Bird Whistle

"I bought a wooden whistle, but it wouldn't whistle" is part of an old children's song that goes on to joke about buying a metal whistle. But a modern metal whistle used by a policeman looks very different from the wooden whistle made centuries ago. And today, if a whistle is wood, it usually is carved into an interesting shape or painted to hide the wood surface.

Bird whistles are still made, but of modern materials. This multicolored bird, a whistle that would whistle, sold for $212.

Very early whistles were made from a hollow reed or bird bones. By the 17th century, ceramic whistles were made, often in the shape of an owl or other bird. The center of the whistle held water. Blowing into a hole on its back made the water move and make a sound. There also were wind whistles handmade or molded from clay. Many have been made since the 17th century, but few of the early clay bird whistles remain. Most are not marked, but are decorated with an identifiable regional design.

Today you can find a lot of whistles made of pot metal, celluloid or plastic. An unmarked earthenware bird whistle with colorful paint decoration was sold at a Hess Auction Group auction that featured Pennsylvania wares. The 4-inch-long bird sold for $212.

Q: I'd like information about a Mary Gregory vase I own. It's purple glass with white figures of a girl and boy playing tennis. The vase is cylindrical and is 8 inches tall and 5 inches in diameter. Can you tell me its age and value?

A: Mary Gregory glass was first made about 1870. Similar glass is being made today. All early Mary Gregory glass was made in Bohemia. Later it was made in several other European countries. The first American glassware with Mary Gregory-type decorations was made by the Westmoreland Glass Company beginning in 1957. These pieces had simpler designs, less enamel paint and more modern shapes. Vases like yours are worth about $300. The tennis game adds value.

Q: I've seen some interesting "antique" telephones online and was wondering if they work with modern wiring. I'd like to buy one if I can use it as a phone.

A: It depends on the mechanism and wiring in the phone. We tried hooking up two old phones and couldn't get either of them to ring. There are sites online that show how to rewire an old phone so it works, and there are companies that will do the work for you. They also have replacement parts.

CURRENT PRICES
Ginger jar, dark green body, 5 country scenes, gold trim, Gerold, West Germany, 10 inches, $25.
Photography, tintype, Geo. W. Butler, sea captain, holding octant, tinted, Civil War era, $120.
Ride-on toy, St. Bernard, hard plastic, painted steel frame and wheels, handle bar, England, c. 1905, 19 x 24 inches, $325.
Decoy, merganser duck, wood, polychrome, gold and black, overlay, 17 1/2 inches, $740.

TIP: Be careful handling birdhouses, bird cages and bird feeders, old or new. It is possible to catch parrot fever (psittacosis) through a cut or even from breathing the dust.

PIEDMONT PETS

November 14, 2019
By Paulette Dean

At a recent fundraising event, we announced a new fund to help shelter animals. It is named in honor of April Hogan, our shelter manager who has been with us for over 25 years. I feel like she has grown up at the shelter. In fact, April started volunteering at the shelter in her pre-teen years! This fund, approved by the board of directors will bear her name once we decide on a name.

When I approached April's father, Tony Hyler who lives in the Chicago area, about this fund, I asked if he would like to send me a tribute to be read at the event. He did so much more than we ever expected. He spoke with April's cousin, Chris Hyler, who owns Eden Jewelry in Martinsville. They donated $1,000 to begin the fund and then donated jewelry for us to sell during our event's silent auction. The beginning balance for the fund is $2,600!

We have funds to help senior animals, fostered animals, lost animals, owned animals, and abused animals. However, we have always relied on funds from the $164,000 we receive from the City of Danville each year to help with the cost of operating the shelter. That money, though, must pay for shelter employees, food, vaccinations, shelter upkeep, etc. Our fundraising events help subsidize the costs.

The April Hyler Hogan Fund will help pay for veterinary treatment for shelter animals who have special needs that may keep them from being adopted. For instance, because we are an open-admission shelter, we receive animals who have injuries due to accidents or neglect; others we receive may have special needs because they were born with certain treatable conditions. In fact, it is difficult to list all of the plethora of conditions this fund will help treat and/or cure.

As the fund was announced and as Chris Hyler gave me the check, my heart swelled with gratitude for good people who want to help animals. I am so thankful for April. She is not only the shelter manager, she is a friend and my dog's god-mother!

In this month of Thanksgiving, I am grateful that my job comes with many blessings. One of the greatest is the privilege of being able to associate with kind-hearted people - at events, at the shelter, and in the community. Thank you for everything you do. There truly are no small acts of kindness; every act of humaneness has the potential to help. (And a huge thank-you to the Piedmont Shopper for printing the Piedmont Pets.)

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — As Martin Scorsese and Francis Ford Coppola fight to retain the traditional release of films into movie theaters instead of streaming services, the last vestige of true movie stars (created by the major studios during the Golden Age of Hollywood) — Jane Fonda (81), Shirley MacLaine (85), Sophia Loren (84) and Robert Redford (83) — struggle to retain their stardom.

Jane Fonda starred last year in “The Book Club,” with Diane Keaton, Candice Bergen and Mary Steenburgen, and has retained visibility thanks to the Netflix series “Grace and Frankie” (65 episodes and counting since 2015), with Lily Tomlin, and being arrested for protests such as the recent global warming demonstration.

Shirley MacLaine starred in Hallmark’s “A Heavenly Christmas” (2016), with Eric McCormack, Netflix’s “The Little Mermaid” (2018) and in Disney’s just-released “Noelle,” with Anna Kendrick, Bill Hader and Julie Hagerty. Sophia Loren is shooting “The Life Ahead” (due in March), based on a Romain Gary novel and directed by her son Edoardo Ponti. Sophia, who plays a holocaust survivor who forges a bond with a 12-year-old boy, vows it will be something to remember.

Robert Redford’s last film as an actor was “The Old Man & the Gun,” but he couldn’t resist doing cameos in “Avengers: Endgame” and the HBO series “Watchmen.” A special mention for Olivia de Havilland, last surviving star of 1939’s “Gone with the Wind,” who turned 103 July 1 in Paris. Not to be outdone, two old pros, Angela Lansbury (94) and Dick Van Dyke (94 on Dec. 13), will finally get see their 2018 Christmas film “Buttons,” which was shown for only night in theaters last Dec. 8. The film, narrated by Robert Redford and Kate Winslet, and co-starring Jane Seymour and Roma Downey, will be released digitally Nov. 19 and on DVD Dec. 3.

Melissa Moseley/Netflix

Jane Fonda in “Grace and Frankie”

Ben Affleck will star in and produce (with Matt Damon and Aaron Gilbert) “Falling to Earth,” based on Kate Southwood’s novel about the Tri-State Tornado, the deadliest in U.S. history. It hit Illinois in 1925, killing 695 people, injuring more than 2,000 and leveling a number of towns.

“A Quiet Place: Part II” has completed filming in upstate New York, mostly around Buffalo. When John Krasinsky chose Buffalo as his main location, he created 400 hires of staff and technicians and 300 background extras, which pumped $10 million into the local economy. Shooting on the $1 million refurbished Buffalo Film Works soundstage was kept under wraps to keep spectators at bay, but that proved impossible when they shot on location (especially when they closed down the nearby Grand Island Bridge for 13 hours). Buffalo never looked so good and remains a very “Quiet Place.”

It's Best to Taper Off Heartburn Meds

DEAR DR. ROACH: I am a 61-year-old woman in fairly good health except that I have been taking prescription omeprazole once a day for heartburn for at least 10 years, if not more. I've read articles that say this isn't good to take long term, like I've been doing. When I've tried to stop by using famotidine instead, I still suffer from heartburn throughout the day. I've raised my bed and tried sleeping in an upright position. Your thoughts, please. -- O.D.S.

ANSWER: It certainly is a good idea to periodically review with your doctor all the medications you take, to decide whether they are still necessary. It is very often the case that people are taking medications for unclear reasons, and the person who is prescribing it has been doing so without really thinking about whether the benefits still outweigh the risks, especially as people get older and may have acquired new conditions or had medication changes. Proton pump inhibitors like omeprazole frequently are prescribed for short-term use but end up being continued for years. Except in people who absolutely need it (such as people with Barrett's esophagus), I agree with a trial of stopping and using H2 blockers like famotidine on an as-needed basis. I recommend a taper, not a sudden stop. Proton pump inhibitors are likely to increase the risk of infection, such as pneumonia (without acid in the stomach, bacteria are not killed as efficiently) and intestinal infections; may possibly increase the risk of osteoporosis; and probably reduce vitamin B-12 and iron absorption. Although there have been reports of increased risk of kidney disease and dementia, I doubt the actual clinical risk is significant. Still, there are enough possible adverse effects that it is worth balancing the risks against the benefits of reducing symptoms. I am glad you tried some nondrug therapies, as we doctors often do not emphasize how important they are. In addition to raising the head of the bed (bricks under the feet is traditional, but a foam wedge under the mattress is also effective), losing weight for those who would benefit, avoiding tobacco and alcohol, and not eating three hours before bedtime make drugs unnecessary for many. Some people benefit from eliminating certain foods, especially caffeine, chocolate and fatty or spicy foods.

DEAR DR. ROACH: I received literature in the mail about a new miracle cure for enlarged prostate. The ads state that the new pills shrink the prostate back to normal. Is there such a pill, or is this a scam? I am afraid it is pills filled with drywall dust. -- B.F.

ANSWER: I'm afraid it's more likely to be a scam than real, but there are a few herbal therapies that have been shown to help -- but not cure -- enlarged prostate glands in men. Saw palmetto is well-known, but most recently was found to be no better than placebo. Beta-sitosterol, cernilton and Pygeum africanum all are plant extracts with some evidence of benefit, at least when it comes to symptoms. You are quite correct that without independent laboratory verification, there is no way to be sure of the quality and purity of dietary supplements. They are not regulated the way prescription drugs (or even foods) are.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

* It was novelist, poet and playwright Gertrude Stein who made the following sage observation: "Everybody knows if you are too careful, you are so occupied in being careful that you are sure to stumble over something."

* If you're like the average American, you will eat about 150 bananas this year -- 26 pounds' worth.

* A researcher in Britain calculated that local farmland contains more than 2 million spiders per acre. Must be small ones, I'd say.

* Up until the 1500s, the accepted way of dealing with a patient who was hemorrhaging was to cauterize the wound, often with boiling oil or red-hot irons. It was in the latter part of the 16th century that a French surgeon named Ambroise Pare began tying off the broken blood vessels with cord. That's pretty much what surgeons do today.

* Some people enjoy novelty when dining out, but restaurateurs take a big risk when adding new items to a menu; it seems that less than a third of diners will actually try a new menu item.

* The White House was not designed by an American. It was Irish architect James Hoban who won the competition to create the architectural plans for the home of the political leader of the United States.

* The name of the state of Vermont comes from the French "mont vert," which means "green mountain." (If the explorers who named the state saw green mountains, they obviously were not there in the winter.)

* Two-thirds of all Tony award-winning composers and lyricists have been Jewish.

Thought for the Day: "I don't trust a man who uses the word evil 18 times in 10 minutes. If you're half evil, nothing soothes you more than to think the person you are opposed to is totally evil." -- Norman Mailer

Busy Season Solutions

Quick and tasty meals and snacks

FAMILY FEATURES

For those who are always on the go, it can be difficult to find time to whip up meals and snacks that are both nutritious and tasty. However, with some simple changes – and timesaving recipes – you can create delicious dishes and meals that will keep you feeling energized to fuel your busy lifestyle.

For example, these quick and easy recipes for a main course, snacks and even desserts are all part of the Atkins low-carb lifestyle, a long-term, healthy eating approach focused on high-fiber carbohydrates, optimal protein and healthy fats. The eating approach, which is a more flexible version of the popular ketogenic diet, offers a balanced mix of foods containing fiber-rich and nutrient-dense carbohydrates while focusing on reduced levels of refined carbohydrates, added sugars and the “hidden sugar effect” – when carbohydrates convert to sugar when digested. You don’t see the sugar, but your body does.

Learn more about the benefits of a balanced, low-carb approach, and find more recipes to help kickstart a nutritious eating plan, at atkins.com.

Parmesan Crisps

Prep time: 2 minutes
Cook time: 8 minutes
Servings: 6

- 3/4 cup shredded Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon Italian seasoning blend

Heat oven to 325 F. Line baking sheet with parchment paper.

Use large cup or mug to draw six roughly 4-inch circles on parchment paper. Fill each circle with 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese, smoothing shreds out and creating slightly thicker outer edge. Sprinkle each with pinch of Italian seasoning and bake 7 1/2 minutes, or until outer edges and bottoms are golden but not burned.

Remove from oven and let cool at least 1 minute before eating. Store in airtight container at room temperature up to 1 day.

Avocado Chocolate Mousse

Servings: 4

- 3 avocados
- 1/2 cup unsweetened coconut milk
- 1/2 cup sugar-free chocolate chips
- 2 1/2 tablespoons cocoa powder
- 2 tablespoons Erythritol (low-carb sweetener)
- 3 teaspoons stevia-based sugar substitute
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1/8 teaspoon salt

Mash avocado and place in blender with coconut milk. Blend until smooth.

In microwave-safe bowl, heat chocolate chips 20 seconds, stir well and heat in 10-second intervals until melted, stirring in-between. Once melted, add to avocado mixture and continue to blend while scraping down sides of bowl.

Add cocoa powder, sweetener, sugar substitute, vanilla and salt. Blend and scrape down sides of bowl until all ingredients are well combined and mousse is smooth and creamy. Add additional sugar substitute 1/4 teaspoon at a time if sweeter mousse is desired.

Note: All ingredients should be at room temperature to make blending smooth and easy.

An On-the-Go Morning Treat

Busy mornings can lead to breakfast being put on the backburner or skipped altogether. However, with an option like the Atkins Chocolate Banana Shake, which is made with real fruit, you can enjoy the most important meal of the day on-the-go or anytime you need a snack break.

A beneficial source of B vitamins, these protein-rich shakes can satisfy hunger with 5 grams of fiber and provide steady energy all day long. Made to easily fit into a busy lifestyle, they’re also gluten-free with no artificial colors or preservatives, and low-glycemic with 4 net carbs and 2 grams of sugar.

Yogurt Parfait

Prep time: 5 minutes
Servings: 1

- 13 pieces Atkins Honey Almond Vanilla Crunch Bites
- 1/4 cup fresh blueberries
- 1/4 cup plain, unsweetened whole milk Greek yogurt
- 1 tablespoon almond butter
- 1 pinch cinnamon
- 1 pinch sugar substitute

Roughly chop crunch bites. In small glass, layer blueberries, crunch bites and yogurt. Swirl almond butter on top and finish with sprinkle of cinnamon and sugar substitute.

Directions

- Step 1

- Make crust: Preheat oven to 350°F. Butter an 8-inch springform pan. Cover outside of pan with 2 layers of foil. Stir together all crust ingredients. Press into bottom and up sides of pan. Bake for 10 minutes. Let cool on a rack.

- Step 2

● Make filling: With an electric mixer on medium speed, beat cream cheese and both sugars until light. Beat in eggs and yolks, 1 at a time. Beat in pumpkin, sour cream and vanilla. Reduce speed to low; beat in flour and spice. Pour into crust.

Step 3

Place cheesecake in a large roasting pan; fill pan with 2 inches of hot water. Bake until cake is set around edges but still slightly jiggly when lightly shaken (cheesecake will firm as it cools), 55 to 65 minutes. Transfer to a wire rack and let cool to room temperature. Cover and chill for at least 10 hours or up to 2 days.
