Moody on The Market

Pat
Moody

Few people have taken the St. Joe Farmers Market by storm the way that Aaron & Christie Harris did last summer. When they debuted their artisan corn tortillas along the bluff overlooking Lake Michigan even they had no concept of the impact they would have on the local food scene with their Molino Tortilleria. Fast forward to now and you will find them conducting the grand opening of their brand new brick and mortar store in downtown Sawyer which takes a bow today, Saturday, February 15th. Molino's new 2,500 square foot facility is located at 5846 Sawyer Road in downtown Sawyer. The new space will house their entire production operation, as well as a beautiful retail storefront open to the public on Saturdays. Fresh tortillas and pan dulce will be for sale as well as some brand new Molino merchandise. Molino Tortilleria is also debuting a brand new online store where customers can place their orders ahead of time. You can learn more about that by going to this link:

www.MolinoTortillas.com. When they popped up on the bluff last summer selling tortillas and Mexican inspired pastries from their booth at the downtown St. Joseph farmers market, Molino Tortilleria rapidly became a taste sensation and an absolute market favorite. In short order they began expanding their reach by working with local restaurants and chefs to showcase their unique products. Aaron & Christie Harris, the husband and wife team behind Molino, tell us they began their journey as people just trying to make a good taco. Little did they know what would be ahead of them. Aaron says, "We never had any intention of starting a business, we just wanted to make good tacos for ourselves." However, when tortilla options where they were living fell short, the couple took it upon themselves to try their hand at making them from scratch. As Aaron says, "We just kind of got hooked on the process when we dug into what it took to create our own corn tortillas." Molino Tortilleria will be the first to insist they are not reinventing the wheel or blazing a trail. The reality is actually quite the opposite. You see, the process they use to cook the corn and create masa — the corn dough used to make tortillas — is called Nixtamalization and evidence of its use in

The Pet Corner

The coronavirus outbreak, that recently is in the news every day, has caused more than a few people to ask the question, can the virus be transmitted between dogs and cats and humans? After doing a little online research I came up with the answer that, although it was most probably transmitted from bats to humans, there are no reported cases of pets getting this new virus and giving it to humans. There are also no known cases of people giving it to their pets. But dogs and cats can get coronavirus. Dogs can be sickened by canine coronavirus, causing intestinal distress, and there is also a respiratory form. It can be confused or also occur with parvovirus. Diarrhea is the first and most typical symptom, with sudden onset accompanied by lethargy and loss of appetite. It is most often associated with crowded, unsanitary conditions, where dogs are in close contact with each other. If these symptoms develop in a pet and do not resolve in 24 hours, it is best to consult a veterinarian. While cats can also get the virus, it is usually not a serious problem, but in 5% to 10% of infected cats the virus mutates and causes Feline Infectious Peritonitis. It usually strikes kittens and is almost always fatal.

Speaking of vaccinations, there is still an opportunity to visit a low-cost clinic before the deadline of March 1 for county licenses. Berrien County Animal Control will sponsor a clinic on Sunday, February 23rd, 10am to 2pm, at the Fire Department, Main Street, Eau Claire. One- and three-year rabies shots and distemper shots will be available. Bring your license renewal form to also purchase a license or a PDF file. Pre-registration is recommended. Cash only please.

In Michigan, the most common carriers of rabies are bats and skunks. In 2019, rabies was confirmed in four bats and six skunks in Oakland County. Since either of them may frequent your backyard or even your house, in the case of bats, rabies vaccinations are not only required by law for dogs but are essential for stopping the spread of this terrible disease. I have also had my cats vaccinated for rabies, because even though they are inside cats, they do occasionally escape outside into the backyard or go into the garage, where bats could certainly lurk. Please consider also protecting your cats against rabies.

If you are thinking of adopting a pet, the Berrien County Animal Shelter is having their Smooch a Pooch, Kiss a Cat event February 14 and 15. All spayed/neutered pets have a $14.00 adoption fee. During the entire month of February, Meet Your Match at the Humane Society event is waiving all adoption fees for spayed/neutered pets. An application is required and all regular adoption policies still apply.

On a fun note, the Silver Harbor Brewing Company will sponsor Drink It Forward Paws and Claws Pint Night, Monday, February 17, starting at 5pm. The cornhole event will be held in the garden and proceeds will benefit the Humane Society of Southwest Michigan.

CAN'T FIND THE ANSWER TO YOUR NECK, LOW BACK, OR SCIATICA PAIN?

Hi, I'm Dr. Michael Rowe. I own and operate SpineCare in St. Joseph, MI.

Lasting and recurring neck, back, and sciatica pain can limit you in many different ways. Before it takes a toll on your daily routine you might be able to put an end to it. Many who suffer from back and neck pain choose NON-SURGICAL SPINAL DECOMPRESSION THERAPY.

Relief from lasting and recurring neck, back, and sciatica pain is one of the top benefits of spinal decompression. One of the main reasons I recommend this treatment to my patients is the ability to help patients recover faster and better from injured spinal nerves and herniated or degenerative discs in the neck or back.

Non-surgical spinal decompression therapy reduces compression and irritation to nerves caused by disc and joint disorders. It offers a safe, pain-free, and non-surgical solution to chronic spinal conditions.

When you undergo a spinal decompression session, you will actually experience your spine being stretched so gently that most patients feel instant relief, even when the force and position of the spine changes. The computer-controlled traction relieves neck, back, or sciatica pain by taking pressure off the spinal discs. So herniated or bulging discs may retract and in return promote movement of water, oxygen, and other nutrient-rich fluids that are essential when your discs are recovering.

Spinal Decompression is extremely effective, and I've been able to help many patients in the St. Joseph, MI area avoid risky procedures such as pain injections and surgery. If you are interested in seeing if this treatment could be the answer for your neck, back, or sciatica pain, call us today and schedule a consultation.

No You Cat Read My Poker Face

As if they needed another reason to boost their already overweening self-confidence that they're better than us, we now learn that cats have facial expressions – but humans are lousy at noticing and interpreting them.

This knowledge originated from the University of Guelph, in Ontario, Canada, a "research-intensive and learner-centred" school where they haven't learnt how to properly spell "centered." An intensive research study was made there to see if people could identify the moods of a number of cat faces as shown in a series of video clips.

Most people were not stellar at this. Of the 6,000 folks who watched the video, the vast majority got barely over half of the answers correct. Only 13% of the participants managed to gauge even 75% of the cat expressions correctly.

As a cat owner and learning-centred journalist (well, sort-of journalist; I engage in vaguely journalistic activity, right?), I feel this research spawns a number of important questions that require further intensive research:

Factoid: This study was initiated in the first place by a professor in U of Guelph's Department of Animal Sciences. Her rationale?: "I developed the idea from my conviction — right or wrong — that I can tell when my own cats are happy." I believe this raises important questions, including but not limited to: How can I hired by the U of Guelph to conduct research-intensive studies with my cats, and get paid for doing it?

Factoid: The second professor on the research team told the University's News Service (read: PR department) that this study "could be a good start for many future projects," including the marketing of cat food. Quoting from a UG News Service story, "If a friendly, more appealing face is identified, pet food companies can incorporate those images into their advertising and packaging." I believe this raises important questions, including but not limited to: If people are so bad at reading the facial expressions of cats on video, what would make a pet food company marketing manager think they could do any better at identifying the mood of the cat pictured on a bag of "Weight Control Blend For Near-Comatose Cats, Now Featuring Hairball Control!"?

And furthermore, what if the wrong cat expression gets plastered on the can?! – what if it actually features a cat glowering with menace and vitriol, and my cats approach their dinner with their standard inscrutable gaze, peer at the bowl with their standard inscrutable gaze, fix their standard inscrutable gaze on me for a moment, then saunter three feet away, fall heavily to the floor and then stare me down with their standard inscrutable gaze until I open another can of food for them?! (It can be a second can of the exact same flavor as the first one, but for some reason they'll eat it – never coming close to touching the food first offered to them. . . trust me, this has actually happened!)

Yes, I admit it, I feed my cats both dry food and canned food. (Anything to keep them from eating what they really crave – me.) You may think I'm coddling them this way, but they like – or don't – both types of foods equally; I can totally tell by the expressions on their faces!

Why routine checkups are vital to overall health

Regular visits with a medical professional are an important part of a healthy lifestyle. Too often people visit the doctor only when they are ill, as they may not realize just how essential well visits and physical exams are.

Routine checkups are the smartest way for people in all age groups to stay on top of their health, but they can be especially valuable for those age 50 and older. Regular checkups enable physicians to check current health against past visits, ensuring that any anomalies can be investigated and treated efficiently and promptly. This can make the difference in slowing down the progression of a disease that has already developed or prevent something from becoming a full-fledged issue.

The Mayo Clinic says there are no hard and fast rules about how often seniors should visit health care providers. Those who are in generally good health may only require one medical checkup a year. At this point vital signs will be checked, medications reviewed and lifestyle topics discussed. Doctors may even recommend or discuss tests. Patients also can bring up any issues they may be experiencing, however insignificant they may seem. Anything from sleep disturbances to memory loss to unexplained fatigue or pain can be addressed. Sometimes getting everything out in the open and being reassured that there's nothing to worry about can be helpful.

General care and geriatric doctors also are adept at asking questions to get a sense of how patients are faring in the world. This may include topics that seemingly have no relevance to health but can be quite important. A provider may ask about topics such as bathing or dressing. Questions about social interaction or typical routines can paint a better picture of both physical and mental health.

The recommended frequency of doctor visits may change as health issues arise or if follow-up is needed after a treatment plan or injury, according to the caregiver company Home Care Assistance. Some seniors may have to visit a provider once a week or once a month. Doctors, nurses and therapists will design a regimen based on a patient's current health needs.

- The following are some compelling reasons to be diligent with provider visits.
- Frequently health issues can be silent and not noticed early on by a patient, according to Mercy Medical Center in Baltimore.
  - Patients will be less likely to forget about important screenings, like mammography, prostate tests, cholesterol tests, and more.
  - Vaccines can be administered, as even adults need certain immunizations to stay healthy.
  - Patients can discuss potential lifestyle changes, like going on a diet or taking up a new fitness regimen.

It is essential to follow through with health care provider visits, even if they seem redundant. Physicians may detect issues that warrant close observation. Patients are urged to have an open dialogue with their doctors so they understand the reason behind health care visits and expectations in the future.

Simple ways to lower your risk for type 2 diabetes

A healthy lifestyle can help people live life to the fullest. There are many components to a healthy lifestyle, and few may be as influential as prevention.

Preventive measures to reduce one's risk for various diseases can have a long-lasting effect, helping people maintain their independence well into their golden years. In addition, a proactive approach that focuses on disease prevention can improve the chances men and women will get to spend their retirement years doing whatever they please.

One disease that can be especially limiting is type 2 diabetes. According to the National Institute on Diabetes and Digestive Kidney Diseases, diabetes occurs when blood glucose levels are too high. Blood glucose, sometimes referred to as "blood sugar," comes from the foods a person eats and is the main source of energy for his or her body. Insulin helps glucose from food get into the body's cells so they can use it for energy. However, in certain instances, such as when a person has type 2 diabetes, the body does not make enough — or any — insulin. When that occurs, glucose stays in the blood, never reaching the cells it's supposed to help. The NIDDK notes that, over time, excessive levels of glucose in the blood can cause a host of health problems.

Type 2 diabetes, the most common form of the disease, occurs when the body does not make or use insulin well. While it might seem as though people are helpless to stop this from occurring, the NIDDK notes that type 2 diabetes can be delayed or even prevented. In fact, the NIDDK cites three key ways that people can lower their risk for type 2 diabetes.

- Lose weight and keep extra pounds off. People should speak with their physicians about their body weights to determine if they're currently overweight or obese or maintaining healthy weights. If the doctor suggests losing weight, doing so can help prevent or delay diabetes. Each individual is different, but the NIDDK notes that losing between 5 and 7 percent of your starting weight may help delay or prevent diabetes.

- Become more physically active. The NIDDK lists a sedentary lifestyle among the many factors that can increase a person's risk for type 2 diabetes. By embracing physical activity, getting at least 30 minutes of exercise five days per week, people can delay or prevent diabetes. People who have been physically inactive for a long period of time should ask their physicians to recommend appropriate activities that can help their bodies adjust to being physically active.

- Eat less and eat healthy. A diet that's high in vitamins and nutrients can help people delay or prevent type 2 diabetes. Small portions can help people control their caloric intake, reducing the likelihood that they will become overweight or obese.

Prevention is a great way for people to reduce their risk for type 2 diabetes, a potentially debilitating yet often preventable disease.

Gluten intolerance is a very real issue with measurable symptoms

Gluten is not for everyone. In fact, people who have celiac disease shouldn't eat gluten at all. Celiac disease is an autoimmune condition that affects the digestive process of the small intestine by launching an immune system attack against gluten, mistakenly damaging healthy cells lining the small intestine.

Even people who do not have celiac disease may find that consumption of gluten results in similar symptoms. These individuals may want to avoid gluten as well. Also known as non-celiac gluten intolerance or sensitivity, this condition is not currently well-defined within the medical community. The Celiac Disease Foundation says some people experience symptoms found in celiac disease, like foggy mind, abdominal pain, diarrhea, headaches, bone or joint pain, or chronic fatigue when they have gluten in their diets — despite not testing positive for celiac disease.

In July 2016, researchers at Columbia University Medical Center published a study confirming that wheat exposure to those sensitive to wheat and gluten triggered a systemic immune reaction and intestinal cell damage. Researchers previously thought that a sensitivity to wheat or gluten would not result in cell damage. But research now confirms that even without a positive celiac disease diagnosis, people can experience symptoms that mimic those of celiac disease, even in terms of severity.

Doctors are not sure if gluten triggers the immune reaction in non-celiac cases, so more research is needed. That said, removing gluten and wheat products from one's diet provides relief for many people.

According to Schär, a company that manufactures gluten-free foods, anyone who experiences negative symptoms after eating foods that contain gluten should speak with a doctor. A doctor will order blood tests that will look for the presence of immunoglobulin E antibodies that are indicative of an autoimmune response to gluten. An endoscopy also may check for damage to the lining of the small intestines, as can a biopsy of the intestines. Other tests, such as a radioallergosorbent test, or RAST, or skin prick test can test for a wheat allergy to see if symptoms are stemming from that alone.

Treatment for gluten intolerance or celiac disease involves avoiding products that contain gluten, which is found in wheat, rye and barley.

A growing body of literature suggests that people who do not have celiac disease can still experience non-celiac gluten sensitivity and many of the same symptoms felt by those with the disease.

Dear Dave,
My husband and I are on Baby Step 3b, and we're saving for a house. We're out of debt and both of us make good money, plus we each have 20-year level term life insurance policies with coverage equaling 10 times our individual incomes. We also have an emergency fund equal to six months of expenses. I recently received a promotion at work, with a subsequent raise of $10,000. Should I update my life insurance policy to reflect this new income?

Maria

Dear Maria,

I think you're okay right now. I'd evaluate it, and maybe update the amount every three or four years. But as you get out of debt and build wealth, and as the kids get older, the real question to ask yourselves is how much less life insurance do you need?

As your income increases and you get in better and better financial shape, it's not going to be necessary to have 10 to 12 times your income wrapped up in life insurance policies. That's just a starting point.

Would your husband and any kids be well taken care of based on your current life insurance amount? Would you and any kids be okay based on his life insurance? If the answer to both questions is yes, you're good!

Bill dispute

Dear Dave,

My wife and I put her two adult kids on our cell phone plan a few years ago. We thought there would be no problem, since they were both paying their own bills. After my wife and I split up a couple of years later, we made sure everything was current, cancelled service with that company, and we all went to different providers. A debt collector called me last week saying I owed $4,000 on 19 different devices. When I called our old provider, they said I owed $4,000 on nine devices. I asked for a current, itemized statement of the devices that were still out and the bill. So far, I haven't heard anything back. What do you think I should do?

Bob

Dear Bob,

Just keep on tearing into them. This thing won't go away until you get everything completely rooted out. If you ignore it, chances are it'll bite you on things like your credit bureau report. You might even find yourself the subject of some vague lawsuit years from now.

Considering the numbers you gave me, and what you know happened with the account and the devices, it sounds like someone on their end made a clerical error. More than likely, this is a case of typical incompetence on the part of a cell phone company.

You may have an uphill battle ahead of you, but I'd keep on shoveling until the barn gets clean. Stay on top of it, and don't let them push you into giving them money if they can't prove they're right. You may have to hire an attorney at some point to sue them and clear your name, but hopefully it won't come to that.

Love Like the Lord

[Jesus said] "You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' But I tell you: Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, that you may be children of your Father in heaven. He causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous . . . Be perfect, therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect."

Matthew 5:43-45,48

Sometimes the words of the Bible make you cringe. Sometimes they make you crinkle your brow in confusion. Sometimes they seem so wrong. Love your enemies? What a crazy concept! "Love the ex-spouse who hurt me? Love the co-worker who ruined my reputation? Love the family member who took advantage of me? No! I want to make them pay for what they did. I want to hurt them for the way they hurt me. It just makes more sense."

It makes sense to my sinful nature. But it is not God's nature. He sends blessings even on those who thumb their noses at him. He sacrificed his own Son to save those who sinned against him again and again—people like you and me. Our Father PERFECTLY loves us—although we have not perfectly loved others.

If we want to be like our Father in heaven then we will love even our enemies. We will forgive the spouse who hurt us. We will be kind to the co-worker who ruined our reputation. We will pray for the family member who took advantage of us. After all, they need love and forgiveness just like we do.

Prayer: Dear Father in heaven, thank you for loving me perfectly. Dear Jesus, thank you for loving me when I was unlovable. Dear Holy Spirit, create in me a perfect love for others, even my enemies. Amen.

Mesoamerican cultures can be traced back thousands of years—and for good reason. Aaron is quick to point out that Nixtamalized corn has many health benefits when compared to untreated corn. He says, “It removes toxins, imparts calcium, activates amino acids and vitamin B3 while also freeing trapped niacin found naturally in the corn, allowing our bodies to absorb the nutrients more readily.” The process has remained almost completely unchanged, and Aaron notes, “We’re just going back to the way it’s always been done, simple ingredients, stone ground and made fresh.” Before the rise of commercially processed corn flour, that is how tortillas were made — dried corn cooked in lime-treated water, allowed to soak overnight, washed and ground in a mill using real volcanic stone to create fresh masa. The Harris family, however, contends that their Molino Tortilleria isn’t content to stop there, because they are true advocates for food diversity on a mission to highlight different and interesting varieties of corn in their products. They began sourcing landrace varieties of corn from small independent farms in Mexico where farmers have selected seeds for generations to ensure the highest quality corn for producing masa. While they continue to purchase from Mexico they’ve also started a sourcing program with local farmers experimenting with new varieties that are well suited for growing in the Great Lakes Region. Most recently they’ve worked with Granor Farms, an organic farm with a large presence in Southwest Michigan, and a fellow vendor at the St. Joseph Farmers Market. Granor Farms sources a red dent variety of corn to Molino in hopes of creating the first Michigan grown and produced tortilla. Harris suggests, “Agricultural diversity is really at the heart of what we are doing here at Molino.” He adds, “We’re hoping to leave an impact with our customers on why it’s important to support diversity in our food system. A healthy diverse food system means food stability for our future and we want to do our part in supporting that.”

When it comes to fresh ideas, sometimes nonprofit organizations can be left holding the bag due to funding constraints. Nobody recognizes that more than the two men who share the presidency at Holt Bosse, the full-service marketing firm headquartered in the central business district of downtown St. Joseph. That’s why for the third year running, David Holt and Patrick Bosse have launched the start of their 3rd Annual “Make a Mark” campaign. That initiative will award up to $50,000 in free marketing services and fresh ideas to one area nonprofit organization. Applications are available at the link below, and they are due by Friday, February 28th. Here’s the direct link to the details and application: www.holtbosse.com/mark. Holt says, “We’ve always really enjoyed coming up with ideas and materials for numerous nonprofits in Southwest Michigan,” and adds, “That’s why we decided to start the Make a Mark Campaign in 2018. We really wanted to focus on helping one area nonprofit make a bigger mark by dedicating up to $50,000 worth of our time and skills to their marketing efforts.” The donated services can be applied toward boosting the recipient’s annual marketing budget, kick-starting a capital campaign or getting the word out about new programs or services, fundraising, and the like. Holt says services covered by the “Make a Mark” campaign include strategic, media and public relations plans as well as development and creation of websites, social media campaigns, digital, print, radio and television advertising, direct mail, billboards and more. Bosse notes, “Local nonprofits are stretched so thin, and we want to do what we can to help organizations reach their marketing goals,” and reminds applicants, “The only costs a nonprofit will incur are outside purchases. All our time is provided at no cost to our Make a Mark partner.” For more information about the “Make a Mark” campaign or to complete an application, visit online at holtbosse.com/mark. Holt Bosse is a full-service marketing firm located in St. Joseph. Its team specializes in early adaptation to new technology and the blending of traditional strategies with experiential marketing. by Joshua Goines. In 2005, The Light in the Piazza won 6 Tony awards, including Best Original Score and Best Orchestration. The story centers on Margaret Johnson, an American, traveling across Europe in 1953 with her daughter, Clara. While in Florence, Clara meets a young Italian, & the two fall in love..... but it's complicated. There will be 8 performances, June 11th through June 21st. Rounding out the season in August, the musical, A New Brain, written by William Finn and James Lapine, will open August 13th at The GhostLight. August Garritano who helped craft Urinetown: The Musical, last year at The GhostLight, will direct, and Joshua Goines will music direct. In the semi-autobiographical musical about a composer facing a sudden life-threatening illness, the healing power of art is celebrated in a delightfully witty musical all about second chances. There will be 8 performances, August 13th through August 23rd. GhostLight Artist Director Paul Mow says, "We are incredibly excited about these three very different yet beautiful pieces of theatre which all serve to highlight and celebrate the human condition in a myriad of ways." He adds, "We look forward to sharing these three pieces of theatre with our Southwest Michigan audiences who may not have seen these shows previously." GhostLight's Executive Director Marty Hesse says, "Because of the overwhelming support from the community, and multiple sold-out performances, we had a spectacular inaugural 2019 Season. Starting this season, the GhostLight lobby will be known as The Kunkel Family Lobby, and the black box theater space will be known as The Schalon Room. Both the Schalon Foundation and the Kunkel family have been major supporters of The GhostLight Theatre." Hesse goes on to say, "We are so grateful for the continuing support of the Schalon Foundation and their vision of excellence in performing arts in our area." She points out, "They have enabled GhostLight to open this past June, with a fabulous first season of productions and a beautiful and newly-renovated theatre building." She also says, "The new GhostLight building has been fully renovated, and is a beautiful venue for our productions, as well as for events and meetings." Auditions for all of the 2020 shows are being held on Sunday, March 8th from 3-to-6pm, on Monday, March 9th from 4-to-8pm, and on Tuesday, March 10th from 4-to-8pm at The GhostLight Theatre located at 101 Hinkley Street in the Benton Harbor Arts District. For more information, refer to The GhostLight website or contact Artistic Director Paul Mow at paul@GhostLightBH.com in the weeks leading up to the audition dates. Ticket prices for all shows are $28 for adults, $22 for seniors, and $12 for students with ID. The theatre is located at 101 Hinkley Street in the Benton Harbor Arts District. For more information, to join the GhostLight mailing list, or to purchase tickets, go to GhostLightBH.com. This year, The GhostLight Theatre and its friends, donors, and patrons are tasked with raising $75,000 in 2020 to match grants, fund the 2020 season, enhance the light and sound systems, sponsor the CircEsteem Summer Camp, and to continue to bring high-quality performing arts productions to southwest Michigan. Artistic Director Mow says, "This 2020 Capital Campaign is an opportunity to acknowledge our largest donors and to involve more area residents in supporting the arts in our community, while inspiring future donors to get involved with a variety of giving opportunities." Assistance Night event. The session is slated for Thursday evening, February 20th, from 6 to 7:30pm on the Benton Harbor Campus in the Student Services Area inside the Main Building on Napier Avenue. LMC staff will be available to answer questions and assist with the financial aid application process in the free event which is open to the general public. Students of all ages who plan to attend college in the 2020-21 academic year are encouraged to attend, even if they are undecided or planning to attend a school other than LMC. Jeremy Schaeffer is LMC's Director of Admissions and Recruitment. He says, "The financial aid application process can be daunting," but notes, "Lake Michigan College's mission is to serve the community. That includes giving students in Southwest Michigan the help they need to get their questions answered as we approach the application deadlines for the 2020-21 academic year." Schaeffer adds that all prospective students are also welcome to set-up appointments with LMC staff during regular office hours to get help with their application process. The deadline set by the state of Michigan for the 2020-21 academic year is March 1st, and you can find more info on that available at studentaid.gov. LMC encourages students to apply for financial aid early because LMC funds are distributed on a first come, first serve basis. Heating. Founded in 1963 their mission has and will always be: Grow within the company and provide outstanding service in the community.

The Economic Impact Award went to Edgewater Automation. Founded in 2001, Edgewater has taken a hands-on approach to growing their industry by working closely with local high schools and colleges to promote the education and training of the trade workforce.

New for 2020, the Non-Profit Excellence Award, which honors 501(c) organizations who provide exceptional contributions to the community. The inaugural winner is Harbor Country Mission. In 2019 they launched a campaign to eliminate medical debt in Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren Counties helping 2,611 families for a total of $2.4 MILLION eliminated.

Our 2019 Ambassador of the Year is Lorie Brink of United Federal Credit Union. Lorie is one of the most community volunteer involved people I've ever met! She is a member of Women Service League, a Board Member for 100 Women Strong, and so much more! Finally, our awards wrapped up with prestigious "Pat Moody Award", which went to a man that has dedicated his life to making St. Joseph and the surrounding communities an area we are proud to call home. That man is none other than Bob Gerbel.

For the full list of nominees and award criteria, visit our website www.smrchamber.com.

On Thursday, over 450 members of the business community came together for the 2020 Business Recognition Breakfast with the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber and Cornerstone Alliance. Between the two organizations, we honored and recognized a total of 12 different businesses and/or community leaders. I thought it would be only fitting to humble bragging on their behalf today.

First up, our Young Business Leader of the Year, Stacey Dodson - Brand Manager for Honor Credit Union. Stacey is a proud Buchanan native, with one amazing resume including the political realm, teaching, real estate sales, and side hustles as a blogger, columnist, and podcast host.

Our Small Business Award went to Freedom Finishing of Benton Harbor. Opening their doors in September of 1988, they bring over 27 years of powder coating experience with the most demanding industries such as; automotive, military, appliance, recreation, furniture, and medical.

A name you likely know and recognize won our award for Excellence in Customer Service, that would be none other than Boelcke

For the first time ever, the Southwest Michigan Symphony Orchestra will host a music talent competition. The event, named "GOT TALENT?" offers local acts from two age groups, "Ages 12-18" and "Ages 19 & up", the chance to compete for cash prizes. Singers, dancers, instrumentalists, solo or group, are invited to audition. If the act includes music, the SMSO wants to see it!

Auditions will take place on Fridays during the month of March at The GhostLight Theatre, 101 Hinkley St., Benton Harbor, MI. Preliminary Auditions will occur March 6th, 13th, and 20th, 2020. There is a $150 non-refundable audition fee due with registration, and payment guarantees the opportunity to audition. A limited number of sponsorships will be available for individuals who cannot afford the audition fee. Registration deadline is March 4, 2020. Jeffries

The housing market across SWMI in January 2020, started the year off to a good start by bouncing back significantly from January 2019 in sales and by giving buyers a break from the escalating selling prices in the latter half of 2019.

January tends to be the least productive month of any given year. For a variety of reasons, buyers and sellers push to close in December before the year-end. When we compare the number of houses sold and closed in December to January of the next year, there has been a 25 to 37 percent drop in houses sold over the last five years. For example, home sales in January 2020 were 25 percent below sales in December 2019 (190 vs. 254).

Milder weather last month may have pushed home sales up 9 percent over January 2019 (190 vs. 175). January 2020, home sales returned to the same level as in January 2018. The increase in sales was notable since the inventory of houses for sale dropped 5 percent from January 2019 (1,178 vs. 1,244). Since 2017, the inventory level has been around 4.2 to 4.9-months supply in January. The declining inventory affects buyers living in Allegan, Berrien, Cass, and the westerly 2/3 of Van Buren counties.

The average selling price increased 11 percent $220,881 from $199,131 in January 2019.

The Housing Market in Southwestern Michigan

The median selling price dropped 23 percent from January 2019 ($168,750 vs. $137,500).

The median price is the price at which 50% of the homes sold were above that price, and 50% were below.

The total dollar volume at $41,967,468 jumped 21 percent in January 2020 from $34,848,017 in January 2019.

The number of bank-owned or foreclosed homes as a percentage of all transactions was 7 percent in January, reaching the lowest percentage in the year-over-year comparison. In December 2019, the percentage was 4 percent. The highest percentage in January was 57 percent in 2009.

Locally, the mortgage rate decreased to 3.589 from 3.756 in December 2019. Last year in January, the rate was 4.573. Nationally, the Freddie Mac mortgage rate in January was 3.51 versus 3.74 in December for a 30-year conventional mortgage.

This data reflects home sales across Allegan, Berrien, Cass, and the westerly 2/3 of Van Buren counties and should not be used to determine the market value of any individual property. If you want to know the market value of your property, please contact your local REALTOR®.

When Selling a Home...

You want buyers to fall in love with your home the minute they walk in. Staging your home is the marketing tool that will help this happen. It presents your house in a flattering light and helps you compete at a favorable price. Staging also leads to eye-catching listing photos, which are especially valuable given that most homebuyers begin their search by scrolling through listings online.

Many listings agents offer staging services to clients as part of their services. If you want to use someone you find yourself, you typically will have to pay out of pocket. So set a budget. Staging costs vary depending on where you live and how many rooms you're staging. On average, home sellers pay between $302 and $1,358 for staging. Staging the rooms where people tend to spend the most time usually makes the biggest impression on buyers. Start with the living room, followed by the master bedroom and the kitchen.

If you are thinking, staging is not necessary, here are some stats that may change your mind: 77% of buyers' agents said staging makes it easier for their buyer to visualize the property as their future home. It's like helping the buyer dream it so they can achieve it — and so you and your agent can make the sale. 39% of sellers' agents said staging a home greatly decreases the amount of time a house is on the market. For you, time saved could mean moving into your new house even sooner. Still on the fence? Ask your REALTOR® for advice.

When Buying a Home...

It makes good sense to get pre-approved by at least three lenders. Your REALTOR can make suggestions based on your local market. Why three lenders? Mortgages come in many types — and recognizing which type you should choose is critical for your financial future. Reviewing your options with different lenders will help you find the right type of mortgage and a lender that you will feel is working for your best interest.

Pre-approval puts you in a better position when you make an offer. Everyone takes you more seriously. Pre-approval provides evidence to your real estate agent and the seller (or seller's agent) that a trusted financial institution is willing to finance the purchase. In most housing markets, sellers are going to expect you to be pre-approved when you make your offer. And when you're pre-approved, you're more likely to have your offer accepted — or at least, you won't lose out on a bid because you have to go back to the bank to get approved for a loan.

To view properties that are for sale in your local area, go to www.swmar.com and click on "Property Search". The Southwestern Michigan Association of REALTORS®, Inc. is a professional trade association for real estate professionals who are members of the National Association of REALTORS®, and ancillary service providers for the real estate industry in Allegan, Berrien, Cass, and Van Buren Counties. The Association can be contacted at 269-983-6375 or through their website at www.swmar.com.
