Moody on The Market

Moody Pat

If you golfed this summer at Pipestone Creek Golf Course or stopped by Sister Lakes Brewing for a bit of summer fun, you were being served by members of the 2019 Class of the Fifteen Under 15 small business enterprises with 15 or fewer employees. The Mason Jar Cafe and Holt-Bosse were among the winners in the inaugural year of the competition, in 2018. There is still time to nominate your favorite business from the small business community if they qualify by having 15 or fewer employees on the team, and remember that self-nominations are acceptable as well, but the deadline is approaching. It's not a popularity contest however. It is a legitimately adjudicated competition with judges looking over all entries to determine the best of the best thanks to underwriting sponsorship by Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber and McGhee's Heating & Air Conditioning with support from United Way of Southwest Michigan and the Mason Jar Cafe. Here at Moody on the Market we work hard every day to track the men and women who risk their life savings and put everything on the line to bring products, services, experiences and more to everyone who lives here, works here, plays here or stays here. Their stories are routinely peppered across the pages of the website so you know what's happening with them, to them, around them and because of them. We've recognized many individuals with the 40 Under 40 young professionals series and also tracked for a couple of years the ranks of the 20 Best Places to Work in Southwest Michigan. Now, we're looking for the third class of Fifteen Under 15. Nominations have been open for a couple of weeks, but the deadline is approaching this weekend, so it's time to take action if you've been meaning to do so, but failed to get around to it yet. You can see the first two classes of the Fifteen Under 15 which have been recognized in the series and their stories on the tab at the top of the Moody on the Market website page designated for the Fifteen Under 15. A select panel of outside judges from the business community will sift through the entries and make the final determinations in the weeks ahead. They are looking for dynamic small business enterprises and organizations making a difference for not only their team, but for the community at large. Nominations remain open until midnight on Sunday, October 4th, 2020. That's when the hard work of the judges will take over and later, the Moody on the Market Fifteen Under 15

Your Chamber Update

Last week, the Michigan House of Representatives passed a package of bills that we at the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber have been keeping a close eye on. If enacted, the legislation would effectively protect business owners from frivolous lawsuits related to COVID-19, while still allowing employees the flexibility to sue for matters such as wrongful termination and the denial of sick leave due to illness.

According to the independent House Fiscal Agency's Legislative Analysis, the bills would work as follows:

- House Bill 6030 would create a new act called the COVID-19 Response and Reopening

Liability Assurance Act. It would establish standards for certain liability claims alleging COVID-19 exposure and certain product liability claims for business who produced personal protective equipment.

- House Bills 6031 and 6101 would together add two new sections to the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act to establish conditions for immunity from civil liability for an employer whose employee is exposed to COVID-19. Immunity, however, would be contingent on if they followed all state and federal guidelines.

- House Bill 6032 would give employees protection from being fired or retaliated against if they test positive for COVID-19.

In other words, this legislation would protect businesses who have operated within COVID-related federal or state laws, executive orders or public health guidance from lawsuits, including exposure or other personal injury claims. It also shields businesses who stepped up at the beginning of the pandemic to produce personal protection equipment - like hand sanitizer and masks - from product liability claims, unless that business knew the product was defective and distributed it anyway. Additionally, the changes would be retroactive to provide immunity for any COVID-19 exposure occurring after January 1, 2020.

This immunity, however, would not apply if the employer willfully exposed the employee to COVID-19 unless the employee was, at the time of the exposure, working in a health care setting. (More on that below.) The package would further protect employees by prohibiting employers from retaliating if the employee does not report to work due to a COVID-related circumstance - such as virus symptoms, a positive test result, or close contact with an infected person.

The bills currently await a hearing in the Michigan Senate, and it is important to note this is the second attempt to pass such legislation. The first round was ultimately vetoed by the Governor because it 'went beyond the immunity she initially gave to the health care industry through executive order.' To correct this, these new bills essentially codify the protections as they exist in her current executive order.

With that said, we strongly believe the current realities of a post-pandemic business environment necessitate this type of liability reform and are pleased to see meaningful progress. In fact, we join a broad chorus of organizations around the state in advocating for their passage, including the American Tort Reform Association, Michigan Chamber, Michigan Manufacturers Association, National Federation of Independent Business, Business Leaders for Michigan, Small Business Association of Michigan, Michigan Retailers Association, Michigan Health and Hospital Association, Michigan State Medical Society and more.

At the end of the day, companies need to be confident in Michigan's business climate. Frivolous lawsuits can easily bankrupt a company, and we need to take steps to protect the businesses that have protected us. That's exactly what these bills seek to accomplish and that's why we as a chamber support them.

Dave Says
Handling debt collectors

Act. If the collector agrees to settle the debt, get it in writing and keep the document as proof in case they "forget" they made the offer.

Also, be completely up to speed on your accounts. Know what you owe, who you owe, and have a record of all the payments you've made. Knowing the facts gives you the upper hand in any situation. Don't be intimidated by debt collectors, either. Calmly explain your situation, the reason you're behind on the debt, and how you plan to pay it off. Don't get emotional and let yourself get drawn into an argument or shouting match. If they insult you, or yell or curse at you—yes, this happens sometimes—hang up immediately.

Financial troubles like debt can make every aspect of your life feel messed up. If you want to get back on track, start living on a written, monthly budget, and attack your debts using the debt snowball system. It's not easy, and it takes discipline, hard work, and sacrifices, but it's worth it!

Dear Dave,
Do you have suggestions on how to interact with debt collectors? Sometimes they are reasonable and easy to work with, but others are rude and pushy. Your advice would be appreciated.

Paul

Dear Paul,

You'll run into all sorts of collectors, no matter what kind of debt you have. Occasionally they are friendly and understanding, while others can be downright mean and nasty. Whatever their approach is, you have to keep in mind they're all after one thing—your money.

Most debt collectors prey on a person's emotions and lack of confidence. If you don't know your rights, they can scare you by using bogus threats. Understand what I'm saying here, Paul. If you have debt, you have a legal and moral obligation to pay it. At the same time, you need to calmly and confidently control these kinds of conversations. You might have made some financial mistakes, but that doesn't mean you should allow someone to abuse you.

When it comes to dealing with debt collectors, keep track of all the calls and emails. Write down the names of anyone you talk to and when they called. A record of all contact is important, and it will make it easier to report them if they violate the federal Fair Debt Collection Practices

Find Joy in Trials

Consider it pure joy, my brothers and sisters, whenever you face trials of many kinds, because you know that the testing of your faith produces perseverance. Let perseverance finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything. . . Blessed is the one who perseveres under trial because, having stood the test, that person will receive the crown of life that the Lord has promised to those who love him. ~ James 1:2-4,12

Dr. Wayne Dyer, a self-help author, once said: "A bar of iron costs $5, made into horseshoes its worth is $12, made into needles its worth is $3500, made into balance springs for watches, its worth is $300,000." To be worth that much, iron must go through quite a trial by fire. The more it passes through the heat, is hammered and polished, the greater its value.

As a rule, we try to avoid going through the heat. We don't like experiencing trials in our lives. But James, the half-brother of Jesus, challenges us to change our perspective. He says that God uses trials to make us better. In that sense, they are a blessing from God. Our gracious God has a good goal in allowing us to face all kinds of trials. Trials build and strengthen the character of our faith. The testing of our faith helps us to focus on the right things, eternal things.

The trials God allows us to face remind us that this is not our home. A better life now is not the goal. God has already prepared the best life for those who love him in the world to come. It is an eternal home with him that Jesus made possible for us by his life, death, and resurrection. He faced every trial common to humanity and persevered. And when he passed through God's fiery wrath on the cross for our sin, he forged the crown of life for all who love him.

So, when God calls you to face all kinds of trials, don't sigh and say, "Oh, boy." Remember the goal that God has in store for you after you have passed through them, look up and say, "Oh, joy!"

Prayer: Lord Jesus, help me to be faithful to you in trials and give me the crown of life you have prepared for me in heaven. Amen.

will be rolled out live on the Taking the Lead with Jim Gifford and Spencer Rivers radio show on WSJM News Talk Sports 94.9 FM, with a special showcase on Moody on the Market as well. The winning companies will also be invited to award recognition ceremonies either in person or virtually, wherein recognition plaques will be distributed for placement in their place of business for all to see. There are 20 questions in the nomination process, a number of which are essay-style asking for detailed information on what the nominee companies do, their culture, how they impact the community and more. You will do well to allow some time to make your entry as complete as possible, inasmuch as cursory and incomplete data will fade quickly in comparison to well thought out responses that truly tell the story of deserving companies and organizations in our marketplace. Dr. Dave Miller is celebrating the 10th Anniversary of his White Pine Winery which features a tasting room in the heart of downtown St. Joseph this year, and he just picked up one of the best anniversary presents of his life from a leading wine industry publication, which has named him one of the leading changemakers and influencers of 2020 in the entire nation. Wine Business Monthly, the leading producer of information and events for the wine industry, has released its list of the Top 50 Wine Industry Leaders for 2020, and Dr. Dave is right there on the list with key players from one end of the country to the other. The publication says that every year they set out to honor "those who shape the way the wine industry operates or how people drink wine." They go on to say, "With this leaders list, we're showcasing men and women who are making a difference. It's full of movers and shakers, and there are more than a few who are dissatisfied with the status quo." Dave's brief profile accompanying the article identifies his role beyond the boundaries of White Pine, saying he serves as President of the Michigan Wine Collaborative. He is also recognized as a founding member of the Michigan Wine Collaborative, which is a non-profit organization supporting the Michigan wine industry. Wine Business Monthly applauds Dr. Dave's continued work to lobby and advocate for research funding, marketing dollars, and the promotion of local wines. In addition to his work with the Michigan Wine Collaborative, he is the owner and winemaker at White Pine Winery and Vineyards and a long running assistant professor in the Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition at Michigan State University. Wine Business Monthly's list of the Wine Leaders of 2020 includes some of the most influential people in the business, known to virtually anyone who follows the wine industry, while others are influential yet fly "under the radar." Nevertheless, all are cited by the publication as "leaders in the North American wine business." The publishers also opened the list to suggestions from within the industry, and launched a formal nomination process at the Unified Wine & Grape Symposium back in January of 2020, which resulted in more than 115 submissions "featuring some incredible people, we had a hard time narrowing the list down." With the largest circulation in North America, Wine Business Monthly is recognized as the trusted resource for wine industry news. Known for its comprehensive editorial, the magazine features the latest in wine-making, grape growing, sales and marketing, and business and technology. Winemaker trials, proprietary survey data, first looks at new products, Industry Roundtables and Varietal Focus are hallmarks of the monthly publication, available both in printed and digital versions. You can learn more online at www.winebusiness.com. To see all of this year's Wine Leaders of 2020 alongside Dr. Dave, online at www.winebusiness.com/leaders/2020 title of Midwest Regional Youth of the Year by the Boys & Girls Clubs of America. Selected among 13 outstanding youth, Tékaidra scored her latest victory last week, winning yet again in the Youth of the Year competition at every level so far. The Youth of the Year title is a prestigious honor bestowed upon an exemplary young person in recognition of leadership, service, academic excellence and dedication to live a healthy lifestyle. Now in its 73rd year, the Youth of the Year program honors the nation's most awe-inspiring young people on their path to great futures. As the Midwest Regional Youth of the Year, Masters will serve as an ambassador for all teens in the region, receive a $20,000 college scholarship from Boys & Girls Clubs of America, and go on to contend for the national Youth of the Year title on October 6th. A graduate of Benton Harbor High School, Masters is the first in her family to attend college. As a freshman at Valparaiso University in Indiana, she is majoring in Biology with plans to become a neurosurgeon. The summer before starting college, Masters interned at Spectrum Health's Lakeland Hospital in St. Joseph, as a part of the health system's GROWTH program focused on black and brown students. Masters credits Be There, the social and emotional development program at the Boys & Girls Clubs of Benton Harbor, for helping change her life. She says, "In a world where I screamed for help in hopes that someone heard me, the Boys & Girls Club did. The Club got me to open up physically, mentally, and emotionally and that's when the change happened. My confidence grew and I began to express myself. I found my voice." Jim Clark, President and CEO of Boys & Girls Clubs of America, says, "We are incredibly proud of Tékaidra and all the Youth of the Year nominees," and adds, "Being named Youth of the Year is a life-long honor. As the Midwest Regional Youth of the Year, Tékaidra will serve as a spokesperson for Boys & Girls Club kids across the region who need more role models that they can admire and emulate." Founded in 1947 as Boys & Girls Clubs of America's premier youth recognition program, Youth of the Year recognizes outstanding contributions to a member's family, school, community and Boys & Girls Club. The Youth of the Year program is supported by Toyota. As a Signature Sponsor of Youth of the Year, Toyota is committed to partnering with Boys & Girls Clubs of America to ensure local Clubs provide life-enhancing opportunities for kids and teens to explore, develop and apply the essential skills they need to be successful in life and work. Youth of the Year representatives are the workforce leaders, innovators and problem-solvers of tomorrow. On October 6th, Masters will join other state winners to vie for the national title. If named the national winner, she will be awarded an additional $50,000 college scholarship. Six youth, including five regional winners and a military youth winner, will advance to the virtual event to compete for the title of Boys & Girls Clubs of America's National Youth of the Year. The National Youth of the Year will also receive a new Toyota Corolla. For more information about the Youth of the Year program, click the link: www.youthoftheyear.org. Located at 600 Nate Wells Senior Drive, the Boys & Girls Clubs of Benton Harbor has served the youth of Benton Harbor since 1998. The Club provides after school and summer programs promoting educational and career development, character and leadership development, and healthy lifestyles for nearly 1,200 youth and teens each year at the Fettig Youth Campus and Joel E. Smilow Teen Center, as well as community-based locations in Benton Harbor and neighboring areas. Learn more online at www.bgcbbh.org.

You and the entire community are invited to join members of Peace Lutheran Church NALC, at 3590 Lincoln Avenue in St. Joseph tomorrow afternoon, Sunday, October 4th at 3pm for a Blessing of the Animals service. This special event will include a short worship service on the church lawn and individual blessing of each animal. If the weather fails to cooperate, they will socially distance in the fellowship hall of the church. For additional information you can contact the church office at 556-7000 or visit at www.peacelutheranstjoe.org. Information is also available on Facebook at Peace Lutheran Church NALC.

You see them all the time. Garage sale signs, lost pet flyers, political bumper stickers, and more plastered to utility poles around the neighborhood. Here's something you might not know. In some communities, that is prohibited outright, but in all cases, the folks at Indiana Michigan Power Company want you to know that it is dangerous. Not only for the general public, but for utility company employees as well. I&M is taking time out to remind everyone about the dangers and prohibitions against posting signs on their poles, especially as the political campaign season ramps up. I&M says that posting signs on utility poles within the public right-of-way is actually prohibited in some localities, including Fort Wayne and South Bend. Objects used to hang signs — such as tacks, staples and nails — can cause injuries to anyone who touches the pole. Utility workers need to access the poles to ensure reliability of electric service. Objects in or on the pole can obstruct climbing equipment, causing a worker to slip or fall. Those same objects can tear the protective clothing that shields a worker from electricity. Even the tiniest pinhole in a glove is enough to cause a burn or other injury. Additionally, after several signs are hung and then taken down, the utility warns that the integrity of the pole itself can become compromised. Hanging signs on utility poles — whether they concern yard sales, upcoming events, jobs, services, candidates for election or any other topic — is dangerous. I&M thanks the public for refraining from posting signs on utility poles.

That's it for this week, folks. Have a great week and we'll see you Saturday right here in MailMax, and 24/7 at www.MoodyOnTheMarket.com.

Don

Stuart

From Rich to Super-DUPER Rich!!

I never considered what it would be like to be so rich that I'd be embarrassed about it. I'm going to have to get used to the idea now though, now that it's happened.

I now have a trifecta – wait, make that THE world-record trifecta – of the world's most intelligent and beautiful and clever grandchildren in the world. Yes, I went full-redundant with "world" in that sentence, which I'm allowed to do whenever I like, seein's how I'm the World's Richest Grandparent!

The latest sterling addition to the Stuart clan is the clever, intelligent, and beautiful little girl born to No. 1 son and his wife, No. 2 daughter-in-law. For those keeping track of my wealth, she is No. 1 granddaughter (in the "No. 1 Son Division"), No. 2 granddaughter, and No. 3 grandchild – those last two being only in the sense of "birth order"! (No. 2 son and No. 1 daughter-in-law are parents to No. 1 grandson and No. 1 granddaughter [No. 2 Son Division], sometimes aka No. 2 grandchild. (I've explained all this numerical, um, numbering before -- don't make me explain it again; I assure you it has a rationale, even if that rationale is not rational.)

The new little pearl arrived one day before her due date, via Caesarean section, which the Indiana doctors who delivered her have informed the global obstetrics network will now be called the Stuartsarean Section, due to the awe-inspiring wonderfulness of this baby.

I must say, it is difficult to think of sober-minded things to say about this spectacular new bundle of joy. The best I can come up with is that she lives much too far away – she's in Indiana, and I'm not. I suppose I'd say she was too far away if she lived in the next neighborhood over, but durnit, I'm in North Carolina. From here to her feels like the distance between Tatooine and Dagobah (these are planets in the "Star Wars" saga, the first being where Luke Skywalker grew up, and second being where he met Yoda. I explain this because you may not know, although, not to embarrass you or anything, my No 2 granddaughter certainly already does, because she's sooooo smart!!)

Like most modern parents, Little Miss Wonderful's parents will do their best to shrink the distance between us by using an app called TinyBeans, which enables them to share updates and photos on a daily basis (though I'm preparing to submit a request for them to post on an quarter-hourly cadence.) TinyBeans apparently was developed for use by parents everywhere, and was pretty popular for a while. But I hear usage has dwindled to only two families – those of my kids – because my grandchildren are just too smart, personable and cute for any others to compete with.

The photos No. 1 son and No. 2 daughter-in-law have posted are, it goes without saying, very cute. There's one of her getting a bath, one of her getting her diaper changed, one of her getting her exquisite little fingernails trimmed. And there's one of her and No. 1 son captioned, "Video gaming with daddy." The look on No. 1's face is both doting and a little dazed. Turns out she was winning! (I told you! – she is sooooo smart!!)
