channel catfish. Anglers are welcome to bring their own boats, but gas engines are not permitted, only electric trolling motors. A $6.50 daily lake permit is required and can be purchased from area license agents.

Elk River

Beginning at Tims Ford Lake, the Elk River flows 195 miles to Wheeler Dam in northern Alabama where it connects with the Tennessee River. The Elk River offers unique fly fishing opportunities. Cold water released into the river from Tims Ford Dam creates optimal conditions for rainbow and brown trout along a 14-mile stretch of river. This calm-water river is also a great place to float or canoe. Keep your eyes open for a glimpse of a playful North American River Otter.

Duck River

The Duck River, at 284 miles long, is the longest river located entirely in the state of Tennessee. It is also one of the most biologically diverse rivers in North America, home to more than 50 species of freshwater mussels and over 150 species of fish. The Duck River is also a popular river for floating, kayaking, and paddling.

Little Duck River

The Little Duck River is a 6.5-mile long stream that joins the Duck River in a cascading display of waterfalls at Old Stone Fort State Park. The Little Duck River Greenway in Manchester winds along the river, allowing easy access for anglers and others who want to play in the water. It's the perfect place to enjoy the sights and sounds of nature without having to leave town.

Cumberland Caverns

Cumberland Caverns located in McMinnville, Tenn., is one of the most extensive known caves in America. Portions of this caving system were originally known as Higgenbotham Cave and Henshaw Cave. Considerable exploration of previously unseen sections along with integration of the two caves substantially enlarged Cumberland Caverns to the more than 32 miles that can be toured today.

Surveyor Aaron Higgenbotham discovered Higgenbotham Cave (now a national landmark) in 1810. Venturing into the cave alone, he was trapped for three days on a high ledge when his torch went out. According to local legend, his hair had turned white by the time a rescue party found him. Aaron Higgenbotham did not penetrate very far underground, but shortly after the close of the Civil War, someone explored for over a mile in Higgenbotham Cave and discovered a huge avenue—60 ft. wide, 10 ft. high, and 2000 ft. long—the “Ten Acre Room.” The name “Shelah Waters” and the date “1869” are inscribed on the walls in candle smoke or scratched into the rock in many rather remote areas. This is the oldest name and date in the cave. Higgenbotham Cave is mentioned in old histories of Warren County as a local attraction, and Thomas L. Bailey in “Resources of Tennessee” first described it in print for 1918.

WHERE TO PLAY

Old Stone Fort State Park

Upwards of 200,000 people visit Old Stone Fort State Archaeological Park annually, many to experience its history and others for the abundance of outdoor offerings, including its iconic cascading waterfalls. Located at the point where two rivers drop off the Highland Rim plateau, the park is rife in water sources; falls plunge from the beginning of the trail down to the depths of Tennessee's Central Basin. Long, wall-like mounds that were characteristics of the Woodland Period flank the riverside trail, and park visitors will find a set of parallel mound walls oriented to within one degree of the summer solstice sunrise at the narrow neck of land before the Little Duck and Duck rivers meet. Boasting 51 heavily wooded campsites outfitted with water and 30-amp electrical hookups, grills, picnic tables, hard-surface pads and restroom facilities with showers, Old Stone Fort State Park is not just for day-trippers, but also appeals to those who want to spend a weekend—or longer—exploring the area with Manchester as their home base (campsite fees are $25 a night with a two-week stay limit). The park has a museum and gift shop, a 1.25-mile perimeter trail within the ancient enclosure and four additional miles of developed trails, while the campground has its own Nature Trail.

Patrons can stop by for a cold drink after a round of golf, enjoy the latest sporting event on one of Boskey's large-screen TVs, or enjoy the stunning view overlooking the golf course from the enclosed patio. On Saturdays from March to November, local live music is offered on the patio. Rex`'s Exes

February 20, 2020 - February 23, 2020

This deliriously funny Southern-fried farce finds the Verdeen cousins of Sweetgum, Texas—Gaynelle, Peaches and Jimmie Wyvette—teetering on the brink of disaster again. Gaynelle, frustrated and frazzled from working too many two-bit jobs, stubbornly refuses to face the fact she's turning the Big 5-0. In a misguided effort to lift her cousin's spirits, Peaches, a sassy, mortuarial cosmetologist who's stuck in a romantic dry gulch, is determined to throw Gaynelle a surprise birthday party she doesn't even want. Jimmie Wy, riding high on the success of her new wedding gown boutique for big gals—Wide Bride—reluctantly agrees to help Peaches surprise Gaynelle. But it turns out the surprise is on them when, in a startling twist, the party plans shift to a hastily thrown-together family funeral instead. The hilarity escalates when Peaches' recently declared dead husband unexpectedly returns and his romantic links to each of the cousins is revealed. And the hits just keep on coming as a Cajun bounty hunter who's tracking Peaches' husband crashes the funeral and a jilted bride holds the Verdeens hostage with a loaded paintball gun. All the while, the cousins struggle to avoid their bitter Aunt LaMerle who's hell-bent on cracking the ranks of the elite Daughters of the Nation of Texas and exacting revenge on the Verdeen girls before the dirt hits the casket. As the outrageous complications of this ferociously funny Jones-Hope-Wooten comedy explode into chaos, you'll find yourself hoping your next family celebration—be it birthday, wedding or funeral—is even half this much fun!

A Streetcar Named Desire

Oct 4, 2019 - Oct 13, 2019

Passion and desperation ignite in a smoldering new production of this American classic. Much like the "Old South" itself, Blanche has seen better times. The faded beauty of a southern plantation moves to the New Orleans tenement of her sister and earthy brother-in-law, and the tension grows as thick as the humid night air.

ADULT THEMES. Not recommended for those under 16.

WINE AND SPIRITS

Beans Creek Winery

Founded in 2003, Beans Creek Winery focuses on making wine with grapes and fruit that grow well in Tennessee and delivering a memorable experience to our Tasting Room visitors. Our full selection of wines range from dry, full-bodied reds through sweet whites and fruit wines. We now invite you to enjoy a taste of Beans Creek!

Branchwater Distillery

Branchwater Distillery is founded by master distiller, Bud Kelley. Bud's tradition of moonshining dates back to his great grandfather, Dave, who produced some of the finest white liquor in West Tennessee. Some of his traditions, along with Bud's, are carried into what we do today. Here at Branchwater, we believe the taste of tradition is what makes us different. This is who we are and this is what we do.

George Dickel Distillery • Cascade Hollow

Nestled in the mountains of Eastern Tennessee, the George Dickel Distillery, also known as Cascade Hollow, is home to the smoothest sipping whisky. At Cascade Hollow, Handmade the Hard Way is more than a slogan – it's a way of life. With very little technology used in the distillation process, each station is routinely checked and manned by an actual person. This ensures that the standard of quality that George Dickel fans are used to remains consistent. All George Dickel whiskies undergo the signature chill charcoal mellow filtration, making the whisky uniquely smooth. So smooth that George Dickel himself named the brand after the traditional Scottish 'whisky' spelling, without the 'e.' Today, Distiller Nicole Austin maintains the history and tradition of this Tennessee whisky while looking for new ways to innovate. Visit Cascade Hollow in Tullahoma, Tenn. to see what makes the iconic George Dickel Distillery special from its unique distillation processes to beautiful scenery of the Cascade Springs and Cumberland Plateau.

Jack Daniel Distillery

The Jack Daniel Distillery is established and registered with the federal government at its present location. And now after 150 years of time-tested whiskey-making, it's the oldest registered distillery in the United States.

Since 1866, every barrel our whiskey matures in has been crafted by the Jack Daniel Distillery. In Lynchburg, we're of the belief that you can't make great whiskey unless you make great barrels.

We hold charcoal in high regard. Letting our whiskey drip through 10 feet of charcoal is what makes our whiskey, Tennessee Whiskey.

Our sour mash is mostly corn, a little bit of rye, and of course the addition of barley malt. But the real secret to our whiskey is the pure, iron-free cave spring water from the Hollow.

Mr. Jack sets standards of whiskey making still followed today: "Every day we make it, we'll make it the best we can."

Jackson Morgan Southern Cream

American made and carefully curated, Jackson Morgan was born out of a need for a craft whiskey cream. Playful southern flavors including salted caramel, orange whip, and brown cinnamon sugar create a fun flair that has been missing from traditional whiskey creams. Can be sipped neat or shaken into a vintage cocktail. Best served chilled.

It all started in 1921 when Alfred Wetherington, the great grandfather of siblings Jackson and Morgan had a whiskey still in eastern North Carolina. He later decided to become a preacher and left the whiskey life behind. Almost a 100 years later, Jackson and Morgan are picking up where he left off with a new twist on the family recipe.

Lynchburg Winery

Welcome to the Taste of the South! The Lynchburg Winery located in beautiful and historic Lynchburg, Tenn. We are two local families that are grape growers and wine makers. Many know our town's name and history, but did you know that there was another story that needed to be told? For generations, these hollows have been home to many families that make wine. Now, you have the unique opportunity to taste some of the Southern Style Handcrafted wines, including Serendipity - Our Signature Southern Wine! A very fragrant sweet white Muscadine with a fizz! The Lynchburg Winery located on the square in downtown Lynchburg at 34 Hiles Street.

Prichard's Distillery

Prichard's Distillery, Inc. was founded in 1997 in Kelso, TN. There we converted a 1930s school-house into a fully functional old-fashioned distillery with the principle of preserving the tried and true colonial method of distilling spirits. We hand craft our spirits in traditional copper pot stills with the patience and care exercised by our forefathers over 200 years ago. Originally the distillery made our delicious award winning rums. Now, the whole portfolio of whiskeys, bourbons and liqueurs are manufactured here in Kelso. Our rums include: Prichard's Fine Rum, Prichard's Crystal Rum, Prichard's Cranberry Rum, Prichard's Key Lime Rum, Prichard's Sweet Georgia Belle and Prichard's Spiced Rum. Our whiskey portfolio includes our famous Double Barreled Bourbon and Double Chocolate Bourbon. And of course, Prichard's Sweet Lucy and Sweet Lucy Cream are the stars of our Liqueur collection. Prichard's Distillery produces over 20 different beverages for your tasting pleasure and we hope that you'll try them all.

Wonder why the neck of our rum bottles are crooked? While perusing through an antique shop in New England, Phil Prichard spied a hand blown antique bottle that may well have been over two hundred years old. Steeped in American history, many of the products we produce harken back to those early days of yesteryear when rum and whiskey were very much a staple of early New England history.

Our new bottle is a reproduction of that old bottle complete with many of its flaws and imperfections, recreated for us at our new glass producer here in America. We think it is quite a perfect bottle for our traditional American spirits.

Short Mountain Distillery

Short Mountain is owned and operated by the Kaufman brothers. In 1910 their great grandfather, Jesse Shwayder, founded the iconic American brand Samsonite. Shwayder never missed an opportunity to attribute his company's success to the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." He believed in this deep value so much that he started a tradition of handing out marbles engraved with the Golden Rule. The Kaufman brothers carry on this tradition to honor their great grandfather with a collectible coin inscribed with this philosophy on every bottle.

Short Mountain Distillery is partnered with local legends of moonshine, Ricky Estes & Ronald Lawson. These men have retired from their days of illegal wildcatting, but their craft is undisputed.

Our moonshiners bring to the table over 100 combined years of distilling experience. Short Mountain Shine is made with the time-honored skills of Cannon County moonshiners and is refined by the modern distilling practices of our Master Distiller Josh Smotherman. Short Mountain Shine is the best-tasting shine ever made, made even better.

Southern Pride Distillery

We are proud to be a modern part of an Old-World industry that has stood the test of time. With 20 years experience in the distilled spirits industry, it was only natural to apply our talents and passion to create premium distilled spirits -- and so Southern Distillery was created.

A dream made real in March of 2012, Southern Pride Distillery became a small batch artisan distillery committed to producing some of the finest distilled spirits on the market today. To say that our ancestors held their families and whiskey recipes close to their hearts is an understatement. Our story starts with a great grandmother and her Bible with the family recipe tucked safely inside the cover. Preserved by family members as all family secrets are.

Distilled in a copper pot still, our products are created much like those of our ancestors. We use locally grown corn milled at the distillery and our water comes from a natural spring that is on the property.

The products we offer are of the highest quality to keep the family proud! Our skilled craftsmen take both pride in their work and the end results, true to the family. This give you the best of both worlds --- time proven recipe and modern upgrades to accommodate our many valued customers.
