ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Cupid is strong in the Aries aspect this week, with the cherub opening romantic possibilities for single Lambs, and strengthening ties 'twixt loving pairs already in a caring relationship.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your dramatic flair might make things more interesting as you recount an event to your colleagues. But be careful not to exaggerate reality to the point that facts and fancy combine to form fiction.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You love to talk, and this week you should get lots of chances to share your thoughts with people who will not only pay attention to what you have to say, but will want to hear more.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The pattern of recent changes could begin to shift from mostly workplace-related events to more personal matters. Continue to keep an open mind as you prepare to deal with them.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Reward yourself for what's sure to be a dynamic week with a getaway to someplace wonderful, hopefully with a wonderful someone. You'll return refreshed and ready for what's ahead.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might want to suggest resolving an old disagreement before it can affect a matter expected to come up for discussion. It's always best to start with a clean slate.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) The week favors combining dollops of creativity and practicality to work out both professional and personal problems. A longtime friend could have something of note to suggest.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some surprising facts could come to light if you decide to probe deeper into an "opportunity" than you might usually do. What you'll learn could determine what you'll earn.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Someone close to you might seek your counsel. Hear him/her out, but hold the line at giving actual advice until you get credible answers to all your questions.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) What seems to be an overwhelming workplace project can be dealt with quite well if you handle one category at a time. Things will soon begin to fall into place.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A personal matter might need more of your time than you had expected. Try to prioritize between your many outside commitments and your domestic responsibilities.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A developing situation still needs more time to grow, and more time to study before you can plunge in and make some attention-getting waves. Patience is best for wise Pisceans.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for organization that would make you a fine archivist. (Are you listening out there, Library of Congress?)

PIEDMONT PETS
September 3, 2020
By Paulette Dean

September is National Preparedness Month. The best time to prepare is long before the first raindrop falls or the first wind gale is felt.

Individual households can benefit from having an emergency response plan in place. Any plan must include your companion animals. Your animal's best protection is to be with you. But taking a pet requires special planning. Locate a safe place for your pets before disaster strikes. Evacuation shelters generally do not accept any animal, so we suggest you call hotels and motels a reasonable distance from your home and ask if they accept pets, under what conditions, and whether there are any restrictions as to the size and number of animals. We have prepared the animal shelter for an emergency; however, do not rely solely on local animal shelters, because during emergencies they are filled beyond capacity with strays and rescued animals.

A few simple steps can protect your pets: Keep up-to-date identification on your dog or cat at all times. Make sure the collar is properly fitted (avoid chain link collars for dogs and use breakaway collars for cats). For the best protection, have all your dogs and cats microchipped; be sure to register the chip number. Keep current color photos of your pet, showing any distinguishing marks, with your emergency supplies. If you and your pet become separated, these photos will help identify him/her. If you know a disaster is imminent, bring your pets inside immediately! (The obvious exception to this is in the case of a house fire.) Get your animals under control as soon as possible, either on a leash or inside a carrier.

996 South Boston Rd., Danville, VA 24540
Phone: (434) 799-0843

Disasters often strike while you're away from home. Consider an arrangement with a neighbor who would be willing to evacuate your pet in your absence.

The government also urges us to have at least a three day supply of food, medicine, clothes, water, etc. An emergency kit for each of your pets' needs is also essential. Include in this kit at least a three-day supply of food and water, food/water bowls, regular medications, a first aid kit, a carrier (essential for cats), leashes, and a litter box and litter for cats. Small mammals and birds must have cages.

All companion animals must be included in your disaster plan, not just dogs and cats.

Our pets will benefit from our wisdom of not waiting until the disaster strikes before we take any steps to prepare for the emergency.

Now here's a tip!
by Jo Ann Derson

* "Whenever a stew or soup recipe calls for whole herbs to be used and then taken out later, I put them in a tea infuser. I could never seem to get them all before, and inevitably someone would be served a whole bay leaf or such. This makes it foolproof." -- J.R. in Georgia

* You can use an old toothbrush or nail brush to get grime out of the hinge area of the toilet seat.

* If you have a plant cutting you are trying to root in water, here's a tip to keep the end from resting on the bottom of your container: Use a twist tie wrapped around the stem on one side and hooked over the edge of the container on the other.

* "Whenever I get new e-mail addresses, I always add them to my online address book. I also write them in my old-fashioned paper address book. Sounds like a no-brainer, but you'd be surprised by how many people rely on their e-mail address book to remember all those addresses. It just takes one time for a computer virus to erase everything -- not to mention if something happens to your hard drive. Just a reminder!" -- B.R. in Pennsylvania

* Using ice-cold sour cream instead of ice-cold water in your pie crust recipe will give you a flakier crust.

* Here's a tip to gauge your exercise level: If you can't get out a sentence, then you are in a high intensity phase. If you can't talk at all during your entire workout, you are going too hard.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

Peter Dinklage

HOLLYWOOD — What could bring rival, cutthroat studios such as Warner Brothers, NBC Universal, Disney, BBC Studios, Lionsgate and MGM together? Jeffrey Katzenberg, former chairman of Disney and co-founder of Dreamworks, and Meg Whitman, formerly on the board of Proctor & Gamble, Dropbox and the CEO of Hewlett Packard, have gotten these competitors to invest in their brainchild, Quibi. Quibi is a mash-up of the words "quick" and "bites," and it's a new subscription-based streaming platform for scripted and unscripted content for viewing solely on your cellphone.

Quibi's main launch premiere was July 20-29 with chapters of "Die Hart," starring Kevin Hart and John Travolta. Is this what we've come to? The highest-grossing films are epic superhero movies on IMAX giant screens. Are we now reduced to watching bits films on our phones in the palm of our hand? And why would any celebrity want to shoot a movie delivered in 10 minutes or less? The service costs $5 monthly, $8 if you want it commercial free. You, the jury, must deliberate now.

Are you ready for the upcoming musical adaption of "Cyrano" (de Bergerac)? Four-time Emmy winner Peter Dinklage did the title role in a stage adaption at Connecticut's Goodspeed Opera House and off-Broadway in 2018. Haley Bennett, who played Roxanne opposite him, also has been cast along with Brian Tyree Henry and Ben Mendelsohn. The adaption was written by Dinklage's wife, Erica Schmidt. The former "Game of Thrones" star has the thriller "I Care a Lot," with Eiza Gonzalez, Rosamund Pike, Dianne Wiest and Chris Messina, awaiting opening dates.

At long last, Sir Andrew Lloyd Webber has come clean about the movie "Cats": "The problem with the film was that Tom Hooper decided he didn't want anybody involved who was involved in the original show, the whole thing was ridiculous." Sir

Andrew didn't appreciate being eliminated from the equation.

At least "Cats" swept "The Razzie Awards" winning worst picture, worst supporting actors (James Corden and Rebel Wilson), worst on-screen combo, worst screenplay and worst director. Note to Tom Hooper, "The King's Speech" Oscar-winning director who also made "Les Miserables" and "The Danish Girl," "Cats" needed to be shot like Disney's reboot of "The Lion King," with the right kind of CGI for animal movies, not people in cat suits.

Eight-time Oscar nominee Bradley Cooper, presently shooting Guillermo del Toro's "Nightmare Alley," with Cate Blanchett, Willem Dafoe and Toni Collette, will next work with director Paul Thomas Anderson. Bradley would play a young actor in 1970s Hollywood in the as-yet-untitled film.

It should be interesting to see how a 45-year-old Cooper plays a young actor. Is that called recapturing your youth?

Create a Family-Friendly 'Staycation'

5 ways to fill your home with happiness

FAMILY FEATURES
With summer vacations looking a little different this year, infusing new energy into playtime – and making it a family affair – can turn time at home into a fun “staycation.” Both kids and adults can quickly grow tired of the same scenery and activities, but new ways to engage together can help bring back excitement for making the most out of summer.
 Help battle boredom and get the whole family involved with these fun and engaging activities from DQPlayAtHome.com. To celebrate the summer season, the family-favorite soft serve destination is helping fans create some of summer’s most iconic experiences right in their own homes and backyards. From a DIY backyard water park to a playful, treat-inspired coloring book and lighthearted challenges, there are a variety of downloadable games and activities to help fill your home with happiness:
Camp-In: Bring the great outdoors into your own living room with camping themed playtime. Set up a tent, roll out the sleeping bags and get ready to tell silly stories around a make-believe bonfire. Even forest animals can join in on the fun through a shadow puppet adventure. All you need are your own hands, a flashlight and a little imagination to create easy animal- and nature-themed characters on the wall.
Happy Chats: When the answer to “did you have fun today?” is always the same, it can be hard to keep the conversation flowing. Entice little ones to speak up at the dinner table by taking turns drawing cards from the Happy Chats card set, which is filled with unique prompts, questions and interactive challenges. Inspire their imagination by asking kids to dream up a new ice cream creation or describe a pretend mission through outer space. Invite friendly competition by seeing who can recite the alphabet backward the fastest. Encourage kids to learn about the past when they draw cards asking parents to share stories from their own childhoods.

Playbook: Sometimes all you need is a fresh take on classic fun to get excited again. Using common household items like utensils, you can easily turn down time into game time for the whole family. Merge timeless entertainment like spoon relay races and obstacle courses to create a competition zone in the backyard. From a living room game of hot potato to hallway bowling, your home can become smile central.
Coloring: There’s a reason even adults have coloring books these days; it’s a chance to tap into your creativity and focus your attention on the simplicity of creating a work of art. Printable coloring books encourage fans to show off their art skills by coloring joyful scenes and iconic treats.
A Sweet Surprise: Make memories with an occasional shift in routine by surprising the family with dessert after they’re in their pajamas. Have one parent tackle bedtime and send the other to a local favorite like Dairy Queen for some drive-thru treats. Sweet moments with family are some of the best ways to celebrate the season.
 Visit DQPlayAtHome.com to find more inspiration for summer family fun.

A Backyard Bonanza
 Recreating summer fun at home can be as simple as changing into swimsuits and turning on the sprinklers, but you can take your backyard waterpark to the next level with these tips:

- Start by blowing up an inflatable pool
- Use goggles for underwater fun and splashing safety
- Add pool noodles and floaties for a realistic feel
- Remember to apply sunscreen as recommended and wear hats for added protection
- Include snacks and treats like soft serve for an additional cool-down in the summer heat

The Value of Using Irrevocable Trusts in Medicaid Planning (Part 1 of 2)

People often wonder about the value of using irrevocable trusts in Medicaid planning. Certainly gifting of assets can be done outright, not involving an irrevocable trust. Outright gifts have the advantages of being simple to do with minimal costs involved, including the cost of preparing and recording deeds and the cost of preparing and filing a gift tax return. Many financial institutions have their own documents they use for changing ownership of assets so there are typically no out-of-pocket costs for the transferor. So why consider an irrevocable trust? In this month's article, we will talk about some of the benefits of utilizing irrevocable trusts.

First of all, why complicate things with a trust? Why not just keep the planning as simple and inexpensive as possible? The short answer here is that every situation is different and gift transaction costs are only part of what needs to be considered. Many important benefits that can result from gifting in trust are forfeited by outright gifting. These benefits are what give value to using irrevocable trusts in Medicaid planning.

Prior to state implementation of the federal Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 (DRA) in recent years (with the exception of California), federal Medicaid law contained a bias against trusts: Most transfers of assets to trusts had a 5-year lookback period, whereas there was a 3-year lookback period for non-trust transfers. This different standard induced many clients to elect outright gifting in preference to gifting in trust. The DRA leveled the playing field by imposing a 5-year lookback period for ALL transfers. Removal of the bias against trusts shifted the discussion of elder law attorneys with clients to the real benefits of gifting in trust versus gifting outright.

Key benefits of gifting in trust are:

- Asset protection from future creditors of beneficiaries
- Preservation of the Section 121 exclusion of capital gain upon sale of the settlors' principal residence (the settlor is the trustmaker)
- Preservation of step-up of basis upon death of the settlors
- Ability to select whether the settlors or the beneficiaries of the trust will be taxable as to trust income
- Ability to design who will receive the net distributable income generated in the trust
- Ability to make assets in the trust non-countable in regard to the beneficiaries' eligibility for means-based governmental benefits, such as Medicaid and Supplemental Security Income (SSI)
- Ability to specify certain terms and incentives for beneficiaries' use of trust assets
- Ability to decide (through the settlors' other estate planning documents) which beneficiaries will receive what share, if any, of remaining trust assets after the settlors die
- Ability to determine who will receive any trust assets after the deaths of the initial beneficiaries
- Possible avoidance of need to file a federal gift tax return due to asset transfer to the trust

We will briefly discuss each of these potential benefits listed here in sequence. Each of these potential benefits depends on the specific language selected in the design and drafting the trust. None of them is automatic or inherent in every trust. Thoughtful planning and careful drafting is necessary to take advantage of the benefits available, thus it is important to understand how and why each benefit comes about. This article is just an introduction to these topics, and is not intended as a specific do-it-yourself guide. It is highly recommended to consult with a Certified Elder Law Attorney before starting any Medicaid Planning/Asset Protection!

Asset Protection from Future Creditors of Beneficiaries

A central benefit of gifting in trust is to protect the gifted assets from the creditors and predators of the beneficiaries. This is accomplished by means of a spendthrift provision – special provisions in the trust that make trust assets not subject to attachment, foreclosure, garnishment, or a laundry list of undesirable actions by the creditors of the beneficiaries.

Preservation of Section 121 Exclusion of Capital Gain on Sale of Principal Residence

Section 121 of the Internal Revenue Code (Tax Code) creates an exclusion from capital gains tax of up to $250,000 of capital gain in the taxpayer's principal residence when it is sold if the taxpayer owned and lived in it at least two of the past five years before the sale (only one of the past five years if the homeowner had to move to a nursing home). If there are two qualifying co-owners, they can each exclude $250,000 of gain upon sale in such circumstances. This is a very valuable benefit that has been in the Tax Code since 1997. A trust can preserve this benefit if it is a "complete grantor trust" – a grantor trust as to both income and principal. On the other hand, a residence gifted outright to someone and then sold by the successor would need to qualify for the Section 121 exclusion based on the ownership of the donee to avoid capital gain in excess of the adjusted cost basis of the donor. Our senior population often has owned their home since the late 1940s, 1950s or 1960s, so a huge amount of appreciation in value has occurred since then.

Preservation of Step-Up of Basis

When an appreciated asset is included in a decedent's taxable estate for federal estate tax purposes, it receives step-up (or down) of basis to the date of death value under Section 1014 of the Tax Code. Normally gifted assets pass to gift donees with "pass through basis"; that is, the donees receive the assets with the donor's adjusted cost basis, rather than the date of gift value of the assets. If, however, something pulls the assets back into the taxable estate of the donor upon the donor's death, the donee will own the asset at that point with the donor's date of death value as his or her basis, rather than the donor's original adjusted cost basis. For highly appreciated assets, such as the donor's home or stocks that he or she owned for a long time, obtaining step-up of basis can be a huge benefit for minimizing or eliminating capital gains tax when the donee later sells the assets. This benefit of step-up in basis can easily be forfeited by outright gifting. However, a provision in an irrevocable trust that pulls the property back into the taxable estate of the settlor upon the death of the settlor can preserve step-up of basis for benefit of the donee. With the amount of assets that can pass free of federal estate tax being well beyond the value of most Medicaid planning clients' estates, estate inclusion and step-up of basis is generally a great benefit to design into the trust, without any actual tax liability. A Limited Power of Appointment retained by the settlor can accomplish this. Other provisions can also cause taxable estate inclusion.

Ability to Select Whether Trust Income is Taxable to Settlers or Beneficiaries

This brings us to the topic of "grantor trusts." Grantor trusts are treated by the Tax Code as "owned" by the settlor (also called the grantor) for income tax purposes. As mentioned above, preservation of the Section 121 exclusion of capital gain upon the trustee's sale of the settlor's primary residence that was earlier funded into the trust requires that the trust be a "grantor trust" as to both income and principal. The creation and significance of grantor versus non-grantor trust status takes an entire seminar or article unto itself, so can only be touched upon lightly here. However, the choice of whether a trust will be a grantor or non-grantor trust and how that will be accomplished are key decisions! For example, it may be important that income generated in the trust not be taxed to the settlor. This requires non-grantor trust status, which necessitates that every trust provision that would cause grantor trust status be avoided in the drafting of the trust. In other examples, however, grantor trust status is important as a goal for tax reasons, or if the settlors are to receive income from the trust.

Ability to Design Who Will Receive Trust Income

Unlike an outright gift, by which the donor gives up the right to receive income generated by the transferred assets, an irrevocable trust can be designed so funding constitutes a completed gift for Medicaid purposes although the settlor reserves the right to receive income from the trust. This is an attractive option for some seniors, although it does result in an inherent downside for Medicaid planning purposes: Any income that the trustee has the power to distribute to the settlor will be counted for Medicaid eligibility purposes, even if the trustee decides not to actually distribute the income to settlor. Some seniors avoid trustee discretion by making distribution of all trust net income to them mandatory, rather than discretionary. In this case, the income would also be counted for Medicaid eligibility purposes as well. Others go the entirely opposite direction by prohibiting the trustee from distributing any income to the settlor, thereby ensuring that trust income will not be part of the settlor's cost of care budget when the settlor is on Medicaid. There are several factors to weigh in such decision-making, but the key point for this discussion is that use of an irrevocable trust in Medicaid planning gives the client these design choices, whereas an outright gift will simply not.

Should Seniors Consider a Reverse Mortgage Now?

Dear Savvy Senior,

What can you tell me about reverse mortgages? The coronavirus damage to my retirement account has me considering it but want to make sure I know what I'm getting into.

Cash-Strapped Senior

Dear Cash-Strapped,

Massive job losses, a volatile stock market and low interest rates caused by the coronavirus pandemic has caused many cash-strapped retirees to consider a reverse mortgage. But there's a lot to consider to be sure it's a good option for you now.

Let's start with the basics.

A reverse mortgage is a unique type of loan that allows older homeowners to borrow money against the equity in their house (or condo) that doesn't have to be repaid until the homeowner dies, sells the house or moves out for at least 12 months. At that point, you or your heirs will have to pay back the loan plus accrued interest and fees, but you will never owe more than the value of your home.

It's also important to understand that with a reverse mortgage, you, not the bank, own the house, so you're still required to pay your property taxes and homeowners insurance. Not paying them can result in foreclosure.

To be eligible, you must be 62 years of age or older, own your own home (or owe only a small balance) and currently be living there.

You will also need to undergo a financial assessment to determine whether you can afford to continue paying your property taxes and insurance. Depending on your financial situation, you may be required to put part of your loan into an escrow account to pay future bills. If the financial assessment finds that you cannot pay your insurance and taxes and have enough cash left to live on, you'll be denied.

Loan Details

Around 95 percent of all reverse mortgages offered are Home Equity Conversion Mortgages (HECM), which are FHA insured and offered through private mortgage lenders and banks. HECM's also have home value limits that vary by county but cannot exceed $765,600.

How much you can actually get through a reverse mortgage depends on your age (the older you are the more you can get), your home's value and the prevailing interest rates. Generally, most people can borrow somewhere between 50 and 60 percent of the home's value. To estimate how much you can borrow, use the reverse mortgage calculator at ReverseMortgage.org.

To receive your money, you can opt for a lump sum, a line of credit, regular monthly checks or a combination of these.

But be aware the reverse mortgages aren't cheap. HECM loans require a 2 percent upfront mortgage insurance payment, plus an additional 0.5 percent annual charge, on top of origination costs and lenders' fees. Any amount you borrow, including these fees and insurance, accrues interest, which means your debt grows over time.

To learn more, read the National Council on Aging's online booklet "Use Your Home to Stay at Home" at NCOA.org/home-equity.

Also note that because reverse mortgages are complex loans, all borrowers are required to get counseling through a HUD approved independent counseling agency before taking one out. Most agencies charge between $125 and $250. To locate one near you, visit Go.usa.gov/v2H, or call 800-569-4287.

Other Options

If you have a short-term need for cash, there are other options you should look into. For example, many low-income seniors don't realize they qualify for the earned income tax credit, a refundable tax break that can put cash in your pocket. You also could use BenefitsCheckUp.org to search for financial assistant programs you may be eligible for.

Another possibility is a regular home equity loan or line of credit. This type of borrowing requires you to make payments, and lenders can freeze or lower limits on lines of credit, but the borrowing costs are much lower.

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.

Future Generations Are Counting on You ---

The designation "senior" covers a long stretch of ages, some of us much older or younger than others. It's the older ones who perhaps have the biggest lesson to learn ... that time does not stretch forward indefinitely.

I learned that lesson today when I received word that one of my oldest relatives had passed away. His name was Henry, and I never met him. I hooked up with him and his lovely wife many years ago when I started my genealogy hunt. We came together like family, which we were. Christmas cards, newsy letters, new genealogy tidbits, just as though we'd always known each other. I would visit someday, I always told myself, not only Henry and his wife, but all my other newly found relatives in their area. Time and physical distance can't change DNA, and I suspect that should I walk through their small town, I would be easily identified as one of them. All the questions I had, I told myself, could wait until I visited.

I waited too long.

We owe it to the family generations that come after us to leave them as much information as possible.

But where do we start? We start with the family members that are ahead of us in age. We ask questions, we take notes, we write things down. Depending how "senior" we are, we might have parents still living, or if we're younger and have lucky DNA, we might even have a grandparent or two.

Type up your information, save the file and print it out. Make copies and hand them out to as many of your relatives as you can.

You might look at the generations after you and think they won't be interested in their ancestry. You'll probably be wrong. One of them, maybe years from now, will start to wonder ... and your information will be there.

Don't wait.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

"Golf is deceptively simple and endlessly complicated," according to famed linksman Arnold Palmer. The legendary medalist earned the nickname, The King of Golf, for his prowess on the fairways and proof of his skill are the 21 holes-in-one with which he is credited, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. West Virginian Rocco Figaretti has only one hole-in-one under his belt, but he has plenty of time ahead of him to rack up his share of aces. The four-year-old amazed onlookers at Oglebay Park in Wheeling, WV recently with his skill and dedication; his dad, Mario, remarked that "to say I'm proud would be an understatement." The boy wonder has been playing since he was three and, obviously, spends a great deal of his time practicing.

THE PRICE IS RIGHT

What would you be willing to pay for a pair of 35-year-old used sneakers? The folks at Christie's, the auction house, got $615,000 when the sneakers Michael Jordan wore in 1985 were put up for sale, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. After all, they were apparently only worn once during an exhibition game in Trieste, Italy. And, as Christie's described the kicks, they are "a one-of-a-kind Michael Jordan artifact." What also made the shoes special is the shard of glass embedded in the sole as a result of Jordan's shattering a glass backboard during the game.

A HAPPY ENDING

A three-year-old girl was swept up by the tail of a giant kite during a festival recently in Taiwan, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. The 30-second nightmare ended happily when control of the kite was regained and it was slowly pulled back down to earth. The toddler suffered only minor injuries but appeared shaken by the buffeting winds as she hung entangled at the end of the kite's long orange streamer

GO FIGURE

Identical twin sisters, Brittany and Briana Deane, met a pair of identical twin brothers, Joshua and Jeremy Salyers, at a Twins Day festival in 2017. The festival is an annual event that takes place in the town of Twinsburg, OH of course. A year later the foursome returned to Twinsburg where Briana married Jeremy and Brittany married Joshua and now, two years later, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC], Brittany and Briana have announced that they are pregnant. They posted the news on their joint Instagram account, noting that "Our children will not only be cousins, but full genetic siblings and quaternary multiples!"

SHE'S A REGULAR 'WHIZ KID'

Quick: spell "amazing" backwards. Pal Onnen of Hastings, MN can do it in little more than one second, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. In fact, she recently earned the new Guinness World Record for spelling 56 words backwards in just one minute. Oh yeah, she can also pronounce words from back to front and is a veritable speed demon when it comes to reciting the alphabet backwards. And, that is truly "gnizama," as she would say. Want to see her do it? Check her out at: www.youtube.com/watch?v=4yhzu9IBOG8.

HE HAD A HUNCH

Some lottery players have a system they've devised to "beat the system" and some simply play the game on a "hunch." But would you risk putting all your eggs in one basket, so to speak, and purchase 25 "pick 4" tickets using the same numbers? The Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC] reports that Raymond Harrington did just that while shopping at a Virginia Beach, VA supermarket recently. His gambit payed off, big time, when the four numbers he chose, 4640, paid off and each of the 25 tickets gave him a return on his dollar-a-ticket gamble of $5,000 for a total of $125,000. As he put it, "Something just told me to play 25 times."
