From social media, we see far too many videos of animals that are being abused. What has gone wrong with society today? Actually, there has been a cycle of violence involving humans and animals from the beginning.

Years ago, I was flying to visit my sister and her family. I sat next to a woman who looked and acted completely broken. She told the story about how family and friends had packed her clothes in a hurry to get her away from her husband. She had to leave her small dog there and hoped that the friends would go back to the house in time to remove the dog before her husband came home for lunch. She told details about how he had tortured the dog. Even though this was in the mid-1970s, I never forgot the story. When I started employment at the animal shelter, I knew we had to help the animals who belonged to human victims of domestic violence.

The problem of cruelty to animals is not just a problem for people who respect and care for animals. People learn how to abuse, torture, and then ultimately kill humans by practicing on animals.

We received a telephone call several years ago from a woman who had witnessed a man harshly beat two puppies. When we went to his house to speak with him about it, his response was an arrogant and chilling, "I don't beat my puppies any harder than I beat my children."

Research and data support what is actually a matter of common sense; that is, if someone hurts an animal, they will also hurt a human.

In one case, we took two dogs from a man because he had just cut off their ears with box cutters. His girlfriend came to court and testified about how he was such a kind pet owner. Within a month, he had stabbed her to death.

In another case, a young man was accused of putting a small kitten in a mail drop box. His mother defended him and told us what a sweet, gentle person he was. Several months later, the son killed his mother.

Victims of domestic violence can be reluctant to leave an abusive situation because they do not want to put a pet at the mercy of the one who abused them. Because of my experience on that plane so many years ago, the City animal shelter is pleased to offer a safe haven for pets at risk when the owners leave home to enter a protection program. It is entirely confidential and free.

If you know of an animal or a human at risk of domestic violence, please let them know we will help relieve their worry for the animals. There is a very real cycle of violence that affects humans and animals.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — The resurrection of the 1978 John Travolta/Olivia Newton-John musical “Grease” will be newborn from the collaboration of Paramount Studios and HBO Max. The project is to be a download series, “Grease: Rydell High,” reimagined and set in the ‘50s with new songs. The estates of the “Grease” composers are withholding rights to the score, especially “Greased Lightning” and “Summer Nights.” The sequel of the original film, “Grease 2,” which starred Michelle Pfeiffer, Maxwell Caulfield and Judy Garland’s daughter Lorna Luft (who stole the movie), was a dismal failure that cost $11 million and grossed only $15 million. One of the reasons it failed was because its producer, the late Allen Carr, used the film as his personal casting couch in selecting young male talent. “Grease” without John and Olivia and that wonderful musical score? Is that the best they could come up with?

Billy Porter, who arrived at the Oscars in a ballgown and picked up his Emmy for “Pose” in a flamboyant pantsuit, has been given a big role in Sony’s upcoming “Cinderella” film as ... you guessed it, the Fairy Godmother! But before we see that we’ll see Porter with Tiffany Haddish, Rose Byrne and Salma Hayek in “Like a Boss,” in theaters Jan. 10.

Ryan Reynolds and John Krasinski are teaming up in “Imaginary Friends.” Krasinski will write, produce and star with Reynolds, who also will co-produce. It’s about a man who sees and talks to imaginary friends, some of whom have turned to the dark side.

Kerry Washington also has been busy. She stars with Sterling K. Brown in “Shadow Force,” Reese Witherspoon in “Little Fires Everywhere” and Jeremy Jordan in the Netflix film “American Son.”

Director Ryan Murphy and Netflix have picked up the Tony-nominated Broadway show “The Prom,” which will star Meryl Streep, Nicole Kid-man, Kerry Washington, James Corden, Keegan-Michael Key and Andrew Rannells. Streep plays a two-time Tony Award winner who teams up with Corden as stars of a flop Broadway musical about Eleanor Roosevelt. The film follows the stars as they try to get publicity by taking up the cause of an Indiana girl whose prom has been canceled rather than allow her to bring her girlfriend as her date.

That talented Neil Patrick Harris will co-star with Keanu Reeves in “Matrix 4.” Speculation about the “top secret” script is that Neil Patrick will be a formidable opponent. He’s currently completing the Neil Bogart bio-pic “Spinning Gold,” with Michelle Monaghan, Samuel L. Jackson, Kenan Thompson, Jay Pharoah and D.L. Hughley. Bogart discovered Donna Summer, Kiss, the Village People, Gladys Knight & the Pips and the Isley Brothers. Wow, it’ll be like an ‘80s flashback ... Doo-gie Howser meets the Village People on a Summer Knight!

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A rejection of your attempt to be friendly leaves you with two choices: Try again, or give up. If you want to make another effort, go slowly. Let things develop without pressure.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It could be a problem dealing with unfamiliar people who do things differently from what you're used to. But rely on that strong sense of purpose to get you through this difficult period.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) To avoid neglecting a personal matter because of a demanding new workplace schedule, start prioritizing immediately. Knowing how to apportion your time takes a little while to set up.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It won't be easy to avoid some of the pressures that come with change. Best advice: Take things a step at a time, and you'll be less likely to trip up while things are in a chaotic state.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A much-talked-about workplace change could be coming soon. Be sure to get all the details involved in the process, and once you have them, you can decide how you want to deal with it.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might still believe that your trust was betrayed, although the facts would appear to prove the opposite. But by the week's end you should learn something that will help set the record straight.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Holiday plans could be a challenge because of shifting circumstances. But a more settled period starts by midweek, allowing you to firm up your plan-making once and for all.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) The facts continue to be on your side. So make use of them in dealing with any challenge to your stated position. Also, open your mind to the offer of help from an unlikely source.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) There could still be a communication problem holding up the resolution of a troublesome situation. Stay with it, and eventually your message will get through and be understood.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A possible change in your workplace schedule might create a chaotic situation for a while. But once things begin to settle down, you might find that this could work to your advantage.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A recent job-linked decision might need to be reassessed because of the possibility of finding benefits you might have overlooked. Check out all related data to help in the search.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A personal situation you agreed to might not be as acceptable to the other person involved in the matter. Avoid pressuring and bullying. Instead, seek common ground by talking things through.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for touching people's minds as well as their hearts. You would make an outstanding educator.

DCC Student Named to Davenport Fellowship Program

Danville, Va., November 1, 2019 — Danville Community College (DCC) announced this week the appointment of one of its early childhood education students, Pamela Bucchi, as a 2019-2020 Davenport Fellow.

The Virginia Foundation for Community College Education (VFCCE) welcomed the 2019-2020 Class of VFCCE Fellows at the organization headquarters on September 12 to launch an academic year with a mission of service and success.

Pamela Bucchi is a lead teacher at a childcare center and currently works with children between two and eight-years old. She has already worked to earn her associate degree in medical assisting, and has returned to college to complete her degree in early childhood education at DCC. She volunteers in the Danville community through organizations like God's Pit Crew and God's Storehouse. Bucchi plans to strengthen her career skills and become assistant director of a preschool.

The current cohort of Fellows, now 43-strong, participated in workshops and learning sessions during their recent kickoff celebration. These workshops were designed to bolster their leadership skills, networking opportunities, and community service engagement during their fellowship and beyond. The students were also encouraged to connect with their colleagues during cultural outings and special events that included a tour of Richmond and a dinner at the city's landmark Tobacco Company Restaurant.

The 2019-2020 Class of Davenport Fellows are part of a program established in 2011 to help promising second-year students at Virginia's Community Colleges pursue academic and career success while strengthening their leadership skills on campus and in the community. Through generous financial support and customized training, Fellows are prepared to excel in a diverse and global society.

The Davenport Fellows program is made possible by the generosity of Davenport & Company in partnership with the Virginia Foundation for Community College Education.

Danville Community College is a two-year institution of higher education under the statewide Virginia Community College System. DCC's service area includes the City of Danville, Pittsylvania County, and Halifax County. For more information about the college's nearly 100 programs of study, visit www.danville.edu.

Roach Sweeps Print Advertising for DCC in PR Awards

Danville, Va., November 4, 2019 — Danville Community College (DCC) Acting Director of Public Relations and Marketing Bobby Allen Roach brought home three awards from the National Council for Marketing and Public Relations (NCMPR) District 2 Medallion Awards this year.

Presented during the 2019 District 2 Conference in Asheville, N.C., in October, DCC won gold, silver, tied with Piedmont Virginia Community College, and bronze in the print advertisement category.

The gold-winning print ad, entitled "I dream of becoming," is an exploration of the self. Framed in the perspective of the reader, the text "I dream of becoming:" appears against a stark white background, immediately followed by a solid line, which is accompanied by multiple careers or personal aspirations in a list that fades as you read up or down the page. On the line reads the completed sentence: "I dream of becoming my best self." The reader is then challenged to take the next steps in three simple words: "Make it happen."

"At DCC, we are all about the student. We are so focused on what they need to succeed and we want to show everyone in the college's service region that their dreams can be realized, too, by starting, or even continuing, their journey at DCC," Roach said.

The silver-winning ad, "Find Yourself Here," features a three-dimensional rendering of DCC's main campus at 1008 South Main Street in Danville, along with the college's remote locations at the Regional Center for Advanced Technology and Training (RCATT) and the Gene Haas Center for Integrated Machining on Slayton Avenue in Danville's Cyber Park. The letters H, E, R, and E are used as photo frames to showcase different aspects of the DCC student experience, punctuated with a warm "Welcome home."

"We often refer to ourselves as the 'DCC family.' This includes college personnel, students, stakeholders, alumni, donors, and anyone else whose life has been touched by DCC in some way," Roach said. "You'd be hard pressed to find a single person in the region who hasn't been impacted by DCC's influence and that is a testament to the amazing things the college is doing now and has done in the past."

The final winner in the print advertisement category was, "At DCC, dreams are coming true every day."

"This was, by far, my proudest ad because it features four of our then-recent graduates and provides a glimpse into the bright futures that lay ahead for them," Roach said. "The more casual aesthetic using hand-drawn lines and textures evinces the intersection of lives that study in these buildings, walk these grounds, and make memories that will last a lifetime."

Here's No. 1 Reason to Remove Gallbladder

DEAR DR. ROACH: My husband's doctor is telling him to have his gallbladder removed because sometimes he has pain in his right side. They did all kind of tests, but he has pain when he drives long hours or when he eats salads, not fried or fatty foods. Can you tell me more about the surgery, and what it might be like for him after the surgery? -- A.M.

ANSWER: Almost every time a gallbladder needs to be removed, it is because of gallstones. Gallstones are common. Six percent of men and 9% of women have them, but most of the time, people have no symptoms. It isn't always clear whether the symptoms people have are due to the gallstones that are found on imaging studies, such as CT or ultrasound, but there are some clues to help decide whether a gallbladder that contains stones needs to be removed.

The classic symptoms are pain in the right upper abdomen, especially after eating a fatty meal, such as fried food (some people eat salads with lots of fatty dressing). Sometimes gallbladder pain is not food-associated. Symptoms at nighttime are not uncommon. Nausea, bloating, lower chest pain, belching and burning pain all are well-described with gallbladder disease, and the proof comes when surgery relieves the symptoms.

Sometimes, the imaging test can give clues. Thickening of the gallbladder wall or pain with pressure on the gallbladder (Murphy's sign) are suggestive of acute gallbladder inflammation.

Unfortunately, doctors aren't always right. Occasionally a person's gallbladder is removed, and it doesn't help the symptoms at all. Then, a new search needs to be done to discover the true cause of the symptoms.

Most people do very well after gallbladder surgery. The liver itself takes over the job of storing bile, in the ducts of the liver, and bile is released into the intestines appropriately after eating. However, it takes time for the system to get adjusted to not having a gallbladder, and only 60% of people are completely back to normal after three months. A few people have persistent symptoms for years. Thus, it's wise to be as sure as possible that symptoms are due to gallbladder disease before undergoing surgery.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have been unable to complete a yawn for a couple of years. You know, that final "aaah" feeling. My doctor just smiled and offered no explanation; I'm sure she had never heard of this before. I am a 70-year-old woman who is retired. Any ideas, suggestions or recommendations to end this unsatisfied feeling? -- M.G.

ANSWER: Nobody knows for sure why we yawn. It can be related to low oxygen, fatigue or boredom, but there is a "yawn center" of the brain (in the hypothalamus) and even fetuses have been shown to yawn.

I have read two possible explanations why some people have incomplete or unsatisfying yawns: The first is that in some people, anxiety is the impetus to yawn, and that type of yawn just isn't satisfying. The second is that stretching of the muscles of the face and jaw are necessary for the yawn to be complete. For some people, repeated stretching (from a "forced" yawn) and breathing in very deeply can lead to a satisfying yawn.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

Little-Known Medicaid Concern: If You're Hiring A Caregiver, A Proper Contract Is A Must!

As an Elder Law Attorney, "Tell me about your mother (or father)" is a question I ask someone every day. When they reply, "Well, we have had sitters come in to be with her (or him) for the last few years" I cringe every time. Because I know that in many cases, the family has been paying the sitter or caregiver in cash, with no written contract in place. Then, when we try to make the parent eligible for Medicaid, there is a problem, a big problem.

Let me tell you a story: A former client came to me for advice. Years earlier she had liquidated all of her father's real estate for close to $250,000. Over the next four to five years she used every dime of that money to pay for caregivers for her father. She had seven ladies that she used to care for her father from week to week. Yet, when I asked the question, "did you have a contract with the caregivers?" her reply was "No, I paid them all in cash." My heart sank as I told her, "I'm sorry, your father probably will never qualify for Medicaid." She was shocked! She had done all the right things to care for her father, what went wrong???

A few years ago the Medicaid Manual was amended and it tightened the rules on how Medicaid would consider payments for caregivers. If you do not use a written contract, or if you did use one and that contract does not meet all of the requirements listed under the Manual, that money will absolutely be considered a gift and Medicaid will penalize you. The penalty results in a period of time that your loved one will not be eligible for Medicaid.

Reasons a PROPER Caregiver Contract is Essential!

If you regularly provide paid care to a family member, such as a parent or grandparent, it's very important to have an experienced Elder Law Attorney (preferably a Certified Elder Law Attorney) prepare a proper caregiver contract (also known by many other names, such as a personal-care contract or a family-care contract) setting out the terms of your arrangement. And to avoid a situation such as the case described above, the terms of the agreement must be supported in advance by a proper specialist in geriatrics, typically a Geriatric Care Manager. And, you must be sure to adhere to the terms set forth in the agreement.

The following are excellent reasons to have a proper caregiver agreement:

§ It is important for Medicaid eligibility: The money a parent pays to a caregiver, absent an agreement in writing, will simply be deemed a gift by Medicaid, causing a period of ineligibility during which the parent will not qualify for the Medicaid benefit. How? At the time of a parent's Medicaid application, Medicaid will total all the payments made to a caregiver in the past 60 months and divide that total by the state's "penalty divisor." As an example of how this works, let's say a parent pays a family caregiver $60,000 over the course of three years and then applies for Medicaid. Without a proper caregiver contract in place, Medicaid would deem those payments as gifts, causing a penalty period of over 10 months!

§ It sets boundaries: A detailed caregiver agreement makes clear the extent of the services being provided by a caregiver and the amount of money the caregiver is getting paid. A caregiver contract sets the understanding about the requirements and limits of the relationship.

§ It helps avoid misunderstandings with other family members about who may be providing care and how much money is changing hands. If the agreement doesn't solve a particular disagreement with family members, you may be able to add something to the document, or change its terms, to address the problem.

§ It offers security and peace of mind: A caregiver contract can offer caregivers security that they will not suffer undue financial consequences. At the same time, the agreement can also offer the care recipient peace of mind that she or he has a caring advocate to manage care needs.

Paying a Family Caregiver

Yes, you can pay a family member to provide care. Even though most family caregivers want to help, and feel a sense of duty to care for a loved one without pay, the fact is that it is a job – and a very difficult job with heavy time commitments and heavy physical and emotional responsibilities. Family caregivers deserve to be paid, but the payment arrangements must be done through a properly-drafted caregiver agreement that only an experienced Elder Law Attorney can prepare.

Caregiver Contracts

At the Estate & Elder Law Center of Southside Virginia, we prepare caregiver contracts frequently as part of our practice and often, that contract is supported by an independent evaluation that we obtain from a Doctor, Nurse Practitioner or other professional Geriatric Care Manager.

Birdhouse NEWS

YOU'RE NEVER TOO OLD

A 70-year old Bolivian grandmother, Mirtha Munoz, took the road less traveled, especially for senior citizens, and she showed that she has the right stuff. Munoz is the oldest participant in Bolivia's punishing Skyrace bicycle competition. In fact, says the senior advocacy organization, the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC], the road she took on her bicycle is known as the "Death Road." The nearly 40 mile long, two mile high trail starts in the jungles of Bolivia and winds its way up until it reaches the treacherous, snow-covered crests of the Andes. The Death Road gets its name from the fact that it is said to be "the world's most dangerous road," as Reuter's put it. It's said that the vertical highway has claimed the lives of thousands of daring travelers over the years.

WINNING THE LOTTERY IS NOT ALWAYS WHAT YOU THINK IT IS

2-2-2 was the lucky pick in a recent South Carolina Education Lottery drawing with $3.4 million at stake. But dreams of vast riches quickly went up in smoke when the one-thousand-four-hundred winners found out that they have to share the lottery loot, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. That comes to an average payout per ticket of just about $2,500.

A NUTTY STORY, INDEED

Holly Persic had parked her car in the open in Allegheny County, PA over the weekend. She was off to the library on Monday morning and a squirrely thing happened en route, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. She heard strange noises coming from the engine and smelled something burning, so she pulled over and opened the hood only to find a stash of some 200 walnuts in a bed of grass. Apparently squirrels were attracted by a walnut tree in the Persic yard and got busy gathering a supply of nuts for the winter, stashing them atop the auto's engine block.

IN THE BLINK OF AN EYE

Eventually everyone needs to blink, try as you may to win a "no blinking contest." At most, it appears, you might keep your eyes wide open, without blinking, for as long as one hour, seventeen minutes and three seconds. That's the record Paolo Ballesteros set in a recent televised challenge as part of a Philippine variety show, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. Ballesteros may have a shot at making it into the Guinness Book of World Records, if they decide to create a "no blinking" category. By the way, the runner up in the Philippine contest had no chance. He was only able to keep his eyes open for a paltry 34 seconds before giving in to a reflexive blink.

A TRUE FISH STORY

It's pretty hard to reel in a big fish if your line is not strong enough and it isn't easy for a youngster even if his line is strong. But don't tell that to eight year old Jayden Millauro, an Australian boy was out for a day of fishing off the coast of New South Wales with his dad recently, suggests the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. Turns out that dad and a few other fishermen on the scene had to hold on to Jayden's harness as he reeled in the 692-pound tiger shark he hooked. It certainly gives the boy a story he can tell for the rest of his life and it just might be a record setting catch. The official record of the International Game Fish Association's "small fry" category is a 687 pound tiger shark set in 1997.

A SPOOKY TREAT

It has long been a seasonal tradition for homeowners to light up their houses for the Thanksgiving, Hanukah and Christmas holidays. In recent years, however, we've seen more and more homeowners extending the season as early as Halloween, notes the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. For an outstanding example of how ghoulishly delightful All Hallow's Eve decorations can be you'll have to travel to the home of Tom BetGeorge in Tracy, CA. BetGeorge is a lighting designer and his Halloween decorations are spectacular as well as enticingly spooky, attracting crowds of visitors seeking to get in the mood. Meanwhile, a particularly artful video of his creation that is posted on YouTube, has been attracting tens of thousands of viewers. Check it out for yourself by visiting the Web site www.youtube.com/watch?v=uANjWObEhlc.

IT'S NOT JUST A PUMPKIN

The celebration of Halloween can become an obsession for some people. Take Justin Ownby, a farmer in Cleveland, TN. The Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC] reports that Justin has been trying to grow bigger and bigger pumpkins for years and this year, instead of planting lots of pumpkin seeds, he focused on growing one bigger and better pumpkin, according to his wife, Christin. And, indeed, he produced a 910-pound pumpkin. But instead of carving it into a giant jack-o-lantern, he decided to turn it into a rowboat, which he used to go sailing on his farm's pond.

SENIOR NEWS LINE

Staying Safe and Warm

Like it or not, here it comes again: winter, along with snow and ice in many parts of the country. As seniors we need to take extra steps to stay safe, warm and healthy during cold weather.

Investigate now whether your grocery store delivers. Groceries brought to your door can be a wonderful help when you can’t get out. Also keep on hand a few days’ worth of extra canned goods such as beans, fruits and vegetables, as well as cereals.

Start now to find indoor walking locations, especially if you get lots of snow and ice. Enclosed malls often open early to allow walkers. Look for local indoor tracks, perhaps as part of the parks and rec department. As incentive to keep to a routine, corral a few friends who also want to walk on a regular basis. If nothing else, use the aisles of the big box stores or ask about senior fees at the YMCA.

Remember to get out among people. It’s healthier for us to have social connections so we don’t feel isolated, which can lead to depression. Look for an interesting weekly group to join. Call others to check in on days you can’t get out.

Check your supply of warm winter clothing. A hat, coat and gloves are a good place to start, followed by socks and a scarf. Remember to dress in loose layers that trap body heat. Hypothermia and frostbite can affect us faster than when we were younger. Put a thermometer outside your door or window so you know what to expect.

Be sure you have enough batteries and flashlights in case of a power outage.

Contact the National Energy Assistance Referral service at 1-866-674-6327 if you have trouble paying your heating bill, or think you will. Call them sooner rather than later, as many organizations have a set budget amount each year.

* Here's another item to add to your environmentally friendly choices list: If you're not going to eat takeout food in the car, just say no to plastic utensils. They are usually packaged in a plastic bag with a napkin, so there's even more you could be saving in waste.

* Make your own whipped butter for dinner rolls. Simply let butter come to room temperature, then whip in your electric mixer until it's nice and fluffy. Chill, or drop by teaspoonful onto a cold cookie sheet lined with parchment paper. Freeze, and then you can arrange them on a plate for a nice presentation. They thaw quickly.

* Add to a pot of water a cinnamon stick, a handful of cloves, two slices of citrus (orange, lemon or both) and some cardamom pods if you have them. Put on a slow simmer, and your house will smell so good!

* Here's a great cooking tip when you want to sear meat: Make sure you pat it dry using either paper towels or a kitchen cloth specifically for that purpose. Any moisture on the meat will cause it to steam cook.

* Want a quick snack that tastes great? Try spicing your own peanuts with this recipe from the National Peanut Board: In a skillet, heat 1 teaspoon of peanut oil over medium heat. Stir in 1 cup of peanuts and toast for about 1 minute. Next, stir in your choice of spices and cook for 1-2 minutes or until spices smell fragrant. Remove peanuts from the pan to drain well on paper towels. Serve warm or at room temperature. How about curry and ginger, or cilantro with chili powder and cumin?

Most senior citizens would rather not give up their homes as they grow older, says AMAC

It's one reason many of them continue working

WASHINGTON, DC, Oct 18 -- The labor participation rate of older Americans is increasing for a variety of reasons. The National Council on Aging [NCOA] reports that one in five seniors are still working.

In fact, says Dan Weber, president of the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]: "The term, 'retirement age,' may become irrelevant in the 21st century. For one thing, modern medicine is giving seniors a second wind, making them healthy enough to continue working. Technology is making it easier for them to stay on the job. But, perhaps the biggest reason for not retiring, is the fact that the rising cost of living makes it more difficult to live on a fixed income."

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, more than a third of men and women between the ages of 65 and 69 and at least 19% of those 70 to 74 years of age are still on the job. And, the NCOA reports that 69 percent of senior citizens say they continue to work for economic reasons.

And, among those reasons, perhaps, is that they have a strong desire to continue living in their current homes as they grow old. In fact, as AMAC reported earlier this year, the Family Caregiver Alliance estimates that "the vast majority of elderly people receiving assistance (80%) live in private homes in the community, not institutions. It turns out that most seniors want to age in place - their own place to be exact."

But, if you are a senior who fears that the cost of remodeling in order to make your home safe and accessible may be out of reach, you may be surprised to learn that a makeover can be quite reasonable. The RetirementLiving.Com says that the 'price tag on most remodeling projects is under $10,000,' a bargain compared with the cost of assisted living, which can run as high as about $7,700 a month or more than $92,000 a year."

The actual cost of fixing the impediments for senior citizens that may exist in your home will vary based on what your physical needs are and what they might be in the future. If it is just a matter of installing a walk-in tub and entry ramps and widening a few doorways the cost can be quite reasonable.

How to Choose a Walk-in Bathtub

Dear Savvy Senior,

Because of my mobility problems, I'm thinking about getting a walk-in bathtub that's easy to get into and out of but could use some help selecting one. What can you tell me about walk-in tubs, and can you recommend some good companies that make and install them?

Bubble Bath Betty

Dear Betty,

Walk-in tubs are a good option for mobility challenged seniors because they're much easier to get into and out of than a standard tub, and will help prevent slips, trips and falls too. Here's what you should know.

The Basics

Walk-in bathtubs are uniquely designed tubs that have a watertight, hinged door built into the side of the tub that provides a much lower threshold to step over (usually 2.5 to 7 inches) versus a standard tub that's around 15 inches.

In addition to the low threshold, most walk-in tubs also have a built-in seat, grab bars, anti-slip floors, anti-scald valves and a handheld showerhead. And many higher-end models offer therapeutic spillover features that are great for seniors with arthritis and other ailments.

The kind of tub you choose will depend on your needs, preferences and budget, and the size and layout of your bathroom. The cost of a walk-in tub today with professional installation ranges anywhere from $3,000 to $10,000. Here are some other things you'll need to consider, to help you make a good choice.

Tub size: Walk-in bathtubs vary in size. Most models have high walls between three and four feet high, and are between 28 and 32 inches wide, but will fit into the same 60-inch long space as your standard tub without having to reconfigure the room. There are also bariatric walk-in tubs that have wider door openings and larger seats to accommodate people over 300 pounds.

Wheelchair-accessible: Most walk-in tubs have an inward opening door, but if you use a wheelchair, an outward opening door may be a better option because they're easier to access.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

Tub options: The most basic and least expensive type of walk-in tub you can get is a simple soaker tub. But depending on your preferences, you have many other options like an arotherapy (air jets) tub, hydrotherapy (whirlpool water jets) tub, aromatherapy tub that mixes fragrant essential oils with the water, or a combination tub that has multiple features. Also, look for tubs that have an in-line heating system to keep your bathwater warm while you soak.

Fast fill and drain: One drawback to using a walk-in bathtub is that the bather must sit in the tub as it fills and drains, which can make for a chilly experience. To help with this, consider a tub that has fast-filling faucets and pump-assisted drainage systems, which significantly speed up the process. But these options may require some plumbing modifications to your bathroom.

Easy cleaning: Keeping the tub clean should be a priority, especially if you get a therapy tub because of the bacteria that can grow in it. So, look for tubs with self-cleaning systems.

Warranty: The best walk-in bathtubs on the market today are made in the USA. Also make sure the company you choose has a lifetime "leak-proof" door seal warranty and lengthy warranties on both the tub and the operating system.

Where to shop: While there are many companies that make, sell and install walk-in bathtubs, some of the best in the industry are American Standard (AmericanStandard-us.com), Safe Step (SafeStepTub.com) and Kohler (KohlerWalkinBath.com). Most companies offer financing with monthly payment plans. Unfortunately, original Medicare does not cover walk-in bathtubs nor do Medicare supplemental (Medigap) policies, but some Medicare Advantage plans may help pay. There are also many states that offer Medicaid waivers that will help pay for the purchase and installation of a walk-in tub to those that qualify, and the VA offers some programs that provide financial aid too.

To get started, contact a few companies who will send a local dealer to your home to assess your bathroom and give you product options and estimates for free.

  - 1/8 tsp pepper
- Instructions
- Preheat oven to 375 f. Line pie dish with crust and prebake for 10 minutes.
  - In large mixing bowl, whisk eggs and cream together.
