A drunken Katie warned Brooke to stay away from her man. Rick and Bill tried to shield his son from Katie's condition. Katie later grew suspicious when Bill left for the office for an unscheduled meeting. Rick wasn't happy with the changes Ridge made to the mansion. Despite her intense feelings for Bill, Brooke made a promise to herself not to give in to him. Maya got the inside scoop on Rick and Ridge's ongoing rivalry. After getting the wrong idea about Bill and Brooke's latest meeting, Katie confided in Wyatt about her marriage. Wait to See: A devious plan begins to unravel.

Simon covered for Ashley when she suffered a setback in her condition. Lily and Cane reminisced about their past. Prayer to St. Jude

Most holy Apostle, St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the church honors and invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases, of things almost despaired of. Pray for me, I am so helpless and alone. Make use, I implore you, of that particular privilege given to you, to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation and help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations, and sufferings, particularly (your request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever. I promise, O blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron, and to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Amen. Special thanks and gratitude in your honor for my favor.

Dude, Retire!

I'll never forget the first time I met Peyton Manning. He was on the phone, and I had just snapped a photo of him in the most annoying way possible: I had my trusty Minolta set on the anti-redeye flash setting, the kind where the flash pops over and over again until your subject gets annoyed and stops smiling. And I'll never forget what he said to me: "Dude ... what are you doing?"

That's the same day I learned that photographers can't just walk up to the Colts' sideline and stick a camera in their quarterback's face, even with the anti-redeye setting. What can I say? We were both rookies that season. I would later graduate to Kodak, Nikon and Cannon cameras, and Manning would go on to have a pretty decent career, too.

The first time I really started paying attention to Manning's career was during his tenure at Tennessee. It's funny to hear people knock his arm-strength now, because while he was in college, he was a straight-up gunslinger of a quarterback. I remember Steve Spurrier taunting him before big games. Nowadays, we all know not to overly criticize college players, ostensibly for the reason that they are kids and amateurs.

Over the years, at Indianapolis and Denver, we've had the distinct pleasure of watching Manning all but dominate the league. He wasn't invincible, as his two Super Bowl losses proclaim, but he was the best in the game. He holds every record that matters: wins (200), yards from scrimmage, touchdowns and MVPs. He was the funniest athlete ever to host "Saturday Night Live"; he's made "Omaha" the replacement term for "hike" in backyards across the country; and he gave the chicken parm sandwich its own, long-overdue jingle. That, right there, is worth of considerable praise (and consideration for dinner tonight).

After winning the Super Bowl, his gratuitous beer name-dropping aside (no, he wasn't paid to say that, but he does own a share of the brand's beer distributorship in Louisiana, and one surmises he made his money back), his not stating the obvious ... that he was retiring ... was a class move. In doing so (or by not doing so) he kept the focus, rightly, on his team's victory.

Should Manning retire? Of course he should. He is playing the most violent game in the world (next to fighting and hurling). He has nothing left to prove, and he leaves as the world recognized as the best ever at his position. Granted, I would still pick Joe Montana to lead my team if my life depended on it, but I think Manning catches my drift.

You don't get chances like this in life — to leave on top — you earn them. If he were to come back next year, rest assured, I'd break out the old Minolta. But this time I'd be the one asking what he was doing, dude.

I wasn't looking for a discount funeral. I was looking for an affordable one.

Most "discount funerals" mean less money, less service, less attention to detail, less of everything. An affordable funeral is a complete funeral based first on the needs of the family, then priced to fit within their budget.

Q. Like so many others, I was devastated to learn of the death of Alan Rickman. How are his friends and former castmates doing?
— Yvette R., via email

A. When I visited Universal Studios Florida recently for the Celebration of Harry Potter Expo, the cast that were on hand paid tribute to working with such a giving, lovely and incredible man.

Rupert Grint, who played Ron Weasley in the "Harry Potter" films, told us that when he learned of Alan's death, he felt like he had been sideswiped. "I was devastated, actually. Gutted. He was such an amazing man. I have so many memories of him. I remember once in one of the early films, I drew a picture of him in Potions class. It wasn't the most flattering portrait. I can remember feeling him breathing down my neck watching me do it, and I was absolutely terrified (laughs). But he was really cool about it; in the end, he kept it. He was just the sweetest guy — very special, and I'm just so sad to see him go."

Q. Is there going to be a sequel to "Snow White and the Huntsman"? I know Chris Hemsworth is busy being Thor, but I would love to see him play the Huntsman again.
— Bobbie T., Grand Rapids, Michigan

A. As of now there are no plans for a sequel; however, come April 22, the prequel will be hitting theaters. "The Huntsman: Winter War" sees Chris reprising his rugged role, and Charlize Theron returns as the evil queen. There's no Snow White in this particular movie, which means no Kristen Stewart this go 'round. The prequel, which is set a number of years before the original film, also stars Emily Blunt, Sam Claflin and Jessica Chastain.

Q. I saw a commercial recently that Jo Frost is back in a new series. Can you tell me about it? — Tina F., via Twitter

A. Jo Frost, aka Nanny Jo, is indeed back with a new series called "Jo Frost: Nanny on Tour," which airs on UPTV on different days throughout the week (check uptv.com for listings). Jo is thrilled to bring her brand of parental education back to TV, and especially working with UP.

"I like their unscripted and scripted programming. It's got a moral tone, but it's fun as well. I like that because I feel they are making strides to have television that is entertaining, but at the same time is sincere and has integrity. This new show is an opportunity to spread my wings. The importance of being a parental educator and being able to coach parents is to listen — to listen to what people need and then be able to facilitate that. And use the show as a vessel to be able to educate and have fun and to let your hair down. I'm prepared with a good sense of humor."

Donna's Day Creative family fun
by Donna Erickson

Winter Boredom Busters for Energetic Families

If your family is suffering from the winter blahs, don't let the seasonal funk get you down. Try some fun indoor and outdoor activities to perk up your February days. Pick out your favorites from this list of 10 boredom busters. Jot them down on your family calendar, and adapt them to the projects or birthday celebrations that your family has already inked in.

FUNSTUFF FOR FAMILIES:

1. There are more than 7,000 recognized living languages in the world today. Learn how to say "hello" in one that interests you. Greet each other at the breakfast table in the language.
2. Go together to your public library and check out the latest happenings for kids. While you are at it, check out several storybooks, too. Set aside a special "library book" basket to store them at home between visits.
3. Draw a picture of an outdoor winter scene where you live. Scan and email it, or help your child address a big envelope to send the drawing via U.S. mail to someone special.
4. At lunchtime, name the foods on your plate and talk about where they came from. "The grocery store" is not a correct answer!
5. Draw eyes, a nose and mouth on your fingers with non-toxic washable markers to create finger puppets. Tell a story.
6. Citrus fruits evoke images of sunny beaches and warm places. For a healthy midday beverage, squeeze the sweet juice from oranges. Or, think "summertime" and squeeze some lemons for a pitcher of homemade lemonade.

7. Pop popcorn for an after-school snack. Sprinkle a new topping on it.

8. Make a dollhouse out of a cardboard box using supplies from your craft box and periodicals and clean containers from the recycle bin.

9. Pick a destination close to your home and walk, bike, skate or ski to get there. When you return, make hot chocolate and top with a dollop of whipping cream and a dash of cinnamon for an extra treat.

10. Shop together for the ingredients for sub sandwiches. At dinnertime, let the family build their subs assembly-line fashion.

Darling Clementines

One of the best things about the winter months is the abundance of citrus fruits. My favorite winter fruit is clementines. Most of the clementines grown in the United States are from California, and the fruit has been available in Europe for many years. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, clementines are a cross between a Chinese mandarin and an orange, and are often confused with varieties like mandarins and satsuma, or honey sweet oranges.

Father Clement Rodier, a French missionary in Algeria, is credited with developing the clementine after an accidental hybridization in the garden of his orphanage. He also became the namesake for the fruit. However, there are early records tracing the origins of the fruit to China, where it is nearly identical to a Canton mandarin grown in the Guangxi province.

When selecting a clementine, choose fruits that are intact and firm, heavy for their size and deeply colored. It's best to keep at least 1/2 inch of space between the clementines. Turn them often to prevent mold and to allow for air circulation, or store them in the crisper drawer of the refrigerator. A clementine contains only about 35 calories and 8 grams of carbohydrates. They also have fiber, vitamin C, calcium and potassium along with many other nutritional benefits. The clementine is the perfect combination of a nutrition-packed, healthy snack and a sweet treat. They're also a flavor-booster for both sweet and savory dishes like my recipe for Chicken With Clementines and Fennel.

CHICKEN WITH CLEMENTINES AND FENNEL

Marinating overnight gives the chicken more flavor, but if you're pressed for time you can marinate it for 30 minutes to 1 hour. Using a can of Dr. Pepper to make the sauce is a non-alcoholic and less-expensive substitute for 6 1/2 tablespoons Arak, Ouzo or Pernod. If using the alcohol, increase the sugar or honey to 3 tablespoons.

- 8 bone-in, skin-on chicken pieces (thighs work best)
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 6 tablespoons freshly squeezed clementine or orange juice
- 2 tablespoons whole grain mustard
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar or honey
- 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
- 1/2 teaspoon cumin
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons freshly ground pepper and 1 teaspoon of the fennel seeds.

2. Place the chicken, the clementine slices, thyme sprigs and the onion and fennel wedges in the bowl. Turn several times to coat. Cover the bowl and place it into the refrigerator or alternately, pour the ingredients into a re-sealable bag. Press the air out of the bag, place it on a plate and put it into the refrigerator. Marinate 30 minutes to 1 hour, several hours or overnight.

3. If roasting immediately, heat oven to 475 F. In a large pot, pour in the Dr. Pepper, the chicken broth, and add the remaining poultry seasoning, and the remaining salt, pepper and fennel seed, and the star anise and reserved fennel tops. Bring the ingredients to a boil for 5 minutes or until the sauce starts to thicken. Cool the sauce slightly and strain into a large roasting pan. Discard the fennel tops, star anise and fennel seeds.

4. Pour the chicken, onion, fennel and any liquid into the pan containing the sauce. Mix all of the ingredients together with a spoon. Turn the chicken skin side up and arrange so the sides do not touch. Place the chicken, uncovered, in the oven.

5. After 35 minutes, check on the chicken. If the skin is browning too quickly, turn the oven down to 400 F. Continue roasting until the skin is brown and crisp, another 20 to 30 minutes longer, or until the juices in the thickest part run clear.

6. Transfer the chicken and clementines, onion and fennel pieces, and the juices to a serving platter. Let rest 5-10 minutes before serving, and garnish with parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Moments in time
THE HISTORY CHANNEL

- On March 3, 1887, Anne Sullivan begins teaching 6-year-old Helen Keller, who lost her sight and hearing after a severe illness at the age of 19 months. Under Sullivan's tutelage, the previously uncontrollable Keller flourished, eventually graduating from college and becoming a lecturer and activist.
- On March 6, 1899, the patent office in Berlin registers Aspirin, the brand name for acetylsalicylic acid, on behalf of Friedrich Bayer & Co. Acetylsalicylic acid was originally made from a chemical found in the bark of willow trees.
- On March 2, 1904, Theodor Geisel, better known as Dr. Seuss, the author and illustrator of such beloved children's books as "The Cat in the Hat," is born in Massachusetts. Geisel's first book, "And to Think That I Saw It On Mulberry Street," was rejected by over two dozen publishers before making it into print in 1937.
- On March 5, 1929, David Dunbar Buick, founder of the Buick Motor Company, dies in relative obscurity after years of working menial jobs. By 1906, Buick had lost control of the business and sold his stock, which would later be worth millions of dollars.
- On March 1, 1932, the 20-month-old son of aviator Charles Lindbergh is kidnapped from the family's mansion in New Jersey. Although a ransom note demanding $50,000 was left in the nursery, the baby had been killed the night of the kidnapping.
- On Feb. 29, 1940, the film "Gone With the Wind" is honored with eight Oscars. The most momentous award went to Hattie McDaniel for her portrayal of "Mammy," a housemaid and former slave. McDaniel was the first black actor ever to win an Oscar.
- On March 4, 1962, a Trans-African DC-7 crashes on takeoff in Cameroon, its 111 passengers and crew doomed by a mechanical failure. It was the first single-airplane disaster in history in which more than 100 people died.

Hints For Homeowners

Buying Smart Home Technology? Ask Three Questions First

(NAPS)—This year, many families will become owners of smart home technology for the first time. Connected to the Internet and controlled by smartphone apps, smart home devices promise to enhance everyday life with convenience, energy savings and even security. However, taking the wrong approach when buying them can lead to an expensive case of buyer's remorse.

This very new technology comes with some unique considerations and options that many shoppers may overlook in pursuit of the best deal at retail. Before clicking 'buy', experts say, shoppers should consider the following questions to determine the best approach.

1. Can I install it?
 Devices such as connected light bulbs may be simple to install, but others, like a smart thermostat, will require competence with electrical wiring and heating systems in order to work right. If DIY is a concern, buyers should research the 'do it for me' option: the growing network of smart home service providers who supply, install and configure smart home devices.

2. Is security important?
 Many of this year's most popular smart products, such as streaming video cameras and smoke detectors, offer awareness of what's happening at home. But when it comes to security, they are self-monitored. You'll get a text message if there's trouble at home but what happens if you don't get the message or can't respond?

For the security minded, professionally monitored options are a better buy. These systems send you a text notification if there's an emergency and automatically contact emergency responders on your behalf.

3. Am I investing in a smart device, or a smart home?
 A common cause of smart home frustration is devices that don't intercommunicate, requiring the user to use multiple apps and complex workarounds to automate their home. As more devices are added, the situation grows more complex. For shoppers planning to buy more devices in future, a solution such as a smart home security system eliminates the problem before it begins. The solution approach gives the buyer a complete ecosystem of smart home devices, connected by a single software platform and mobile app that ensures every device—current and future—can contribute to the goal of a smarter home. Tilt-Out TV

Q. My mom and dad were among the first in Chicago to own a television set. It was an Emerson Model 608 console with pop-up screen. I have inherited it, and its unusual design must mean that it is worth more than just a few dollars.
— Carl, Naperville, Illinois

ture on the blank side. Is it worth much? — Donna, Wiers Beach, N.H.

A. Your record was issued by Hit of the Week and was sold at news stands beside the latest copies of Liberty, Saturday Evening Post and Punch. The recordings, which featured such popular entertainers as Eddie Cantor and Duke Ellington, sold for about 10 cents, making them extremely affordable.

Your Rudy Vallee recording is worth about $5 in good playable condition. Incidentally, the main drawback of these products is that they had a tendency to curl.

A. Your television was introduced in 1949 and was, as you claim, quite unusual. I would, in fact, consider it a classic. It had a 16-inch tilt-out screen that could be hidden when not in use. I have checked with two serious collectors, and they seem to agree that your set is worth somewhere in the $400 to $600 range depending, of course, on its condition.

Q. I have a political poster of Richard Nixon that was used in 1948 to promote his congressional campaign in California. It is in fairly good condition, and I have been offered $200 for it. Keep or sell is my question. — Carol, Orange County, California

Q. I have three issues of "Marge's Little Lulu" comics, Nos. 39, 81 and 123. Are they worth keeping?
— Betty, Springfield, Ill.

A. According to most of the guides I consulted, they are worth a minimum of $100 each in good shape. As with most collectibles, condition is paramount. The value of a comic boils down to several factors, including condition, scarcity and demand. A good place to monitor the value of comics is eBay.

Incidentally, your issue No. 39 also features another popular cartoon character, Witch Hazel.

A. Take the money and run. Your poster generally sells in the $50 range.

• "Shower hooks, the rings used to hang your shower curtain, also can be used in the coat closet to hang bags and such. You can install a sturdy bar toward the back of the closet and hang the bags by their handles, hooked onto the shower curtain rings." — T.I. in Michigan

• Too much paper? Here is an idea to decrease what you store: First, look up the instruction manual for any items you purchase, and save them to a file on your computer rather than keeping the paper manual. Then scan your receipts and save them with the manuals. If you don't have a scanner, take a good-quality digital photo of the receipt, and make sure that the numbers are readable.

• "Did you know that pets get lost more often in winter and inclement weather? The precipitation can wash away or mask scent markers that help dogs and cats determine their location. Be sure that your animals are micro-chipped and that your information is up to date. If you find a lost pet, take it to the nearest vet to have it scanned for the owner's info. Let's keep our pets safe!" — S.M. in Connecticut

• Reusable totes are everywhere nowadays. Here are a few uses beyond carrying your groceries: Keep project pieces in one so that all your materials are stored together; plant a starter garden if the material can biodegrade or be hung up; organize small toys or dolls in a child's room; as an overnight bag.

• Cut a hole into the backing of your nightstand, and you can place a power strip in the drawer. The cord goes right out the back of the nightstand and all the cords are out of sight. This also works in an end table with a drawer for your living room or entryway.

• "For sticky scissors, simply reach for the castor oil! Rub a little on the scissors, and they'll loosen up in no time. This is great for kitchen scissors, because castor oil is safe and can be ingested, plus it keeps them from rusting." — M.W. in Oregon

Salome's Stars

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Congratulations. Your good intentions are finally recognized, and long-overdue appreciation should follow. Keep working toward improvements wherever you think they're necessary.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 2) Try to look at your options without prejudging any of them. Learn the facts, and then make your assessments. Spend the weekend enjoying films, plays and musical events.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Someone might want to take advantage of the Sagittarian's sense of fair play. But before you ride off to right what you've been told is a wrong, be sure of your facts.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might be surprised to learn that not everyone agrees with your ideas. But this can prove to be a good thing. Go over them and see where improvements can be made.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) After taking advice on a number of matters in recent months, expect to be called on to return the gesture. And, by the way, you might be surprised at who makes the request.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Reassure everyone concerned that a change of mind isn't necessarily a change of heart. You might still want to pursue a specific goal, but feel a need to change the way you'll get there.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are able to make room in your heart for others, and that makes you a very special person in their lives.

HOLLYWOOD

Mark Hamill

HOLLYWOOD — Mark Hamill, very low key during the big push for "Star Wars: The Force Awakens," is spearheading a crusade to protect film fans from being victimized by unscrupulous dealers selling movie posters and other memorabilia he believes were not signed by him. He explains, "The public is being swindled on a daily basis, and the numbers are huge. I just can't keep quiet when I see people I love being hurt."

Hamill has teamed up with California Assemblywoman Ling Ling Chang to extend protections that apply to sports memorabilia to all signed collectibles by dealers in the state. Under a pending bill, Chang would require certificates from dealers for signed memorabilia and duped customers would be entitled to as much as 10 times the cost of a forged item in civil court. Merchandise valued at millions of dollars — including a baseball supposedly signed by Mother Teresa and autographs of George Washington, Marilyn Monroe and John F. Kennedy — has been seized from a half-dozen forgers.

Hamill adds, "In a way, it seems futile to try and counter what is clearly a very lucrative market, but we can't let them get away with it!"

Patrick Wilson, who starred in the TV series "A Gifted Man" and such films as the musical "Phantom of the Opera," "The A-Team," "Watchman," "The Conjuring" and "The Alamo," may just be acting for fun. His net worth is more than $275 million.

Laurel and Hardy ruled movie theaters as one of the top comedy teams from 1921-1951. If you don't know who they are, you'll be able to discover them in the upcoming British film "Stan & Ollie," which will star Englishman Steve Coogan, last seen
