Football Coach

A football coach was asked his secret of evaluating raw recruits.

"Well," he said, "I take 'em out in the woods and make 'em run. The ones that go around the trees, I make into running backs. The ones that run into the trees, I turn into linemen."

* Yet another use for a microfiber cloth: Keep one in your vehicle to dust the dashboard or remove smudges from your windshield.

* Bring a binder clip and a zip-top plastic bag with you on a flight, and you can put your phone in the bag and clip it up on the seat in front of you for easy viewing. A gallon-size bag, two binder clips and a small bungee work for a tablet.

* "Our family loves to make our own pizza, and we purchase dough from a pizzeria. On pizza nights, I pick up the dough first thing on the way home from work and let it sit in a bowl in the car while I pick up the kids and drive home. It takes about 45 minutes, so it's risen nicely while we've been on the go." -- E.F. in New York

* If you have stainless steel appliances, you might want to try a simple furniture polish to get those surfaces shiny and smudge free. You can use most any commercial spray-on polish, applied with a clean, lint-free rag.

* Peg racks mounted low on the wall near an entranceway can make a swell shoe rack. Hang shoes from pegs by the heel. It's a great way to keep your daily walkers up off the floor!

* "Plastic containers with a serving spout can be used for more than fruit juice and sweet tea! Mine fit a full bag of flour or sugar, and if I open a hole in the bag right where the spout is, I can pour what I need out without even removing the top. Admittedly, it works better for sugar than for flour, but it still makes baking goods easy to store." -- T. in Arkansas

When the insurance company wants a diagram of the accident

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Dealing with a difficult person can be the kind of challenge you Aries Lambs love. Or it could be an energy-draining exercise in futility. Be certain your goals are worth your efforts.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The Divine Bovine might be seeing red at having your crisis-resolution efforts overlooked. But others know the truth, and they can be expected to step forward when the time comes.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You should be well on your way to finally making that important decision. Having the support of loved ones will help when crunch time comes. Keep a positive attitude.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Feeling uneasy about a move might not mean you're having a case of Cancerian wavering. It could be your inner sense is warning you to reassess your situation before taking action.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your pride could get in the way of admitting you might have erred. Best to 'fess up now before a small mistake turns into a big misunderstanding. Make the weekend a special family time.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Trying to please someone with a less-than-glowing opinion of something you value could be a waste of time. If you like it, stay with it. The week's end brings an answer to an old mystery.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) There might be time to make a change. But be honest with yourself: Is it what you really want, or one you feel pressured into making? Your answer should determine your next move.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Change is dominant, but so is caution: Proceed carefully, checking each step along the way to avoid encountering any unwelcome surprises that might be lurking along your path.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It could be a mistake to rely on someone to keep his or her promise without checking out previous performances. What you learn now could save you from a painful lesson later.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Taking a strong stand on an issue you feel is too important to ignore could inspire others to follow suit. The weekend is a good time to socialize with old friends and make new ones.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your sensitive nature gives you an insight into the problems of someone close to you. Your offer of support could be just what this person needs to start turning his or her life around.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Financial matters continue to need even more careful analysis than usual. Use caution with investment possibilities. A personal relationship might take an unexpected turn by the week's end.

BORN THIS WEEK: You appreciate the wonders of the world and enjoy sharing your delight with others.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — We now know why Netflix has been concentrating on making original movies that it can show in theaters and make available exclusively for streaming. In the beginning we had HBO, Showtime, Cinemax and the Movie Channel for watching current films. Netflix backed its streaming with TV series content such as "Friends," "The Simpsons" and "The Office," which was immensely popular. Last year Disney pulled its product from Netflix because Disney is starting its own streaming service.

Now WarnerMedia has created HBO-Max as their streaming service, and as of November, "Friends" will no longer be available to Netflix. As contracts run out, Netflix also will lose "The Fresh Prince of Bel Air," "Pretty Little Liars" and Reese Witherspoon products. Thanks to Disney's acquisition of 20th Century Fox, Netflix also will be losing 30 years of "The Simpsons." Disney's streaming service likely will cost $7, while HBOMax will be $15 or more.

Among the top 100 celebrity moneymakers is Celine Dion (at No. 100) with $37.6 million, Ryan Seacrest (No. 27) with $71.5 million, Chris Hemsworth (No. 24) with $76.4 million, Ellen DeGeneres (22) with $80.5 million, Beyonce and Jay Z (20) with $81 million, Elton John (19) with $84 million, Dwayne Johnson (15) with $89 million and Phil McGraw (9) with $95 million. Kim Kardashian came in at No. 26 with $72 million and husband Kanye West is No. 4 with $80 million, but Kylie Jenner beat them combined at No. 2 with $170 million. The top grosser of the year? Taylor Swift, with $185 million.

If you don't remember the classic TV series "The Fugitive" (1963-67), which starred David Janssen, you probably will remember Harrison Ford as "The Fugitive" in the 1993 film that won a best supporting Oscar for Tommy Lee Jones. Now Warner is developing a series reboot for the small screen. No cast been named yet.

LD Entertainment/Roadside Attractions

Renee Zellweger in "Judy"

Vanity Fair is predicting the Emmys will go hostless like this year's Academy Awards show. When Kevin Hart bowed out of emceeing, it was too late to find another host. Last year the Emmys were hosted by "Saturday Night Live's" Michael Che and Colin Hanks, but it wasn't a good fit. So far no one has been asked to emcee the Sept. 22 broadcast.

It's amazing how well Renee Zellweger was able to transform herself to look and sound like Judy Garland for the new film "Judy" (out Sept. 27), in which she plays the "The Wizard of Oz" star in 1968-69, her final years. Zellweger was Oscar-nominated for "Bridget Jones's Diary" (2001), "Chicago" (2002) and won an Oscar for "Cold Mountain" in 2003. Judy Garland only won the miniature Oscar they gave to child stars. Maybe Renee can win a real one for her.

3. "Crocodile Rock," in 1973. The song was used in the soundtrack of the 1994 film "Four Weddings and a Funeral."
4. Louis Armstrong, aka Satchmo, played trumpet.
5. "Your Good Thing Is About to End," by Lou Rawls in 1969. His is the most recognizable version, although the song was first released on Stax in 1966 by Mable John. The song was most recently released by bluesman Robert Cray.

PIEDMONT PETS

The first time I saw newborn guinea pigs, I was amazed. They are born with eyes open, all of their hair, and a full set of teeth. In fact, within hours of being born, they can eat solid food.

Guinea pigs readily interact and bond with humans. They may be the ideal companion for someone who lives in an apartment, but still wants to have a companion. Be aware, though, they still require attention and play time outside of the cage.

Guinea pigs originally came from South America and are considered a source of protein. I tried not to be too appalled when I learned that a friend of mine who had served a mission to Argentina had actually eaten them.

Although parents must realize that they will be the ones ultimately responsible for the care of any companion animal in the home, guinea pigs may be a good choice of a first pet for older children. They have very specific needs that should be carefully monitored.

Guinea pigs can live to be about eight years old in a home where their dietary needs are fulfilled. They must have constant access to a high-quality guinea pig food, Timothy hay, and some fruits and vegetables (especially those high in vitamin C). Any fresh food not eaten within 24 hours should be discarded.

Guinea pigs need to have fresh, clean, chlorine-free water every day in a bottle that is kept clean and sanitary.

The biggest concern we see is the size of a cage. If your guinea pig spends most of the time in a cage, then it needs to be a large one. If a store employee suggests the minimum size, increase that! There must be a solid floor and paper bedding should be used. Cedar shavings are a huge no-no. The cage will quickly smell if not kept clean every day; solid waste should be removed every day and wet spots should also be removed daily.

Guinea pigs love time outside their cage; however, they should never be taken outside and left there. In fact, a hawk would not be bothered by a human standing nearby and can snatch guinea pigs before the owner has time to react. In addition, guinea pigs can also get infested with fleas and other small creatures. There are plenty of ways to let guinea pigs get exercise inside.

If you believe a guinea pig may be a good first pet for your older child, there is a lot of information online. And don't forget - animal shelters also have guinea pigs for adoption. We currently have six young ones and three adult ones for adoption. There is no need to buy one; a homeless guinea pig may be waiting for you at the shelter!

BOOK DETAILS SPIRITUAL BATTLE FOR GANG-AFFILIATED YOUTH

The City of Danville's coordinator for youth services and gang violence prevention has written a book that provides churches and faith-based organizations with an understanding of the motives and origins of gangs from a Christian perspective.

In his book, "Gangs vs. Kingdom: Battle for the Next Generation," Robert David also provides evidence-based strategies for these groups to make a change in the lives of youths affiliated with gangs.

"Over time, I realized that gangs operate under a trinity just as Christians operate under a Trinity," David said. "For gang members, their God is money. Their Jesus or their Messiah is their OG (Original Gangster) because whatever instruction they receive comes from their OG or leader.

"Their Holy Spirit – which will comfort them or come to their aid – is other gang members."

David said organizations must understand that violent and deviant behaviors are the outward expression of a gang's commitment to their Trinity.

"I use this concept of the Trinity so that faith-based organizations can see that it's going to take more than a hot dog supper during which you tell them to get out of their gang," David said. "To tell a young person entrenched in a gang to get out of the gang is the same as trying to tell you or me to stop worshipping God and stop believing in Jesus as your Lord and Savior."

He continued, saying, "For these youths to make a change in their lives there has to be a conversion like you would convert from another religion."

Faith-based organizations must first develop a relationship with these youths, and they must understand the history of urban gangs and how they became glamorized. David details this history in the book.

"If faith-based organizations don't give young people a place to operate in their purpose, then gangs will," David said. "That's the battle. If we don't find a relevant way for young to manifest who they are – and to be able to look past some of their indiscretions because they don't look like us or act like us – then these young people are going to go to the street. The gangs facilitate that."

David, who is available for seminars and training sessions, said OGs make their god – money – tangible when they come through neighborhoods in big cars and with lots of money.

The 90-page book is available on Amazon as a paperback and Kindle eBook.

David joined the City on June 11, 2018, as its first youth services and gang violence prevention coordinator. Since then, he has implemented programs such as Project Imagine, which is a training and employment program designed to give youths with a gang connection a future off the streets by providing them with a paid work experience and mentoring while on the job.

Before coming to Danville, he served as a juvenile court counselor with the N.C. Department of Public Safety, a community gang liaison in Rockingham, N.C., and a probation officer in California.

David also is a life and recovery coach and motivational speaker and has been a drug-free Mr. Universe bodybuilder and four-time world champion powerlifter.

Sovah Health Recognized for Excellence with ACC Cardiac Cath Lab Accreditation with PCI

Sovah Health provides necessary care, resources to cath lab patients

DANVILLE & MARTINSVILLE, VA (July 30, 2019) – The American College of Cardiology (ACC) has recognized Sovah Health for its demonstrated expertise and commitment in treating patients who come to a cardiac cath lab for care, including diagnostic catheterizations and percutaneous coronary intervention (PCI) procedures.

Both Sovah Health - Danville ("Danville") and Sovah Health - Martinsville ("Martinsville") were awarded Cardiac Cath Lab Accreditation with PCI in June based on rigorous onsite evaluation of the staff's ability to evaluate, diagnose and treat patients who come to the cardiac cath lab.

Percutaneous coronary intervention is also known as coronary angioplasty. It is a non-surgical procedure that opens narrowed or blocked coronary arteries with a balloon to relieve symptoms of heart disease or reduce heart damage during or after a heart attack.

Hospitals that have proven exceptional competency in treating patients who require cardiac catheterization have standardized their assessment process for patients before undergoing catheterization to ensure quality and patient safety. They ensure that care in the procedure room for sedation, infection control, radiation safety, universal protocol, and time out procedures is full coordinated; and have mastered the appropriate transfer to a cath recovery unit to better monitor and track complications, enhance physician-to-patient communication, patient family communication, discharge instructions and follow-up information.

"I am so proud of our teams in Danville and Martinsville, who worked together tirelessly to secure this newest Cardiac Cath Lab Accreditation from the American College of Cardiology, said Kevin Lingle, MD, Interventional Cardiologist and Medical Director of Sovah Health's cath labs. "This accreditation, along with previously awarded ACC accreditations in Chest Pain and Heart Failure, reinforces Sovah Health's vision of creating places where people choose to come for care, physicians want to practice and employees want to work."

Hospitals receiving Cardiac Cath Lab Accreditation with PCI from the ACC must take part in a multifaceted clinical process that involves: completing a gap analysis; examining variances of care; developing an action plan; a rigorous onsite review; and monitoring for sustained success. Improved methods and strategies of caring for patients include streamlining processes, implementing guidelines and standards, and adopting best practices in the care of cath lab patients. Facilities that achieve accreditation meet or exceed an array of stringent criteria and have organized a team of doctors, nurses, clinicians, and other administrative staff that earnestly support the efforts leading to improved patient outcomes.

The ACC offers U.S. and international hospitals like Sovah Health access to a comprehensive suite of cardiac accreditation services designed to optimize patient outcomes and improve hospital financial performance. These services are focused on all aspects of cardiac care, including the cath lab.

Sovah Health offers an integrated approach to heart and vascular care that spans the spectrum from prevention and diagnostic care to surgical treatments and rehabilitation. Sovah Health's two campuses are both members of the Duke Heart Network and are accredited by the ACC for Chest Pain Center, Heart Failure - and now Cardiac Cath Lab with PCI.

SENIOR NEWS LINE

by Matilda Charles

It's Not Too Late to Start Moving

If we've been inactive for many years, it's easy to just assume that there's nothing we can do at our age to increase our health and longevity. Not so, according to a new study.

A large University of Cambridge study of 14,000 participants over nearly 13 years assessed diet, alcohol consumption, body mass index, occupation — and physical activity levels — and compared those with mortality risk from any condition.

Here's what researchers discovered: Those who were sedentary and remained sedentary had a higher risk of mortality. However, those who started with low activity levels but increased them had additional longevity benefits. Specifically, the risk of death decreased 24% for a low increase in activity, 38% for a medium increase, and 42% for a high increase in activity.

In other words, even if we've been very sedentary, becoming more active now lowers our mortality risk.

Many researchers (and the World Health Organization) still say that 150 minutes per week of moderate-intensity exercise is what we all need. They even break it down into minutes of activities like dog walking or gardening, all the way up to running and playing tennis.

But that doesn't mean we should all do 150 minutes of cycling or jogging per week, especially without medical advice. Yes, we can gain longevity if we become more active, but it shouldn't be at the risk of our current health.

Get your doctor's opinion. Ask for a plan to gradually increase your activity level. How many minutes of which activity should you do each week? If you're going to walk, where will you do that? If you want at-home exercise equipment, what kind? If your doctor's office has a sports medicine department, ask about being assessed on its equipment.

Seriously consider upping your activity level, but do it safely.

IT'S NOT NICE TO FOOL MOTHER NATURE'

If you are old enough, you may recall a 1970's TV commercial that used the catch phrase "it's not nice to fool Mother Nature." Well, the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC] reports that a California start-up is doing just that. Perfect Day is the name of a nascent company that has found a way to manufacture dairy free protein to produce non-dairy products that look and taste like the ones Mother Nature has been making since the beginning of time. And, that includes ice cream that will allow the lactose intolerant to know how great real ice cream tastes.

POT LUCK?

It's all in the pronunciation. For example, the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC] says Kensli Davis of Milledgeville, GA blames her mother's deep South drawl for the mix-up when she ordered her birthday cake. Mom asked for Kensli's cake to feature icing with a theme based on her favorite Disney character, Moana. But when the cake was delivered, it featured a marijuana leaf and a horse smoking a joint, as they say. Kensli says, "I think they thought that she said 'marijuana' because we are from south Georgia and kind of have an accent. So, 'Moana,' marijuana?"

PRETTY POTHoles

Pothole ridden streets are dangerous and unsightly but a local artist in Chicago may have come up with a way to give commuters a smooth and esthetically soothing ride, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. Jim Bachor is an accomplished mosaic artist who came up with the idea of filling the potholes with unique works of art on a trip to Pompeii. He uses a technique that employs shards of marble and glass just as mosaic artists did 2,000 years ago. Bachor says a tour guide in Pompeii inspired him. The guide pointed out that the mosaic works of art that adorn floors throughout the ancient city look just as they did when they were first created. "I still don't know if it's legal or not, but I have had discussions with [Chicago] police through the years, about a half dozen, and once they know what I'm doing they don't have an issue with it."

FEISTY FARMER

She was fed up with reckless drivers speeding on the open roads surrounding her village in Sefton, England, so 71-year-old farmer Edie Pope took matters into her own hands, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. The feisty farmer decided that if a scarecrow can deal with pesky birds that dine on crops, a "scarecop," dressed like a police officer with radar gun, might help keep the roads around her farm a little bit safer. It'll take time to see if her solution works.

BOY OH BOY

Police in Brigham City, UT recently received numerous calls about a young man -- a very young man -- had set up a roadside stand selling beer. The Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC] reports that when the police went out to investigate they caught the underage entrepreneur red handed. He was holding a sign with large block letters hawking "Ice Cold Beer." But on closer inspection they saw the word "root" spelled out in very small letters between the words "Cold" and "Beer." A very clever "marketing strategy," said the police on the Brigham City Police Facebook page.

HOT STUFF

Frying an egg on the sidewalk was not good enough for the National Weather Service in Omaha, NE during a recent heat wave. The Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC] reports that the weather forecasters there turned a car into an oven and baked biscuits. They put the biscuit batter on a tray and placed the tray under the car's windshield as temperatures inside the vehicle reached 185 degrees. The result was a batch of biscuits that were described as somewhat doughy but edible.

SPECIAL DELIVERY

She loves Amazon. He loves her. And, so, when her birthday came around Waylon McGuire of Dunn, NC he had a local bakery cook up a special birthday cake for his wife, Emily. It was an exact replica of a delivery from the online retailer, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. The baker did such a good job of turning flour and icing into a realistic-looking USPS package that Emily says she thought it was a real box at first glance.

THE FISH THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY

A pair of boys will have a spectacular fish story to tell their classmates when they return to school. And, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC], they'll have the video to prove that they indeed did catch a more than six-foot long sturgeon. Fourteen-year-old Owen Sanderson and 12-year-old Mac Hoekstra of Edina, Minnesota say they used a rope with a slip-knot to lasso and land their monstrous catch. They then released the fish back into Minnehaha Creek. The proud dad of one of the boys used his cell phone camera to record the event.

"I couldn't walk anywhere in the United States without being recognized."

Original Mouseketeer Tommy Cole

With its telegenic cast of singing, dancing and emoting performers who would soon become the most popular and envied kids in America, The Mickey Mouse Club show captivated up to 10 million viewers a day during the 1950s. It remains today one of the most iconic television series ever.

The Mickey Mouse Club was an ABC-TV variety show with a revolutionary concept for its time—a show for kids that featured kids as the performers. The hundreds of enthusiastic youngsters auditioning for the series included future actors Paul Petersen and Candice Bergen and future songwriter/singer Paul Williams. Growing up in an era much simpler than our current one, the 28 original Mouseketeers chosen tended to be normal youngsters whose biggest problems were overbearing stage mothers and niggling intra-cast jealousies.

The Mickey Mouse Club, whose target audience was age 12 but also included many parents, was hosted by "Mouseketeer" Jimmie Dodd, a banjoist/actor/songwriter who composed the show's iconic "The Mickey Mouse March" (you remember... "M-I-C...K-E-Y," etc.) and occasionally offered little morality lessons called "Doddisms."

Roy Williams, a Disney artist and the second "Mouseketeer," suggested the wearing of Mouseketeer ears by each performer, an idea disdained by some. Lonnie Burr, for example, grumbled that the stiff appendages messed up his "cool" pompadour hairstyle. He would later donate his stage ears to the Smithsonian.

Each weekday's show featured a special theme. Monday was Fun with Music Day, Tuesday was Guest Star Day, Wednesday was Anything Can Happen Day, Thursday was Circus Day and Friday was Talent Round-up Day. Each afternoon's events were divided into 15-minute segments and were rife with commercials and product placement. They featured newsreels, Mouseketeer performances, a Mickey Mouse cartoon (voiced by Disney himself as the world's best-known rodent) and such serial dramas as The Adventures of Spin and Marty and The Hardy Boys.

Several cast members became well-known, but none more so than Annette Joanne Funicello. The only Mouseketeer hand-picked by Disney after he had spied her at a local dance-school recital, the already-developed girl turned 13 in October of 1955, the same month that The Mickey Mouse Club made its debut. Funicello quickly established herself as the show's superstar—and the object of desire for millions of hormone-fueled boys. In time, she would cut five Top 40 hit singles on her boss's Disneyland/Buena Vista label and co-star with fellow teen idol Frankie Avalon in several vacuous but popular Beach Party movies. (At Disney's request, she always kept her navel covered.) Funicello died in 2013 at age 70 after battling multiple sclerosis for 26 years.

The Mickey Mouse Club ended its first run in 1959 and had a short-lived 1977 resurgence that very few remember today. A third series, though, became a landmark event in 1989 when The All-New Mickey Mouse Club became the career launching pad for such stars of today as Britney Spears, Justin Timberlake, Christina Aguilera, Ryan Gosling and Keri Russell.

'Pile-O-Gold'

A paperweight that looks like a forgotten mound of gold coins is a vintage puzzle that has been solved. A pristine example was offered for sale recently with the original box. There is an inscribed leather patch on the bottom, and a small leaflet describing the coins and their history. The leather patch had a message: "Your friendship is more precious than gold." The paperweight was made by the Johnson Bronze Company of New Castle, Pennsylvania. The weights were sold to companies who gave them to customers as gifts. They were very popular with banks, insurance agents, stock brokers, mortgage brokers, real estate agents and other companies that dealt with coins and money.

This 5 1/2-inch wide pile of coins is a paperweight, probably first made in the 1960s. It was a popular gift for good customers and executives who were in financial businesses. Some are being sold online for about $40 to $50.

The paperweight is called the "Pile-O-Gold," and the coins picture presidents, captains of industry, scientists, inventors and engineers. Some of the coins have quotes, and all have the name and embossed head of the honored person, plus the name of the job that brought the person fame. A vintage example sold recently for about $50. We are told the pile of gold coins on a desk often fools visitors.

Q. A friend just told me that a 12 • 1/2-inch round wooden plate with a center "well" and nine smaller carved wells surrounding it is a gaming board — not an oyster plate like I thought. It is decorated with painted playing cards so that might be true. Any suggestions?

A. It can't be an oyster plate. The food and the washing would destroy the painted cards, and oyster plates usually have four to six wells. That is a generous portion for dinner. There is an old English card game called "Pope Joan" that uses a board like yours. It was known in the 16th century, and still is played today by three to eight players. The game was very popular with families in Victorian times and first recorded in the famous book of card and board game rules by Hoyle in 1814. The game uses the 52-card deck minus the eight of diamonds and making the nine of diamonds an important winning card. All antique game boards are selling well today, and a rare round wooden Pope Joan board sold at auction for a little over $1,000 a few years ago.

How to Help an Aging Parent with a Hoarding Problem

Dear Savvy Senior,

My 70-year-old mother has become somewhat of a hoarder. Since my father died a few years ago, her house is so disorganized and messy with stuff that it's becoming a hazard. What should I do to help her?

Troubled Son

Dear Troubled,

Clutter addiction is a problem that effects up to five percent of Americans, many of whom are seniors. The problems can range anywhere from moderate messiness to hoarding so severe it may be related to a mental health disorder like obsessive-compulsive disorder. Here's what you should know, along with some tips and resources that can help your mom.

Why People Hoard

The reasons most people hoard is because they have an extreme sentimental attachment to their possessions, or they believe they might need their items at a later date. Hoarding can also be a sign that an older person is depressed or showing early symptoms of dementia.

Common problems for seniors who live in excessive clutter are tripping, falling and breaking a bone; overlooking bills and missing medications that are hidden in the clutter; and suffering from the environmental effects of mold, mildew and dust, and even living among insects and rodents.

What to Do

To get a handle on your mom's problem, the Institute for Challenging Disorganization offers a free "Clutter Hoarding Scale" that you can download off their website at ChallengingDisorganization.org.

If you find that your mom has a moderate cluttering problem, there are a number of things you can do to help.

Start by having a talk with her, respectfully expressing your concern for her health and safety, and offering your assistance to help her declutter.

If she takes you up on it, most professional organizers recommend decluttering in small steps. Take one room at a time or even a portion of a room at a time. This will help prevent your mom from getting overwhelmed.

Before you start, designate three piles or boxes for your mom's stuff – one pile is for items she wants to keep-and-put-away, another is the donate pile and the last is the throwaway pile.

You and your mom will need to determine which pile her things belong in as you work. If your mom struggles with sentimental items that she doesn't use, like her husband's old tools or mother's china for example, suggest she keep only one item for memory sake and donate the rest to family members who will use them.

You will also need to help her set up a system for organizing the kept items and new possessions.

Find Help

If you need some help with the decluttering and organizing, consider hiring a professional organizer who can come to your mom's home to help you prioritize, organize and remove the clutter. The nonprofit group National Association of Productivity and Organizing Professionals has a directory on the website at NAPO.net to help you locate a professional in your area.

If your mom has a bigger, more serious hoarding problem (if her daily functioning is impaired, or if she is having financial difficulties, health problems, or other issues because of her hoarding) you'll need to seek professional help. Antidepressants and/or talk therapy can help address control issues, anxiety, depression, and other feelings that may underline hoarding tendencies, and make it easier for her to confront her disorder.

To learn more and find professional help see the International OCD Foundation which provides a hoarding center on their website (Hoarding.iocdf.org) that offers information, resources, treatments, self-help groups, and more. Also see HoardingCleanup.com, a site that has a national database of qualified resources including cleaning companies and therapists that can help.
