Sunday Morning Positive Perks

from your Sassy Small Town Missus

THE GIFT OF UNANSWERED PRAYERS

We can all relate to that pit in the stomach feeling when it seems our prayers have fallen upon deaf ears. It is the subject of Garth Brooks' song, "Unanswered Prayers". How could this message possibly be Positive?. Let's think about this. How many times have you wished so hard for something to happen only to be disappointed when it doesn't? Sometimes we try to reason with a Higher Power to make things happen. If your wish is granted you will never ask for anything again. I think we all have tried to make that deal before. The last time I tried to make a deal with "The Highest Power" was when little Weezie's eyes started failing. I attempted to make a deal with God in order to save her sight. The outcome was not perfect and not what I prayed for, however this Unanswered Prayer allowed me to witness what resilience was by watching her adjust to her new normal. At a time when I was dealing with my own illness, her lack of sight afforded me much insight into how I could use her fighting little spirit as a beacon of inspiration and an example of what it means to martial on and never give up on living your best life, even when the odds seem insurmountable. She was meant to thrive and inspire and I was meant to be inspired. The lyric declares that just because you do not hear an answer from "above" does not mean they don't care. Many times the answer is in the unanswered. Maybe there is a lesson to be learned or a better path. Perhaps you have a dream for your future and you pray hard to make it happen. Many times it seems the prayer has gone unanswered, but it is possible it is leading you down a better path. It is that old saying "Everything happens for a reason". We may not always know the reason right away. That is where faith comes in. Faith that things will be as they should be. Current situations have all of us praying alot lately. Instead of praying for outcomes, it may be wiser to pray for patients and tolerance. Maybe you are trying to make a bargain because you or someone you love is suffering. Bargains are made out of desperation which we all feel at times. A bargain is a give and take kind of thing. Instead resolve to simply give because what you will take away will be priceless. The more you give, the more you open yourself up to hope. Only then can you be thankful for the gifts in your life and the possibilities. Look back at times in your life that you felt the world would end if circumstances did not go your way. The world did not end and I bet something special came out of it. It may not have even been tangible, but perhaps a change in mindset that led you on a better path. All too often some of God's greatest gifts are unanswered prayers. Here is Garth's song about his old high school flame, relatable to most.. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9GuA5PZx3K4>.

Thank You to our Amazing Community

To our friends and family in this community and beyond, we do not know where to even begin. As many of you know, our lives have been turned upside down this year. It has been a surreal time. Thankfully, our family is safe, which is absolutely the most important part of this whole experience. Besides the four of us, our oldest daughter Felicia and our four granddaughters were here from Alabama. As I looked out the window, as I do every morning, we were blessed that a piece of burning roof line fell in front of my face. We continue to attempt to keep all the "What if's" out of our minds.

We must begin with a special heartfelt thanks to all the first responders who came to our home early in the morning on June 20th. To the firefighters and police of Albion and surrounding towns, we cannot thank you enough for your heroic efforts to keep our family safe and for trying to limit the damage to our home. Unfortunately, everything inside is a total loss.

With regards to our community in general, we do not even know where to begin. From the neighbor across our street (whom we still do not know her name) who called 911, to all of you that attended our benefit; How can we express that amount of gratitude in words? Never in a million years did we think we would be on the receiving end of such generosity. It has been very humbling.

While devastated at the experience of a house fire will be etched as one of our childrens' biggest childhood memories, we are consoled by the fact that these incredible acts of kindness will likely be a much more vivid memory. It has been important for them to see all the goodness in the world in the middle of such a frightening time of uncertainty.

The compassion and generosity that has been shown to us started while the fire was still burning and continues each day. It has all been so very overwhelming. Friends brought us toothbrushes and clothing that day when we had not even processed the fact that we did not have ours anymore. People came with food, money, and support. They fed us, opened their homes, bought diapers for the babies, and sent messages to our social media. Most of all they simply sat with us, as our emotions ran rampant, and held our hands, while we watched our home go up in flames.

We certainly have a long road ahead, but it is so comforting knowing that we are not alone. We are eternally grateful for everything the community has done for us. It may be a while before we get a chance to acknowledge friends, family and first responders individually, but know that we have seen every text, listened to every voicemail, saw every social media post and read every card that has been sent. After much thought, we made the painful decision to sell our property and move in with my father. We loved our home and neighborhood and will miss it terribly as we start a new chapter in our lives.

What makes a house a home is the people inside and what makes a loving community is the spirit of all of you that have helped us through these challenging months. We will never forget the incredible support you have given us. From the bottom of our hearts, we thank you.

With love,

Angelo, Ondrea (Brakenbury), Eowyn & Maia Pate

Travel Thoughts By Kim

Let's go on an adventure together....to Kentucky!

I had several adventures in mind as I thought about this edition of "Travel Thoughts By Kim" and had pretty much decided on one in particular. But, a new friend suggested I check out a travel blog he enjoys – "Tennessee Crossroads" – and while I was skimming through it, it kept reminding me of my trip to Kentucky last year. Yeah, I know, it should have reminded me of Tennessee, right? Well, I've been to Tennessee a few times, but it has been many years ago, now so memories are a bit faded. I want to do a visit to Tennessee, again – in fact, I had considered a trip to the Memphis area this spring (I still have "cry on Elvis' grave" on my bucket list) and I had a trip to Nashville booked for this November. But, unfortunately, this year resulted in a lot of cancelled plans. So, Tennessee will have to wait. No, reading through that travel blog really got me reminiscing about my time in Kentucky, so that's what I want to share with you this time.

In 2019, I was able to spend time in the last three states that finished off my "visit all 50 states" bucket list item. Kentucky was my # 48.Colorado and New Mexico wrapped up the list in September and October. I went to Kentucky the last week in August. I thought it was going to be a "check the box" trip – didn't think there'd be much to do or see there. But, I was so wrong! It was a 5 day trip – two travel days and three full days to explore. In that time, I put 460 miles on my rental car and traveled another ~150 on a bus tour and still wished I had more time to do more! I absolutely loved Kentucky and everything I did while I was there. Let me try to condense all the wonderful things I crammed into three days into one short story for you all.

I decided to fly into Louisville as my base for the trip. I stayed at the Radisson, Louisville North in Clarksville, Indiana which is just across the Ohio River from Louisville. So, I drove across a huge bridge between Kentucky and Indiana over the Ohio River at least twice every day. Across the parking lot from the hotel was a dinner theater – Derby Dinner Playhouse. I checked out their web site and found their current production was "Million Dollar Quartet" – the story of the night of Dec 3, 1956 when Sam Phillips got Elvis Presley, Carl Perkins, Johnny Cash, and Jerry Lee Lewis together for the first and only time for a jam session and made Rock and Roll History at Sun Records. I was exhausted after a long day in airports, but couldn't resist – I went and saw a totally awesome live performance that blew me away!

Louisville, itself, didn't impress me much – it is a huge city with lots of traffic and a bit hard to get around. I'm not much of a big city kinda girl, so I was a bit out of my comfort zone, but that's OK – it was just the base for my exploration. I did do a little driving around the city with no particular goal in mind and found some cool things to look at – including a really cool historic water tower, Thomas Edison's home, and Louisville Slugger Field – all of which were great photo ops, but I didn't take the time to explore further. But, the rest of the trip.WOW!!!

Day one started with a stop at Cave Hill Cemetery right in the heart of downtown Louisville. It was really odd to find this huge and absolutely stunning park-like cemetery in the middle of a busy city. I love old cemeteries – especially ones with so much history, character, and beauty. Cave Hill didn't disappoint. Established in the mid-1800s, it has rolling hills, lakes, streams, abundance of nature, and lots and lots of stunning statues and memorials – some of the most unique and elaborate I've ever seen. It is also home of Louisville's National Cemetery for veterans. I planned to just do a quick drive through and find the two most famous residents – Colonel Sanders and Muhammad Ali – and move on to the next stop on my Day One Agenda, but it was all so gorgeous and there were so many photos I felt compelled to take, that I ended up spending over two hours there. I could have easily spent another couple hours if I didn't have admission tickets to the Ark Encounter to get to. If you're ever in or near Louisville, do yourself a favor and spend some time in Cave Hill Cemetery – you won't regret it. For now, be sure to click the link at the end of this article that will take you to my blog post with the photos I took – so amazing!

A grave monument at Cave Hill Cemetery in Louisville, KY – I'd love to know the story behind this one!

After my wonderful morning at Cave Hill Cemetery, I drove about an hour and a half to Williamstown, KY to visit the Ark Encounter. The Ark Encounter sits on 200 acres and is a 510 foot long, 85 foot wide, and 51 foot high replica of Noah's Ark with life-like exhibits of how life on the biblical ark would have been like. What an awesome experience. It was absolutely fascinating to go through and includes a small zoo with many of the animals that would have been on Noah's Ark. And, you can even ride an actual camel while you are there! Definitely a must see – but, don't cut your time short – it's an easy 4 or more hour visit. I didn't include the nearby Creation Museum – maybe on another trip.

Day two was devoted to an eight hour Bourbon Tour. It was an expensive tour – they pride themselves on small focused groups with detailed, informative tours and it was so worth the price. The tour I was on was in a large SUV with me and three young guys from Australia and the guide. We had so much fun – the guys treated me like their long-lost aunt – and I learned a lot about Kentucky and bourbon. I'm not a bourbon/whiskey drinker, but thought the distilleries would be interesting and how can you go to Kentucky without doing something along the Bourbon Trail? It was a wonderful tour and I actually got a new appreciation for bourbon. We traveled about 150 miles in eight hours and visited five distilleries (two unscheduled additions our guide made to make our tour a bit nicer) – Maker's Mark, Willett, Heaven Hill, Barton, and Jim Beam – and the day also included a nice lunch at a beautiful Country Club. I learned that "all bourbon is whiskey, but all whiskey is not bourbon" – there is a very strict list of requirements by law to be able to put the word "bourbon" on a whiskey label and that 95% of the world's bourbon is made in a triangle area in Kentucky that I toured that day. The distilleries were stunning and so interesting – I'm really glad I spent the day with my three new young friends from Australia tasting bourbon. Be sure to click on the link at the end of the article that takes you to the Bourbon Trail blog post for tons of information about Kentucky and the distilleries – so fascinating.

One of many Rickhouses at Willett Distillery – a rickhouse is the building where the aging process occurs at all the distilleries

I did a lot of driving and saw a ton of stuff on Day Three. I started out just down the street from my hotel in Clarksville, Indiana. I saw signs for Falls of the Ohio and, since I love waterfalls, I had to check it out. I discovered it wasn't a waterfall, after all. It was a series of rapids caused by lime stone tables along that section of the Ohio River resulting in the world's largest exposed fossil bed and it was awesome! The photos I took nowhere near do it justice.so beautiful! From there, I went to Churchill Downs where I took the walking tour and learned all about the history of the famous horse track – very interesting. I capped my time at the Downs with a stop in the bar for a Mint Julep – I was told it was against the law to go to Churchill Downs without having one, so.hahaha! It cost me $12 for the experience – I had a couple sips and left the rest. It was actually pretty good, but oh-so very strong and I had a long drive and day ahead of me, so thought it was best to just say I tried one and move on.

After Churchill Downs, I started out on a little over an hour and a half drive to Lexington with plans to go to the Kentucky Horse Park and whatever else grabbed my attention along the way. The first side trip that caught my eye was Frankfort – the capital of Kentucky. Frankfort is a lovely little town with an amazing capital building and the home of the original Bourbon Ball candy. I couldn't resist a stop at the Rebecca Ruth Candy Museum to get some of her historic Bourbon Balls and other sweet treats. It seems that Ruth Booe is the Mother of the Bourbon Ball and started a candy business with her friend, Rebecca, in 1919 and kept it going until 1964, when her son took over the business. Back on the road, I saw signs for Historic Georgetown and knew I had to check it out. It was a quaint little town with lots of charm and shops. I finally made it to Lexington and the Kentucky Horse Park, where I took a horse and buggy tour led by two gorgeous Clydesdale horses. Definitely worth the long drive. On the way back to Louisville, I found a highly recommended "hole in the wall" BBQ restaurant out in the middle of nowhere – Red State BBQ – and had the best beef brisket dinner I've ever had! For sure this place can be the poster child for "don't judge a book by the cover" and one you really should put on your "to do" list if in the Lexington area! Also, venturing out beyond Louisville gave me the joys of seeing the absolute beauty of the great state of Kentucky – rolling hills and miles and miles of horse farms, board fences, and the deepest blue grass I've ever seen in my life.

Mounted Police Horse named Albion in the Mounted Police exhibit at the Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington, KY

I really loved Kentucky and hope I can go back, someday, to see more of their gorgeous state. My only regret? Underestimating it and not planning more time while I was there.

TO ALL CONCERNED RESIDENTS OF BARRE:

In response to the application filed by Apex, the Board on Electric Generation Siting and the Environment sent them a letter identifying seventeen problems they had to fix before the application could move forward to formal consideration.

How can it be the case that a huge company like Apex, who employs many lawyers, submits an application so badly written that the Electric Generation Siting board finds seventeen deficiencies in it that have to be fixed before the application can even be considered? Don't all these lawyers between them have the competency to fill out an application? The experience Apex boasts of having in this area would suggest they shouldn't be making these mistakes.

We would like to explain and discuss the many problems with their application here for you to understand.

Problem 1) As part of the application Apex was supposed to submit a map that showed all properties that would contain a major component of electrical generating equipment or related equipment, and any other properties within 2,000 feet of those properties, properly labeled with the tax parcel number and owner of each property. However, the Maple St. and Oak Orchard Road parcel numbers are missing. Either it was left out deliberately, or they did shoddy research.

Problem 2) The application is supposed to include a map of the existing zoning districts and proposed zoning districts within the affected area of the project, including what is and isn't permitted in each zone. However, the map they submitted completely left out the Town of Barre in spite of the fact that we are the host of these proposed turbines. The application goes on to claim that Wind energy generation is allowed in any of the town's zoning districts as long as they have the correct permits, but they only identify the requirements for one of the three districts they mention Problem 3) The application has different widths listed for the access roads in the site plan drawings and the decommissioning plans creating an unresolved inconsistency. This is par for the course with Apex, whose proposals are typically not well defined or easy to understand.

Problem 4) The setbacks for turbines from occupied structures are inconsistent with the height of the turbines. This being one of the primary concerns of the residents of Barre, this should be very well laid out in the plans. Also, the setbacks should be from the property lines, and not from the edge of the occupied structures. The law states that nobody can build anything within the potential fall zone of the turbine which is twice its height or more. If someone else's turbine is on the edge of their land up against the edge of your land, then you will lose the right to build anything in the area where the windmill may fall. Once Apex has an agreement in place, they will request right of way permits, which will give them the right to use your land even if you do not have a turbine lease on your property.

Problem 5) The drawings in the application do not include the necessary local setbacks related to the proposed collection substation, Point of Interconnection switchyard, and Operations & Maintenance building. Was this omission deliberate to keep the people from realizing how close to their homes the high voltage equipment would be placed?

Problem 6) The citing board states that architectural drawings for the collector substation are missing the necessary elevation views throughout the application. Also, the application doesn't have architectural drawings for the POI (Point of interconnection) switchyard. Was this another deliberate omission?

Problem 7) The design drawings for underground and overhead power collection circuits contain NONE of the necessary details regarding Right of Way, limits of disturbance, anticipated depth and level of cover, clearing with limits for construction and operation of the facility and elevations for overhead facilities and transmission lines, structure layouts, span lengths and separation requirements. Right of way are usually requested after the signing of the agreement with the host community, therefore the town will grant right of way in order to keep the project going, which will leave residents who do not have a lease with Apex having no say over who can or cannot come on their property for the purposes of the project.

Problem 8) The citing board states that the application requires that the owners of record for all parcels included within the facility site and for all adjacent properties must be provided, but this was not done. Why were the names of the lease holders and the owners of adjacent properties left off? This is quite the omission and the idea that it is an accident is laughable.

Problem 9) The application requires that Apex must include the results of a literature review on any public health and safety concerns associated with potential 'blade throw' and tower collapse. The relevant exhibit (#15) in the application does not report on manufacturer recommendations or local requirements for this issue. How could one omit the manufacturer recommendations?

Problem 10) The application requires that Apex must include sound power level information from the manufacturers of the turbines, however this information was not included with the application. One of the primary concerns surrounding wind turbine projects is infra-sound, therefore this is an alarming omission.

Problem 11) The application requires that Apex must include the full Archeological Phase 1B report, which they failed to do. They only included a summary. Was this omitted because of the possibility of Indian grave sites?

Problem 12) The application requires that Apex must identify and evaluate reasonable mitigation measures regarding the impact of blasting and the use of alternative technologies or structures, and a plan for compensating people for damages that may occur from blasting. No alternate technologies were described and no plan for compensating individuals for blasting damage was described. The blasting locations were also not concisely described. A plan for compensating people for damages incurred by blasting is essential before any work can be allowed to begin.

Problem 13) The application requires a map, based on publicly available information, that shows all areas of the study that impact groundwater. However, the map supplied by Apex does not show groundwater flow direction as required. Their map is also required to be parcel-based for the purposes of showing the locations of public and private water supply wells, which it does not do. Without a properly conducted water flow study this could result in wells running dry or crops not getting enough water or the loss of wetlands Problem 14) The application requires that Apex identify the nearest downstream drinking-water supply intake to the facility site, or specifically state that they take the position that no surface water intakes would be adversely impact, which they did not do. We need a statement from Apex as to where they think the nearest drinking water supply intake is so that we as citizens can verify what they are telling us.

Problem 15) The application requires Apex to propose various ways of reducing the visual impact of construction on the area, including a simulation that illustrates how the mitigation will be prepared for the observation points where it is proposed to go in. Apex proposes to reduce the visual contrast with some form of perimeter plantings, but no simulation was provided for this planting so the board could not be clear on what they are proposing to do. We will need to see how Apex intends to reduce the visual impact of their construction before we can make an informed decision about their project and any potential damage to the native environment.

Problem 16) The application requires Apex to provide a summary of their consultations with relevant emergency service providers (first responders and helicopter rescue etc...), which they did not do. Why was a summary omitted? It is extremely important to establish that Apex is prepared to deal with emergency situations as they may arise. The turbines cannot simply be allowed to burn if a fire takes place because this could easily wipe out an entire field and endanger the surrounding residents.

Problem 17) The application requires Apex to list all of the requests they anticipate making to the Board for the purposes of their project. Apex states that they anticipate requesting the Siting Board to authorize NYSDOT to issue "over-sized vehicle permits, highway work permits, and other ministerial permits associated with road work in State highways or rights-of-ways." However, this statement in the application does not clearly state what exactly Apex intends to ask for, which it must do. We will need specific details about where, when and what type of vehicles are to be used before this request can be evaluated as to whether or not it is in the interest of the town to grant it. We need to know what hours these oversized vehicles will be operating, how much greenhouse gas we can expect them to dump into our air, and the total number of vehicle miles traveled on our roads. Apex's failure to disclose this crucial information shows blatant disregard for the host community and their indifference to committing a huge environmental injustice.

We are extremely concerned that a supposedly expert Wind Turbine firm like Apex could have so many problems and inconsistencies in their Article 10 application. Aren't they supposed to have done this before? Several of the problems involve a failure to include the owners of land parcels, property setbacks, and even a failure to include our town in their map of affected zoning districts! They didn't include technical information from the turbine manufacturers about windmill collapse or blade throw and they left out the technical information on sound power levels. They didn't include a plan to compensate people for damage to their property from blasting and they didn't bother to specify their Right of Way requirements or conversations with emergency services. Apex is simply not prepared. With all these inconsistencies can the residents of Barre really trust Apex to honor their agreements?

Just for the information of the Residents of the Town of Barre, the town supervisor and town attorney made some changes to the Town of Barre wind laws and took them to the Orleans County legislature board for presentation. However, they were not given permission by the board of the Town of Barre to do this. The information was not even given to the Barre town board members until an hour before the Barre town board meeting on Wednesday, August 12th 2020. They did not have time to read these changes or discuss them but the town supervisor pressured them to pass them anyway. It was refreshing to see that the board rejected this pressure and requested a workshop meeting to discuss the changes before voting on them. It would be good if the town Board of Barre registered an official reaction to two recent independent surveys, one conducted by Mr. McKenna and the other conducted by Citizens for a Better Barre. Both surveys overwhelmingly reported that the residents of the Town of Barre do not want the windmills to be constructed. A petition presented by Ms. Swan showing between 200 and 250 residents supporting the windmills consisted mostly of leaseholders and their family members. We ask the board to represent the majority of residents within the Town of Barre and not just the vested interests of a relative few.

SIGNS OF A STROKE

Sometimes symptoms of a stroke are difficult to identify. The stroke victim may suffer severe brain damage when people nearby fail to recognize the symptoms of a stroke. Now doctors say a bystander can recognize a stroke by asking a few simple questions:

- 1 Ask the person to SMILE.
- 2 Ask the person to TALK AND SPEAK A SIMPLE SENTENCE. i.e. It is sunny out today.
- 3 Ask the person to RAISE BOTH ARMS.
- 4 Ask the person to STICK OUT HIS TONGUE. If the tongue goes to one side or the other, that is a sign of a stroke.

OTHER STROKE WARNING SIGNS

- Sudden numbness or weakness of the face, arm or leg, especially on one side of the body
- Sudden confusion, trouble speaking or understanding
- Sudden trouble seeing in one or both eyes
- Sudden trouble walking, dizziness, loss of balance or coordination
- Sudden, severe headache with no known cause

If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay!

CALL 9-1-1 IMMEDIATELY!

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.

- Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.

- Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custom-molded ones made by our office.

- 95 percent of our patients symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.

- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post-op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques and EPF resulting in minimal incisions and scarring, immediate ambulation and often back in a shoe in one week.

If you can't remember when your feet didn't hurt, now is the time to give us a call!

Signs of a HEART ATTACK

Some heart attacks are sudden and intense, but most heart attacks start slowly, with mild pain. Often people affected aren't sure what's wrong and wait too long before getting help. Symptoms include:

CHEST DISCOMFORT. Most heart attacks involve discomfort in the center of the chest that lasts more than a few minutes, or that goes away and comes back. It can feel like uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness or pain.

DISCOMFORT IN OTHER AREAS OF THE UPPER BODY. Symptoms can include pain or discomfort in one or both arms, the back, neck, jaw or stomach.

SHORTNESS OF BREATH with or without chest discomfort.

OTHER SIGNS may include breaking out in a cold sweat, nausea or lightheadedness

Women are somewhat more likely than men to experience other common symptoms, particularly SHORTNESS OF BREATH, NAUSEA/VOMITING, AND BACK/JAW PAIN.

If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay!

Call 9-1-1 immediately!
