

Auburn unveils tower plan to display bells from St. Louis Church

The tower, which will stand at 40 feet, 9 inches, will anchor the New Auburn Village Center Plan, a multiple-phase improvement plan focusing on the riverfront between Mill and Broad Streets.

The Bells of St. Louis Committee recently hosted a "Celebration and Fundraising Kick-Off" at New Auburn's Anniversary Park. Those attending were able to view the site of a new tower that will serve as the permanent home for the four bells that, for nearly a century, graced the neighborhood's former St. Louis Church.

"This tower will be the second-tallest monument in Maine," said Auburn Mayor Jason Levesque. "As a true and lasting symbol of the heritage and history of Auburn, it will stand as testament to the vibrance and resurgence of our city as we head into our next 150 years."

The bells arrived in the city in October of 1916, shortly after being cast in the world-famous Paccard Bell Foundry of Annecy, France. Once in Auburn, they were blessed and raised skyward into the grand gothic tower of St. Louis Church, where they touched the lives of countless members of the community for generations.

When the church was decommissioned in 2003, the Roman Catholic Diocese of Portland planned to sell the bells, but a small group of local citizens successfully moved to keep them. Thanks to the generosity of the community, the bells were purchased and preserved.

The tower to be erected in Anniversary Park (formerly "Little Andy" Park) is the result of an ongoing effort since they were purchased to create an appropriate way to permanently display the bells in New Auburn. The tower, which will stand at 40 feet, 9 inches, will anchor the New Auburn Village Center Plan, a multiple-phase improvement plan focusing on the riverfront between Mill and Broad Streets.

"Our new bell tower will grace this gateway to our city for decades to come," said Levesque. "And See Tower, page 13

Senior College art work will benefit Camp Sunshine

Story by Rachel Morin

L-A Senior College art instructor Judy Hierstein had no idea that her spring class on "Drawing Flies and Other Intriguingly Infinitesimal Insecta" would culminate in a beautiful composite art piece created by her students.

Describing how the group effort was achieved, Judy explained that the surface was divided into squares, each of which was painted by a student in his or her own style. After being reassembled, the finished artwork was named "Spidey." Then came the question: What to do with Spidey?

Class member Eric Bellavance, who works with Camp Sunshine in Casco, suggested that they donate the art work to the Indigenous People Auction, part of the camp's annual Monte Carlo Weekend on October 12 and 13. Now in its third decade, the auction, which is open to the guests of Point Sebago Resort and the general public, has raised over $700,000 to date to benefit Camp Sunshine.

The art class members unanimously agreed that this was a great idea, so Spidey

Eric became involved with Camp Sunshine when his son, Zachary, was diagnosed at age 12. Zachary has done very well. Today he is 30 years old and living a happy, healthy, and productive life.

Founded in 1984, Camp Sunshine serves children with life-threatening illnesses and their families by providing retreats that combine respite, recreation, and support while enabling hope and creating joy throughout the various stages of a child's illness.

Free of charge to families, Camp Sunshine is the only such program in the nation offered year-round with the distinction of having been designed to serve entire families in a retreat model. The quality services it provides free of charge include accommodations, meals, onsite medical services, counseling services, See Art, page 13

Bishop Deeley to lead Irish pilgrimage trip

Taking place in 2020, the trip will include daily Masses celebrated by Bishop Deeley, who has deep family roots in Ireland.

All are invited to join Robert P. Deeley, Bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Portland, and other Maine parishioners on a once-in-a-lifetime pilgrimage to Ireland in 2020. The journey will begin on August 28 and conclude on September 8.

The trip will include daily Masses celebrated by Bishop Deeley, who has deep family roots in Ireland. His parents immigrated to the U.S. from County Galway and he still has relatives living in the country.

"Ireland is an inspiration to all who visit her," said Bishop Deeley. "The beauty of the shades of green in the scenery is matched only by the grand hospitality and warmth of its people. I look forward to showing my fellow pilgrims many of the amazing places and experiences that the Emerald Isle offers."

Highlights of the trip will include: the Cliffs of Moher, 400 feet high and stretching for five miles along the Atlantic coast; Cobh, last port of call for the RMS Titanic, with its colorful homes and heritage center; Dingle Peninsula, with its incredible stretch of seaside cliffs, sheep-strewn fields, and majestic hills, described by National Geographic Traveler as "the most beautiful place on earth"; Dublin, including a tour of St. Patrick's Cathedral; and Galway, where the group will visit Glenstal Abbey, take a ferry ride to the Aran Islands, and tour Dún Aenghus, a Celtic fortress perched on cliffs overlooking the Atlantic Ocean.

Other stops on the itinerary will be: Glendalough, which features Baltinglass Abbey, sixth-century monastic ruins, and a seventh-century monastery; Kilkenny, with its famed restaurants, music halls, shops, and medieval buildings; Knock Shrine, where the Virgin Mary appeared to 15 people in 1879; Kylemore Abbey, for a tour of the elegant mansion, garden, and church set beside a tranquil lake in the heart of the Connemara mountains; Tipperary, including a visit to the Rock of Cashel, majestic church ruins clustered high on a limestone outcrop overlooking the surrounding countryside; and Trinity College, to see the Book of Kells and the Old Library's Long Room, which holds over 200,000 books.

Rounding out the trip will be a visit to Cork, Ireland's second largest city; Gallarus Oratory, a chapel built of large cut stones discovered in 1756; and historic Kilmalkedar Church in Ballyferrier, a coastal community on the Dingle Peninsula.

The tour will include round-trip Concord Coach bus transportation from Portland to Boston; round-trip flights from Boston to Shannon and Dublin to Boston; nine dinners and ten breakfasts; hotel accommodations for ten nights; transportation on a deluxe motor coach in Ireland; visits and admission fees (per itinerary); hotel portage, service charges, and government taxes; and gratuities for local guides.

The price per person, based on double occupancy, is $4,699. For more information or to reserve a spot, contact Teena at Dube Travel by calling 784-2916 or emailing teendick@dubetravel.com.

Governor's Address: I am proud of the hard work lawmakers on both sides of the aisle have put into this budget process

Earlier this week, joined by Democratic and Republican lawmakers and Independent members of the Legislature, I was pleased to sign the state's biennial budget into law.

The biennial budget is the culmination of months of work by my Administration and by both Democrats and Republicans on the Appropriations Committee and in the Legislature.

I am very proud of the hard work that lawmakers on both sides of the aisle have put into this budget process and of the bipartisan agreement we've achieved as a result of that hard work.

As with all budgets and all compromises, nobody achieved everything they wanted, but this budget takes meaningful and important steps in investing in Maine's future.

It expands health care and makes it more accessible.

Governor Janet Mills

It increases the minimum teacher salary and dedicates more money to fixing crumbling schools.

It provides property tax relief to hardworking Mainers, seniors, families, and small businesses.

It invests in workforce training and higher education.

And it puts money aside into the Rainy Day Fund.

These are the priorities that Maine people have asked us to deliver on, and I am proud to have worked with the Legislature to achieve this.

In his 1861 Inaugural Address, Governor Israel Washburn, a friend of Abraham Lincoln's, said: "Waving aside petty schemes and unseemly wrangles... let us rise, if we can, to the height of the great argument which duty and patriotism so eloquently address to us."

I think this bipartisan budget is just the start of Maine lawmakers rising to restore our tradition of civil discourse and rediscovering our common ground, rooted as it always has been in our shared love and dedication to this great State of Maine.

That is the type of government Maine people want. It's the type of government Maine people deserve. It's the type of government we can all be proud of. And it's the type of government I will continue to work for as long as I am governor.

Thank You,
Janet Mills
Governor

A Lewiston educator with first-hand knowledge of the challenges of learning a new language has won the Maine Adult Education Association's Teacher of the Year Award.

Irina Petranek received the honor recently during the association's annual conference at the University of Maine at Orono. Lewiston Adult Education Director Bill Grant presented the award to Petranek at a ceremony held at Donald P. Corbett Hall.

Petranek, who teaches English as a Second Language, joined Lewiston Adult Education in 2011. She was born in Dzhambul, Kazakhstan and is a graduate of Lipetsk State Pedagogical University in Lipetsk, Russia. She moved to the United States in 2002.

Lewiston Adult Learning Center Coordinator Laurie Champagne noted that Petranek, who speaks English, French, and Russian, tries to combine her lessons with hands-on activities. These include cooking with her students and making sure everyone uses the proper English terms for mea-

New bipartisan budget includes real tax relief for Mainers

By Sen. Nate Libby

It has been a crazy, busy month at the State House as we kicked things into high gear to finish up on time. It was a lot of hard work and long hours - the legislature adjourned for the summer at 6:33 a.m. on Thursday after a marathon session that began Wednesday morning - but we made it.

There are many accomplishments I'm proud of this session, but perhaps the biggest is the bipartisan budget deal we were able to reach. Ninety-nine percent of the 1,154 line-item votes taken by the Appropriations and Financial Affairs Committee were unanimous. I want to thank committee co-chairs Sen. Cathy Breen (D-Falmouth) and Rep. Drew Gattine (D-Westbrook) for their strong and fair leadership throughout these negotiations.

The two-year budget was passed by the legislature on Friday night, June 14, and was signed by the governor the following Monday. While the process was long and at times tedious, it was always civil, with the aim of reaching a compromise that everyone could be proud of. It was a refreshing return to normalcy and an example of how government should run.

One of the most important provisions in this budget is a real investment in property tax relief. I know every lawmaker in the state, regardless of party, has heard from you, the voters, about how property taxes keep getting higher and higher. While the previous administration promised tax cuts, the reality is that the burden was just shifted around to communities and homeowners.

When the state cut back on revenue sharing, towns and cities had little choice but to increase taxes just to keep services and schools open. That has meant that more and more Mainers have had more and more trouble paying their property taxes, with many facing the possibility of losing their home because they just couldn't afford the growing bill. Nothing about that is okay. But I want you to know we heard you in Augusta, and relief is on the way.

Our new biennial budget doesn't include any new taxes. In fact, there's an extra $75 million for property tax relief. Thanks to the agreement we reached, the Homestead Exemption will increase by $5,000. That means Maine homeowners can take up to $25,000 off the valuation of their homes when they're filing their taxes. This was a huge priority for me, because this exemption specifically helps Maine residents - not tourists who happen to own a summer home on the Maine coast.

With this budget, 13,000 more Mainers will be eligible for the Property Tax Fairness Credit. Under this program, Maine seniors can save up to $1,250 and working Mainers and families can save up to $800 on property taxes or rent. That's more money staying in the wallets of Mainers who earned it and need it the most.

This budget also works toward restoring revenue sharing, which will help cities and towns regain their financial footing. Under this plan, revenue sharing would increase this coming year from 2 percent to 3 percent, and go up again the following year to 4 percent. This is a smart, measured step toward getting this important program back to where it should be.

I'm proud of the work that was put into crafting this budget. I know no one got everything they wanted; if they did, it wouldn't be a good compromise. But what we do have is a budget that funds programs that will help Mainers, and will help more hardworking families keep the money they earned, to spend on the things that matter the most to them.

Sen. Nate Libby (D-Androscoggin) represents Maine Senate District 21, which comprises the City of Lewiston.

Chamber names 2019 scholarship recipients

For the past 20 years, the LA Metro Chamber of Commerce has awarded scholarships to local graduating seniors planning to continue their studies at either an accredited college or university or in a certificate program. The chamber has also awarded scholarships to employees of member organizations planning to continue their education.

This year's scholarship recipients were announced at the chamber's June membership breakfast, held at Poland Spring Resort.

The high school recipients are Ryan Theriault of Edward Little High School, Sadie Waterman of Oak Hill High School, Hunter Steele of Lewiston High School, Catarina Bifulco of Leavitt Area High School, Abigail Castonguay of Saint Dominic Academy, Joshua Landry of Poland Regional High School, and Riley Leeman of Lisbon High School.

These students were selected by their high school guidance offices based upon their academic achievement, positive involvement in the local community, record of extracurricular school involvement, and time management skills fostered through part-time employment.

In keeping with the chamber's objective of aligning its scholarship program with the Maine Spark initiative to foster a productive and competitive local workforce, the recipients all plan to attend higher education programs in the State of Maine.

This year's Member Employee Scholarship recipient is Laura LaBelle, staff accountant for the City of Lewiston. LaBelle stated in her essay: "Not so long ago, I did not think it would be possible for me to be an employee of the City of Lewiston or to have the opportunity to obtain a college degree." LaBelle has overcome many challenges, and she is determined to succeed in her dual roles as a city employee and college student.

The Chamber raises funds for the scholarships through its annual Chip Morrison Scholarship Scramble. This year's event will take place on Wednesday, August 21 at Fox Ridge Golf Course in Auburn. Opportunities to support the event are still available. For more information, call 783-2249 or visit lametrochamber.com.

Auburn Police Department launches summer crime prevention campaign

#9PMROUTINE

Remove valuables & LOCK your vehicle!
@auburnpd #9PMroutine

In an effort to reduce and prevent crime in the community, the Auburn Police Department is joining in a national public safety campaign called the #9PM-Routine.

Designed to help prevent burglary and theft from homes and motor vehicles, the program is quick and easy: police urge residents to take a few extra moments each evening to make sure their doors are locked and their garage doors are closed and secure.

"Motor vehicle burglary is a crime of convenience," said Police

Chief Jason Moen. "Burglary of an unlocked motor vehicle is one of the most easily preventable crimes we have."

"There is an average of 70 motor vehicle burglary incidents each year in Auburn," said Deputy Chief Timothy Cogle. "The vast majority of these are thefts from unlocked vehicles."

As you go through your evening routine, just a few extra steps will make criminals think twice. Here's the plan. Every evening at 9 p.m., please: remove all valuables from your vehicle; lock and secure your vehicle; lock and secure your house, garage, and out-buildings; turn on exterior lights; arm your security system, if you have one; and then report any suspicious activity in your neighborhood.

So get in the #9PM-Routine and encourage your neighbors - especially seniors - to do the same. The APD has kicked off the #9PMRoutine on social media; be sure to reply with a post or a tweet back. Like them on Facebook or follow them on Twitter @AuburnPD.

Maine Warden Service recruiting new game wardens

The Maine Warden Service is now seeking to hire several new officers. Interested candidates can obtain an application and career opportunity bulletin by visiting mainegamewarden.com.

“Maine’s Game Wardens are among the State’s most highly trained and trusted law officers,” said Colonel Joel Wilkinson of the Maine Warden Service. “The extensive recruitment process ensures that we get the best candidates.”

Created in 1880 to protect Maine’s fish and wildlife, the Maine Warden Service is the state’s second largest law enforcement agency. To be a successful Maine Game Warden, candidates must possess considerable knowledge of wildlife; hunting, fishing, trapping, and other related outdoor sports; a strong desire to work in law enforcement; and a willingness to work outdoors in all weather conditions.

Game wardens’ key responsibilities include enforcing fish and wildlife laws, conducting search and rescue operations, enforcing recreational vehicle laws, providing safety education for hunters, trappers, boaters, snowmobilers, and ATV operators, and fostering good relations between outdoor enthusiasts and private landowners.

The Maine Warden Service is a modern, professional, highly effective conservation law enforcement agency. Members are certified law enforcement officers with full police powers and statewide jurisdiction. Equipment issued for carrying out their responsibilities includes four-wheel drive trucks, boats, snowmobiles, ATV’s, two-way radio repeater networks, portable radios, GPS units, personal computers, fixed-wing aircraft, and night vision equipment. In addition, the service maintains a critical incident management team for search and rescue activities, a dive team, and a K-9 unit.

To qualify to become a Maine Game Warden, you must be willing to locate anywhere in the State of Maine, have a high school diploma or equivalent, have no extensive motor vehicle or criminal record, be at least 21 years old (or be at least 20 years old and have completed an associate’s degree or 60 credit hours of post-secondary education prior to the start of formal training at the Maine Criminal Justice Academy), and have or be able to obtain a valid Maine Class C motor vehicle operator’s license.

The selection process for a Maine Game Warden is extensive and thorough. Applicants must submit proof of having already taken and passed the ALERT and the pre-employment physical fitness test, the latter within one year of the date of application.

Applicants who meet the minimum requirements are scheduled for a written examination. Those scoring above a certain level will then take an oral board examination. Successful applicants placed on an employment register will need to pass a swim test and then will go through an extensive background check.

A final interview is conducted, and a job offer is made contingent upon the outcomes of a physical examination, polygraph examination, and a psychological examination.

In development for more than a decade, the show is co-written by Curt Dale Clark, Artistic Director of Maine State Music Theatre, and longtime collaborator Marc Robin, Executive Artistic Director of Fulton Theatre in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

When young orphan Jim Hawkins finds himself the inheritor of a coveted treasure map, he soon attracts the unwanted attention

The cast is led by Michael Nigro (NBC’s “Sound of Music - Live”) as Jim Hawkins and Aaron Ramey (Broadway’s “The Visit,” “The Bridges of Madison County,” and “Jekyll & Hyde”) as Long John Silver. Other featured cast members are James Patterson (Broadway’s “Gigi” and “Beauty and the Beast”) as Dr. David Livesey; Michael Iannucci (Broadway’s “Fiddler on the Roof”) as Squire John Trelawney; James Michael Reilly (the international tour of “West Side Story”) as Blind Pew and Ben Gunn; Jason Simon (the

Theater at Monmouth opens golden anniversary season with “Murder for Two”

Theater at Monmouth has opened its “What Dreams May Come” golden anniversary season with a killer case just begging to be solved! “Murder for Two,” with book and music by Joe Kinosian and book and lyrics by Kellen Blair, is a fast and funny whodunit that begins with a bang. As one actor investigates the crime, the other plays all the suspects. And in this zany blend of musical comedy and madcap mystery, both of them play the piano!

On the eve of his surprise birthday party, legendary American novelist and guest of honor Arthur Whitney is shot dead by an unknown killer. Small town policeman Marcus Moscovicz’s only orders are to keep the scene secure and the party goes-turned-suspects from leaving. This could his chance to prove he’s ready to make detective. If he can stick to protocol, he might be able to solve this crime - unless the suspects and his painful memories get the best of him first.

First produced by Chicago Shakespeare Theatre in 2011, the play is a theatrical and literary love letter that honors the work of Agatha Christie, the Marx Brothers, Alfred Hitchcock, Frank Loesser, and Charles Ludlam. The New York Times called it an “ingenious miniature musical in the form of a snazzy vaude-villian double-act.”

“The strength of ‘Murder for Two’ is the way Kinosian and Blair lovingly spoof, celebrate, and reimagine both the murder mystery and musical theatre genres,” says Director Adam P. Blais. “This play encompasses everything that I love about the theatre. The story is smart yet funny, the characters are complicated yet endearing, and the score is intricate yet hummable.”

Murder for Two features TAM newcomers Robbie Harrison as The Suspects and Quinn Corcoran as Detective Marcus. The set was designed by Daniel Bilodeau, the costumes were designed by Jonna Klaiber, the lighting was designed by Jim Alexander, and the sound was designed by Rew Tippin.

The play is now running in rotation - including matinee and evening performances on both weekdays and weekends - through Friday, August 16. For show dates and ticket information, call the TAM Box Office at 933-9999 or visit www.theateratmonmouth.org.

Founded in 1970, Theater at Monmouth was named the Shakespearean Theater of Maine by the State Legislature in 1975. Its mission is to present innovative approaches to Shakespeare and other classic plays through professional productions that enrich the lives of people throughout Maine. TAM produces engaging, expertly crafted productions in its three-month Summer Repertory Season and annually reaches more than 15,000 students statewide through its Education Tours,

Make-A-Wish comedy fundraiser features headliner Karen Morgan

In partnership with Uncle Andy's Digest, L-A Metro Magazine, and Side By Each Brewing, Maine Event Comedy will present nationally touring comedian Karen Morgan at Side By Each Brewing on Saturday, June 29 at 8 p.m. The show will also feature Steve Scarfo, Luke Hanbury, and Julie Poulin. All proceeds from this special comedy fundraiser will benefit Make-A-Wish Maine.

A native of Athens, Georgia, Karen Morgan set aside a career as a successful trial attorney to pursue comedy full-time. She was a finalist on Nick at Nite's "Search for the Funniest Mom in America" and has been touring the country playing clubs, theaters, and corporate events ever since.

Morgan has performed at Caroline's in New York, the Improv in Las Vegas, and the Laugh Factory in Hollywood. Her comedy can be heard on Sirius XM Radio and nationally syndicated radio shows. Her television appearances include ads for Walmart and Zyrtec. She resides in Cumberland and is licensed to practice law in both Maine and Georgia. However, she plans to stick with comedy until someone in her family gets arrested - again.

Steve Scarfo's bizarre, high-energy viewpoint has kept audiences laughing throughout New England. He's performed at Nick's

He was prominently featured in the 2004 Red Sox World Series MasterCard commercial and has appeared in several movies, including "Fever Pitch," "The Departed," and "The Fighter."

Julie Poulin is making waves in her young stand-up career. She recently bested a field of 20 comedians from throughout New England in winning Maine Event Comedy's Tightest Five contest. A few months later, she won the Central Maine Comedy Invitational at Lewiston's Franco Center.

Luke Hanbury's funny observations and edgy humor have entertained audiences from Bar Harbor to California. He won Portland's Funniest Professional contest in 2006 and has performed at the Comedy Store in Los Angeles and the Ice House in Pasadena.

Diocese names new superintendent for Maine Catholic Schools

Bishop Robert P. Deeley has named Marianne Pelletier as the new superintendent of Maine Catholic Schools. Pelletier, who currently serves as the principal of Saint Dominic Academy's Lewiston campus, succeeds Jim King, who has served as superintendent since July of 2015.

In her new position as superintendent, Pelletier will work primarily based at Saint Dominic Academy's Auburn campus.

Pelletier is known nationally for her contributions to Catholic education. On two occasions, including at Saint Dominic Academy in 2017, her schools received the distinguished Innovation in Catholic Schools Award, presented by Today's Catholic Teacher. She has served on the executive board of the National Catholic Schools Association and established a collaborative that included two initiatives: one with the University of Notre Dame that aimed to increase cultural diversity within Catholic schools, and another with Boston College that created two-way language immersion programs. She currently serves as a design team mentor, presenting and mentoring Catholic school principals for the University of Notre Dame's Latino Education Initiative.

"I'm honored and humbled that the bishop has asked me to serve in this way," said Pelletier. "It's an exciting time in our diocese to expand our outreach of partnership to current families and those who will consider a Catholic school for their child.

"Catholic schools are special places," she continued. "Our learning environments will emphasize successfully proven approaches to education, as well as spiritual growth for our children."

A native of Boise, Idaho, Pelletier attended Catholic grammar and middle schools before graduating from Bishop Kelly High School. She went on to earn two bachelor's degrees from the University of Idaho and two master's degrees (special education, school administration) from West Virginia University.

In addition, she received a fellowship to complete graduate work at the Peabody College of Education and Human Development at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee, resulting in an educational specialist degree.

She later served as a principal in public schools in both Connecticut and Idaho before moving to Maine and joining the Saint Dominic Academy family as the director of enrollment in 2015. In August of 2016, she was named the principal of the academy's Lewiston campus (Pre-K through Grade 6).

Pelletier is a member of Our Lady of the Lakes Parish and attends St. Luke Church in Rangeley, where she and her husband reside on weekends.

and recreational facilities. While the camp is in session, each family stays in its own family suite. Breakfast, lunch, and dinner are served daily.

Another distinctive component of the program is the medical facilities and professional staff that are available to address the taxing physical needs of children with intrusive diseases. A physician is located at the camp for the entire session, so families can be secure in the knowledge that the camp offers 24-hour onsite medical support. In addition, a hospital with full-time emergency room physicians and pediatricians is only 25 minutes away.

Bereavement sessions are also offered for families who have experienced the death of a child from a supported illness.

The artists are pleased and proud that their composite art creation will benefit the children of Camp Sunshine. For more information about Camp Sunshine, including photos of their activities and events, see their website at www.campsunshine.org.

A noteworthy observation: This is the second Lewiston-Auburn Senior College class to produce creative work that has gone beyond the classroom and into the public domain this year. The first, a poetry class taught by Senior College instructor Bill Frayer a few years ago, recently saw the publication of its original collection “Wit, Wisdom and Whimsy.” Copies were given to local public libraries and are available for purchase at Amazon.com. Feedback from readers has been very good.

Chocolate Church Arts Center announces roster for Summer Waterfront Concert Series

Hank Barbee and the Dust Parade perform their genre-bending mix of surfy jazz, rock, and country blues on July 27.

For the sixth consecutive year, the Chocolate Church Arts Center will present free weekly concerts on Saturdays at 6 p.m. at Waterfront Park in Bath. This year’s series, presented in collaboration with Main Street Bath and the City of Bath, will highlight some of Maine’s best regional performers during its eight-week run, from July 13 to August 31.

The series kicks off on July 13 with Crystal Vision, who perform the music of classic rock staple Fleetwood Mac. On July 20, Cribstone offers its eclectic mix of blues, Celtic, country, and classic rock covers and original songs. The Dust Parade, led by the mellow baritone of Hank Barbee, play their genre-bending mix of surfy jazz, rock, and country blues on July 27.

August 3 brings the indie rock and blues of Xander Nelson and his band, whose song “You Got a Problem” has received extensive radio play. The Big Chips Trio perform a swinging jazz, blues, and soul concoction perfect for dancing on August 10. Soggy Po Boys, who have brought the sounds of New Orleans to New England for nearly a decade, play their combination of jazz, funk, and Caribbean music on August 17.

Jason Ward, former horn player of Rustic Overtones, leads his jazzy funk band in performance on August 24. Steel drum band Pan Fried Steel closes out the series with traditional steel drumming and renditions of rock, pop, and reggae songs on August 31.

The Summer Concert Series is an opportunity for families to experience beautiful evenings by the water in Bath while enjoying some superb musical performers. All performances are free; no tickets are required. For more information, call 442-8455 or see www.chocolatechurcharts.com.

3D Mammography Now Offered at Central Maine Medical Center

Central Maine Medical Center’s Sam & Jennie Bennett Breast Care Center is proud to be the only facility in the Lewiston/Auburn area to offer 3D breast imaging to every woman having a screening mammogram. Also known as tomosynthesis, 3D mammography is a safe and proven technology that has a number of benefits over traditional 2D methods, including:

- More accurate findings
- Earlier diagnosis
- Better detection in dense breast tissue
- Fewer callbacks for “false alarms”

The Bennett Center offers comprehensive breast care from prevention to diagnosis to treatment and ongoing support. Care is provided by a multidisciplinary team of clinicians who specialize in breast health, including a nurse navigator who helps guide patients through the process from diagnosis to recovery.
