NY will sue IJC for water level 'mismanagement' that damaged shoreline communities

Press Release, Gov. Andrew Cuomo • Posted 9 October 2019 on www.OrleansHub.com

Governor Andrew M. Cuomo today announced that the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation is filing a lawsuit against the International Joint Commission for its mismanagement of Lake Ontario water levels that caused catastrophic damage to shoreline communities.

As a direct result of the IJC's mismanagement, extremely high water levels exacerbated damage to residences and businesses, swept away large swaths of the shoreline, and upended the lives of thousands of New Yorkers twice in the past three years. Property owners have suffered severe erosion and loss of vegetation, while the State sustained more than $4 million in property damage that it still has not been able to fully repair. The lawsuit argues that the IJC must compensate the State for the destruction resulting from water level mismanagement.

"The facts of the matter are plain: The IJC's function is to manage the Lake Ontario water levels, and they failed — period. They have been wholly unresponsive and have taken no action to make the situation better," Governor Cuomo said. "We will not shoulder the burden of the destruction that is a direct result of the IJC's gross mismanagement of Lake Ontario water levels, and the IJC needs to compensate New York for the severe damage to the homes and businesses along the shoreline. That's what this lawsuit is all about."

Specifically, the complaint asserts the following causes of action:

- Negligence: IJC breached its duty by failing to take sufficient steps to protect the interests of New York property owners on the Lake Ontario shoreline.
- Nuisance: Based on the severe flooding that resulted from IJC's mismanagement, IJC was or should have been substantially certain that its conduct would cause an invasion of the State's interest in the use and enjoyment of its land.
- Trespass: IJC failed to increase outflows from Lake Ontario to lower water levels and abate flooding, which constituted an invasion of property.

In an attempt to mitigate exposure to property owners, the State repeatedly called on the IJC to release as much water from the Moses Saunders Dam as possible. Rather than protect shoreline communities, the IJC has favored commercial shipping interests. In a June 8 letter to the U.S. and Canadian Chairpersons of the IJC, the Governor, on behalf of the State of New York, called on the commission to take immediate action to correct its water management protocols to remedy the ongoing threat to the citizens and businesses caused by Lake Ontario flooding.

The Governor demanded that the IJC reimburse New York for its costs, and make additional funds available for resiliency projects and other protective measures made necessary by tne IJCs acts and omissions. The IJC has failed to address any of these demands. Instead, the IJC has recently reduced the outflows slightly notwithstanding continued record-high water levels. As laid out in the DEC's complaint, the IJC can no longer hide behind a claim of sovereign immunity and must now answer for its negligent conduct and failure to adhere to obligatory requirements to address high water levels. The IJC's failure to take action compels this legal action.

In 2017, New York State responded quickly to the crisis and took immediate action to protect communities by delivering critical state resources to help communities and businesses rebuild. The State committed $117 million to rebuild communities along the Lake Ontario shoreline that were devastated by high water levels in 2017, only to once again this year experience record-high water levels in these same communities. Following these events, the IJC should have recognized the significant potential of future devastation from rising waters and taken action to lessen the extent of damage caused by flood waters.

Assemblyman Michael Norris, R-Lockport, said, "Taxpayers and businesses along the southern shore of Lake Ontario have suffered significant damages and this legal recourse is necessary to obtain justice for them moving forward. I commend Governor Cuomo for initiating this action."

This year, and to prepare for anticipated, future high water levels on the lake, Governor Cuomo established the Lake Ontario Resiliency and Economic Development Initiative, or REDI Commission and committed up to $300 million to support its efforts. The multi-agency REDI Commission is charged with developing a plan to increase the resiliency of infrastructure along Lake Ontario's waterfront while strengthening the region's local economies, which are heavily dependent on summer tourism.

Medina High Students Learn Value in Community Service

Medina High School students recently took part in the annual Community Day at their school. Todd Bensley and Jennifer Ossont, Participant in Government teachers, coordinate the event by inviting various community organizations to come in to talk to students about what they do and see if they would like to volunteer. Each student has to complete ten hours of community service each year towards their graduation requirements.

The organizations included: YMCA, Community Action, Medina Area Association of Churches (MAAC), GCASA, Salvation Army, FFA, PAWS Animal Shelter, Lee-Whedon Library, Medina Historical Society, PTSA, ERC, Shelby Fire Department, Parade of Lights and the Medina Railroad Museum. "The organizations that participate are always excited about the number of students who volunteer," says Mr. Bensley.

The teachers love hearing feedback from the students once they get done with their obligation. "As a teacher it is rewarding to hear students give their presentations on community service," says Mr. Bensley. "One of the questions we ask them to answer is: 'Is community service worthwhile?' So often I hear students say that they showed up just to get the hours done. But, by the time they left, they realized they really enjoyed it, and the organizations were appreciative. Many students also go back to these organizations to volunteer on their own. That is the ultimate reward because they see the value in helping out the community."

Ms. Ossont adds, "Many students seem so uncomfortable and unsure of themselves at the thought of community service, and even get stressed by it. Once they are done there is this growth and maturity you see in them. The realization that they can make a difference and be a valuable part of their community, part of something bigger than themselves.'

Holley will offer tour of former high school on Oct. 17 as part of fall festival

By Tom Rivers, Editor Posted 9 October 2019 on www.OrleansHub.com

HOLLEY — The village will be hosting a fall festival on Oct. 17 that also includes a chance to tour the old Holley High School, which is being turned into apartments and the offices for the village government. The fall festival will be at the front lawn of the former school, 1 Wright St., from 3 to 7 p.m. Tours of the building will be on a first come, first served basis from 4 to 6:30 p.m.

Home Leasing, a Rochester company, started construction in November 2018 on a $17 million transformation of the former Holley High School, a building that has been vacant for more than two decades.

Home Leasing is turning the site into 41 senior apartments as well as the offices for the Village of Holley. The village expects to move the village offices into the former school in January.

Village officials also want to hear from the community about revitalization projects in Holley, as well as a new logo and tagline to promote the community.

The festival also includes a scarecrow decorating contest, with people encouraged to bring their own materials to dress a scarecrow between 3 and 6 p.m. Judging will be at 6:30 p.m. There also will be pumpkin decorating at the festival, with cider and donuts available.

ATTENTION SOS

As a lifetime resident of the town of Barre. I ask that your organization stops meddling in our town's business. Your fight against wind turbines is not welcome in our town. In the early days of Heritage Wind, SOS came to one of our board meetings, and our town board let them know they are not welcome. I am curious as to why they continue to insert themselves in Barre, and pay hundreds of dollars for a full page ad in the Pennysaver. Barre does not want to end up like Somerset and Yates.

For those who do not know, Save Ontario Shores had a nasty battle fighting Lighthouse Wind in Somerset and Yates. Let's talk about how great things are going for those towns. The town of Somerset basked in the glory of a hefty PILOT from their coal plant for many years. That coal plant will be shut down in the next year, and the PILOT has been decreasing drastically over the past few years. Since 2017, their town taxes have gone up by more than 100%. Instead of inviting new business in to make up for the increasing taxes, the town of Somerset spent $400,000 of taxpayer dollars fighting the wind project. Now, they are begging the state to give them subsidized money to develop a data center that will cost $65 million to create 165 jobs. Each of those jobs would cost about $515,000 of taxpayer money. The Yates town board was so concerned with fighting the wind project that they weren't able to keep track of their books, and lost track of $80,000.

I don't know about you, but this is not what I want in my town. SOS, please stop trying to involve yourselves in the Heritage Wind project and the town of Barre. Our residents are not interested in your tactics. Your towns will continue collapsing as ours flourishes with the money from Heritage Wind.

The Albion Athletics Department has Named their Athletes of the Week for Sept. 23-27, 2019

Congratulations to the following athletes:

Bryce Froman, JV Football, Coach Bennett said, "Bryce had 10 tackles and scored a two point conversion. He played his heart out and was a great leader for our team."

Deyonci Farley, Varsity Football, Coach Blanchard said, "Deyonci led the defense with 10 tackles to help post a shutout of the previously undefeated Lackawanna football team. Not only did he lead the team in tackles but he also played well in pass coverage knocking down a pass and almost intercepting one. On offense he recorded some big first downs for us with some hard fought short yardage runs up the middle."

Brendan LeBaron, JV Football, Coach Bennett said, "Brendan had 5 sacks and 2 tackles for losses. He played his heart out and was a great leader for our team."

Spencer Sietmann, Varsity Soccer, Coach Flynn said, "Spencer has been the backbone of our defense. He has been given the name "The Machine" by his teammates for his ability to run down players on the opposing team and get the ball from them quickly. Spencer has a great attitude on and off the field and is always giving 100%."

A first dance song at the wedding reception often sets the tone for the upcoming festivities and can exemplify just how newlyweds feel about each other. Couples may agonize over which song to choose, but there are many different resources available that can help couples narrow down their options. Spotify, the popular streaming music service, has compiled a list of the most popular wedding songs for 2018, based on global respondents. Their top pick was "Perfect," by Ed Sheeran, a song that many might suspect was composed with wedding dances in mind. Sheeran's "Thinking Out Loud," Etta James' "At Last," John Legend's "All of Me," and Elvis Presley's "Can't Help Falling in Love" filled out the remaining top five spots on Spotify's list. ■

Simple, inexpensive staging strategies

Staging has long been part of selling a home, and for good reason. When selling a home, it makes sense for sellers to make their homes as appealing as possible, even if a recent study indicates that staging may not compel buyers to offer more money.

Researchers at Old Dominion University and Johns Hopkins University found that staging did not have a significant effect on the actual revealed market value of a property. However, homeowners should not interpret that as a reason to skip staging. In fact, the study's authors note that staging gave buyers more favorable impressions of a property, which might accelerate the selling process.

Staging a home need not be difficult. In fact, homeowners can employ several simple and inexpensive staging strategies to entice buyers to make offers on their homes.

- · Clear out the clutter, especially in bathrooms and closets. Clear out the clutter in each room in the house before hosting an open house. Note that it's not just bedrooms and living rooms that should be made to look open, spacious and clutter-free. A luxurious, hotel-quality bathroom that's open and airy can impress buyers, as can organized closets that are not jam packed with clothing, shoes and other wardrobe items that have a tendency to take over closets the longer someone lives in a home.
- · Let the sun shine in. A home that's bright and airy tends to appear more spacious and livable than one in which the windows and blinds are closed. Before hosting an open house, open the blinds and crack some windows if the weather permits.
- · Start right inside the front door. A welcoming, clutter-free foyer or primary entryway makes a strong first impression, immediately giving buyers an idea of what it will be like to welcome their own friends and family into a home should they buy it. If you hang your coats on a coat rack in a foyer or entryway that does not have a closet, remove the coat rack before hosting an open house. Coat racks can make the space feel cramped. If there's room, place a small table and bench just inside the door.
- Take care of the yard. You only get one chance to make a first impression, and the first thing buyers will see when they pull up outside your house is the exterior of your home. Landscaping is important, and a well-maintained yard suggests to buyers that owners have taken pride in their homes, and that may extend inside the home. Make sure the grass is freshly cut, shrubs and trees have been trimmed, bald spots in the lawn have been addressed, and exterior living spaces have been cleaned and cleared of clutter.

Staging a home sounds complicated. But there are various simple and inexpensive ways to make a home more attractive to prospective buyers.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN GAINES CLAIMS TWO

On Oct. 10, 2019, at 06:49 AM, the Orleans County Sheriff's 911 Center received a report of a motor vehicle accident with injury on State Route 104 in the Town of Gaines. Upon arrival, Sheriff's Deputies were able to locate a 2000 Nissan sedan on its roof in a creek submerged in approximately 5 to 6 feet of water. Upon further investigation, the vehicle had been traveling east bound on State Route 104 and struck and killed a deer. After striking the deer, the aforementioned vehicle swerved left, went into a skid, crossed both lanes of traffic, went over a guard rail, down an embankment, struck a concrete culvert structure then rolled into the creek becoming completely submerged on its roof.

The vehicle was occupied by the driver, Brooke E. Allen, 21, from Lyndonville, N.Y. and passenger, Richard Forder, 20, from Albion. Both occupants of the vehicle were pronounced dead at the scene by Orleans County Coroner Rocky Sidari. Both victims were transported to the Monroe County Medical Examiner's Office.

The Orleans County Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by the New York State Police Accident Reconstruction Team and The Albion Fire Department.

The Orleans County Sheriff's Office and NYSP are continuing the investigation into this tragic accident and will provide updates as they become available.

ALBION – The Class of 2019 unveiled a memorial bench on Oct. 5 in honor of their classmate, Brennan Moody, who died in a car accident on June 18.

Class President Mckenna Boyer and Treasurer Kirk Ellison sit on the bench that is outside the high school between the band and chorus rooms. Brennan was very active in the school's music programs and spent a lot of time in both the band and chorus rooms.

The bench includes lyrics from song, "No One Is Alone" from Into the Woods. Brennan played the role of the prince in that show o the Albion stage last spring.

"Brennan was a musician and a performer," Boyer said at the bench's unveiling. "But most of all he was a wonderful friend. He had a way of quietly — or not so quietly — reaching out when people needed him most. We wanted the bench to share his love of music but also to share a little bit about his character."

Boyer said school officials helped to find the "perfect bench." She thanked Michael Bonnewell, the district superintendent; Gary Simboli, high school vocal teacher and musical director; and Diane Stirk, the deputy tax collector for their help with the bench.

"We hope this bench will be enjoyed by students and the community for years to come," Boyer said.

Good Career Paths for Recent Grads

Graduates who majored in fields of study that are more recession-proof than others could have decided advantages over students who went with other majors. Knowing which careers are still going strong and which have stalled can help college students with goals of finding a career with growth potential.

- Financial analysts managers: Many forecasts indicate jobs in finance will continue to remain strong with high growth. Despite financial ups and downs. people still need to be educated on how and where to spend their
- Engineers: Engineers apply the principles of science and mathematics to develop economical solutions to technical problems. Their work is the link between scientific discoveries and the commercial applications that meet societal and consumer needs. Many different fields require engineers, from mechanical and civil industries to electrical and chemical industries.
- Networking/systems administration: Keep in mind that there is also a wide array of competition in these careers, but the ability to make high salaries restrictions apply. 1-855-614-5018 is what drives many to pursue careers in networking and computer systems administration.
  - · Accounting: Similar to other financial careers, accounting jobs remain stable despite the uncertain economy. Where there is money to be spent, individuals and businesses will require the services of accountants to keep all of their accounts in check.
  - Nursing/medical careers: Jobs in healthcare continue to be strong as well. An aging population keeps nurses, doctors, aides and medicalsupply companies in business.
  - and Software design development: Keeping today's digital world running requires a staff of people constantly updating and creating new software. From games to business applications to all of those entertaining apps downloaded each day, software designers pave the way for computer innovation.
  - Salespeople: Sales is one of the oldest and longest-running types of occupations available. Every industry needs quality sales professionals to meet with the public and drive interest in products and services.
  - Educators: It is estimated three million more teachers are needed by 2015 to fill openings in the United States alone. Also, initiatives to require Pre-K classes could increase the number of education jobs even further.
  - information Computer security: The need to protect personal information from those who want to exploit it continues to grow. Computer information security will continue to increase with the expansion of technological applications.

Canal will close for the season on Oct. 16

By Tom Rivers, Editor Posted 7 October 2019 on www.OrleansHub.com

The canal season closes on Oct. 16. The 195th annual canal season opened on May 17. There have been no tolls or fees for recreational use of the canal system this year.

The Canal Corporation waived tolls again this year for recreational vessels as the state continues to commemorate 200 years of Erie Canal history. The Erie Canal was under construction from 1817

The Canal Corp. also waived the tolls in 2017 and 2018. Those tolls are normally $25 to $100 for a season pass, depending on the size of the vessel.

GENUINE PEOPLE, REAL PRICES

Jon C. 💢 💢 💢 💢

Orleans Ford has a good reputation for a reason. They are the kind of dealership you hope for when you start the vehicle purchasing process. No pushy sales tactics, but rather a team of people who are ready to work at your pace to find you the vehicle you need. Their sales team members know the vehicles they are selling well and were really helpful every step of the way. It was a great experience!

Buying a car from Orleans Ford was one of the best car buying experiences of my life!! My salesman, Rich Beyer, was great!! He helped me to find the perfect car and made the entire experience very relaxing and enjoyable. The whole team at Orleans was great. Never once did I feel pressured to buy or add on anything I didn't want!! I will recommend Rich and Orleans to everyone that is looking for a new vehicle! Great job guys and thanks again Rich!!

Andrea S. ★★★★★
The customer service was awesome! Each of my questions was answered completely and quickly. Even after the purchase when I needed assistance, the response email came within the hour. I would most definitely consider buying my next vehicle from Orleans Ford and I would recommend it to others!
