Rails becomes artists' studio for the evening

Rails is a new restaurant with a bar in the old Grand Trunk Station on Lincoln Street in Lewiston. On a recent Wednesday evening, it also became a bustling artists' studio as Melanie Therrien of Wick- ed Illustrations led a group of budding artists through the process of creating dramatic interpretations of "A Dark and Stormy Night."

The eighteen artists sat in close quarters in a corner of the dining room, laughing and chatting their way from blank canvases to finished masterpieces.

Although mostly women, the group also included a couple of husbands and two teenagers.

Among the participants was Claire Dick, who owns Rails with her husband, Steve. She said this was her first time putting a brush to canvas. She brought along her granddaughter, Sydney Dick, who came along because she "loves doing art."

Also among the painters was Sharon White, the General Manager of Rails. White, who had also never

The Ark becomes Olive Branch Café

Tucked away at 791 Lisbon Street on the south side of Lewiston is a hidden oasis of health, healing and sustenance. In 2013, a small vegan café called The Ark opened in the former Pizza Hut building there with a mission to provide delicious, wholesome and affordable meals to a population craving a healthier dining experience. In the next two years, word spread and people from across New England came to visit the restaurant on its three open days each week to sample its healthy and delicious offerings.

Now under a new management team, the restaurant will celebrate its new name and expanded weekly schedule with a Grand Opening on Sunday, March 6 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. While the building and menu have received a facelift, the restaurant's mission has remained the same: "We are a faith-based, grass roots movement dedicated to enriching the lives of others through building communities that are healthy and whole - physically, mentally, emotionally, and spiritually," said new Director, Tony Cuffori.

The Olive Branch Café is open Sunday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Fridays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. On Sundays, both breakfast and lunch are served, with breakfast pizzas, burritos, waffles, and oatmeal cited as customer favorites. Each dish on the menu, whether the cheezecake, quesadilla, soup, or Chickless, is free from GMO's and served with love. The restaurant's lunchtime hours leave the building free in the evenings to host health lectures, cooking classes, Bible studies and herbal remedy workshops.

"The restaurant is a non-profit, and the money it makes, along with donations from generous supporters, allows us to provide most of our classes free of charge," added Cuffori. "Educating the community to make more informed choices is a big part of why we are here. We want to feed the whole person."

The entire staff is committed to serving wholesome food in a positive environment that nourishes the whole body. They believe that lifestyle changes, such as eating a whole-food, plant-based diet, can help remedy a host of health problems ranging from Diabetes to heart disease. Each member of the staff has undergone a personal health journey and is eager to help others embark on their own. "You're more than a customer to me," said Kitchen Manager Gina Knowles. "You're a new friend."

Mechanics Savings donates $1,500 to AHCH

AHCH Development Coordinator Teri Blaschke receives a $1,500 check from MSB employees (l. to r.) Kristina Cote, Terri Cook, and Jeff Gosselin. Cote and Cook participate in the Hospice House 5K each year, while Gosselin serves on the AHCH Board of Directors as a Member at Large Officer and Foundation Committee member.

Mechanics Savings Bank has donated $1,500 to Androscoggin Home Care & Hospice to support the agency's home care services and Hospice House. This year, the bank will once again sponsor the agency's Hospice House 5K & Remembrance Walk, to be held on May 15, as well as its annual Holiday Remembrance Ornament fundraiser.

"As we celebrate our 50th anniversary this year, we're proud to continue our partnership with Mechanics Savings Bank in support of the work we do in caring for the health, independence, and quality of life of Maine residents and their families," said AHCH Development

Coordinator Teri Blaschke. "It's only due to generous support from community members and businesses like Mechanics Savings Bank that we are able to provide home care and hospice services to all who need it."

With branches in Auburn, Lewiston, Brunswick, and Windham, Mechanics Savings Bank is a full-service community bank committed to giving back to the communities it serves, providing over $1 million in charitable giving to local causes over the past decade. Mechanics Savings Bank is an Equal Housing Lender and Member FDIC. For more information, see www.mechanicssavings.com.

MainStreet Foundation adds new board members

Lacey Gammon and Dennis Lajoie

Androscoggin Bank's MainStreet Foundation has added Lacey Gammon and Dennis Lajoie to its Board of Directors.

Gammon is a Loan Operations Representative at Androscoggin Bank, having previously served as a Marketing Assistant and Administrator for the Foundation. She is actively involved within the bank, currently serving as Greater Giving Administrator and as a member of numerous committees, including the Innovation Team, BIG (Business Intelligence Group) and the Wellness Committee. Prior to joining Androscoggin Bank, she was a Business Development Coordinator at Sunday River Rentals. She holds a Master's degree in Community and Economic Development from Southern

New Hampshire University and is a resident of Hebron.

The MainStreet Foundation is Androscoggin Bank's $1,000,000 Foundation with a mission that is simple, focused and essential: to help keep at-risk kids in Maine safe, healthy, active, happy, educated, and nourished. Four times a year, MainStreet Foundation makes grants up to $5,000 to excellent non-profit agencies actively working in our communities to help kids thrive. These grants vary based on the need and typically exceed a total of $50,000 per year.

In 2011, Androscoggin Bank pledged to donate $100k to the MainStreet Foundation in honor of outgoing Bank President Steven A. Closson. With this gift, MainStreet is able to offer four $25k individual grants - one in each year starting in November of 2013. The winner of the $25K for Kids Award for 2015 was Longley Elementary School in Lewiston.

Headquartered in Lewiston since 1870, Androscoggin Bank is dedicated to serving the communities of Maine by moving residents, businesses, and communities forward with smarter banking. Androscoggin Bank is Member FDIC.

Governor's Address: Democrats Must Stop the Spending Spree and Learn how to be Fiscally Responsible Living within a budget takes discipline and good fiscal management.

Dear Maine Taxpayer, Mainers understand how to live within their means. Unfortunately, socialist democrats do not understand the meaning of fiscal management. We all remember last year's Christmas in July scandal when they spent $300 million more than was needed in the two-year budget. We aren't even a full year into that budget and they are already coming back to the trough to spend more forecasted money that hasn't even come in yet.

Fiscal discipline is important in government to improve and sustain economic vitality.

Since I have been in office, state agencies have worked hard to live within the budget the Legislature creates. Previous administrations made it a habit to ask for additional money in between budget years; however, our administration has stopped that practice.

Moody's Investors Service, a leading provider of global credit benchmarks, has affirmed their credit rating on the State of Maine's general obligation debt to a 'Aa2' rating while improving their outlook on Maine's debt from negative to stable.

According to Moody's, "The stable outlook reflects their expectation of revenue stability going forward and the state's adequate flexibility to manage spending pressures."

Governor Paul R. LePage

If there is one lesson to take away from the Moody's rating, it is that Republican reforms are working for Maine. It was Republican efforts to repay our hospitals, reform the public pension system, and maintain the balance of the budget stabilization fund, also known as the Rainy Day Fund that led Moody's to improve their outlook for our state.

Good public policy strengthens the economy and it's reflected in the latest revenue projections. Experts say millions will be available in the coming months. That money should go right into the Rainy Day Fund, where it can protect the State from a future economic downturn. The State's current balance would only fund state operations for 8.5 days in the event of a catastrophic event. The Boston Federal Reserve has recommended that we need 30 to 40 days to improve our state's financial strength.

But, Democrats are trying to steal that money. They want to use those taxpayer dollars to create what they call a "supplemental budget," which is nothing more than saying their $300 million spending spree wasn't enough. They want to spend more money on things we don't need.

Not only do they want to spend every dollar that's projected to come in, they also want to raid over 20% of the Budget Stabilization Fund to send more money to ballooning school budgets, money that they are using as ransom for providing tax relief to small businesses in Maine. This $23 million would be a windfall for runaway state education spending, which has already increased by $80 million over the last budget.

And finally, stealing money out of the rainy day fund would again jeopardize the state's credit rating, which we have worked hard to improve. The amount they propose to spend would fund nearly 2 full days of state government operations, bringing us 2 days closer to financial collapse.

Bad fiscal management leads to out of control spending, persistent deficits, rising debt levels and ultimately a bad credit rating for the state. Socialist democrats must stop the spending spree.

We need the political fortitude to be fiscally responsible. It's not only the right thing to do; it's the will of the Maine people.

*Thank You,
Paul R. LePage
Governor*

City council, school committee need input on budget from citizens

By Jonathan P. LaBonté

MAYOR OF AUBURN

With a couple of months under their belts, the elected city council and school committee members are now heading into the most important time of the year: budget season. Given the short terms of office, the budget under development now is the only budget these elected officials will be able to manage to completion.

That's a lot of pressure for volunteers who may have never served in such a role. While I'm confident members of both boards are committed to the process and doing what's best for the city, it does raise the continual issue of length of terms and the impact of not having staggered terms of office in Auburn. Maybe it's time for Auburn to revisit its charter, since it has been more than 10 years since the last review, but we will save that for another report.

So what can we expect as part of the budget process this year? Well, it's safe to say there won't be enough money for every project or "priority" to be funded. As they say, if everything is a priority you don't have priorities.

Over the last month as we hosted neighborhood conversations, we've learned a lot about the challenges in our neighborhoods, but also about the success stories in being creative with limited resources. I was very impressed by the work of our local principals and their parent volunteers in finding partners and dollars outside of city government to meet needs. This is not to downplay our need to invest properly in education, but their efforts should be recognized.

Challenges in the classroom, including a large number of students changing schools during the year, as well as facing the struggle of poverty, plays out on the city side of the ledger in that our in-town neighborhoods continue to lose real estate value. As has been reported during workshops on the Neighborhood Revitalization Unit proposed by the Auburn Police Department, the last 10 years have seen a loss of close to 5% of property value.

As the city council has ramped up its questions on the new police department unit, it's become clear that ramping up the police presence in our neighborhoods isn't the pathway to reinvestment and growth. And the lack of focus on engaging with property owners proactively and the slow business development efforts has consequences. For a city that depends mostly on revenues generated by property value growth to fund services, declining values drives up taxes for business owners and those in other neighborhoods.

getting involved early to share where they see the priorities for city and school spending.

With a city ordinance that caps property tax increases to no more than the rate of inflation, unless overridden by a super majority of city councilors, there will be decisions on whether to look at non-property tax revenues to make up the difference or to cut spending in other areas.

With input from citizens, our city council and school committee should be able to identify the areas most important for investment to grow Auburn and to keep and attract families here. From those priorities, re-allocating resources will be the hard work.

Your input is needed more so now than in May and June, when most of the research and new ideas have been vetted and voted up or down. Please consider taking the time to reach out to your school committee member and city councilor to share your priorities.

Not sure who your elected officials are? Feel free to drop me a note at jlabonte@auburnmaine.gov and include your address with the email. I will quickly send it to those representing your ward.

So with property tax revenues likely to be flat, and a known reduction in state education subsidies due to rising special education costs, the budget process will be a difficult test for all. And it will require residents

Political polls, Supreme Court appointment and funding our schools

By Robert E. Macdonald

MAYOR OF LEWISTON

Is there anything newsworthy happening in our community, state, country or the world besides political polls? Every day the numbers change.

Twenty different polls have twenty different results. Does anybody, besides political junkies and insiders care? Thank God for the comedy channel.

The death of distinguished Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia is a great loss to the republic. His death is being symbolically marked with flags at half-staff, black bunting around the Capitol and instead of solemn remembrance of his life, both political parties are treating his death like a Hanna Barbera cartoon.

They are squabbling about a replacement instead of reflecting on Scalia's distinguished life. It does, however, show voters why our Nation faces the problems it does.

But as juvenile as our elected officials act, don't be lulled into thinking Scalia's death is a minor issue—it's not! To make it easy for the average person to understand, let's use the headlines in the Lewiston Sun Journal on February 16, "Kids Say 'No to Naps.'" If you believe the kids should be dictating to the adults, then your position is the same position as President Obama and the

Mayor Bob Macdonald

If you think the adults should be in charge, then you side with most Republicans and want the next Supreme Court appointment made by the next President.

Two weeks ago at our bi-weekly meeting of the Mayors' Coalition in Augusta, a representative from the Maine Educational Association (Maine teachers' union) came to the meeting to pitch and seek our support for an upcoming ballot initiative to be voted on in November. "An Act To Establish The Fund To Advance Public Kindergartens To Grade Twelve Education" would place a 3% surcharge on all personal income in excess of $200,000.

For example, if a person made $201,000, they would pay a surcharge tax of 3% on the additional dollars above $200,000, which would result in a $30 tax increase.

This money would be placed into a special fund that would be used to assure that the obligation, already set by law, requiring the State to fund schools at 55% is met. This year the State is funding schools at 47.54%, thus making the Legislature in violation of their own law.

The 70-member Legislative Policy Committee of the Maine Municipal Association reviewed this initiative and were skeptical "that the legislation would implement the school financing elements of the initiative in a manner fully faithful with its terms." They then came down with a strong vote against the initiative. The primary reason: "The taxation component of this initiative cannot be characterized as comprehensive, balanced or three-dimensional reform."

I would advise readers to Google and carefully read this initiative. It has the potential of being implemented in ways contrary to how it is being touted and could open the door to some creative accounting.

Lastly, if the initiative should pass, perhaps our Progressive political leaders could persuade the Clintons and Secretary of State John Kerry to become citizens of Maine. The 3% levied on anything over $200,000 on their paychecks could allow us to fund the schools at 100%.

one student chose dark reds and blacks instead of blue for the sky. Another decided to use far more black than blue for the sky, creating a much more dramatic feel to the painting.

painted before, said the restaurant asked Wicked Illustrations to bring a class to their building because they want to support local companies. She is looking forward to future painting events at Rails on the third Wednesday of each month. She says those attending shouldn't expect to do a canvas at every session; for instance, next month's artists will get to try painting on wineglasses with special alcohol ink that sticks to non-porous surfaces like glass and tile.

The artists pay for the classes and can purchase food and drinks from the restaurant to be served at their work areas. Rails offers a menu of dishes created from foods sourced from small local farms.

Therrien said she brought the art class to Rails because she likes to network with other businesses, something she's been doing since she opened Wicked Illustrations, a studio and gallery on Canal Street in Lewiston, in 2007. She doesn't feel the need to limit a class to a certain level of ability. "I can lead them through the process of creating the painting," she said. "They're all going to turn out gorgeous."

Students were presented with canvases wrapped on wooden frames and standing on easels. They put on painters' aprons as Therrien went from artist to artist, passing out a selection of brushes, containers of water and cloth towels. Students then passed around bottles of black, blue, red and white acrylic paint that they squirted onto paper plate palettes.

paint in thin coats, since it could take up to 30 minutes for a thick application to dry. "I spend my life waiting for paint to dry," she joked. While she usually mixes paint directly on the canvas, she told students they could mix it on their palettes.

Therrien then displayed a finished example of the "Stormy Night" painting for students to use as a reference. She started the class by having the artists use a broad brush to paint in a dark blue sky, with some black mixed in. Then she showed them how to use a toothbrush to create stars in the sky. They dipped their toothbrushes in the water, shook them off, and dipped them in white. Holding their brushes upright, each then used a finger to flick paint from the bristles to the canvas.

"You might get some shooting stars, so be careful of your neighbor!" she warned. Sure enough, a gale of laughter erupted as one student wiped streaks of paint from her face.

The artists worked in steps, starting with the sky, adding the stars, then painting in a moon, some clouds, and eventually the ground and trees. They had to wait about 10 minutes between each step to allow the paint to dry. They learned that pulling up paint with their brush when they began painting the next layer meant that the previous layer still needed time to dry.

Therrien told students they could fix any mistakes by making a cloud or a tree. Demonstrating how to make clouds, she had students take a mop brush, tap it lightly in the white, then "tap, tap, tap" to create the clouds. "It's a great way to take out your frustrations," she said, noting that painting is very therapeutic.

Anyone "who's looking for something different, who likes art," should come to Rails for these classes, she said. "It's a good place to try it out without buying all the supplies." If they like it, then

Androscoggin Tax & Accounting opens in Auburn

Spaulding says he located his new office in downtown Auburn for the convenience of his customers and to support what the area has to offer.

Michael G. Spaulding, CPA has opened Androscoggin Tax & Accounting, LLC at 84 Main Street, Suite 207, in Auburn. After practicing accountancy in the Lewiston-Auburn area for the last 27 years, including being a shareholder in another local firm, Spaulding decided to branch out on his own by opening his own firm.

"I am in love with the idea of this new venture, especially when it comes to being able to assist my clients with all their accounting and planning needs," says Spaulding. "I picked this historic location in downtown Auburn for the convenience of my clientele and also to make sure we keep our downtown areas alive with businesses and people enjoying what these areas have to offer."

Spaulding, who received his B.S. in accounting from the University of Southern Maine, specializes in income tax preparation, consulting and planning for small businesses, individuals, trusts, and estates. His particular expertise is working with construction companies, retail businesses and wholesale establishments.

Spaulding, who lives in Lewiston, has four grown children and is very active in the community. He has served on committees and the boards of many organizations. Currently he serves as a board member for R.A.F.T.S in Lewiston, teaches martial arts to area youth and, as an Army veteran, serves as Financial Officer for the Alden M. Gayton American Legion Post 31 of Auburn.

For more information on the services of Androscoggin Tax & Accounting, LLC, call 782-1040 or 782-1606 or email androstax@outlook.com.

Amanda Wilson

The Beauty Bar Salon & Spa has added Amanda Wilson to its team of beauty professionals. A cosmetologist with over 14 years of experience, Wilson is color-certified and has extensive experience with hair cutting techniques, razor cuts, and men's and children's cuts. She also enjoys giving manicures and pedicures. She is a graduate of Mr. Bernard's School of Hair Fashion.

Wilson resides in Buckfield with her husband, Jamie, and their three sons. She invites her existing and new clients to visit the Beauty Bar, a full-service salon and spa located at 20 Union Street in Auburn, to experience the services it has to offer. "With her positive and enthusiastic attitude, coupled with her passion for the industry, I knew Amanda would be a great addition to our amazing team," said owner Christine Laliberte.

Senior College announces spring 2016 courses

The Senior College program at the University of Southern Maine's Lewiston-Auburn College will offer 23 courses in the spring semester, March to May 2016.

Now in its 18th year, the program's upcoming semester will feature both new and continuation courses, ranging from French and Spanish language studies, genealogy, art appreciation, investments and economics, drama participation, religious history and spirituality, women's history, as well as others described below.

Open to everyone age 50 and older, the courses will be presented by peers, with no entrance requirements, grades or tests. An annual Senior College membership fee of $25, valid from September 1, 2015 through August 31, 2016, is required. Members who attend a course will have access to the campus library and computer lab. A perk to membership is free Senior College one day winter courses.

The course fees, which include the cost of most books and materials, are $25 each for the first two courses and then $10 for each additional course. All classes are held during the day at L-A College, 51 Westminster St., except as noted below. The 2016 spring semester course offerings are as follows:

"Food and Culture": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 6 Mondays, March 28 to May 2. This course by Mark Silber, Ph.D., examines how food reflects significant issues facing us today, connecting us to many aspects of human existence, including health, culture, and social justice.

"Drama, Its History Through Participation": 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. for 6 Mondays, March 28 to May 2. In this course the history of Drama will be demonstrated by student class activities. Instructor Hugh Keene was the drama coach at Edward Little H.S., producing over 65 plays and musicals.

"Modern Vietnamese Fiction and Film": 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. for 6 Mondays, March 28 to May 2, at SeniorsPlus in Lewiston. This course will sample the Vietnamese government's 1985 loosening of restrictions as it began the reprivatization of land and business while keeping political power. Instructor Bill Hiss teaches Asian Studies at Bates College and has visited post-war Vietnam.

"New England Folk Dance: The French Connection": 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. for 6 Mondays, March 28 to May 9, at Callahan Hall, Lew. Public Library. This course will introduce students to the evolution and basics of traditional New England contra dancing as well as a variety of French Canadian social dances. Instructor Cindy Larock has taught folk and ballroom dance at Bates College and holds a M.A. in Theatre Education.

"Special Destinations": 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. for 6 Tuesdays, March 29 to May 3. This popular group travel course visits historical sites, places of business, and museums. Instructor Dorothy Rupert is a retired teacher and has guided numerous trips for Senior College.

"Intermediate French": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 8 Tuesdays, March 29 to May 17. This continuing course is for those who already have some skills in French and interested in acquiring additional fluency. Instructor Ann Anctil earned a M.A. in French and is bilingual in both Canadian and standard French.

"An Introduction to the Study of Religion": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 8 Tuesdays, March 29 to May 17, at Schooner Estates in Auburn. This course will examine the academic disciplines of religious studies, and the ways manifestations of religion have been studied by scholars and scientists. Instructor Charles W. Plummer, Ph.D., has taught many courses for Senior College.

"History of Futures and Commodities Trading": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 6 Tuesdays, April 12 to May 17. The latest course of instructor Andrew Saucier's series on understanding investments will relate the history of Chicago's commodities exchanges, ranging from grain and cattle to currencies and carbon.

"Badly Behaved Women": 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. for 6 Tuesdays, March 22 to April 26. This repeat course from Fall 2015 examines the history of a group of European women, some well-known, others not so well-known, but all notable for their outstanding lives. Instructor Christine Holden, Ph.D., originated courses in European and U.S. Women's History at USM.

"Jubilados: Platicando y Practicando": 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. for 8 Tuesdays, March 22 to May 17. This advanced Spanish course will increase vocabulary and refine grammatical skills using previous texts. Instructor Barbara Oliver has studied in Madrid and has taught Foreign Language Methodology.

"Creating Paper Art": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 6 Wednesdays, March 30 to May 4. This course will explore paper sculpture. Hand cut and layer paper using patterns and templates provided. No experience needed, just follow your imagination. Instructor Karen Brooks is a member of the Paper Artist Collective.

"Exploring Spirituality": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 6 Wednesdays, March 30 to May 4. The importance of spirituality in the well-being of seniors will be addressed in this course. Instructor Marguerite Stapleton has created and led retreats, workshops and conferences in helping men and women uncover the depth of their spirituality.

"Humanity: A Search for Meaning and Identity": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 6 Wednesdays, March 30 to May 4. The attempts at creating a new/better civilization is the basis for this course which will discuss and analyze the novel, "Lord of the Flies", by William Golding. Instructor George Blouin has over 30 years of teaching English, speech and drama.

"Great Decisions Discussions 2016": 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. for 6 Wednesdays, March 30 to May 4. Based on the Foreign Policy Association program, this course encourages debate and discussion of important global issues to reach informed opinions. Discussion leaders are Patricia Vampatella, past Chair of the Senior College Board, and Marty Gagnon, Adult Services Manager at the Auburn Public Library.

"Capitol Hill": 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. for 6 Wednesdays, March 30 to May 4. The Legislative branch of our Federal Government will be studied, from its constitutional inception to the present. Instructor Crystal Ward taught American Government at Lewiston High School.

"Advanced Conversational French": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 8 Thursdays,

March 31 to May 19. This course is for students already well versed in French who want to further improve their speaking skills. Instructor Ann Anctil earned a M.A. in French and is bilingual in Canadian French and standard French.

"Greek and Roman Mythology": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 8 Thursdays, March 31 to May 19. This course will provide answers to old and new questions about early European mythology with a tongue in cheek presentation. Veteran instructor Alan Elze has taught over 24 courses covering a wide range of subjects for Senior College.

"Maine Artists You May Not Know": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 6 Thursdays, March 31 to May 5. This course will introduce and review many outstanding artists from Maine who have not received the attention they deserve. Instructor Kirsten Larsson-Turley has extensive experience as a senior docent at several Maine museums.

"Spanish, Step 2": 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. for 6 Fridays, April 8 to May 20. This continuation course will provide

GOP Presidential caucuses are

The Maine GOP has announced caucus sites and schedules on Saturday, March 5 for 14 of Maine's 16 counties, including Androscoggin County. Sites and schedules for all counties, with a listing of all municipalities participating at each site, is available at mainegop.com/caucus.

There will be one Caucus Site in Androscoggin County on Saturday, March 5: Lewiston Middle School, 75 Central Avenue, Lewiston. The caucus includes Republicans from all municipalities in Androscoggin County: Auburn, Durham, Greene, Leeds, Lewiston, Lisbon, Livermore, Liver-more Falls, Mechanic Falls, Minot, Poland, Sabattus, Turner and Wales.

Doors open at noon, when registration begins for new voters and those who wish to change their enrollment.

Municipal organizational caucuses begin and Presidential Vote opens at 1 p.m. Presidential Speakers begin at 2 p.m.

Other speakers will begin at 3 p.m., and caucuses will complete any unfinished business. The Presidential vote closes at 4 p.m., when the ballot count begins.

Voters must present a photo ID to vote in the Presidential Nominating Caucus. All attendees will have their names checked to the current voter rolls.

The caucus site will have a one-hour voter registration/enrollment period for voters who are currently registered as "unenrolled." Those who are not registered to vote will have an opportunity to join the Republican party and vote.

Registered independents (known as "unenrolled" voters), who believe in economic growth, individual freedom, peace through strength, welfare reform and common-sense values, are encouraged to become a Republican and participate.

The Maine Republican Party strongly encourages all participants to listen to speeches given for Presidential candidates before casting a Presidential ballot. If voters cannot attend for the speech portion of the caucus, but must cast a ballot and leave, they will be allowed to do so.

Municipal organizing caucuses will also take place. These caucuses will allow all Republicans to organize at the municipal level and help develop a robust Republican presence for the 2016 Elections.

Active duty, dependents, National Guard members and disabled veterans are allowed to cast an absentee ballot for the caucus: <http://www.mainegop.com/vetvote/>.

For full details on the caucus, please visit the website www.mainegop.com/caucus.

Franco Center presents "Bandstand to Billboard"

The widely-acclaimed show "From Bandstand to Billboard," a fun and sometimes romantic collection of 1950s, 60s and 70s hits from Billboard Magazine and American Bandstand, will make a local appearance at the Gendron Franco Center on Saturday, February 27 at 7:30 p.m.

Presented by the cast of last summer's popular musical revue at Poland Spring Inn and last year's "Welcome to the Sixties" show at the Franco Center, Bandstand to Billboard will feature local singers and actors Renee Mahon Davis, Eileen M. Messina, Kay Warren, Gerry Therrien and Michael James Litchfield. The singers will be accompanied by a big band orchestra under the direction of pianist Paul G. Caron and featuring Michael French on guitar and vocals, Patrick Buzzo on bass, Jeremy Turner on drums, Michael Plossey and Michael Truchon on trumpet, Bruce Theriault on trombone, and acclaimed musician Blaise Spath on reeds. The ensemble includes some of Community Little Theatre's most talented performers who collectively have appeared in scores of productions.

The theme of the show is "Doo-Wop to Disco." "As the country went through major changes in this time period, we looked towards music and entertainment to see us through," said Mitchell Clyde Thomas, the Center's executive director and announcer for the show. "Big Bands and vocalists gave way to Rock 'n Roll and the Golden Age of Country, Folk, Psychedelic Rock, and the rise and fall of Disco. We are so happy to welcome back this talented ensemble for a night of great entertainment."

Tickets are $12 for adults and $10 for seniors 60+. Students will be admitted free of charge. The Dolard and Priscilla Gendron Franco Center is wheelchair accessible. For more information or to purchase tickets, call 689-2000, visit the Box Office Monday through Friday from noon to 4 p.m., or see www.francocenter.org.

Mitchell Rasor, RLA, CLARB

The Maine Downtown Center will present a Maine Downtown Institute focusing on healthy communities on Wednesday, March 2 at the MTM Center in Lisbon. The event will feature a presentation from 8:30 to 10:15 a.m. by landscape architect Mitchell Rasor, RLA, CLARB, called "The Ecology of Streets: Designing and Planning Communities for Social, Environmental and Economic Health."

Mitchell is the Principal of MRLD Landscape Architecture + Urbanism, based in Yarmouth. He has over 20 years of experience designing places, with a particular focus on integrating economics, land use policy, mobility options and the built environment. His current and recent projects include the Auburn Village Center Downtown Study, Portland's Bayside Transportation Master Plan, Rockland's Winter Street Shared Space Re-design, and the Biddeford Square Shared Street Space Design. MRLD won the Maine Association of Planners' 2014 Plan of the Year award for its North Windham 21st Century Downtown Plan.

Museum offers family printmaking workshop

The Bates College Museum of Art will present a family printmaking workshop on Monday, March 7, from 3 to 5 p.m. Working together under the guidance of museum staff, parents and children will sample various approaches to relief printmaking and will make artworks to take home. Participants may also view the museum's current exhibitions, including the print-oriented "The Art of Occupy: The Occuprint Portfolio."

The workshop will begin in the museum at 75 Russell Street and move to the nearby Benjamin Mays Center at 95 Russell Street. Ample parking is available. The cost will be $5 per person. Space is limited and registration is required. To make reservations, contact Anne Odom at 786-8212 or aodom@bates.edu.

"Day and Night," a 2011 poster by the Little Hamilton Collective Press, Nashville, is among the many prints now on display as part of the museum's "Art of Occupy" exhibit.

Anne Odom at 786-8212 or aodom@bates.edu.

"We want to show families that they can explore printmaking techniques with materials they have at home," said Anthony Shostak, education curator at the museum. "They'll not only have the satisfaction of learning to work in an art form, but will gain a greater appreciation for art that they'll encounter throughout their lives."

Bates senior Hannah Gottlieb, education intern at the museum, is the workshop organizer. "While students will learn about different printmaking techniques, I'm enriching my education studies minor by learning how to plan and run exciting events that allow the museum to work directly with the community."

This program supports "The Art of Occupy" exhibit, now on display at the museum through March 26. The exhibit showcases more than 30 commissioned posters promoting the Occupy movement.

Comedy Fix XXIX to feature Greg Boggis

Boggis makes a return Comedy Fix appearance on Friday, February 26.

Twenty-year comedy veteran Greg Boggis of Milford, NH will highlight Comedy Fix XXIX, a stand-up comedy fundraiser for Greater Androscoggin Humane Society. The show will take place on Friday, February 26 at 7:30 p.m. at Sapphire (formerly Club Texas), 150 Center Street in Auburn. Those attending are encouraged to bring donations of pet food and supplies.

Comedy Fix founder and host Mark Turcotte will also welcome Zenobia Del Mar, Nathan Burke, Ryan Chani and Ray Bryant. All net proceeds from the show will benefit GAHS, which is committed to using its resources to provide the best possible care for stray, abandoned and abused animals. Comedy Fix has raised $542 for GAHS through two shows to date.

Host of his own television show, The Boggis Hour, Greg Boggis has taken his casual blend of current events and unique observations to comedy clubs, colleges, benefits and corporate shows across the country. This will be his third appearance at Comedy Fix. Zenobia Del Mar has performed in New York, Los Angeles and Las Vegas. Nathan Burke was a recent comic-in-residence at the Comedy Studio. Ryan Chani co-hosts the "Learn to Take a Joke" podcast, and Ray Bryant is quickly making a name for himself in the Boston comedy scene.

The show is for those ages 21 and older; doors will open at 7 p.m. General admission tickets are $10. They may be purchased at maineeventcomedy.com. For more information, call 513-0742 or e-mail maineeventcomedy@gmail.com.

Greater Androscoggin Humane Society takes in nearly 4,200 animals per year and spays or neuters every cat, kitten, dog, puppy and rabbit before adoption. For more information about how to support or volunteer at GAHS, see gahumane.org.

The cost to attend the presentation is $15 for members of Main Street Maine, the Maine Downtown Network and the Maine Development Foundation, or $20 for non-members.

Following the presentation, the Active Community Environment Work Group will lead a workshop from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. to help stakeholders plan vibrant community spaces for people of all ages and abilities to promote healthy lifestyles, social interaction, environmental quality and economic prosperity.

The workshop will include success stories, financial resources and active discussions and problem solving. Participants will leave with a better understanding of how to support their communities in becoming more active places to live, work and play. There is no charge to attend the workshop.

The MTM Center is located at 18 School Street in Lisbon. For more information or to register for the Institute, see www.mdf.org/events.php.

trip should arrive back in Lewiston around 4 p.m. The day's explorations will be led by Steve Reed. For more information, call him at 319-6630.

The Stanton Bird Club, which seeks to encourage both the enjoyment and protection of our natural surroundings, manages the Thorncrag Nature Sanctuary in Lewiston and the Woodbury Nature Sanctuary in Monmouth and Litchfield. For more information, see <http://stantonbirdclub.org>

Maine Home Show set for March 19 & 20

Now in its fifth year, the 2016 Maine Home

Show will take place on Saturday and Sunday, March 19 and 20, at the Androscoggin Bank Colisee at 190 Birch Street in Lewiston. Saturday hours will be 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Sunday hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

According to show organizer Travis Dow, this year's show will be the biggest yet. "We've got a lot of exhibitors returning with exciting new products and services to unveil and display, as well as some new exhibitors to the show," he said. "We'll also see more alternative energy exhibits this year, along with emerging new technologies that may be new to some home owners." For more information, find them on Facebook or see MaineHomeShow.com.

WLU seeks prom gowns for annual giveaway

Last year, thanks to donations provided by local residents, the Woman's Literary Union of Androscoggin County was able to send 187 girls home from its annual Gown Giveaway with a free gown for their upcoming prom. The remaining gowns were divided between several high schools to distribute to students who were unable to attend the event.

With its collection of gowns now depleted, the Woman's Literary Union is again seeking donations of new or cleaned prom gowns for its third annual Fairy Godmother Prom Gown

Giveaway. Gowns and accessories may be dropped off at the following locations: Maine Gourmet Chocolates, 170 Main Street, Auburn; Top It Frozen Yogurt, 168 Main Street, Auburn; Student Success Center, USM's L-A College, 51 Westminster Street, Lewiston (Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.); 4 Seasons Farm Market, 9 Third Street, Auburn; and Turner Publishing, 5 Fern Street (corner of Route 4), Turner (Monday through Friday from 8 to 4:30 p.m.).

Open to girls attending a prom at any school, this
