When someone is telling you a lie when you already know the truth

But you still keep listening

The Phone Call

A housewife with three young children was getting dinner ready when the phone rang. The six-year-old picked it up and said, "Hi, Daddy!" and she began telling him about her day.

She then passed the phone to her brother and sister as was the custom whenever Daddy called from work.

When it was finally the wife's turn to talk she took the receiver and said, "Hi, honey."

"Thank goodness, lady," the voice on the other end replied. "I just called to tell you that the wallpaper you ordered is here!"

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Change is still dominant for Rams and Ewes, both in the workplace and their private lives. This is also a good time to look at a possible relocation if that has been one of your goals.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Doing things for others is what you do well. But don't forget that Bovines thrive on the arts, so make some time for yourself to indulge your passion for music and artistic expressions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) While the Romantic Twin considers where to go for his or her upcoming vacation, the Practical Twin will start making travel plans now to take advantage of some great bargains.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your sensitive nature helps you deal with a difficult emotional situation. Be patient and continue to show your sincere support wherever (and for whomever) it is needed.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You're making progress as you move through some unfamiliar territory. And while there might be a misstep or two along the way, overall you're heading in the right direction. Good luck.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Some good news arrives -- and just in time to remind you that you're making progress. Perhaps things aren't moving as quickly as you'd prefer, but they're moving nevertheless.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This is a good week to step back and assess the facts that have recently emerged to see where they can be used to your advantage. Also, don't hesitate to make changes where necessary.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You should begin to experience some support from those who now agree with your point of view. This should help counter the remaining objections from die-hard skeptics.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Don't let your aim be deflected by trivial matters as you try to resolve a confusing situation. Take time to find and thoroughly assess the facts before making any decision.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) The possibility of moving to another location has come up. But before you dismiss it as unworkable, it's worth checking out just in case it does have some merit after all.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) New relationships -- personal or work-related -- show mixed signals. Best to assume nothing. Let things play themselves out until you have something substantive to work with.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your ability to make needed changes without causing too much, if any, negative ripple effect comes in handy when dealing with a sensitive matter either on the job or in the family.

BORN THIS WEEK: Although you like things to go smoothly, you're not shy about making waves when you believe the situation calls for it.

PIEDMONT PETS
 March 5, 2020
 By Paulette Dean

996 South Boston Rd., Danville, VA 24540
 Phone: (434) 799-0843

In 1964, Ruth Harrison, a British woman, wrote Animal Machines that was an expose on the livestock and poultry farming practices of that time. The public became very concerned and even horrified, and the British government appointed a committee to examine the welfare of animals used on farms and for the food industry.

The committee presented their findings a year later in an 85 page document coined "The Brambell Report" after the chief author, Roger Brambell.

A list of Five Freedoms of Animals was included in the report. At first, the Five Freedoms were written for farm animals. With the growing demand from the public for more humanely-raised food, the American Humane Association established their American Humane Certified program, which, according to their website, is "the first-ever U.S. farm animal welfare certification effort, which now covers more than a billion animals".

Although the standards of the Five Freedoms may have begun as a gold standard for the food industry, they have now been widely adopted as the gold standard of treatment for all animals by welfare organizations, including but not limited to the American Veterinary Medical Association, the World Organization for Animal Health and the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The Five Freedoms are:
 1. Freedom from Hunger and Thirst: by ready access to fresh water and a diet to maintain full health and vigor.

2. Freedom from Discomfort: by providing an appropriate environment, including shelter and a comfortable resting area.

3. Freedom from Pain, Injury, or Disease: by prevention or rapid diagnosis and treatment.

4. Freedom to Express Normal Behavior: by providing sufficient space, proper facilities and company of the animal's own kind.

5. Freedom from Fear and Distress: by ensuring conditions and treatment which avoid mental suffering.

Many years ago, the Board of Directors of the Danville Area Humane Society adopted these Five Freedoms as a guideline for all its policies and procedures. If an idea that is considered "progressive" does not protect this philosophy, it is not put into place for our shelter animals or for animals outside of the shelter realm.

(Information for this column was obtained from the Michigan State University Extension website and the American Humane Association website.)

DCC Hires New High School Career Coaches

Danville, Va., March 4, 2020 — Danville Community College (DCC) hired three new high school career coaches to help guide high school students in the City of Danville, Halifax County, and Pittsylvania County on their path to college.

"The High School Career Coach program offers local high school students the opportunity to work with well-trained DCC employees to develop the student's career pathway including dual enrollment opportunities," said Cathy Pulliam, coordinator of admissions, enrollment management and student outreach. "The coaches will serve local high school students in their high schools and provide all services available in DCC's Admissions Office, including admissions applications, placement testing, and program placement."

Belinda Bryant, of Martinsville, serves at Chatham High School and Tunstall High School in Pittsylvania County.

Jacob Hancock, of Pittsville, serves at Gretna High School and the Pittsylvania Career and Technical Center in Pittsylvania County.

Fred Johnson, of Danville, serves at Dan River High School in Pittsylvania County and George Washington High School in Danville.

Karl Staten, of Halifax County, has served DCC as a high school career coach at Halifax County High School for nearly five years.

The high school career coaches serve as a direct link between DCC and the high school students and their parents and the high school faculty, staff, and administrators.

Danville Community College is a two-year institution of higher education under the state-wide Virginia Community College System. DCC's service area includes the City of Danville, Pittsylvania County, and Halifax County. For more information about the college's nearly 100 programs of study, visit www.danville.edu.

DCC hires new public services librarian

Danville Community College (DCC) recently announced the hiring of Ben Blanks as the campus library's Public Services Librarian.

Originally from Lynchburg, Banks earned his undergraduate degree at the University of Lynchburg and his graduate degree at North Carolina Central University.

"I've worked in a variety of library positions in both Virginia and North Carolina, but I most recently worked as a research consultant at Liberty University," Blanks explained. "I'm new to Danville, but I'm really looking forward to learning new things about the library. The staff and students have been extremely warm and welcoming--I think I'll fit in quite well here."

Danville Community College is a two-year institution of higher education under the state-wide Virginia Community College System. DCC's service area includes the City of Danville, Pittsylvania County, and Halifax County. For more information about the college's nearly 100 programs of study, visit www.danville.edu.

OBITUARIES

"For whether we live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's." - Romans 14:8

April Greve

December 21, 1972 ~ February 27, 2020 (age 47)

April Greve, age 47, of Danville, VA, passed away unexpectedly on Thursday, February 27, 2020 at her residence.

She was born on December 21, 1972, in Danville, VA, to the late Paul Warner and Sharon Darlene Lewis.

April was of the Christian faith.

She is survived by her children, Harley Greve and Blake Amos; grandchildren, Aurora and Liam; siblings, Adam Amos, Russ Warner, and Josh Amos; step-sisters, Stacie and Stephanie; and step-mother, Deborah Warner.

A memorial service will be announced at a later date.

The family requests that donations be made to Barker Funeral Home, 2025 North Main Street, Danville, VA 24540 to help with April's funeral expenses.

Barker Funeral Home is respectfully serving the Greve family.

Answering Your Safety & Security Questions

I have a Home Security System and I've been seeing a lot of my neighbor's installing Camera Systems at their homes. Why would I want cameras? Are they expensive, and can I install them myself or do I need professional installation?

Cameras are an excellent security companion to your Home Burglar Alarm System. Whether it's vandalism of your vehicle, theft of items on your porch or yard, or an attempted break-in of your home, a High-Resolution Picture or Video is the Best Source of Identification & Verification.

Cameras have a very wide range in purpose, price, quality, and future service availability. High quality outdoor 1080P and higher resolution doorbell cameras can range from a couple of hundred dollars or more depending on your requirements of how basic or extensive the cameras features need to be, to full Multi Camera Systems with on-site or cloud recording.

Installation and future service of cameras can be very simple or more involved depending on the type of camera you choose and the benefits you want from them. Cameras can also be 100% wireless, partially wireless & wired, and totally wired.

Cameras that are 100% wireless are easy to install and can be powered by regular alkaline batteries, rechargeable lithium-ion batteries, or solar panels. Partially wireless & wired cameras use WiFi for wireless video transmission and require a wire to be run to a power source, usually a 110 AC electrical outlet. Wired camera systems usually use Coax or Cat 5e wire run from the cameras to the on-site recorder to provide both continuous video transmission and power for the cameras.

Whether you decide to do it yourself or involve a local professional for a free on-site survey and estimate, do your research. And remember the cheapest price is not always the least expensive in the long run. Are you ready to start seeing what's happening on your property when you're away?

Why Those Fabulous 50's Are A Good Time To Start Thinking About... Long Term Care!

Sure, it seems crazy to start thinking about a possible future when you're infirmed and need long-term health care if you're only in your 50's. You're young, or relatively young, and healthy. But that's the point. You don't want to someday be unable to take care of yourself and wish that you had done some pre-planning. If you're in your 50's, and you're not thinking about long-term care, these are some reasons you should be considering it, such as:

(1.) You have plenty of time. That's why planning for long-term care now is a good idea. If you wait to plan for long-term care in your 60's, 70's or beyond, you're going to find that certain strategies aren't available (or practical) any longer. There are generally three approaches people take to long-term care, which are:

(a.) Private Pay: That is, no insurance, no government help – just you. You could research how much you'd likely spend if you became chronically ill and save for it. But that really isn't realistic for most people. The problem with private pay is that people often find themselves needing that money 10 to 15 years into their retirement just to make it. So people who are intent upon self-funding might find themselves without options later on after they begin paying a bill of over $8000.00 per month!

(b.) Medicaid: Not Medicare, which won't pay for long-term care. "But Medicaid was created to do just that," experts say. For persons with typically less than $150,000 to $500,000 in retirement assets, Medicaid may make more sense. But experts always advise talking to an elder law attorney, who can guide you through the ins and outs of Medicaid.

(c.) Long-Term Care Insurance: After you purchase the policy and pay the premiums, of course – such as long-term insurance or a hybrid life insurance and long-term care policy. Clients who find insurance appealing need a competent broker that can walk them through the myriad of options available. There are even strategies an elder law attorney can implement in conjunction with a purchase of long term care insurance to ensure you get the biggest bang for your buck! Remember this, if you are thinking about the need for long-term care insurance, the 50's is the best time to buy it and take advantage of lower premiums! If you wait, you may not be able to afford the monthly premium.

(2.) You're still healthy: Hopefully that's the case. Particularly if you're interested in any sort of long-term care insurance, which helps pay for the cost of having somebody help you with tasks like getting dressed and going to the bathroom. It's an unpleasant thought, of course, which is why many people don't like thinking ahead.

The key to purchasing long-term care insurance is to do so when you're still healthy to qualify. Once health deteriorates, clients may no longer be eligible for coverage, or their premiums may increase. Approximately 25 percent of applicants who wait to apply for long-term care insurance after age 60 are declined for health reasons.

(3.) Insurance is cheaper. Any health insurance is always cheaper when you're younger, which is why – if you plan to get it, you'd likely want to get long-term care insurance now versus much later. Some experts advocate buying long-term care insurance as early as your 40s. The premiums are less the younger you are, so it pays to get started early. The earliest I have heard of is a couple buying their policies when they were 43 years old. "Although we've had two premium increases since we bought them, we still pay around half of what people looking to buy traditional LTC at my current age of 55 [would pay] – and the benefits I own on that old policy are far greater than what I can quote a 55-year-old couple."

The average cost of long-term care insurance is all over the map, depending on the insurer, your age and the policy, so it's difficult to say how much any one person will pay. Still, to give you an idea of why it's cheaper to get it sooner rather than later, it can be instructive to look at some of the numbers on the website of the American Association for Long-Term Care Insurance, a national trade association. A couple, both 55 years of age, with a shared policy would, on average, pay $2,350 a year with a $150 maximum daily benefit and a three-year benefit period. The same couple, if they were each 60, would pay $2,970 a year.

(4.) You'll have some peace of mind, earlier. I often tell clients that if they can tell me the exact date they plan to die, I'll tell them exactly what to do!! Yet, nobody knows the future, and so your planning may not help you someday – or you may draw up an elaborate plan only to later discover that someday, wow, you're a 101-year-old marathon runner who needs no help being taken care of, and all that money spent was for naught. But, still, there is something to be said for knowing that you probably have things figured out, way ahead of time. Life favors the prepared, after all.

Terri Cochran is the editor of a non-profit newsletter. She is 66 and says that she bought a long-term care insurance policy when she was 53. Her husband, Vince, the owner of a small laser manufacturing company was 69 and at the beginning stages of a neurodegenerative illness that they were then unaware of. An insurance company cold-called him, to sell him long-care insurance. He was ultimately denied due to his poor health, but Cochran decided to buy some for herself.

"I was afraid he would have expensive medical bills in the future, so it was another reason for me to have my own insurance," Cochran says. "Sure enough, he soon needed 10 hours a day of [care from] home health aides, which we paid out of pocket for well over 10 years until his death in 2016. We were lucky to have the money to pay for aides. I couldn't work either since he needed my full-time care."

Cochran says she feels prepared for the possibility that someday she may need long-term care, but even with the peace of mind of having a plan in place, she is a little unsettled. "If I do need to use my long-term care insurance, I hope the insurance company isn't difficult to work with. Because I hear horror stories about people trying to collect on their insurance when they need it," she says. But, imagine the horror stories of needing long-term care and not being prepared.

We deal with clients daily that are now in crisis and at a time when they would much prefer being with their spouse or loved one, they are busy gathering reams of documents, statements, policies, titles, deeds in order to structure accounts and investments, protect assets and apply for Medicaid on their behalf. While this is successful, waiting until the last minute certainly has costs, emotionally, monetarily and mentally.

THEY HAD A CRAVING

To what lengths would college students go for a savory fast-food treat? Members of the track team at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, NY had a craving recently for Chick-Fil-A but the chain's nearest eatery was an hour and a half away, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. It turns out, however, that there is a Chick-Fil-A outlet inside the Albany International Airport located less than 20 minutes from campus. So, the track team ponied up enough cash to buy a $98 ticket, the cheapest ticket available, allowing teammate Vincent Putrino to clear security and purchase a $227.28 team lunch.

SHE USED JUST HER BARE HANDS

You don't want to mess with Kathleen Krausse, suggests the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. The German strongwoman recently broke the Guinness World Record for crushing and rolling up frying pans. She destroyed seven aluminum pans with her bare hands in just one minute.

BRETT TO THE RESCUE

There you are having a beer at your favorite pub, when you look down and spot a gecko in your mug. It happened recently to a regular by the name of Brett at The Amble Inn in Corindi Beach, New South Wales, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. His first thought was that the bartender was having him on but it turned out that the little lizard was drowning. So Brett unflinchingly went to the rescue and began performing CPR on the poor little critter, alternating between applying chest compressions and giving it mouth-to-mouth resuscitation until the gecko was able to breath on its own.

THIS IS NO 'FISH STORY'

Justin Hamlin got lucky on Valentine's Day this year but his luck didn't last long. He caught a record-breaking fish in Keystone Lake near Tulsa that Friday -- a paddlefish weighing in at about 157 pounds. But, alas, he could not claim the record, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. The Oklahoma Department of Wildlife Conservation made him release it. It seems that the American paddlefish is classified as a vulnerable species and so the state's fishing regulations require paddlefish caught on Mondays and Fridays must be released. Though he can't claim the record, he does have the satisfaction of knowing his catch outweighed paddlefish that won the state's record [132 pounds] and the world record [144 pounds].

PIGEONS POWER

PUTIN ordered a fly-by over downtown Las Vegas recently, but it wasn't the Russian president. Rather, it was a group calling itself Pigeons United To Interfere Now, which outfitted each of the pigeons in the flock with red Make America Great Again [MAGA] hats. PUTIN says it organized the demonstration in support of President Trump. One of the birds even wore a wig mimicking the president's hairstyle.

A MAELSTROM OF MAIL

Talk about being overwhelmed with junk mail. In fact, the post office in Twinsburg, OH told local resident Dan Cain recently that he would have to pick up his mail, which included 55,000 identical student loan statements, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. Dan and his wife had taken out the loan for their daughter. The loan company says that somehow a glitch in its processing system caused the posting of the astounding number of duplicates. To make matters worse, the statement was incorrect and the company said they would make a correction and send Dan a new statement. Hopefully, they will have fixed their processing system, as well.

Beware of Potential 2020 Census Scams

Guard Your Information

Don't give out your personal or financial information. The Census Bureau or a legitimate census worker will never ask for your Social Security number, bank account number, credit card number, money or donations. And they will never contact you on behalf of a political party. If you're asked for any of these, whether it be via phone, mail, email or in person, it's a scam and should be reported to rumors@census.gov.

Dear Savvy Senior,

Can you offer some tips to help seniors guard against census scams? With the 2020 census gearing up, I've read that there are a lot of potential scammers out there looking to take advantage of older people and I want to protect myself.

Cautious Judy

Dear Judy,

Unfortunately, scams have become a persistent problem when the U.S. Census Bureau does its once-a-decade count of the U.S. population. Here's what you can expect from the 2020 Census in the coming weeks, and how you can protect yourself from potential scams.

What to Expect

In mid-March, you and nearly every other U.S. household will receive an invitation in the mail to respond to the 2020 Census. This year, you will have the option of completing the 2020 census questionnaire either online, by mail, or by phone. The invitation will include detailed instructions of what you need to do.

If you don't respond to this invitation letter, you will receive several follow-up postcard reminders from the Census Bureau by mail. If you still don't respond by late April, a census worker will come to your door to collect your response in person.

It only takes a few minutes to complete the census questionnaire.

While census participation is very important and required by law, you also need to be vigilant of census-linked scams. This is especially important for seniors who tend to be prime targets.

The Census Bureau warns against phishing email scams as well as con artist masquerading as census workers who will try to solicit your personal financial information. Here are some tips that can help you protect yourself.

Avoid Online Scams

The Census Bureau will not send you an unsolicited email to request your participation in the 2020 Census. So, ignore any emails you get that may direct you to a census website that looks real but is fake – and may be infected with malware. Also, don't reply to the email or open any attachment because they could contain viruses that could infect your computer. Forward the email or website address to the Census Bureau at rumors@census.gov. Then delete the message.

Be Safe at Home

If someone visits your home to collect a response for the 2020 Census, make sure you verify their identity. A legitimate census taker must present a field badge that includes a photograph of themselves, a Department of Commerce watermark and an expiration date. Census workers will also be carrying a Census Bureau laptop or cellphone, as well as a bag with a Census Bureau logo.

Also, remember that a census worker will only ask you the questions that appear on the questionnaire – your name, gender, age, race, ethnicity, phone number, type of residence and number of people living with you. They will not ask for sensitive personal information, such as your Social Security or credit card number.

If you have questions about their identity, you can call 800-923-8282 to speak with a local Census Bureau representative. If it is determined that the visitor who came to your door does not work for the Census Bureau, contact your local police department.

For more information on the 2020 Census, visit 2020census.gov.

Chicken Stir Fry Recipe

INGREDIENTS

- 1 lb boneless, skinless chicken breast cut into 1 inch cubes
- salt and pepper to taste
- 2 tbsp olive oil divided
- 2 cups broccoli florets
- 1/2 yellow bell pepper cut into 1 inch pieces
- 1/2 red bell pepper cut into 1 inch pieces
- 1/2 cup baby carrots sliced
- 2 tsp minced ginger
- 2 garlic cloves minced
- Stir Fry Sauce
- 1 tbsp corn starch
- 2 tbsp cold water
- 1/4 cup low sodium chicken broth
- 3 tbsp low sodium soy sauce
- 1/4 cup honey
- 1 tbsp toasted sesame oil
- 1/2 tsp crushed red pepper flakes

INSTRUCTIONS

- Stir Fry Sauce
- In a medium size bowl, whisk together corn starch and water. Add remaining ingredients (chicken broth, soy sauce, honey, and toasted sesame oil, red pepper flakes) and whisk to combine. Set aside.
- Add one tablespoon of olive oil to a large skillet or wok and heat over medium high heat.
- Add chicken (in batches if necessary) and season with salt and pepper. Cook for 3 to 5 minutes or until cooked through. Remove from skillet.
- Reduce heat to medium and add remaining tablespoon of oil to the skillet.
- Add broccoli, bell pepper, and carrots and cook, stirring occasionally, just until crisp tender. Add ginger and garlic and cook for an additional minute.
- Add chicken back into the skillet and stir to combine.
- Whisk stir fry sauce and pour over chicken and vegetables and stir gently to combine.
- Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally, and let boil for one minute.
- Serve with rice and/or chow mein if desired.

What Makes Us Happy?

 What makes us happy as we get older? Below are the results of an informal poll of seniors at the local coffee shop.
 * Having enough income. It turns out that many who are living only on Social Security can have enough to make it through the month if they made wise decisions before retiring. Paying off the mortgage is a big one.
 * Being listened to, or at least not being disregarded. There's something about aging that seems to make us melt into the background, and if we have opinions or comments, people don't always listen. Medical staff seem to rank very high on this list of people who really aren't listening. Being heard is important.
 * Freedom. This comes in many forms. It might mean continuing to drive; it might mean watching only what we want on television.
 * Having a social life. For some of us that might mean being part of a group that meets regularly. For others it might mean talking to friends on the phone daily.
 * Laughing. Finding something amusing every day ranked high on the list of what makes us happy. Sometimes it was reading the next page of a joke-a-day calendar. Sometimes it was talking to a friend who had a great, skewed view of the world.
 * Having a reason to get up every day. Whether it's a hobby, a good book or a social gathering, having a reason to look forward to the next day was key.
 And what does it mean if we're happy? A study monitored 3,000 seniors over the course of eight years to see how happiness impacted physical function. Researchers found that happy people decline more slowly. Conversely, unhappy people were three times more likely to develop health problems.
 Where do you fall on the happiness spectrum?

GRANDMOTHERS An essay by an 8 year old

A grandmother is a lady who has no children of her own, so she likes other people's little girls. A grandfather is a man grandmother. He goes walks with the boys and they talk about fishing, tractors and like that. Grandmothers don't have to do anything except be there. They are old, so they shouldn't play hard or run. It is enough if they drive us to the shops where the pretend horse is and have lots of five cents ready. They are often fat, but not too fat to tie the kid's shoes. They wear funny glasses and funny underwear and they can take their teeth and gums off. Everyone should try to have one, because grandmothers are the only grown-ups who have got time.

Husband and wife had a FIGHT, Wife called up her mom and said; He fought with me again, I am coming to live with you. Mom said, No darling, he must pay for his mistake. I am coming to live with you!!!
