9Round Fitness of Gorham: Why kickboxing?

Ted & Melissa Rioux—Owners of 9Round Fitness Gorham

Watching sports on television or live is engrained in American culture like nothing else. In fact, baseball has long been labeled as the "Great American Pastime." Through cable TV. access to sports telecasts has never been greater. The variety of sports activities available to our children is also on a steady increase. Given our obsession with sports, have you ever wondered which sport demands the most of its athletes?

An ESPN panel of experts set out to find the answer to this question by analyzing 60 professional sports from football to fishing. They identified 10 categories/ skills that contribute to athleticism and assigned a score of 1 through 10. These skills included endurance, strength, power, speed, agility, flexibility, nerve, durability, hand-eye coordination and analytic aptitude. The sport that came out on top: Boxing!

Boxing rated highest in endurance, power, nerve and durability and was second in power only behind football. The panel's assessment was clear: boxing requires the most of its athletes, thus producing the best athletes! Interested in reviewing the results yourself? Go to https:// www.espn.com/espn/ page2/sportSkills

The sport of kickboxing amps up the degree of difficulty by combining the use of the lower body (kicks and knee strikes) with the use of the upper body (punches and elbow strikes), requiring a more total-body effort.

Browntail moths and winter pruning in Gorham

Browntail moths mostly unnoticed homeowners until the spring and summer months, but by that time, removing the infestation is incredibly difficult and expensive. The ugly caterpillars that cause rashes can often be seen crawling across your driveways on their way to another tree. These pests thrive on leaves and can strip a healthy tree of foliage quickly. Governor's Address: Supplemental budget balances

A year ago, I presented my Administration's first biennial budget. That budget was based on HOPE health, opportunity, prosperity, and educa-

The Legislature then debated that proposal, negotiated some compromises and then they enacted - respectfully and in timely fashion - a balanced budget, with two-thirds bipartisan support, without raising any taxes.

Since that time, we've been very fortunate. Our economy has remained strong, with continued growth and record low unemployment. The economic forecast and the revenue projections are positive, with more than half of projected revenue being one-time funds, but a forecast that permits us now to identify specific needs to present to the Legislature in the form of a supplemental budget.

The supplemental budget I proposed this week reflects three bipartisan priorities: Setting aside money in the State's Rainy Day Fund to protect us against an downturn; economic Strengthening those protect services that the health, safety and well-being of Maine families; Addressing our critical workforce needs and responding to the immediate needs of the educational and business communities.

In this budget I propose that we build on our state's record-high Rainy Day Fund by set-million dollars of that projected surplus in savings. If that's approved, the Budget Stabilization Fund will have grown by $50 million since I took office. That's important savings for a Rainy Day.

Government is also about keeping people safe and protecting children and families so the supplemental requests 20 additional positions so we can respond to reports of child abuse or neglect, and it eliminates the current Section 29 waitlist ting aside another $20 for people with developmental disabilities while we work to improve services for all people with disabilities.

The budget also funds 14 new patrol officers and sergeants at the Maine State Police. The fact is, the number of state police patrol officers has not changed since the 1970's, while traffic, technology and population have grown. There are simply too few troopers to respond to car crashes, lost children and crime scenes.

The budget also invests in expanding Maine's workforce to respond to the demands of the present and the needs of the future. So, it:

funds short-term training programs through Maine's community colleges; the Maine Apprenticeship Program;

and Adult Education;

invests in critical capital equipment like computers and forklifts for the career and technical education centers so that they can succeed in training our students in jobs that pay good wages. You know those CTEs haven't had substantial funding for equipment since 1998. It's time to get with the program; and the budget raises the state's share of public education to nearly 52 percent for pre-K through 12 — that's a two percent increase since I took office. And it makes whole our higher education institutions in the second year of the biennium.

I am also presenting a bond package to the Legislature, and asking them to let you, the voters, decide on $100 million in borrowing for transportation to fix the potholes and $15 million to bring highspeed internet to your

This supplemental budget is balanced. It does not create new programs. It takes care that one-time monies are used for one time needs and that we fulfill our obligation within existing programs to take care of our schools, child welfare and public safety

As the Legislature puts their own fingerprints on this document, I hope that they do so with caution, balancing the health and safety of Maine families and our workforce needs with the long-term health of the state.

Maine Sports Hall of Fame announces nine inductees for 2020

The Maine Sports Hall of Fame will induct five men and four women in its 45th induction ceremony Sept. 20 at Merrill Auditorium in Portland.

By percentage, it is the largest class of women inducted by the organization that was established in 1972. Five women were among the 12 inductees in 2016. "I'm thinking this is one of the most diverse groups we've had in terms of a variety of sports," said new President Brian Corcoran, CEO and founder of Shamrock Sports & Entertainment. "I'm really pleased with the number of women."

The inductees, in alphabetical order:

Amy (Corbett) Bernatchez was a three-sport star at Messalonskee High School in Oakland, playing on teams that won state championships in field hockey and basketball. Bernatchez played two seasons of field hockey at Springfield College before transferring to the University of Maine, where she was a Regional All-American. The Hall of Fame Black Bear who made the 1990 U.S. National Team went on to coach at Messalonskee and Cony, winning three state championships. She also coached seven seasons at Colby College. With husband Brian, Bernatchez founded the Maine Majestix Field Hockey Club, its teams competed in numerous regional and national competitions. She has coached more than 100 college players, including more than 30 Division I student-athletes.

Cathy (Narsiff) Caron competed cross-country, track and field, and ice hockey at Biddeford High School, and was the starting goalie on the boys' ice hockey team. She also was the state champion in the discus. At Berwick Academy, she started in goal and was MVP on the men's hockey team, as well as captain and MVP of the soccer team, and goalie and MVP of the lacrosse team. Caron was a four-year starting goalie on the University of New Hampshire women's ice hockey squad, setting records for shutouts and fewest goals against. She was CMM Player of the Year, given to the nation's best female player. She also was a three-time All-America goalie in lacrosse. Caron was a member of the USA Women's Lacrosse Team which competed at the 1989 World Cup. She is in the UNH Hall of Fame.

What's Going On

NAMI Maine welcomes new board of directors members

Dr. Joe Fitzpatrick

NAMI Maine is thrilled to welcome Dr. Joe Fitzpatrick, Karen-Ann Hagar, Colonel Michael Pooler (retired), Lisa Shaw, and Lt. Bryan Slaney to the Board of Directors.

"NAMI Maine continues to grow into a more dynamic and responsive entity. The addition of these five diverse and talented individuals, each of whom has great passion for mental health, will only catapult the entity further," says NAMI

Maine's Chief Executive Officer, Jenna Mehnert, MSW, on the new board members. "These are exciting times of change for NAMI Maine."

Dr. Joe Fitzpatrick is a clinical psychologist with thirty years of direct experience in the field. He trained at Boston Children's Hospital and Dana Farber Cancer Institute, where he later joined the clinical staff. Dr. Fitzpatrick moved to Maine in 1990 and spent twenty-five years working in the Maine Department of Corrections (MDOC) serving as the chief clinical resource for the department. During his last five years with the MDOC, Dr. Fitzpatrick served as the Commissioner and made significant progressive changes to expand and support mental health services within the department. He currently has a private practice focusing on school consultation and services, as well as support of medical populations. Dr. Fitzpatrick lives in Fayette with his wife Patti and they have four children, Shannon, Molly, Joseph, and Emma.

Karen-Ann Hagar was born in Damariscotta and is a graduate of Lincoln Academy. Hagar has been with the YMCA organization since 2000 and is the Director of After School Programming for school age children from four different school systems while also serving as the Community Outreach Program Coordinator. Hagar is a suicide loss survivor of four family suicides and is passionate about sharing her family's story to educate and inform others about mental health and suicide prevention.

Colonel Michael Pooler

Colonel Michael Pooler (retired) grew up in Brewer and commissioned an Infantry 2nd Lieutenant from the University of Maine at Orono in 1986. He taught social studies at Houlton High School until 1992m then in 1993 began his fulltime employment with the Maine Army National Guard. Pooler held various command and staff assignments at the Maine National Guard state headquarters and the 1st Battalion, 152nd Field Artillery, to include battalion commander. After command, Mike volunteered to deploy to Afghanistan, where he led a fifteen man team which trained an Afghan infantry battalion of 500 Soldiers during combat operations. He returned in December of 2008 to become the Maine Army National Guard's Deputy Director of Personnel, then Director of Personnel, and retired as the Director of Human Resources of the Maine National Guard. He was also instrumental in integrating and expanding the Maine National Guard behavioral health program. Mike earned an MBA from Thomas College and a Master of Strategic Studies from the US Army War College. His awards include the Bronze Star and Combat Action Badge. Mike is married to Suzanne Pooler and resides in Oakland.

Lisa Shaw

Lisa Shaw is the Rural & Small Libraries and Workforce Development Specialist with the Maine State Library. Lisa is also currently serving as Chair of the Board of Directors for the Bangor Area Homeless Shelter; serves with the City of Bangor Planning Board; and as Chair of the Advocacy Committee for the Association for Rural & Small Libraries. Lisa enjoys writing, painting, and proofreads impossible crime and locked room mysteries for Locked Room International. She lives in Bangor with her husband, daughter, and two cats, and has a son in Missouri.

Award program highlights young environmental leaders

A new statewide awards program launched today will elevate the voices and work of the rising generation of environmental leaders in Maine. The Brookie Awards will recognize a diverse group of six youth changemakers every two years for their demonstrated leadership and effectiveness on behalf of Maine's natural resources.

Nominations the inaugural "school" of Brookie Award winners are now being accepted through March 15, 2020. Mainers are encouraged to nominate eligible young leaders who live in Maine and are between the ages of 15 and 30 at www. brookieawards.org/ nominate.

Brookie Awards are organized by NRCM Rising, the young member arm of Maine's leading environmental group, the Natural Resources Council of Maine (NRCM).

"The Brookie Awards are just what Maine's environmental movement needs because it serves to inspire and reinvigorate Maine people by sharing the stories and positive impact our generation of leaders is already having on the state," said NRCM Rising Leadership Team Member Sarah Cotton.

winners will receive a $1,000 cash prize and the opportunity to attend a nature-based retreat with their fellow young environmental changemakers where they will participate in skill-building sessions and engage with other environmental and political leaders in Maine. The retreat aims to foster knowledge sharing across generations and environmental movement-building by more deeply connecting these outstanding individuals to the nature of Maine and encouraging their ongoing commitment to environmental-

Proposal would recognize unpaid family caregivers

Not everyone who works hard gets a paycheck. That includes the more than 180,000 dedicated Maine caregivers who provide more than 150 million hours of unpaid support services every year to family members who need help with daily activities such as dressing, eating, cleaning, and taking their medicine.

At the State House last week, family caregivers joined health care professionals, policy experts, and advocates to support bipartisan legislation that would provide modest compensation to recognize and reward the valuable work of unpaid family caregivers.

The bill—LD 1919, sponsored by Rep. Kristen Cloutier of Lewiston—would create the Rep. Ann E. Peoples Family Caregiver Credit, a new refundable income tax credit worth up to $2,000 annually for eligible family caregivers.

"Having served as the primary caregiver to my mother after she was diagnosed with Alzheimer's, I know firsthand how hard many Mainers work to provide care for their loved ones." said Cloutier. "These caregivers make incredible personal and financial sacrifices. They deserve a tax credit that provides some relief and places value on their work. I am so honored to propose the Rep. Ann E. Peoples Family Caregiver Credit, named after the late legislator who not only served Maine proudly, but who brought her husband to the State House every day so that she could continue to give him the care he needed."

Peoples died in November 2019 during her fifth term representing Westbrook in the Maine Legislature. While serving in the House of Representatives, she also provided daily support to her husband, Patrick, who used a wheelchair and needed assistance with physical tasks after suffering a stroke in 2012.

Maine's patchwork system of professional caregivers is inadequate to meet the needs of every resident who needs long-term care. Mainers with adult family members who are elderly or have disabilities often step up to meet the unmet need. The responsibility for caregiving often falls to women, and those duties often make it harder for them to make ends meet.

Kim Lakin-Tomminello lives in Arundel, where she cares for her husband and father. She said caregiving involves supporting her loved ones in all aspects of their lives.

"We cut back our hours or leave our jobs completely to provide necessary care for loved ones," Lakin-Tomminello said. "We don't want our fathers, mothers, husbands, wives or other family members to be forced to go into a home, so we sacrifice and provide care. A refundable tax credit such as the one in LD 1919 would help so many families like mine and so many women like me."

Research shows family caregivers are more likely to reduce hours, quit a job, retire early, and delay a job search because of caregiving responsibilities. Research by the Maine Center for Economic Policy indicates that 14 percent of private-sector workers in Maine had quit their jobs or reduced their hours for more than two weeks in order to take on family caregiving responsibilities.

Dr. Barbara Covey, a semi-retired emergency room physician, said family caregivers play a "critical role" in Maine. Family caregiving reduces the need for expensive, long-term residential care and can help avoid costly emergency room visits. But those savings for the care recipient come at a cost for the family caregiver, Covey said.

"These individuals are helping to fill the large unmet need in Maine for care of the elderly and disabled," Covey said in written testimony to the Legislature's Taxation Committee, which will consider the bill. "Please recognize their sacrifice and contributions by support of this bill.

For more information on the Rep. Ann E. Peoples Family Caregiver Credit, see this fact sheet published by the Maine Center for Economic Policy.ther," says NAMI

Art for afterschool, parties and more in Gorham

Aylla Vaughn 5th grade chose to fingerpaint her sunset during this session. Well Done Aylla

Owner and artist, DaraLyn McColl of DLynDesigns Studio, located in Gorham, provides a variety of art services, from lessons, to parties, to graphic design, to volunteer opportunities!

Daralyn offers afterschool and summer art sessions for young artists where each student begins at their level and is taught individually within a small group based on their age. Many young artists also choose to have private sessions. DaraLyn provides the young artist the opportunity to plan their artwork, teaching them to slow down and to observe. At the same time, they learn more about their chosen medium and proper art techniques, providing all art supplies.

Nurturing creativity is always the primary learning objective. All art sessions begin with the young artist's chosen subject matter and instruction with specific art techniques in mind. Private art sessions are always individually interest-based on what the young artists wish to learn more in a relaxing atmosphere. Students may review other's work in a small, informal critique, providing constructive criticism. This process teaches everyone more about what and how we see other's work, and it encourages the proper way to give and receive positive feedback, building adequate communication skills.

Husson fundraising create more scholarships and growth

Husson University proudly announced today that it has concluded its first comprehensive campaign and raised $37,988,400 in cash and pledges

The campaign, called "Shaping our Future," had an initial goal of $21 million. The University's alumni and friends contributed $16 million during its initial silent phase. This early success combined with a need for a signature and state-of-the-art facility for Husson's College of Business, prompted the trustees to increase the goal to $30 million when the campaign was publically announced on October 3, 2015.

"We accepted the challenge to do more because we believe in a better future," said Robert A. Clark, Ph.D., president of Husson University. "This successful campaign has made it possible for us to better support the success of our students and serve as a catalyst responsible for the economic future of our state. There is no greater calling for any institution than the transformation of students' lives and the education of our future leaders."

A major donation, in the form of a matching gift challenge, was received from the Harold Alfond Foundation. Husson supporters rose to the challenge committing $8 million toward a new College of Business building, unlocking an additional $4 million matching gift from the Foundation. This represents the largest single gift in the University's history.

The campaign made a variety of benefits possible for students and the University. With the creation of 51 new endowed scholarships, Husson University students now have more opportunities for financial aid. The campaign also strengthened the institution's endowment. A larger endowment will help to ensure the financial strength and security of Husson University for years of come. The crowning jewel of this fundraising effort will be the construction of a new College of Business building made possible through donations. Husson University's College of Business is the largest business school in Maine.

Once completed, the new, modern building will feature approximately 42,500 square feet of experiential classrooms and offices, supported by an advanced technology infrastructure. It will fuse business education with science, technology, engineering, art, and math (STEAM) opportunities. These STEAM-oriented learning spaces will become the incubators of future jobs in our state.

of One these STEAM-oriented learning spaces with be the new IEX Center in the College of Business building. This Center will create and distribute immersive and interactive experiences for a variety of Husson courses as part of the University's commitment to experiential learning. Virtual reality and augmented reality will be part of the experiences offered by the Center.

The Center will aid in the University's mission to enhance regional economic development by helping to train students for jobs of the future and by developing new practices.

Projects that fall within the scope of the IEX Center have the potential to affect a wide range of disciplines. Marketing, Business and Communications Technology are just some of the career fields that can benefit from immersive and interactive experiences.

The Business Center will serve as a community resource businesses that need assistance in developing and integrating immersive technology. In addition, IEX Center will engage in community outreach efforts that encourage the use of immersive technology as it facilitates the placement of Husson students in internship and employment opportunities with employers. A diverse group of Husson faculty and staff are participating in this initiative along with outside stakeholders.

Husson envisions a cross pollination of sciences and entrepreneurship in modern, unique learning space dedicated to innovation. The new College of Business building will also feature interactive learning spaces designed to foster innovative interdisciplinary learning.

The new building is anticipated to cost approximately $17.2 million. The University expects to break ground on the new building in April 2020.

"It took a team effort to reach and exceed our fundraising goals," said Sarah Robinson, vice president for advancement at Husson University. The strong support shown by alumni, businesses, foundations, the community, students, faculty and staff for this project show that Husson University has a wide base of support. Our Husson community feels like a family and everyone who contributed to this

Local Children's auditions held at Maine State Music Theatre

Maine State Music Theatre will hold local children's auditions for both Frozen, Jr., and The Sound of Music. Both auditions will be held at 22 Elm Street in Brunswick

Auditions for Frozen, Jr., will be held on Sunday, February 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with call backs if selected at 3 p.m. This audition is for children 8 through 18 years old (cannot turn 19 during the period of April 6 through July 20). MCPKids! Announces cast of Disney's High School Musical Jr.

Disney Channel's smash hit movie musical is coming to life on the Monmouth Community Players stage in Disney's High School Musical Jr. Troy, Gabriella and the students of East High must deal with issues of love, friends and family while balancing their classes and extracurricular activities. The show's infectious, danceable songs are sure to engage performers and audiences

It's the first day after winter break at East High. The Jocks, Brainiacs, Thespians and Skater Dudes all find their cliques. Basketball team captain and resident jock, Troy Bolton (Taylor Sutherburg), discovers that the brainy Gabriella Montez (Makenzie Finnegan), a girl he met singing karaoke on his ski trip, has just enrolled at East High. The couple cause an upheaval when they decide to audition for the high school musical, ruffling the delicate feathers of Sharpee and Ryan Evans (Sam Melquist and Shawn Jimenez), East High's reigning divas. Although many students resent the threat posed to the "status quo," Troy and Gabriella's alliance might just open the door for others to shine as well.

The cast is made

Casco FCU raises $7,000 for Gorham food pantries

Casco Federal Credit Union employees Patty Kenney and Sam Bell dropping off a donation to the Standish Food Pantry.

Combatting hunger at the local level is a cause near and dear to the hearts of Casco Federal Credit Union's staff. Food insecurity is an ongoing issue for many Maine families. One in seven Mainers struggles with hunger and Maine is ranked twelfth in the nation for food insecurity. That's why each year Team Casco takes an active part in Maine's Credit Unions' Campaign to End Hunger.

In 2019, Casco FCU raised $7,000 for Ending Hunger. Those funds will be donated directly to the Gorham Standish Food Pantries, who serve hundreds of local families in need. "Each year we are touched by the generosity of our credit union members," says Marketing & Sales Director, Kelsey Gilles-"Whether it's buying a treat during work with so many community members who embody the credit union philosophy of 'people helping people."

In addition to fundraising, Casco FCU also collects non-perishable items for the food pantries yearround. Donations can be dropped off at one of their two locations in Gorham at 375 Main Street or 393 Ossipee Trail. For more information on upcoming Ending Hunger Events at Casco FCU, vis-

Grant to help people with ALS In Maine

The ALS Association Northern New England Chapter is pleased to announce a new grant program, The Paul La-Rochelle Quality of Life Grant Program, which seeks to reduce the financial burden of ALS for those with the disease and their families. The fund is supported by an anonymous donor in memory and in honor of Paul LaRochelle who passed away in April 2018 after being diagnosed in 2017.

Paul was the oldest of 6 children, growing up in Lewiston, Maine. As an adult, Paul studied and became a civil structural engineer, work that he absolutely loved. When Paul was diagnosed with ALS, his large family of brothers, sisters, parents, aunts, uncles and children rallied around him to care and support him on his journey. Realizing that not everyone has that support structure that Paul had, this Quality of Life Grant program became very important to the family, named to honor Paul and his family.

ALS is a progressive neurodegenerative disease that affects nerve cells in the brain and the spinal cord. Eventually, people with ALS lose the ability to initiate and control muscle movement, which often leads to total paralysis and death within two to five years of diagnosis. Studies estimate that it takes nearly $250,000 a year in out of pocket expenses to care for someone with ALS.

"The financial burden of ALS is relentless for families, due to evphysical, er-changing mental and emotional needs," says Executive Director, Mauret Brinser. Many of these needs are not covered by insurance. Or, they are so immediate in nature, people cannot wait for outside assistance and the family takes responsibility for meeting them."

This Paul LaRochelle Quality of Life Grant Program will provide financial assistance for expenses that are not traditionally covered by private insurance, Medicare or Medicaid. In addition, families can request funding for support such as respite care, home modifications or transportation.

Applications will be accepted and processed as they are received, and awards granted until funds are no longer available each year. Grants will be awarded during two periods; February 1 through July 31 and again August 1 through January 31.

For more information, please contact Amber Stalker at astalker@ alsanne.org or at (603) 226-8856.

The ALS Association is the largest private funder of ALS research in the world. The Association funds global research collaborations, provides assistance for people with ALS and their families through our nationwide network of chapters and certified clinical care centers, and advocates for better public policies for people with ALS. The ALS Association builds hope and enhances quality of life while urgently searching for new treatments and a cure. For more information about The ALS Association, visit our website at www.alsa.org

The ALS Association Northern New England Chapter was founded in 1999 to serve the needs of those living with ALS and their caregivers in the states of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. Our mission is to discover treatments and a cure for ALS and to serve, advocate for, and empower people with ALS to live their lives to the fullest. We have made a difference in the lives of people with ALS and their families for nearly 20 years, coordinating services with care and compassion ensuring that individuals receive the highest level of support possible to maintain their dignity and independence. in the sport. He won several national karate championships fighting, in forms, and on teams. His first national championship came in 1980 when he won the heavyweight title. Fournier also won forms. A year later, he was on the national championship team in forms and qualified for the U.S. National Team. Fournier was on that team for seven years and earned silver medals in national and European championships. Fournier grew up in the family that owns Portland's iconic Tony's Donuts and he owns Fournier's Leadership Karate.

Ninety-one-yearold Merle Hallett is a champion sailor who has raced and won all over the world, including the Ensign Nationals. He won his class at a number of prestigious events, including the Bermuda Races, Block Island Race Week and our own Monhegan Race, which he has competed in more than 30 times. Hallett also founded the Gulf of Maine Ocean Racing Association and co-founded the MS Regatta, which has raised more than $3 million for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. He was the long-time owner of Handy Boat and the Galley Restaurant.

Lisa Kuronya Coombs took up boxing for exercise. Soon, her goal was to compete in 10 matches. Now, she has a world championship and five national titles, as well as numerous regional and state crowns. Coombs' greatest contribution to sport may have come in front of a different kind of judge. In 2007, she and the Portland Boxing Club filed suit against USA Boxing, alleging discrimination against women at the national level. USA Boxing settled the suit and agreed to provide expenses and accommodations women that are equal to men at national events.

Rumford's Marty Milligan won both the Fitzpatrick Trophy as the state's top high school football player and the Vinal Trophy as the MVP of the Western Maine High School Basketball Tournament. The two-way starter at Rumford played quarterback and linebacker and was top 10 in his class. He turned down 30 full scholarships at schools such as Syracuse and Wake Forest and was a

In 30 years at Cape Elizabeth High School, his teams went 727-86-3 in dual meets and captured 20 Southwestern Championships and 11 state titles. The Capers also were state runners-up 15 times. Richards coached Tampa Preparatory School to a 176-12-2 record and won three regional championships in Florida. Along the way, he guided 68 Academic All-Americans and 15 Swimming/ Diving All-Americans. In 1990, Richards was featured in Sports Illustrated and in 1991 the Cape Elizabeth swimming pool was named the Donald L. Richards Community Pool in his honor.

Master Maine Guide Carroll Ware is perhaps Maine's preeminent fly fisherman, having set 52 world fishing records, according to the National Fresh Water Fishing Hall of Fame. His catches include several species, on various weight lines and tippets. He and his wife, Lila, also a Master Guide, have run Fins and Furs Adventures for 32 years. They lead trips in Maine, Quebec and Chile, looking for world-class fishing experiences. She lost a match in a state semifinal her first year at Falmouth High School and won her other 80 matches. She captured three straight state singles championships and led Falmouth to its first team title in 1983. Kallas was MVP three times, All-State and All America. At Bowdoin College, she was an All-American, playing No. 1 and earning the state singles and doubles championships as a first-year. She led the Polar Bears to a state title as well. Kallas became the first Bowdoin student-athlete to compete in the NCAA National Tournament. She transferred to the College of William & Mary, where she again was No. 1 and led the squad to No. 1 in the East and into the top 25 nationally. Kallas won two conference titles and was twice an All-Colonial Athletic Association selection. After college, she played professionally. She's currently rated at a high level, 5.0 in Women's Singles.

We Love Gorham 2020 event

In the fall of 2016 an idea percolated in the mind of a local pastor: What would it look like to have a crowd of people from local churches and around the community join together for a day of service and acts of kindness for the good of Gorham? He found that thought exciting. So, nest form a few days later. This also makes the work safer and faster. Browntail rashes are no joke. They itch and burn and last for a week or more. Kids get them in the summer by innocently playing with the fuzzy caterpillars, and arborists often get rashes from working in trees even with proper equipment and clothing. Removing these nests in the winter means that arborists can avoid the risk of rash too.

There are many benefits of winter tree maintenance, such as better visibility, slow sap run which means less damage to the tree, and less damage to the fall area below, helping to preserve the integrity of your lawn. Nest removals are also most effective when done in the winter. Browntail moth nests are less expensive to remove in the winter and winter removal is much more effective at eradicating the pests.

Visibility the key to this process. During the winter, homeowners should be taking inventory of their trees. Foliage is gone and your trees are bare, this is prime opportunity to take a look at your trees and understand what they may need. Taking note of the nests on your trees now, may save you having to remove the tree in a few years. The best way to protect your property from browntail moth infestations is to catch it early. Get the nests removed in the winter, when you can be sure that there will be no escaping caterpillars that can survive. Winter pruning of the branches that hold the nests are also better for the tree. Trees tend to be healthier when pruned while their sap flow is slow. The high visibility also allows for the arborist to prune the least amount necessary to remove the nest, which saves the integrity and visual appeal of your Tree health is important to the value of your property and should be maintained just as you maintain your gardens and landscaping. Trees that add visual appeal to your house, or trees that are within fall radius of your house should be evaluated first. Browntail moth nests are ugly, and if they are on trees that are within falling radius of your home, could potentially lead to rashes.

Award

NRCM Rising will celebrate and honor the Brookie Award winners at a major gala event in Spring 2020 that will feature short, inspirational speeches from each awardee. Online videos will also be produced to feature the unique perspective and voice of each winner.

"I am most looking forward to finding out everything we can learn from the diverse perspectives, creativity, and fresh approaches the Brookie winners bring to their environmental work," said NRCM Rising Leadership Team Member Erin Walter. "I hope every environmental young leader in Maine applies today!"

A group of external experts will be convened by NRCM Rising to evaluate Brookie Award nominees based on the following four criteria: Outstanding leadership in creating, organizing, and implementing a project or campaign to protect or improve Maine's Turning environment; individual passion into collective action related to the protection or improvement of Maine's environment; Creativity, collaboration, and persistence in bringing new ideas to existing challenges, introducing new approaches to organizing others, or determination to prevail in the face of obstacles.

The Brookie Awards is made possible by the early partnership of the Quimby Family Foundation. To learn more about the Brookie Awards vishttps://www.brookieawards.org/.

NRCM Rising is a community of individuals in their 20s, 30s, and into their 40s who are committed to the protection of the nature of Maine. The Harlow presents "Maine Flora: Three Views", a three-person exhibition featuring Kathryn SB Davis, Laura Dunn, and Julia Einstein. The exhibition is on view February 28 through March 28 at 100 Water Street in Hallowell. Join us and meet the artists at the opening reception and artist talk on Friday, February 28, 5 to 7 p.m. The trio have a shared interest in the regional art scene, as well as in each other's work.

Each artist works in three different media, painting, printmaking and photography, and will each create a body of work inspired by the flora of Maine. This subject will be handled differently: from a Zen practice, a study in exploration, to "flower portraits." The exhibition will be the result of a collaboration in studio practices. The process of making will also be on display.

In her contemplation on impermanence, Kathryn SB Davis has spent hundreds if not thousands of hours exploring those places and moments where beauty comes into being and passes away. In each image, the artist aims to capture some small still point and intentionally allows the rest of detail to soften, suggesting motion of change however large or small in the subject.

Laura Dunn creates multiples of modern botanicals. Her process is of investigation into and experimentation with a shape drawn from life and repeated, repositioned, and changed by chance. She uses the medium of printing, as well as ceramics, to explore the simple within the complex. It is both an intuitive and fantastic way to understand nature.

Julia Einstein makes paintings as if walking into a garden room with an artist's eye onto nature in vivid compositions, elegant arrangements, and painterly surfaces. The artist refers to these paintings as "flower portraits" as the flowers sit as if on a stage for a quick capture of a flower's gesture & bouquets with a bit of wildness, arranged for dramatic effect.

In conjunction with the exhibit the Harlow is also hosting a workshop on Saturday, March 14, from 10am-1pm: "Behind the Scenes with Maine Flora: Three Views". Join us for an immersive, inspirational, and educational session with Kathryn SB Davis, Laura Dunn, and Julia Einstein, the artists behind Maine Flora: Three Views. During the See Harlow, next page

Lung Cancer • Other Cancers

Special trusts have been set up by vendors and suppliers of the Marcal Paper mill to pay asbestos victims:

If you ever worked at the Marcal Paper mill before 1982 you may have been exposed to asbestos - and not even know it. You could be entitled to multiple cash settlements without going to court, filing a lawsuit, or even leaving your house.

If you ever worked at the Marcal Paper mill, and have been diagnosed with Lung Cancer (even if you are a smoker) - or Esophageal, Laryngeal, Pharyngeal, Stomach, Colon, Rectal Cancer or Mesothelioma, or know someone who died from one of these cancers, call workshop the artists will share inspiration with the group, giving demonstrations and delving into the creative process behind the body of work on display.

This Springtime workshop coincides with the season of growth, both in the physical and inner worlds; it serves as an opportunity to connect and engage on a more in-depth level art and the process behind it. The group will behind-the-scenes of the artists' creative process and come away with fresh perspectives and inspiration for future projects. It will be a small group, limited to 12 participants with lots of opportunity for creative conversation and questions. Participants are encouraged to bring a sketchbook or notebook and to take photos.

Learn more and register for the workshop here: http://harlowgallery.org/workshop-behind-the-scenes-withmaine-flora-three-views/

The Harlow is membership based 501(c)3 nonprofit dedicated to connecting and celebrating art, artists and community in downtown historic Hallowell since 1963. Exhibitions are always free and open to the public. Hours are Wednesday through Saturday noon to 6 p.m. For more information please visit harlowgallery.org or call 207-622-3813.

The Harlow is supported by the City a survey that revealed that food insecurity was an issue and that some students were missing important meals. In collaboration with CMCC administration, chapter members have increased awareness of this issue on campus and have begun gathering non-perishable foods for distribution. Going forward, Alpha Phi Xi plans to ensure that free snacks sandwiches are more readily available to CMCC students in need.
