BIBLE TRIVIA

by Wilson Casey

Presidential Debate or Wrestling Match? We must have better than this

Dr. Glenn Mollette

September 29, 2020, was just another bad day in 2020. We thought that with Covid-19, unemployment, and riots in the streets of America's cities it could not get worse. It did.

Joe Biden, Donald Trump and Chris Wallace gave us a "show?" we will never forget.

Our leaders used to make us proud. We grew up wanting to emulate people in high places who inspired us with their remarkable lives. We watched how they conducted themselves, communicated and chose their words wisely with dignity, diplomacy and grace. This doesn't happen anymore in America. Tuesday's debate was just another plummeting example of how badly and poorly people can act in America. Biden and Trump are supposed to be our two best men running for the highest office in America. Chris Wallace works for one of the biggest networks in the world. Instead we saw a production of America's scariest video, Heehaw gone crazy or bigtime wrestling Covid-19 style.

We've been on this track now for too long. The debates have gotten worse and worse. They have been more and more out of control. They have turned into 90 minutes of rudeness, name calling, hollering and mud throwing. Our children are watching and learning.

Where did we lose civility in our nation? Did we ever have it? Is this just the way America has always been at heart and now we feel free to be who we really are? Rude, crude and ignorant? The Beverly Hillbillies had far more class than we saw Tuesday night. They may have been uncouth and backward but they didn't treat people badly.

We've become scary in how we talk to and treat others in this country, starting with our national leadership and media. We have a nation of people who are quick to give you the middle finger on the highway, honk their horns at you on the road until you get out of their way and knock you down on the sidewalk rather than scoot over and give you some space to walk by.

Today, in America, we are name callers. We feel entitled to everything everyone else has without working for it. We expect to be treated with respect and dignity while we act like buffoons. Words and phrases such as "please, thank you, excuse me, may I, yes ma'am and yes sir," have been tossed out of too many windows. Therefore, we are now reaping what we sowed. People feel like they have the right to treat others badly because of color or background, while others feel entitled to destroy and burn down our cities from Baltimore to Portland. We have a nation of people who believe they can do anything they want regardless of how others might be affected. This is one reason we can't defund the police. However, some of the procedures of the police must be revamped.

Be warned another debate is coming soon. Candidates should be allowed one- and two-minute response times to questions and to respond to statements. At these one and two-minute intervals the microphone should automatically be silenced so the next candidate can fairly respond with the same time limits. There has to be a fair civil way to conduct and present a Presidential debate. We need to see and hear one. We are desperate to get this nation back together, one people, under God, united, with liberty and justice for all. We have to see some of this in this next debate and it has to come from the moderator, President Trump and former Vice President Biden.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A workplace change doesn't seem to have turned out quite as you'd hoped. Never mind: Just treat yourself to a healthy dollop of that Aries self-confidence, and you'll soon view things differently.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Some of the support you might have hoped for in a difficult situation might not be there. But you have the strength to rely on your own capabilities if you must. Good luck.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A disagreement with a longtime friend can be painful, but it also can be a learning lesson. Insist on a full and complete airing of views. You'll both come away the better for it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A stalled relationship can be restarted with some give and take on both sides. And while it could take more time than you expect, don't rush it. Be patient, and let it happen naturally.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) An opportunity to move a long-stalled project from concept to construction might be opening up for the Big Cat. Meanwhile, be prepared to spend more time dealing with family matters.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Use your Virgo organizational skills to line up support to help you deal with a sticky workplace problem. A personal matter also might be helped with friendly intervention.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Trying to resolve a workplace problem with a longtime associate can be difficult. Consider bringing in an impartial third party to help you both reach a mutually acceptable solution.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good time to assess your current career situation. Consider whether you have a chance to move up where you are now, or if you should look elsewhere.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) With education being a dominant part of this week's aspect, one of the things you might want to think about is taking courses to enhance your career opportunities.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might have a problem trying to stay focused on a matter you'd rather not deal with. But the sooner you do, the sooner it will be resolved and out of the way.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) An unforeseen complication creates a difficult problem. But things get resolved once you use your ability to turn negative situations into positive experiences.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) The Pisces penchant for doing the right thing at the right time helps you deal with a particularly troublesome situation.

Consider your best option, and act accordingly.
BORN THIS WEEK: Although you might sometimes seem rigid in your views, your love of justice makes you a trusted friend everyone can rely on.

* If you are replacing a hinge to re-hang a door and you need to use the same holes, make sure you add grip by placing a matchstick or toothpick in the hole before rescrewing the attachments. Just break it off flush with the frame. It will add some security to the hole so it won't be as loose.

* Maintain a list of all drugs you take -- both prescription and over the counter -- and when you fill a new prescription, give a copy to your pharmacist to check for interactions. Also, if you have multiple or complicated medical issues, it might help to patronize a single pharmacy. That way, the pharmacist can advise you of any interactions or complications.

* "My mother swears by wrapping her feet in a vinegar-soaked rag once a week to soften calluses. She does this before her bath, and uses a pumice stone to rid her heels of hardened spots on the skin. It seems to work for her, so I thought I would pass it on!" -- C.D. in Colorado

Sins of Omission

A Sunday School teacher asked her class, "Does anyone here know what we mean by sins of omission?"

A small girl replied: "Aren't those the sins we should have committed, but didn't?"

Utilities bill payment scam

Danville Utilities is again warning its customers about a payment scam involving a threat to disconnect service within 30 minutes if payment of their utility bill is not made immediately.

The scammers are using a local phone number that is spoofed as Danville Utilities. The caller falsely claims to be with the Utilities Department and threatens to disconnect service if the customer does not make immediate payment. The customer is asked to provide a debit card or credit card number in order to make payment.

A warning about a similar scam was issued in early September.

Danville Utilities does not make phone calls to customers about disconnects. Any notice of disconnection is done by mail.

Businesses often are targets of utility bill payment scams, but households appear to be the target of this scam.

Utility bill payment scams are not new. Guard against fraud. Never provide a Social Security number, credit card number or banking information to anyone requesting it unless you initiated the contact and know the identity of the person with whom you are speaking.

If you receive a call from someone you do not know and who is urging you to make a payment to Danville Utilities, capture the phone number and then hang up and contact the Division of Customer Accounts at 434-799-5125 or visit the Charles H. Harris Financial Service Center, which is located at 311 Memorial Drive.

Christmas Assistance Sign-Up Begins October 1, 2020

The Salvation Army of Danville Brings Christmas Joy to Local Families

The Salvation Army of Danville will begin taking applications for their Christmas assistance program beginning October 1, 2020. This year, out of concern for safe distancing in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, registration will take place online.

Residents may apply online at www.SAAngelTree.org. "With the ongoing effects of the virus we believe the need will be greater this year and have set up an online registration for this season" says Captain Shalanda Jackson, Corps Officer of the Danville corps.

The Salvation Army Angel Tree Program has been a tradition since 1979, helping to provide Christmas gifts for hundreds of thousands of children around the country each year. Along with the familiar Red Kettles, the Angel Tree program is one of The Salvation Army's highest profile Christmas efforts. Angel Tree was created by Salvation Army Majors Charles and Shirley White when they worked with a Lynchburg, Virginia shopping mall to provide clothing and toys for children at Christmas time. Once a child has been registered and accepted as an Angel their Christmas wish list is shared with donors in the community who purchase gifts of new clothing or toys. The gifts are distributed to the family to place under their family Christmas tree.

To donate to the Angel Tree program in Danville, visit The Salvation Army Wal-Mart's registry for good page at www.walmart.com/registry, or contact Captain Shalanda Jackson at (434) 792 - 3963.

Taking Care of Your Mental Health During COVID-19

by Dr. Sheranda Gunn-Nolan, Market Chief Medical Officer

When it comes to protecting ourselves during the current COVID-19 pandemic, it can be easy to focus exclusively on physical health - making sure we are following CDC guidelines, practicing social distancing and doing everything we can to keep ourselves, our families and our communities safe and healthy. All those things are very important. But there is another important facet of our health that we should not ignore during this time - our mental health. Today, as we continue to navigate these unprecedented times, it is more essential than ever.

Our mental health has a big influence on our overall health and well-being. Not only does it affect how productive we are at work, how we make decisions and how we cope with stress, but it can also affect our physical health. Take stress for example. Stress can have a direct impact on our immune system, and when we are not able to cope with stress adequately, it can compromise our body's ability to fight off illness.

Mental health issues are very common, affecting millions of Americans each year. During difficult times like we are currently experiencing in our community and around the world, many of us are faced with unforeseen physical, social and economic challenges that can elevate stress, depression and other mental health issues and even have an impact in those who normally are not affected by these conditions. The bottom line? If you are suffering, you are not alone.

The good news is that there are some things you can do to help alleviate stress and boost your mental health - not just during the challenges we are facing today, but in all situations:

- Checking-in regularly with family, friends and work colleagues
- Taking time to relax, recharge and rest
- Getting outside with safe social distancing, and getting at least 30 minutes of physical activity in your day
- Spending quality time doing something you love, whether it is a hobby, reading a good book or watching a favorite movie or television show
- Maintaining healthy, nutritious eating and staying hydrated
- Avoiding unhelpful coping strategies like alcohol, drug and tobacco use
- Focusing on the things that you can control and accepting what you cannot and
- Avoiding excessive time watching news and social media

Another thing to remember about mental health? It is okay to talk about it. A safe, supportive and accepting environment is important if you are suffering. Just as most people wouldn't think twice about seeing a doctor for chest pain or other serious physical symptoms, it is important to proactively seek help and get the medical attention you need if you are experiencing a mental health condition.

How about some more good news? The prognosis for mental health conditions is good. In fact, most people who seek treatment for a mental health condition do show improvement. If you are experiencing a mental health issue, the benefits of seeking help and treatment can make a positive difference in your overall quality of life.

If you or someone you know is suffering from stress or another mental health condition, Sovah Health is able to safely provide help. Visit SovahHealth.com for more information, or call 844.GO.SOVAH. For more information on mental health, visit www.mentalhealth.gov.

Additionally, the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline offers free and confidential emotional support to people in suicidal crisis or emotional distress 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It can be reached at 800-273-8255 or <https://suicidepreventionlifeline.org/>.

HOLLYWOOD by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — Gloria Steinem, who spearheaded the women's liberation movement of the late 1960s and 1970s, is finally getting her due. Originally intended for theaters, "The Glorias" began streaming Sept. 30 via Amazon Prime. Gloria as a child is played by Lulu Wilson, then Alicia Vikander, Oscar winner for "The Danish Girl," takes over, followed by "Just Alice" Oscar-winner Julianne Moore as an older Gloria. Two-time Oscar nominee Bette Midler plays Bella Abzug, and "Ordinary People" Oscar-winner Timothy Hutton portrays Gloria's father.

***

Julianne Moore is currently preparing to play the mother of Evan Hansen in the film version of the Tony Award-winning best musical "Dear Evan Hansen," which made Tony winner Ben Platt a star. Platt completed two seasons of Netflix's "The Politician," which is not likely to have a third season; however, he'll recreate his success as Evan Hansen. Six-time Oscar nominee Amy Adams will sing in the film. Adams is due in two Netflix features, first in "Women in the Window," with Oscar-winners Julianne Moore and Gary Oldman, along with Anthony Mackie and Jennifer Jason Leigh. It's available for streaming Oct. 4. Adams and Glenn Close will star in Oscar-winning director Ron Howard's film, "Hillbilly Elegy," which will be available in November. Between them, Adams and Close have 13 Oscar nominations, but have never won.

***

Congratulations to choreographer Mandy Moore, who recently won a third Emmy for choreography for "Zoey's Extraordinary Playlist." Not to be confused with actress/singer Mandy Moore in "This Is Us," dance guru Moore choreographed "So You Think You Can Dance" (2010-2017), "La La Land" (2016), "Second Act" (2018) with Jennifer Lopez, and the upcoming "Star Girl" and "Valley Girl" films. The award was presented to Moore at events between Sept. 14-17.

Director Richard Linklater was 41

when he started making the coming-of-age movie "Boyhood," with Ethan Hawke, Patricia Arquette and Ellar Coltrane. With a $4 million budget, it took 12 years to complete, with Linklater turning 53 when it was done. "Boyhood" won a Golden Globe for best picture, drama, best director and best supporting actress for Patricia Arquette, and netted six Oscar nominations, though only Arquette won for supporting actress. It made $57 million at the box office.

Now Linklater, at 59, is beginning another project, the musical comedy "Merrily We Roll Along," based on a musical comedy by Stephen Sondheim, George Furth, George S. Irving and Moss Hart. Joining Ben Platt, 26, are Beanie Feldman, 27, of "Lady Bird" (2017) and "Booksmart" (2019), and Blake Jenner, 28, who was Ryder Lynn on "Glee." Both were with Platt in his Netflix concert film, "Ben Platt Live From Radio City Music Hall." His new film will shoot over 20 years, which means Linklater will be 79 and his stars will be 46, 47 and 48, respectively. At that pace maybe it should be called "Merrily We Crawl Along!"

RECIPES

Cinnamon Apple Pie Bread

Forget the pie crust and get all the flavors of fall in a quick and easy bread with brown sugar and cinnamon topping that's as sweet as apple pie.

- Ingredients
- 1/3 cup light brown sugar (not packed)
  - 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
  - 2/3 cup white sugar
  - 1/2 cup salted butter, softened (or use unsalted and add 1/4 tsp salt)
  - 2 eggs
  - 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract
  - 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
  - 1 3/4 teaspoons baking powder
  - 1/2 cup milk
  - 1 apple, peeled and chopped (I used Granny Smith)

- Instructions
- Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 9 x 5-inch loaf pan.
  - Mix brown sugar and cinnamon together in a mixing bowl and set aside.
  - Beat white sugar and butter together in a bowl using an electric mixer until smooth and creamy.
  - Beat in eggs, 1 at a time, until incorporated; add vanilla extract and stir until incorporated.
  - Combine flour and baking powder together in another bowl; stir into creamed butter mixture.
  - Mix milk into batter until smooth.
  - Pour half the batter into the prepared loaf pan. Next add half the apples and half the brown sugar cinnamon mixture. Lightly pat/push apple mixture into batter.
  - Pour the remaining batter over apple layer; top with remaining apples and add more brown sugar/cinnamon mixture.
  - Lightly pat/push apples into batter; swirl brown sugar mixture through apples using a finger or spoon (I cleaned my hands and used my finger because it was easier).
  - Bake in the preheated oven until a toothpick inserted in the center of the loaf comes out clean, 30 to 40 minutes. Mine took about 35.
  - Tip: If you notice it getting too brown on the top, cover it loosely with tin foil and continue baking until the inside is done. Enjoy!

The Value of Using Irrevocable Trusts in Medicaid Planning (Part 2 of 2)

Last month, we started talking about the value of using irrevocable trusts in Medicaid planning instead of just gifting assets outright. In this month's article, we will continue to talk about some additional benefits of utilizing irrevocable trusts.

Ability to Make Trust Assets Non-countable for Beneficiaries' Medicaid or SSI

It is a sad fact that an outright gift or bequest from a donor, such as a parent, to a disabled donee can result in the donee becoming ineligible for means-based governmental benefits that he or she was eligible for before the gift or bequest, or soon would have become eligible for. In such situations, unless irrevocable trust planning is then done to establish a "self-settled special needs trust," the gifted or bequeathed assets typically get consumed for the donee's care and once they are gone, the donee goes onto the governmental benefits from which the gift or bequest disqualified him or her until consumed. One way of looking at this outcome is that the indirect recipient of the gift or bequest was the governmental benefit program from which the gift disqualified the disabled person for a period of time. This is generally considered poor planning.

Better planning is for the gift or bequest to be made in an irrevocable special needs trust for benefit of the disabled beneficiary, so that the gift or bequest will be managed to enhance the living conditions of the disabled beneficiary by paying for things that the governmental benefits do not pay for. If a disabled person becomes entitled to an outright gift or bequest, or an outright gift or bequest recipient later becomes disabled, depending on the age of the disabled person, it may be possible to establish a "self-settled special needs trust" for the disabled beneficiary. Such trusts (funded with assets of the disabled person) must contain a provision stating that upon the death of the disabled beneficiary any remaining trust assets must pay back the state up to the full amount of Medicaid benefits received by the beneficiary, and only after the state is reimbursed may any excess pass to other beneficiaries such as other relatives. The payback provision requirement is Congress's "quid pro quo" – the balancing deal that makes it fair for the disabled person's otherwise disqualifying assets to be set aside in a Medicaid- and Supplemental Security Income-non-countable trust that is nonetheless able to be consumed by the trustee for benefit of the disabled person to supplement but not replace the governmental benefits.

Ability to Specify Terms and Incentives for Beneficiaries' Use of Trust Assets

Many parents or grandparents desire to infuse their planning for their children or grandchildren with positive aspirations. Such goals may be as simple as that the gifts or bequests may only be used for the recipients' education, to finance a career change or buy a home. Or the goals may be more serious, for example, establishing that the intended recipient will only become eligible to receive the gift or bequest if he or she participates in a drug or alcohol rehabilitation program or gives up some other behavior that the donor wants to create an incentive for the donee to abandon. Such planning goals of a client almost always indicate an irrevocable trust with beneficiary incentive provisions as the vehicle to implement the plan. This is completely compatible with Medicaid asset protection planning for seniors at the same time.

Ability to Decide Which Beneficiaries Will Inherit Upon Settlor's Death

The retained Limited Power of Appointment referred to above (sometimes called a Special Power of Appointment) preserves for the settlor the power to decide who within a designated class of recipients will receive the benefits of the trust, how much they will receive, and in what way they will receive it. The class of potential recipients can be as broad as everyone in the world except the settlor and his or her creditors, and the settlor's estate and its creditors. Most often, however, the class of potential appointees consists of the settlor's descendants, certain other relatives or in-laws, and/or certain charities. Such a Limited Power of Appointment (LPOA) can determine whether the trust is a grantor or non-grantor trust, as well, so the specific language of the LPOA must be crafted carefully with regard to the grantor trust rules of the Tax Code. As an aside, a power of appointment is sometimes referred to jokingly as a "power of disappointment" because it truly retains for the settlor or other power holder the power to disinherit someone who acts badly.

Ability to Determine Successor Beneficiaries

A major concern in Medicaid asset protection planning and estate planning in general is who will be the successor beneficiaries of anything a client leaves to someone. If the gift or bequest passes outright, the recipient has control through lifetime consumption of assets and income or through his or her estate plan, to determine who will receive anything that the initial recipient doesn't use up. Of course, the recipient's creditors or predators also may gain control over the assets and income gifted outright to the initial recipient. If the client would prefer to designate that only blood descendants, or descendants and their spouses, and/or certain charities will receive what is not consumed by the initial recipient, an irrevocable trust is a key instrument to create such a plan. This is true almost regardless of the initial size of the gift or bequest – if a modest amount of funds are left in trust, there may nevertheless be a remainder to pass to a successor beneficiary or even another successor beneficiary. This sounds like a "dynasty trust" and it actually is, even though it is of modest size. The point is that by use of an irrevocable trust, the client has the option to decide who the possible recipients will be, and even to grant limited powers of appointment to the named recipients in order to give them some control as well.

Analysis of Need to File a Federal Gift Tax Return for Year of Funding

A goal of many planners in design of irrevocable trusts is to make the initial trust-funding gift(s) "incomplete" for tax purposes. The purpose is generally to prevent the settlor from having to file a federal gift tax return for the year(s) of the funding transaction(s), assuming that the taxpayer makes no other "taxable gifts" in any such year.

There is a split of authority with the Internal Revenue Service concerning when transfers to an irrevocable trust are considered "complete," thus requiring the filing of an income tax return. Normally there will not be any gift tax due (the current laws allow an individual to give away $5 million in assets during their lifetime without paying any tax on the gift) but it is important to follow the rules that do require filing a gift tax return, even if no tax is due. Every situation is different and it is always highly recommended to consult with a tax professional on any questions in this case to be safe!

In conclusion, the above discussions demonstrate that use of irrevocable trusts in Medicaid planning, as in other fields of estate planning, provides many opportunities to create great benefits beyond simply transferring assets. Some or most of these benefits may be achieved through the use of an irrevocable trust. If care is taken to include the correct and desired provisions, an irrevocable trust can greatly enhance the value of the clients' Medicaid planning beyond what can be accomplished through simple outright gifting.

KIDS WILL DO THE DARNDEST THINGS

Young Rich Humpherys went water skiing recently on Lake Powell, Utah, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. No big deal, you say. Well the kid is just six months old and he just may have broken the record for the youngest child to go water skiing. He was six months and four days old when it happened, to be exact, six days younger than the previous "unofficial record holder."

ATTA GIRL!

In honor of active seniors, the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC] pays tribute to Sara Lyons of McKees Rocks, PA who is turning 97 years of age. Her achievement: bowling and proving that practice makes perfect. Sara has been bowling for 70 years and recently racked up a near-perfect game, scoring what is known as a "no tap 300." In other words, she knocked down at least nine pins each time, not leaving an open frame and earning a score of score of 300. Quite an achievement for the youngest among us; a delightful display of elder power for us older athletes, says AMAC.

THE LONGEST WALK

Doctors will tell you that, ideally, seniors should walk about one to one-and-a-half miles per week to stay healthy, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. But, Brad Hathaway's doctor suggested that he walk at least three miles a day to deal with what was ailing him when he was in his mid-fifties and Brad took the advice "to heart," as they say. He's 88 years old now and in fine fettle. In fact, he's been walking an average of three to 10 miles a day all this time. He's been keeping track of his mileage and figures that he is in a few days he will have circumnavigated the earth, so to speak, having walked 24,901 since the day he started.

GONE FISHIN'

Ask a fisherman and he or she will tell you that, some days, as one angler put it, "There's a fine line between fishing and just standing on the shore like an idiot." But, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC], don't dare to call professional fisherman Jeff Kolodzinski an idiot; last year he set the Guinness World Record for the most fish caught in one day when he landed 2,172 fish in 24 hours. In fact, he's known as the Marathon Man. And, he lived up to that moniker recently when he broke his own record by catching no less than 2,645 fish in one day. He did it to raise money for the Fishing For Life Foundation.

A CHEWING GUM WISH

Ninety-four year old Suttie Economy of Roanoke, Virginia developed a hankering for Juicy Fruit chewing gum while serving in World War II. He was recently admitted to the Virginia Veterans Care Clinic for a heart condition. He's recovering and, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC], one can only guess what he was thinking when he decided that when he dies he wants to be buried in a casket painted to look like a pack of Juicy Fruit. In fact, the Mars Wrigley Company, which owns the Juicy Fruit brand, has given its okay to use its logo. They also sent him 250 packs of the gum.

SHE JUST LOVES THE WATER

Shades of Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English Channel at the age of 19. She did it in 1926 and it took her 14 hours and 34 minutes to complete her 21 mile swim and got the nickname, Queen of the Waves, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. Sixteen year old Vera Rivard, who hails from Springfield, NH, was hindered by the tides when she made her channel crossing recently. But, although her route was 33 miles, Rivard beat Ederle's time, clocking in at 14 hours and 10 minutes. She already circumnavigated the island of Manhattan, a swim of 28.5 miles, and now has her mind set on swimming the 20 miles from the coast of California to the island of Santa Catalina, garnering what is known as the "Triple Crown" of long-distance swimming.

Helping Seniors Recognize Fake News and Propaganda

Dear Savvy Senior,

Are there any resources that you know of that can help seniors detect fake news? My 75-year-old mother shares a lot of misinformation with her family and friends that she sees on Facebook. I've talked to her about it, but for some reason she has a difficult time deciphering real news from fake news and propaganda.

Frustrated Daughter

Dear Frustrated,

Unfortunately, the digital misinformation problem your mom is experiencing is not uncommon. According to researchers from Princeton and New York University, people aged 65 and older are up to seven times more likely to share fake news and dubious links on social media than their younger counterparts.

Why?

There are several theories. The first is that many seniors started using social media sites like Facebook only within the past five or six years and may lack the digital literacy skills to identify false or misleading content.

Some other possible theories are that most seniors experience some cognitive decline as they age, making them more likely to fall for hoaxes. Many older Americans also suffer from chronic loneliness which can cause them to share misinformation as an attempt to make connections with other people. And studies have shown that older people are generally more trusting than younger generations, which can make them more gullible.

All this is particularly concerning now as we sit in the midst of a global health pandemic and a 2020 election season, both of which are ripe with misinformation, rumors and conspiracy theories. And seniors are prime targets of this false/misleading information because they are much more likely to vote than their younger cohorts and are much more vulnerable to getting sick and dying if they contract COVID-19.

Where to Get Help

To help your mom detect and combat online misinformation there are several great resources she can turn to that offer free courses and tips.

One is MediaWise for Seniors, a project of the Poynter Institute, which offers two free online courses to help seniors detect and combat online misinformation – see Poynter.org/mediawise-for-seniors.

The first four-week course has already filled up, but your mom can still enroll in a self-directed course called “Hands-On Lessons to Separate Fact and Fiction Online.” It is hosted by Christiane Amanpour and Joan Lunden, and is scheduled to begin Sept. 24, but she can take the course anytime.

In addition, Poynter has worked with AARP to produce Fact Tracker interactive videos and a webinar on spotting and filtering misinformation at AARP.org/facttracker.

Some other free course options you should look into include Senior Planet, which is offering a one-hour online course on “How to Spot Fake News” at SeniorPlanet.org.

The News Literacy Project that provides the Checkology virtual classroom, which was initially created for middle and high school students, is now offering an independent learners option that is ideal for older adults – see Get.Checkology.org. Their lessons will help your mom detect the difference between news, opinion and propaganda.

And Coursera, a free world-wide online learning platform, which offers an in-depth six-week course called “Making Sense of the News: News Literacy Lessons for Digital Citizens,” which she can access at Coursera.org/learn/news-literacy.

There are also many good websites, like PolitiFact.com, Snopes.com and FactCheck.org that will let your mom fact check a story to help her identify fact versus fiction. These sites have most likely already fact-checked the latest viral claim to pop up in her news feed.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of “The Savvy Senior” book.

SENIOR NEWS LINE

by Matilda Charles

Now More Than Ever, Get Your Flu Shot

A sincere wish just came true: This year's high-dose senior version of the flu shot will contain all four vaccines. In past years, the senior shot (for those over age 65) contained only three of the vaccines, two A and one B. Most years I would write a snarly note to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and ask about the reason for the false economy. Of course I never got a reply, but now ... finally, we seniors will have a flu shot with all four vaccines.

And what a shot it will be. The four vaccines are names we haven't heard in a while, if ever: A/Guangdong-Maonan (H1N1), A/Hong Kong (H3N2), B/Washington and B/Phuket. To help us kick start our immune system, the senior version will contain four times the amount that younger folks get. The standard trivalent (three-way) will have two A and one B, while the standard quadrivalent (four-way) has all four. If your doctor says you should have a flu shot, don't delay. When I called my pharmacy (where I get my flu shots each year), the first appointment was many days out, and they had been swamped with requests for the shot. Yes, they will be resupplied when they run out, but no, they didn't know how quickly that would be. By getting a flu shot, should you get sick later this season, it will be a good bet that it's not the regular flu, which will save much time in getting a diagnosis.

To find flu shots, call your doctor, local pharmacies, grocery stores or go to vaccinefinder.org. If you have a Medicare or insurance card, you won't have to pay anything. If you want to know more, check the CDC website: www.cdc.gov/flu/season/faq-flu-season-2020-2021.htm.
