Top Trustee

MUSCLE SHOALS- Dr. Terry J. True, Chief of the Shoals Hospital medical staff, was named Trustee of the Year by the Alabama Hospital Association at its annual leadership forum earlier this month in Birmingham.

Dr. True has also been a key player in the accreditation of the J.W. Sommer Rehabilitation Unit as a certified stroke rehabilitation center by the Joint Commission. He instituted a pet therapy program in J.W. Sommer that involves his DELTA-certified Sphinx cats. True also volunteers his time at the local free medical clinic for Spanish-speaking individuals, he is an ordained minister, and a concert pianist. "The Trustee of the Year award represents what it means to be a part of the Shoals Hospital family. Our family taking care of your family," True said. "This represents so many people who give their talents and gifts to our hospital and community. I accept this award on their behalf and thank them for their dedication and vision."

"After having served as the Chief of Staff for four years, and signing on for a third two-year term, it's clear that Dr. True was deserving of this award," said Shoals Hospital Chief Executive Officer Jeff Jennings. "He has provided guidance, wisdom, and leadership throughout his tenure."

Second Graders' Interactive Whiteboard

TOWN CREEK - Abbie Tate Carpenter's second grade class at Hazlewood Elementary received a new interactive whiteboard recently.

The gift was provided through DonorsChoose.org, an online non-profit group that funds classroom projects in United States public schools through individual donations.

Carpenter posted her request on the website several months ago. The project was fully funded through the efforts of six donors, including one from Maine and one from Florida, who read about her classroom need.

"Our school is a very diverse, low-

Israel's Greatest Mistake
A Blessing for Gentiles

They stumbled at the stumblingstone. Romans 9:32 "Wherefore? Because they sought it not by faith, but as it were by the works of the law. For they stumbled at that stumblingstone." The prophecy in Isaiah 28:16 was fulfilled at 1st advent of Christ. Confirmed by the Apostles Paul and Peter in: Romans 9:33 "As it is written, Behold, I lay in Sion a stumblingstone and rock of offence: and whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed." 1 Peter 2:6 "Wherefore also it is contained in the scripture, Behold, I lay in Sion a chief corner stone, elect, precious: and he that believeth on him shall not be confounded." Notice they both agree. Israel said: Matthew 27:25 "Then answered all the people, and said, His blood be on us, and on our children." Check history, it sure has been. Luke 19:14 "But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us." Luke 23:21 "But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him." That day, around 2000 years ago, the shed blood and suffering and death of the Lord Jesus Christ turned out to be the greatest blessing this world has ever seen. Receiving Christ and believing on Him is how I got saved.

Pontius Pilate asked: Matthew 27:22 "Pilate saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be crucified." Pilate caved in to political correctness: Mark 15:15 "And so Pilate, willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified." The sacrifice and shed blood and suffering and death of Christ were for our sins. Now, what will you do with Jesus Christ? Christ's blood can save you or will be a witness against you when you are judged by Almighty God. Innocent blood speaks and cries out for justice. See Genesis 4:10 & Revelation 6:10. Choose now who you want to live with throughout eternity.

You can live with God forever or live with the devil and his angels. It's an eternal choice, but you will make one or the other. After death it's too late. Today, give your life and soul to Jesus Christ. You will never regret it. Ask God to save you now.

Solutions, Navistar, North American Lighting, Shoals Hospital, and Tatus. Current job titles of these students include industrial engineering technicians, equipment engineering technicians, patient care technicians, and welders. Students typically work four to five days per week during the semester, earn a paycheck, and receive a high school credit for their efforts. Lyons HR provides liability insurance for these students.

In April a second group of students will begin interviewing for the internship placements for the 2015-16 school year. Expanded internship opportunities in other career fields such as computer information systems and automotive technology will be added at that time. The vision is for the program to spread throughout our region and the state.

"Business and industry may say that our young people are not well-prepared for careers, but this task is too big for our schools to do alone," claims

Dr. Gary Dan Williams, principal at Muscle Shoals Career Academy. "Our students are earning college credits through our dual-enrollment partnership with Northwest-Shoals Community College. They are earning employability certifications and are developing technical skills. Yet, we cannot fully simulate real-world work settings. This is what we have always needed: business and industry taking an active role in helping to educate our students through work-based learning. Companies previously have been hesitant to employ high school students because of liability concerns and a lack of confidence in young people. Because of Pathfinder Alabama, potential employers can be more confident about liability issues. Due to rigorous skills training in the high school setting, their concerns about young people's workplace abilities are alleviated."

Together we will build tomorrow's workforce. If you would like to become a partner with us or learn more about the program, contact Muscle Shoals Career Academy at 256-389-2660.

income school," Carpenter wrote in her project description. "We have very little technology or resources that students can interact with such as iPads, chromebooks or whiteboards. We all do our best to engage students in our lessons, and an interactive whiteboard would be a dream come true for my classroom. Most of our students come from homes that do not have computers or any type of technology, so this would truly be a great experience for my second graders."

Carpenter went on to explain she would use the whiteboard in all subject areas to engage the students and provide them with technology they can touch and interact with.

The Hitachi Starboard FX Series Interactive Whiteboard that Carpenter's class received was purchased for $1,661.54 and delivered to the school at no cost to anyone in the Lawrence School district.

Carpenter said her students were super excited about the new learning tool. She posted an eloquent message on the website thanking the donors for their support.

"Obviously our system does not receive the amount of revenue that others receive. Our teachers are very creative in seeking out sources that provide funds to purchase items to help our students learn," said Lawrence County Schools superintendent, Heath Grimes. "We commend Mrs. Carpenter for her efforts, and we join her in saying thank you to the donors across the country who made this project happen."

Ask Dr. Webb

Dr. Robert Webb

Q Our dad has just told us he's been diagnosed with Alzheimer's and he doesn't want anything 'artificial' to prolong keeping him alive. What is really considered Artificial Life Support?

A There's no doubt Alzheimer's can be a miserable disease for both patient and family; and some patients have written in their Advance Directive (Living Will) that they do not want anything 'artificial' which might prolong their suffering. However, what's artificial depends on who you ask!

These five are usually accepted as artificial: CPR (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation); feeding tubes; ventilator support; IV fluids; kidney dialysis.

If we define artificial as anything other than 'food' or 'natural', would the following 'minor' items also be artificial: insulin; antibiotics; surgery of any kind; blood pressure pills; etc?

Obviously, there's room for debate. So to help make decisions, an important question is "what's his goal"? Realizing he has an incurable, terminal disease, he seems to be asking only to be kept comfortable, to live without suffering or being a burden (from his perspective)? Could he be worried his family would keep him kept alive in spite of suffering?

He does need to know that occasionally some of these minor artificial treatments can actually help him stay comfortable. With a goal of "comfort only", he needs to look at each available treatment for a particular symptom and consider trying it.

Unfortunately, due to modern medicine's focus on fixing individual organs or health problems, rather than looking at what's best for the whole person, we may unintentionally cause suffering. For example, treating pneumonia with only comfort-focused narcotics and breathing treatments, and avoiding antibiotics, may allow pneumonia (or any infection) to be his "best friend": because dementia usually worsens with every major illness, dying from pneumonia may be his escape from what will eventually progress to a state of bed-bound agitation.

By not interfering in a natural process and focusing only on comfort, we leave it to a greater power to determine what's best. Our obligation is to relieve and prevent suffering. You need to support him in his right to choose.

ASK THE ATTORNEY

Thomas McCutcheon

Ask the Attorney is sponsored by local attorneys, McCutcheon & Hamner, PC, as a service to the residents of NW Alabama.

Q My son was pulled over and his car was searched. They found marijuana and rolling papers in his car. They charged him with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. I read your article every week and wanted to know if you would represent my son?

Denise, Athens, AL

A Thank you for considering us to represent your son but Joel and I do not practice criminal law. Part of the confusion is that lawyers are not allowed to advertise that they are a specialist in a particular area of the law. The only exceptions are tax attorneys and patent attorneys.

The reality is that no lawyer is going to be really good at everything. Lawyers do develop areas of practice and some lawyers develop extremely narrow specialized areas of practice. They are truly specialists.

Joel and I practice personal injury law which includes automobile accidents, workers compensation claims and commercial vehicle accidents.

In automobile accident cases, the attorney must know what the rules of the road are and what makes another driver responsible for damages. In Alabama, we have a mix of English common law where a jury determines whether or not a person acted as a "reasonable" person would have acted under the same or similar circumstances or whether their actions were "unreasonable" in a manner that foreseeably caused harm. The other type of law that we have is statutory rules which dictate when you must yield the right of way or how far behind another vehicle you must be at any given speed.

Once you understand the rules of liability then you look at what damages are recoverable under Alabama state law. Recoverable damages are typically lost wages, medical bills, property damage, loss of enjoyment of life, pain and suffering as well as compensation for a permanent injury.

An attorney has to obtain competent medical testimony and be familiar with the rules of evidence as well as rules that apply to liens and subrogation interests. Hospitals that treat a person for an accident or injury have a statutorily created lien that gives them the right to be paid first. Other types of insurance such as Medicare and Medicaid have legally created obligations for repayment and if you have health insurance with a private insurer such as Blue Cross Blue Shield, they also have a right of repayment.

If you reach an agreement to settle with the person that caused the accident and you don't notify your own insurance company of the settlement before you accept it, you may give up certain rights to other money benefits that may have been otherwise available to you.

Buckle up and drive safely.

Please send the questions to:

 or visit our website at: www.mhatty.com

DAVE Says

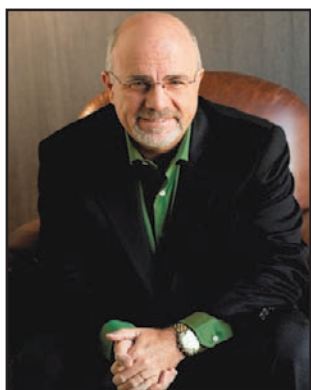

by DAVE RAMSEY

A WASTE OF MONEY?

Dear Dave,
I have a question about home warranties. Are they a waste of money if you already have a fully-funded emergency fund, with six months of expenses or more set aside?

Andy

Dear Andy,
In my opinion, they're a waste of money even if you don't have that much set aside for emergencies. I recommend an emergency fund of three to six months of expenses to cover the unexpected things that life will throw at you. This amount of cash, sitting in a good money market account with check writing privileges, will give you easy access in the event of a financial emergency.

I don't do extended warranties of any kind, Andy. They're not a good deal. You're better off to self-insure against things breaking down, and put what would have been profit and marketing dollars for the extended warranty company in your own pocket!
—Dave

WHERE'S THE SAFETY FACTOR?

Dear Dave,
I'm 30 and debt-free. Do you think I should stop making contributions to my 401(k) account for a year in order to save up an emergency fund?
Beth

Dear Beth,
Yes, I do. But it shouldn't take you a year to set aside an emergency fund if you're debt-free and making decent money at your job. Just make it part of your monthly budget plan, grit your teeth and do it!
I recommend that people put off or stop investing until they are debt-free, except for their home, and have an emergency fund of three to six months of expenses in place. In some cases, depending on how much debt they have, it could take three or four years to do all this. I know it seems like a long time, but it's really not in the grand scheme of things.

Here's the way I look at it. If you have no emergency fund, but you're contributing to your 401(k), there's a good chance you'll end up cashing out your 401(k) if a large, unexpected expense comes along. When you cash out a 401(k) early, you get hit with a penalty plus your tax rate. That's not a good plan!

That's just one of the reasons I tell people to have an emergency fund in place before they start investing!

All About Patience and Perseverance

The cold rain and a biting wind were not friendly to the small gray animal searching and stumbling outside the fence line of our backyard the morning of January 2. It appeared to be a small dog, but this one was new to the neighborhood. Scouring several neighboring yards and retracing its steps for hours, it still seemed lost as dusk approached. Small animals wandering in the fields and woods by our house after dark don't usually fare well. The coyotes see to that.

So my wife brought him inside a secure fenced area by our patio. That wasn't met initially with gladness by our two larger dogs that spend most of their daylight time in a larger separate fenced area.

This was clearly an older dog with curly thinning matted hair who seemed disoriented. After drying him we soon realized that the disorientation of the famished little thing was actually blindness. We put a generic "Found Dog" ad in the paper for the next couple of weeks and received plenty of calls; just not for the right missing dog.

The dog did not like us rubbing his back and legs or trying to cut the mats off his legs while bathing him. What teeth he still had were in terrible shape. His hind quarters wobbled when he walked.

As the boarding days mounted, two things became apparent.

Lying and Deception

Editor:

The response to the "surprising" discovery that Brian Williams lied is amazing to me. How could anyone be so shocked? Williams is a liberal and lying is what they do best. They lie to enhance their personal standing, and they lie to cover for their democratic (progressive, communistic) comrades in the media and in political office. In his book, "Radical Son" David Horowitz, whose parents were card carrying members of the Communist Party and raised him to be a communist, explains the communist philosophy about morality. They believe that anything is moral so long as it serves the greater good. The greater good is gaining and maintaining power. This means that lying and deception is not immoral.

Ironically Barak Hussein Obama is a product of two systems with this basic philosophy. In Indonesia, Obama was schooled in Islam and has demonstrated his bias for Islam by his appointments

THIS ARTICLE WAS INSPIRED by a single sentence buried in a recent editorial published in that other local newspaper. The article was spot-on concerning the lack of honesty from our elected leaders and the news media. One sentence from that editorial has been a burr under my saddle ever since I read it: "Businessmen are generally taught in the finest business schools that honesty is a weakness."

Fisher

Really? Granted, the brunt of my classes were taken at a private Methodist college where such teachings would go against official doctrine so maybe I was sheltered, but I doubt it.

As any businessperson

HONESTY IS SUCH A LONELY WORD

by "The Computer Skeptic"

would attest, we are offered a daily chance to scam or otherwise be dishonest. I could sell a client a used hard drive and pass it off as new. I could underreport my meager earnings to the tax man. I could get into the big bucks by developing some scam software.

Or, hey, here's a good one: I could convince you all that I'm building Disneyland in your back yard!

There are so many other chances to cheat my fellow man and increase my wealth but I do not. Why? Well, evidently because I didn't attend one of the "finest business schools" that turn me into a cheat and liar.

If I'm completely honest with myself (which is VERY hard to do) I admit to a bit of envy for the scam artists I often write about in this column. I was in awe of the skills of the "IRS agent" who tried to scam me a few weeks ago. The fellow from Nigeria that will soon mail me a $5,000 check is making a killing from less skeptical people. The companies that sell "registry optimizers" and sham antivirus programs are living the good life while I toil to make an honest living.

Other than calling out that editor for making a foolish statement, I think what I'm trying to say is this: You folks who fall for scams and install all that junk software or otherwise fall for scams need to understand that dishonest people are everywhere and they are after you. When an online ad says you can speed your computer up or fix "registry" or "driver" problems, don't believe it. When the IRS or the utility company calls and threatens you, hang up on them. You darn sure shouldn't hand over your credit card to anyone who asks for it.

You're wrong, Mr. Editor of that other newspaper; scammers take the same easy route that Jim Bakker and some theme park developers take: They prey on your greed and fear. They promise you the world in exchange for a little bit your soul.

That's not taught in business school. That's something they learn on their own.

Letters...

during his presidency. His administration is riddled with Muslims. The following is a quote from Page 261 of Obama's book, "Dreams From My Father, ".....I will stand with the Muslims should the political shift in an ugly direction....."

Lying to non-believers is allowed for Muslims. While the Qur'an is against believers deceiving other believers — for "surely God guides not him who is prodigal and a liar". Deception directed at non-Muslims, generally known in Arabic as taqiyya, also has Qur'anic support and falls within the legal category of things that are permissible for Muslims. Lying and deceit are part of the Islamic mindset. The following quotes show that Obama is willing to lie for the cause of Islam: "I made it clear that America is not — and never will be — at war with Islam." "Islam is not part of the problem in combating violent extremism — it is an important part of promoting peace."

In Hawaii where Obama attended high school, and in Chicago where he started his political career, he was right in the middle of communist networks. In Hawaii he was mentored by a member of the Communist Party by the name of Frank Marshall Davis. Davis was a key influence over the young Obama, filling his head with anti-American thoughts. He was a member of a Soviet-sponsored communist network on the island of Hawaii. Davis took the fifth amendment when asked about this before a Senate committee. He was a key member of this Moscow-sponsored communist network in Hawaii. He was in fact, a Stalinist agent. Frank Marshall Davis wrote some infamous poems not only defending the Soviet Union but attacking the United States.

In Chicago where his career was launched, Obama was close friends with a number of communists and socialists. According to his book, Dreams From My Father, when Obama went to college, Occidental College and later Columbia University, he picked among his friends Marxist professors. He also admits attending socialist conferences. That would suggest the influence that Davis had on Obama extended into his college and university years. In Chicago he came into the company of the most extreme anti-American elements, including Weather Underground terrorists Bill Ayers and Bernardine Dohrn, who openly supported the communist enemy killing Americans in Vietnam. The communist influence on Obama is also shown by his appointments as president.

Kurdish Allies Need Support

Editor:

The U.S. has to start directly supplying significant military equipment to the Kurds so they can effectively combat ISIS. The Kurdish Peshmerga troops are excellent fighters and our allies in the Middle East. We need to strengthen them so they can defeat ISIS and take back territory in Iraq and Syria. The White House Junior Varsity (JV) is currently sending our military equipment to the Iraqi government for further distribution to the Kurds. However, the Iraqi government is concerned with the Kurd's desire to further their establishment of an autonomous country. Therefore, only a small portion of our equipment gets to the Kurds. Our long term success in the area lies with the Kurdish ground forces. Obama and his JV White House staff have to stop pandering to the Iraqi government and start doing what is best for the U.S.

Comfort Cash Peace of Mind

This offer is 100% true. There are no gimmicks, service charges, or "hidden" fees.

Too good to be true?

Let me explain:

Winter takes its toll on older and less efficient systems.

Energy costs keep going higher. (And what's going to happen this summer)? So high-efficiency heating and cooling systems are probably going up too.

The longer you use your older energy-robbing system, you may be losing more money on utilities and repairs than a new one would cost!

Act now and get the comfort you want, lock in the savings (without having to pay anything out of your pocket) and....

This is an unbelievable opportunity to update your heating system and get true peace of mind. Now there's no real excuse for not replacing that "clunker" of a system.

Call Fuller Heating and Air at 256-381-7195 for your free, no obligation Energy Survey today.

HOMES FOR HEROES®

If each of us were to pick up a pencil and pad and begin to list the people for whom we are thankful, we might find ourselves with a long list. How do you say Thank You? I am happy to tell you about a way I use my vocation to say "Thank You" to the men and women who give so much.

Homes for Heroes® is a program designed to reward service. Active Military, Veterans, Firefighters, Police Officers, EMT's, Medical Professionals and Teachers are all eligible. Homes for Heroes (www.HomesForHeroes.com) works like this: If one qualifies as a Hero, then he or she receives the benefit of reduced closing cost when buying or selling a home. As your REALTOR® in the transaction, I will provide savings equal to 25% of the gross commission for your side of the transaction. In other words, I will be giving 25% of my commission back to the transaction to significantly reduce the cost of your purchase or sale. In addition, I will give another 5% of my commission to the Homes For Heroes® Foundation to help provide housing and assistance to Veterans in need.

You may be asking, "Why would Steve Shelton give up 30% of his commission?" When I first looked at this program, I asked the same question. However, I soon answered it. Elizabeth (my wife) and I both have family members who have served in the military. Elizabeth's father even served in wartime, risking his life for our freedom. I have friends who have lost loved ones and other friends who were wounded in battle. How could any of us ever fully express our appreciation to those who have given so much? Each of these brave men and women are HEROES in my book. When I think about the Police Officers, Firefighters and EMT's who daily serve our community - I can't help but want to say "Thank You" to each of them. Spend a little time with these men and women and you will soon realize the sacrifices they make on a daily basis to serve and protect each of us. From time to time, we read or hear of one of these public servants losing their life in duty and it drives home how dangerous their job is. I could spend all day telling you why I am thankful for Medical Professionals. In 2000 Elizabeth was diagnosed with breast cancer. She bravely endured surgery, chemotherapy and radiation. That was over 14 years ago and it is great to be able to speak of this occurrence in the past tense. "Cancer free" is a wonderful phrase. Because of this experience, we are well aware of the HERO status due each of the men and women who care for those who are ill. "Thank You" for the skills you possess and for each selfless act. I have an especially warm place in my heart for Teachers. Elizabeth has been teaching since 1995. I see the "work" involved in teaching. It is not a "powder-puff" job where you get a 3 month vacation every summer. Instead, it is a job where one invests themselves in the growth of each child to help mold them into productive members of society. Teachers wear many hats and must be willing to go that extra mile on a daily basis. I have yet to meet a teacher that has not reached into their own pocket or pocketbook in order pay for items that they felt were needed in their classroom to help their students succeed. Some of my fondest memories of childhood surround caring teachers. "Thank You."

Registering for Homes for Heroes costs you nothing, requires no extra paperwork or forms to fill out. Simply go to the website www.HomesForHeroes.com and register. This is my way of thanking you "One Hero at a time." Service deserves its reward.

Bailey's art education has been primarily acquired through studies at the University of Memphis and participation in painting workshops with prominent teachers such as John Salminen, Cheng-Khee Chee, Frank Webb, and Judi Betts. "Painting is the reason I get up each morning," said Bailey. "I enjoy painting the people, structures and landscapes of the area in which I live."

Courier Journal ADOPT A FRIEND

The animals you see here are currently in local animal shelters or rescue facilities. Adoption fees vary and include having your new friend spayed or neutered, if necessary. Help us help these and other animals by adopting a new friend today.

BRUISER HERE! I'm a larger guy with a tough name, but I'm really just a family pet with a heart bigger than I am. I'm up for adoption at the Colbert Shelter, & my adoption fee is $35 (which includes my vaccinations & neuter)! To learn more about me, call them at 256-381-4073!

NAME'S RUSTY, y'all. I reckon I'm just a simple man looking for a place to rest my head. I ain't but a medium sized man, so I'll settle down in any sized home, & I'm only about a year old -- we got plenty of days together to watch the sun set. To learn more about me, moosey on over to the Florence Shelter or call 256-760-6676!

Woof! SADIE HERE! I'm looking for a new home from the Lawrence County Shelter! I'm an older adult bloodhound mix, & I'm a super sweet girl! My adoption will include my spay & vaccinations, so I'll be all ready for my new home! To learn more about me, please call 256-974-3370!

SAMANTHA SPEAKING... woof woof! I'm a chocolate lab mix up for adoption through PAWS! I have boundless energy (would you expect anything less from a lab?), & I enjoy swimming & playing with sticks! I'm a fence climber, so I'll need a tall fence like a privacy fence to keep me safe after adoption. To learn more about me, call 256-383-0690!

Active Shoals Seniors

Trendy Exercises to Rev Up

Exercising consistently is a great way to get healthy. For those who find their workout routines monotonous, switching up exercises and embracing some of the newer, trendier fitness regimens may be a way to maintain your momentum at the gym.

High-intensity workouts

High-intensity interval training, or HIIT, is a concept behind some of today's most popular exercise programs. HIIT combines cardiovascular and strength-training movements into a concentrated workout designed to keep your heart rate elevated. HIIT workouts blend bouts of intense exercise with either rest or low-intensity activity. These workouts seem to promote faster weight loss than prolonged workouts at moderate paces.

While HIIT is functional, it is not best for those who have preexisting orthopedic injuries or serious cardiovascular conditions. But many people enjoy a stronger heart and improved muscle tone from HIIT workouts.

Kettlebells

These weighted cast-iron workout tools can be an interesting addition to strength-training workouts. But their utility does not stop there. Using kettlebells during any physical activity will increase the amount of fat burned and can provide a full-body workout. Kettlebells come in different weights, and newcomers are urged to start out gradually and build up in weight as they become more familiar and toned.

Trampoline cardio

For those who want to both shake up their workouts and lift their moods, jumping on a trampoline can do just that. It's difficult to be in a bad mood when bouncing around like a kid on a trampoline. Trampoline classes are turning up in some upscale gyms, where each participant has his own individual trampoline. Routines mix in different choreography and small hand weights to promote a fun and effective cardio experience.

Water aerobics

Swimming isn't the only thing you can do in a pool. Water workouts are ideal for those with muscle and joint pain because the buoyancy of the water reduces stress on these areas, while providing enough resistance for a deep workout. Workouts may begin in chest-deep water and progress to deeper water for added resistance. Some gyms now offer aqua cycling classes that combine water aerobics with spinning.

Dance and hip-hop classes

ZUMBA® classes have been popular for quite some time. But many health clubs offer additional classes that employ dance to burn calories and tone muscles. Some gyms have developed their own cardio-based dance classes that get people moving to music in a fun way. Routines are fun and fast-moving, which may make them feel less like a workout and more like a social event.

Recess classes

Adults who want to feel like kids again need only to enroll in a fitness class that borrows activities from the playgrounds of our youth. From walking like a crab to running drills to balance beams, these workouts take school recess and bring it to the health club.

Jason Meadows—was an All-State football player for Brooks High School. He finished second to Bo Jackson in the 1982 state high jump competition. Reginald Phillips—was one of the most decorated track stars ever from the Shoals. He ranked among the top 10 United States hurdlers in 1975.

Ron Toner—was named to the All-State football team from Lexington High School as a sophomore, junior and senior. Also lettered in baseball and basketball. Josh Willingham—was a two-time All-American and Academic All-American Whoever owned him before was in either a physical or financial condition that no longer allowed for adequate care, or they simply neglected him. Secondly, no one would be fighting us for ownership.

Commentary

Perseverance...

Vet time came around the next Monday morning.

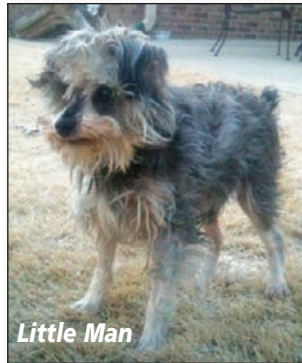

Several assumptions were verified and more was discovered.

'Little Man' as we dubbed him, was blind, all but a few teeth were gone or abscessed, one so badly that there was a hole clear through to his nasal passage. He had deteriorating discs, bone spurs on his spine, a large growth on one side, dermatitis, infected ears, and more. There was a lot that needed to be done and he was probably 12-13 years old. The vet gave me our options.

Already blessed with four rescues (two dogs and two cats) we weren't looking for another. Our pets were survivors. We adopted two at special events, physically rescued one, and one adopted us.

However, with everything this little guy had overcome and as long as he apparently wandered in survival mode, there had to be a reason why my wife saw him. How could we not give him a chance to join the brood?

He went into surgery the next morning for his mouth, ears, and the growth on his side. Thankfully, the growth was benign. Unfortunately, none of his remaining teeth could be saved.

Little Man

It has been a few weeks since surgery and Little Man is doing fine. He spends a lot of time outside romping with the other dogs when the weather allows. They sense that he has some fragility. He shares nights with them in a heated workshop. Little Man loves to attack and kill leaf piles as they are forming - almost meeting my rake in mid-sweep. Our adopted outside cat of six years now seems to have a purpose. She sleeps close to him each night and keeps an eye out for him.

Little Man still has spine and disc issues, but medication allows him to be active with better balance. He even gets into a little trot when the grass is too wet for his liking, and he has a remarkable sense of awareness and location.

Little Man appears to be fond of his new home and really likes soft Pup-Peroni treats torn into little pieces. He is a good reminder for all of us when it comes to patience and perseverance. It should be a rewarding next few years.

No Shades

The conversation stopped when I walked in the room and four grown women looked at me sheepishly. So I had to ask them what they were talking about. "Awww, you wouldn't want to know about it." "About what?" "You know...that book...you know... Fifty Shades of Grey." This is how I heard about the book when it first came out. "Why wouldn't I want to know about it?" I had asked. "Because it's a little...risqué." "Then why would you want to know about it?"

There are lots of answers to that question. We always want to know about the forbidden. We wonder if bad feels good. Can we get away with a sneaky peek? It's the numbing down of America. As my brother-in-law says, "We are being led by the dregs of society." I wonder how all those folks queued at the theaters felt sitting by their neighbors or almost innocent boyfriends watching Christian Grey - "Christian"?

Dr. Miriam Grossman, M.D., in "A Psychiatrist's Letter to Young People about 'Fifty Shades of Grey'", starts by saying, "There's nothing gray about 'Fifty Shades of Grey'. It's all black." She later adds, "Abuse is not glamorous or cool. It is never OK - under no circumstances." A friend of mine hit that nail on the head when she said, "Which one of us ever dreamed about our pretty little daughters and handcuffs at the same time?"

I recommend that you Google Dr. Grossman's letter. She makes so many meaningful points. One point that she makes about Anastasia's choices really enhanced a point that I have made here before about marital sex. She stated, "Anastasia becomes sexually active with Christian - her first experience - soon after meeting him. Neuroscience suggests their intimacy could jump start her feelings of attachment and trust, before she's certain that he deserves them. Sex is a powerful experience - particularly the first time." Sex is supposed to complete the marriage relationship - consummate. This level of intimacy is to cause attachment - solidarity - oneness forever. Society has brought us to think that sex just says - "Hello" or "Hey, I really do like you" - that it is to start or affirm the relationship. We tell ourselves this, but our brains, our hearts know better. Quite often it is easy to tell if a young dating couple has had sex, because they can't let each other go even when they should. Why do women stay in abusive relationships? Lots of reasons - but one of the reasons is that they have given themselves away. As the doctor said, "Sex is ... powerful..."

When I was young, my sister hid the True Romance magazines under her bed. But, now you don't even have to sneak a peek. It's on the big screen. Marital love, self-respect and intimacy are being dragged down. A psychologically/spiritually dangerous relationship - why would we want to have anything to do with that? Let's not leave our young people at risk. Let's talk boldly about love that's not just about fulfilling our own feelings and desires. Let's demonstrate love that is about acting in the best interest of another person - love that has genuine care and is true forever - no shades, just consummate devotion. Now, that's intimacy. That's love. That is marriage.
