Quarters Needed

On a busy Friday night at the restaurant where I'd recently started waiting tables, the owner suddenly emerged from the kitchen and handed me money. "We're in trouble!" He said. "We're out of quarters, and customers are waiting. Go next door and get me $40 worth."

I ran to the supermarket next door, but a cashier said she wasn't allowed to give out that many quarters. Determined, I sprinted to a convenience store two blocks away, but it was closed. At a gas station farther down the road, the clerk took pity and gave me the four rolls of quarters. Twenty minutes after I'd left, I handed the coin rolls to my boss. "Where are the quarters?" He asked.

"Right here," I said breathlessly.

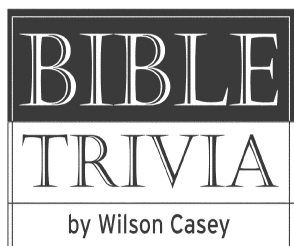

His face sank. "I meant chicken quarters."

Pandemonium Strikes Again

When the ice-maker on our refrigerator broke, my husband dropped by the local hardware to find the part. Because the sun was so bright that day and the interior of the store was dark, his eyes hadn't quite adjusted when he walked in. He accidentally stepped on the foot of a woman examining some samples. She screamed, causing my husband to jump sideways into a display of fireplace tools that went crashing in every direction. Unnerved, he stumbled over to the service desk, and as he put his hands on the counter, he flipped over a bowl of marbles, scattering them everywhere.

After taking a deep breath to calm himself, he announced to the wide-eyed woman working there, "My refrigerator doesn't work."

She replied, simply, "I don't doubt it."

Wood Turning

My wife came in today and asked if I would go do some wood turning on the lathe.

"Ah," I asked, "what do you need? Maybe a new dibber or possibly a rolling pin or a vase? I have Persimmon, Hickory, Mesquite, a little bit of Walnut and a tad of Oak. What would you like?"

"Oh, I don't care. I need about six bags of shavings for the flower beds."

Strange BUT TRUE

By Lucie Winborne

- * In March 1980, multiple female students at Southern California universities complained that someone had surreptitiously painted their toenails while they studied in the library. The perp, dubbed "Leonardo da Toenail," was caught but released, since police hadn't discovered him in the act. Apprehended again a year later, he was ordered to a hearing at the city attorney's office but didn't show up and was never seen again.
- * There are 12 times more trees on earth than there are stars in the Milky Way.
- * Academically gifted actress Sharon Stone skipped both kindergarten and first grade, entering second grade at age 5.
- * In the early '90s, Pepsi owned 17 submarines, a cruiser, a frigate and a destroyer, due to a deal with the Soviet Union in which they exchanged soda for military equipment.
- * The oldest known pet cat existed 9,500 years ago.
- * Ever find yourself nodding off in a boring meeting? You might want to invest in a box of "Sleep Safe Tape," a half-inch roll of transparent tape with pictures of eyes along its length that, as one source put it, allows users to "get the shuteye they need while appearing to be wide awake." Of course, the game is up if you start to snore ...
- * Abraham Lincoln was a skilled wrestler and was honored with an award from the National Wrestling Hall of Fame in 1992.
- * At least six ravens are kept at the Tower of London at all times, due to an old superstition that says: "If the ravens leave the Tower, the Kingdom will fall." The birds even have part of a wing clipped so if they do decide to fly around, they won't get very far.

Light Mistake

I work in a department store where every night at closing time one of our customer service representatives reminds shoppers over the public address system to finish their shopping.

One evening, a woman who had recently worked at Kmart opened the announcement by saying, "Attention Kmart shoppers..." Quickly realizing her mistake, she tap-danced her way out of trouble by adding, "...you are in the wrong store."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your honesty continues to impress everyone who needs reassurance about a project. But be careful you don't lose patience with those who are still not ready to act.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Pushing others too hard to do things your way could cause resentment and raise more doubts. Instead, take more time to explain why your methods will work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Be more considerate of those close to you before making a decision that could have a serious effect on their lives. Explain your intentions and ask for their advice.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might have to defend a workplace decision you plan to make. Colleagues might back you up on this, but it's the facts that will ultimately win the day for you. Good luck.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) The Big Cat's co-workers might not be doing enough to help get that project finished. Your roars might stir things up, but gentle purrr-suasion will prove to be more effective.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Someone you care for needs help with a problem. Give it lovingly and without judging the situation. Whatever you feel you should know will be revealed later.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) While you're to be admired for how you handled recent workplace problems, be careful not to react the same way to a new situation until all the facts are in.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Rely on your keen instincts as well as the facts at hand when dealing with a troubling situation. Be patient. Take things one step at a time as you work through it.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your curiosity leads you to ask questions. However, the answers might not be what you hoped to hear. Don't reject them without checking them out.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Be careful not to tackle a problem without sufficient facts. Even sure-footed Goats need to know where they'll land before leaping off a mountain path.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Appearances can be deceiving. You need to do more investigating before investing your time, let alone your money, in something that might have some hidden flaws.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your recent stand on an issue could make you the focus of more attention than you would like. But you'll regain your privacy, as well as more time with loved ones, by week's end.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're a good friend and a trusted confidante. You would be a wonderful teacher and a respected member of the clergy.

PIEDMONT PETS

November 5, 2020
By Paulette Dean

Our shelter mascot cat number has dwindled from five to two during the past few years. People ask how we decide what cat becomes a mascot and the answer is - It all depends on the cat and staff at the time.

Ernie has been with us for almost ten years and he became a mascot when our then-board president and volunteer extraordinaire, Lynn, spent time with him and liked him. Ernie is a sleek black cat who can go from being super-sweet to moody in five seconds.

JJ is the newest one and has only been with us for a couple of years. He chose April, the shelter manager, to be his human and she readily agreed with him. He is a medium-hair gray tabby who loves everyone.

The two of them spend their days in the front office area, searching for (and finding) soft, warm spots. When people donate towels and beds to us, Ernie and JJ are our testers. We count the number of seconds it takes them to find the donated items and we probably have never made it to "five."

Some people would say that we should find them a home. We have. The shelter is their home. They are alone (meaning "without humans") for nighttime and the rest of the day, they lead full lives with lots of attention and treats. They, of course, have been neutered, receive routine shots, and always receive veterinary care.

At about 5:00 each day, they are taken from the front office and given a can of cat food in an area with lots of choices of warm, soft beds and windows to look out of for the night. They know when 5:00 comes, and when we adjust the clocks in the fall by "falling back" an hour, they are not pleased and let us know they think we are late.

My dog, Wally, went to heaven last week and his food and water bowls were removed from my office. It hurt to look at them. However, Ernie and JJ had become accustomed to having a bowl of water in my office and for some reason, liked it better than the water in all of the other bowls scattered throughout the shelter for their dining pleasure. As a result, I picked out a new bowl for them to have in my office. Now when I come to work each morning, they wait patiently for me to put fresh water in that bowl. It is actually nice to have a water bowl stay in my office. It lets me know that Ernie and JJ will visit me; my office has been very lonely.

We hope that you visit the shelter to look for a companion to fill your life with love. , When you do come, be sure to visit with Ernie and JJ. They will convince you that cats are wonderful, with their own personalities and quirks.

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — There's no denying that one of the greatest films of all time is 1972's "The Godfather," which received 10 Oscar nominations and won Oscars for: best picture; best actor, Marlon Brando; and best adapted screenplay, Mario Puzo (who wrote the original book) and Francis Ford Coppola (who also directed the film). It grossed $287 million. Three years later "The Godfather II" won four Oscars for: best picture; supporting actor, Robert DeNiro; again for best adapted screenplay for Puzo and Coppola; and best director, Francis Ford Coppola. It grossed $80 million. But when 1990's "Godfather III" was released, the bloom must have been off the blossom, winning no Oscars but still besting "Godfather II" grosses with $137 million.

Director Barry Levinson, who directed "Diner" (1978), "The Natural" (1982), "Good Morning Vietnam" (1987), "Bugsy" (1991) and "Rain Man" (1991), for which he won a best director Oscar, is directing "Francis and the Godfather." Oscar Isaac ("Star Wars" Poe Dameron), will play Francis Ford Coppola and Jake Gyllenhaal has been cast as Robert Evans, the former actor who was the head of Paramount Pictures, the studio that made "The Godfather" films.

Levinson will soon be announcing actors to play Marlon Brando, James Caan, Robert Duvall and Diane Keaton, among others. When Marlon Brando won his Oscar, he sent American Indian Sacheen Littlefeather to accept his award and deliver a message about the plight of the American Indian. Brando went on to make epic films such as "Last Tango in Paris" (1972), "Missouri Breaks" (1976), "Superman" (1978) and "Apocalypse Now" (1979) (directed by Francis Ford Coppola) and his last film, "Superman Returns" (2006). Levinson redeveloped this screenplay, which was based on a Black List script, but that's another story among the many to be told about the making of "The Godfather."

Ricky Martin

When asked what he thought of Barry Levinson making this film, Coppola said, "Any movie Barry Levinson makes about anything will be interesting and worthwhile!"

Ricky Martin, who hasn't made a film since 2018's "The Assassination of Gianni Versace," in which he played Antonio D'Amico (Versace's lover), is shooting Netflix's Nov. 13 release of "Jingle Jangle: A Christmas Journey," a live-action musical film with Keegan-Michael Key, Phylicia Rashad and Forest Whitaker, who plays a toymaker Jeronicus Jangle, whose prize creation is stolen. It will feature original songs by "The Voice" judge and EGOT member (Emmy, Grammy, Oscar and Tony Award winner) John Legend, Philip Lawrence and Davy Nathan, and includes "This Day," performed by Usher and Kiana Lede.

Ricky Martin plays Don Juan Diego, a devious 12-inch matador. If he doesn't sing in this one, it will be a bunch of bull!

* Yard sales sponsored by churches and other charities can be a great source of bargains, especially at this time of year. Since they are a fundraiser, usually with donated items, they are motivated to sell, even if it's at a lower price. Oftentimes you can get items that still have tags, which make great gifts.

* "If your toothpaste is almost done, just snip off the top and dip your brush in the container. There's usually more in the tube." -- T.D. in Kentucky

* If someone has written on your dry erase board with a permanent marker, try writing over it with a dry erase marker. Sometimes this works to remove the permanent marker.

* Wrap a bit of tape sticky side out around a straightened-out paper clip. You can GENTLY put it in the headphone jack to get out lint that is otherwise inaccessible. Also, keep a lint-free cloth that comes with glasses handy to clean the screen of your smartphone.

* "If you are inundated by paper, here are some things you can do to at least stem the tide: First, if you can't bear to shred something because you think it might be important, scan it first. If you're the kind of person who prints out and saves things like online bill payment receipts, print to PDF and save it electronically." -- W.L. in Illinois

* "It's really annoying when I put a shirt on or take one off and I get foundation on the collar. When that happens, I use shaving cream to remove it. After removing the garment, I squirt a dollop of shaving cream on the stain and rub it in. Sometimes I try to use a paper towel to remove some of it before I put it in the washer. Always check it before you put it in the dryer!" -- L.M. in Washington

Reimagined Danville Science Center Announces Reopening Date Staff Eager to Reveal New Spaces and Help Curious-Minded Guests Across Dan River Region Discover Their World

DANVILLE, Va., November 2, 2020 – It's been more than two years since the Danville Science Center announced it was embarking on a major refreshment of its core exhibits. Dan River Region residents have been eagerly waiting for the 25-year-old organization to turn dozens of innovative ideas and community stories into reality. Now their patience will be rewarded when the Science Center reopens to the public on Saturday, Nov. 14, with two new major exhibition galleries and a creativity lab to encourage guests to discover their world in unexpected ways.

"So much has changed this year, but what hasn't changed is the importance of science in our lives," said Science Center Executive Director Adam Goebel. "The timing of our reopening couldn't be more perfect. The Danville Science Center has been transformed into a world-class, dynamic resource that will help our community make connections to the science all around them."

"Water" is the showcase space, and the largest gallery at approximately 5,000 square feet. The gallery has an immersive quality unlike anything that has ever been displayed in the region. Packed with interactive stations – such as a rain maze for guests to walk through and a wall made up of 2,400 water bottles to help guests visualize water usage in our everyday lives – it will help guests understand water differently, such as its chemical makeup, the power this resource can generate and the ecology of bodies of water like the Dan River.

Through kinesthetic (physical interaction) learning, "Go!" highlights the intersection between the physics of machines and the biology of the human body. Stations in the space engage guests in challenges: they can race animals or other family members on a sprint track, shoot free throws at a basketball hoop with arc-sensing technology, experience a human-powered hamster wheel and much more.

From construction paper to digital design programs, daily challenges in the J.T.-Minnie Maude Charitable Trust Creativity Lab will offer guests hands-on access to craft and design tools. The makerspace is an entry point into STEM learning and workforce development, not through formulas and equations, but by affording guests the opportunity to hone problem solving skills and utilize critical thinking abilities to determine solutions.

"I am thrilled for both the Danville Science Center and the City of Danville that we have met this milestone," said Delegate Danny Marshall, one of the representatives who sponsored budget amendments to obtain state funding for the project. "The investment in the Danville Science Center is an investment in STEM literacy for our community, which is critical to helping our next generation prepare for the 20th century workforce."

In addition to the three new experiences opening this month, preschool-age children can continue to enjoy "Crescent Crossing," the 1,800-square-foot train-themed exhibit that opened in May 2019. The first in the phased approach to the reimagining of the Science Center, "Crescent Crossing" introduces families to important fundamentals such as creativity, problem solving and cause and effect, and encourages children ages five and under to learn through play.

"With the completion of all the new permanent experiences, the Science Center is poised to have a lasting impact on the education, economic and community health of the Dan River Region," said Senator Bill Stanley. "I am proud to have supported such a powerful regional cultural project that can enrich the Danville community and inspire Virginia's future STEM leaders."

The reopening marks the culmination of phase two of the master plan adopted in 2017. An extensive community engagement process revealed the need for enhanced experiences as permanent galleries at the site had not been updated since its opening at the Danville Passenger Rail Station in 1995. To accomplish this, the Science Center embarked on a $9 million interior refurbishment. The $5.25 million awarded from the state combined with $3 million from Danville Regional Foundation, $500,000 from the J.T.-Minnie Maude Charitable Trust, $250,000 from the Hughes Memorial Foundation and $75,000 from the Kiwanis Club of Danville allowed the Science Center to complete the work, which finished on schedule.

As part of this project, the Science Center underwent a rebranding process. Guests will notice new design elements, such as colors and fonts, as well as a new logo, the Discoverymark, when returning to the building and soon thereafter on the Science Center's website.

In addition to the new experiences, guests can visit the Dome to see a giant-screen feature or planetarium show while on site. Also, previously scheduled to close over the summer, the traveling exhibition "Sportsology" has been extended and is currently on display through December 1. The interactive, bilingual exhibit explores the science behind sports through a series of hands-on challenges that allow guests to test their athletic abilities while learning how their body works. Just after "Sportsology" closes, the "Young Architects" traveling exhibition will open on December 12.

"The Danville Science Center's transformation is impressive, and I look forward to the fun and innovative atmosphere the new spaces will create," said Senator Frank Ruff. "Cultural organizations can have a transformative impact on young visitors, and the Science Center will inspire and empower countless creative and ambitious young people in our community."

The renovation closure overlapped with the Science Center being closed to help limit the spread of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19). While staff are excited to welcome community members back into the building and eager to discuss all things STEM, the Science Center has made several adjustments to help ensure a safe environment for all who enter.

The Science Center has developed a reopening plan that is guided by recommendations from public health officials and from the best practices of museums throughout the country that includes enhanced cleaning procedures, adjusted HVAC systems and new operating policies for guests. Social distancing will be enforced, hand sanitizer is readily available and all visitors ages 5 and up are required to wear masks. Guests are encouraged to review the full reopening procedures on the Science Center's website at <http://dsc.smv.org/protocols.html> before their visit.

The Science Center's new operating hours are Wednesday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Science Center admission is $9 with $1 discounts for guests ages 4-12 and 60+. A combo ticket for admission plus a ticket to see a Dome show is $11 with $1 discounts for guests ages 4-12 and 60+. For more information about the Science Center, visit dsc.smv.org or call 434.791.5160.

"STEM literacy is a fundamental competency in today's world," Goebel added. "We're giving people another tool in their toolbox to help understand and navigate today's challenges. We appreciate the support from our community, and look forward to seeing many familiar faces in the new exhibits in the coming weeks and months. I am confident that the Science Center will make the residents of the Dan River Region proud."

Deadline to apply is November 13

Richmond, VA (November 2, 2020) – The Virginia Department of Social Services (VDSS) is currently accepting applications for fuel assistance online and at all local departments of social services through Friday, November 13. Applications may also be submitted by telephone by contacting the Enterprise Customer Service Center, Monday through Friday, from 7:00 a.m. – 6:00 p.m. at (855) 635-4370.

Fuel assistance provides state support to assist low-income households in meeting their home energy needs such as electricity, natural and liquid propane gas, oil, kerosene, coal and wood. Assistance may also be available to support delivery and installation charges as well as connection or reconnection fees. The program is funded by the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program federal block grant.

To qualify for fuel assistance, the maximum gross monthly income for a one-person household must not exceed $1,383. For a household of four, the maximum gross monthly income is $2,839.

"Fuel assistance provides critical support to vulnerable citizens who need and deserve a safe and warm environment during the cold, winter months," said VDSS Commissioner S. Duke Storen. "Our agency remains committed to providing opportunities for households to receive assistance to meet their energy needs, which are likely increasing due to the extended time families are now spending at home working, social distancing or virtually learning."

Virginians who do not qualify for fuel assistance may be eligible to receive energy assistance support through the COVID-19 Energy Assistance Program, a new program established to help households affected by COVID-19 in meeting their home energy needs. For additional information regarding the COVID-19 Energy Assistance Program, click here.

To apply online or to check eligibility for fuel assistance, visit the CommonHelp website at <https://commonhelp.virginia.gov>. For more information regarding VDSS energy assistance programs, visit <https://www.dss.virginia.gov/benefit/ea/index.cgi>.

'A LIFE WELL-SPENT' - SENIOR LEGAL PLANNING

The Value of Certified Elder Law Attorneys

Families coping with both the emotional and legal complexities associated with long term elder care face a unique yet serious set of challenges. As a result, many individuals facing long term care issues are more than willing to turn to professional service providers for advice. Unfortunately, many purported elder law professionals simply do not have the experience or training necessary to provide comprehensive elder law planning. To ensure effective elder law planning and advice, individuals are well served to seek out professionals who specifically focus their practice on elder law issues.

Medicaid planning, for example, is a particular area of elder law that lends itself to various complexities and pitfalls. People who try to answer Medicaid questions without first undergoing extensive training run the risk of giving out misinformation that may lead to serious, long lasting effects on the care options available to you and your loved ones. If I only had a dollar for every client that said "I heard that..." What they heard is usually wrong! Realizing the complexity of this particular area of elder law is the first step toward ensuring that you or your loved ones do not fall victim to ineffective planning. The following guidelines will also help to make certain that your Medicaid and elder law needs are addressed thoroughly and effectively:

Every case is unique. Believe me, there is no cookie-cutter approach that will effectively address your Medicaid needs. Each individual facing issues related to elder law brings to the table a unique set of circumstances. In searching for an elder law professional, avoid those that do not treat each client as a fresh, unique case.

You may not have to be in a nursing home to receive Medicaid benefits. Did you know there is a benefit for in-home care? Medicaid benefits may be available to cover the costs of receiving in-home care. In Virginia, for example, the state Medicaid program not only provides benefits for qualifying individuals in nursing homes, but also for qualifying individuals who wish to remain in their homes. A qualified elder law attorney will have the knowledge to walk you through all of your long term care options, including programs that may enable you to remain in your home for as long as possible.

Asset protection should be an integral part of your elder law planning. Depending on the circumstances, there are a variety of estate planning techniques that may serve to preserve a portion of your assets without necessarily disqualifying you from Medicaid. More importantly, giving away your assets may trigger a penalty period under the Medicaid statutes that could prevent access to needed benefits for an extended period of time. An experienced elder law attorney will be able to help you implement the gifting and planning techniques that best fit your particular situation. While estate planning attorneys may be great at planning estate, they may not have the unique expertise to plan ahead for Medicaid, if needed.

Force those advising you to prove they are qualified. Do not assume that anyone is qualified to give Medicaid advice without first asking them about their experience and certifications. Social workers, financial advisors and attorneys are not necessarily well versed in Medicaid law simply on account of their titles. Ask professionals seeking to advise you to explain their training. Attorneys, for example, must receive special training and certification prior to labeling themselves as an elder law specialist. The National Elder Law Foundation is the only national organization certifying elder law attorneys, or CELAs. CELAs must complete an examination and demonstrate that their law practice is actually focused on elder law. Once certified, a CELA must continue to practice primarily in the elder law field and complete advanced continuing education programs.

Consider hiring a law firm with a full service elder law team. A growing number of law firms in Virginia realize the importance of elder law and have assembled teams capable of addressing all of your elder law needs. Look for a firm that has attorneys trained and preferably certified in the practice of elder law. Then ask about all of the people who will be working on your case. Does the firm have a elder care coordinator? Will there be someone to help you with placement of your loved one? Will the firm handle the application process? Pinpointing a full service firm allows you to choose the level of services that is best for your situation. Even if you plan on ultimately completing the paperwork and application yourself, hiring a firm with the capabilities of shepherding the entire process become invaluable if complications or unforeseen obstacles arise.

The legal world is fraught with pitfalls and complexities that can have lasting consequences. What's more, the planning process for the care of an elderly family member can be an emotionally and physically draining experience. I hope that the guidelines presented in this article will help those in need of long term care planning find an experienced elder law team who will present appropriate planning options for your situation so that you can feel secure and confident in planning for long term care for you or your loved ones. In Virginia we have some of the best elder law attorneys in the nation. You can find them at www.nelf.org or www.naela.org.

How Seniors can Save Money on Prescription Eyeglasses

Dear Savvy Senior,

What tips can you recommend for finding affordable prescription eyeglasses? I used to have vision insurance through my work but lost it when I turned 65 and signed up for Medicare.

Need Spectacles

Dear Need,

Unfortunately, in 2020 it's still true that original Medicare does not cover vision services, which includes routine eye exams and prescription eyeglasses – unless you've just had cataract surgery. While there's no one solution to this common need, here are a few tips that can help you save.

Medicare Advantage

While original Medicare doesn't cover vision services, there are Medicare Advantage plans that do. Medicare Advantage plans, which are sold through private insurance companies, cover all the same medical and hospital services that original Medicare does, but many of them also provide vision as well as dental, hearing and prescription drugs too.

To locate Advantage plans in your area that provide vision coverage, go to Medicare.gov/plan-compare or call 800-633-4227. But before enrolling in a plan, check the benefit details to ensure the plan's vision coverage includes routine eye exams, eyeglass frames and lenses.

If you are currently enrolled in original Medicare you can switch to a Medicare Advantage plan each year during the open enrollment period, which is between Oct. 15 and Dec. 7. Or, if you already have an Advantage plan that doesn't provide adequate vision coverage, you can swap to another plan between Jan. 1 and March 31.

If, however, you don't want to change your Medicare plan, you can still get coverage by purchasing a vision insurance policy – see eHealthInsurance.com. Vision policies typically start at around $11 to $13 per month for an individual, but before signing up make sure your savings potential is worth the cost of the monthly premiums and required copays.

Discount Stores

Purchasing eyeglasses from discount retailers is another way to save. Costco Optical is one of the best discount stores for good eyewear and low prices. Eyeglasses cost an average of around $184, but to shop there you have to pay a $60 annual membership fee. Some other good retail options for low prices include Sam's Club Optical and Walmart Vision Centers.

You also need to find out if you are eligible for any discounts. Some retailers provide discounts to membership groups like AARP and AAA. AARP members, for example, can get 30 percent off a pair of glasses (frames and lenses) at LensCrafters and Glasses.com, and you save an additional $10 on a complete pair at Target Optical. AARP also offers $55 comprehensive eye exams (dilation included) at participating eye doctors. See AARPVisionDiscounts.com for more information.

Buy Online

Buying eyeglasses online can also offer huge savings. Stores like ZenniOptical.com, and EyeBuyDirect.com sell prescription eyeglasses for as little as $6 and $7. These sites let you upload a photo of your face, so you can see what you'd look like in different frames.

Or, for a snappier choice of frames see WarbyParker.com, which offers single-vision glasses starting at $95. They even offer a free program where you can request up to five pairs to try on at home for five days.

To purchase glasses online, you'll need a valid prescription from an eye doctor (typically no more than a year old), plus your pupillary distance number, which is the distance, measured in millimeters, between the centers of your pupils in each eye.

Low-Income Assistance

If your income is low, depending on where you live, there may be some local clinics that provide free or discounted eye exams and eyeglasses. Put in a call to your local Lions Club to see what's available in your area. See Directory.LionsClubs.org for contact information.

You may also be able to get free eyeglasses through New Eyes (New-Eyes.org, 973-376-4903), a nonprofit organization that provides free eyeglasses through a voucher program to people in financial need.

TRENDY?

It's just what all those not-so-serious fashionistas out there have been waiting for: a pair of dirty overalls. They are pricey, however, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. They'll set you back $1,400 but the stylists at Gucci's seem to think they just might be all the rage this fall and winter. According to the company's Website, the "denim overall is crafted from organic cotton and specifically treated for a stained-like, distressed effect." In other words they look like you've been rolling around in the grass and mud.

SHE WAS DETERMINED TO VOTE

Karen Briceno Gonzalez works at the office of the Orange County [Florida] Supervisor of Elections and was taken by surprise when a man walked in and excitedly showed her his wife's driver's license. He said his pregnant wife was in labor in his car and that she was refusing to go to the hospital until she voted, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. Ms. Gonzalez grabbed a vote by mail ballot and took it to the pregnant woman but the woman insisted that she wanted to cast her ballot "right now." So, she watched as the woman "filled out her ballot while doing a little controlled breathing" and then the husband drove her off to the hospital. "I understand the importance of this election to some people. I gave her an 'I Voted' sticker, and she was on her way to the hospital. She was very happy that she got to vote," Ms. Gonzalez told WESH-TV.

EASY DOES IT

Many a husband has been chastised by his spouse for dedicating precious space in their abodes to what you might call a "man cave." But three New York City transit workers got suspended recently for taking over a storage room under the tracks of Grand Central Terminal and turning into their own manuary, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. Their bosses acted on a tip, which upon investigation led them to the well-furnished converted supply locker with its TV, air conditioning, video streaming equipment and other trappings. The MTA posted photos of the repurposed space on Facebook as well as a statement rebuking the workers for having "the chutzpah to commandeer a secret room beneath Grand Central Terminal and make it their very own man-cave, sustained with MTA resources, and maintained at our riders' expense."

Prince Pinkney, an eighty-three-year-old Vietnam war veteran, collapsed from heat exhaustion while doing yard work at his Fort Lauderdale, Florida home recently. Firefighters and paramedics wasted no time coming to the rescue, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. They not only treated Pinkney and his wife, Rebecca, they finished mowing their lawn for them. As Fire Rescue Captain Terry Maylor put it: "Their age, what they've gone through, his history as a veteran serving this country. If that doesn't move you to go ahead and do what you're capable of, then nothing will."

A TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT

Cleanliness is next to godliness and it can pay off, big time, when you are cleaning out a cluttered garage, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. Take the guy in the U.K. who was doing just that when he came across an old teapot that belonged to his mom. He was going to donate it to a local thrift shop but decided at the last moment to get it appraised. It turned out that it wasn't a teapot after all; it was a small Chinese wine ewer dating back to the 18th century and it had quite a history. He put it up for auction sparking a global bidding war and fetching nearly half a million dollars. His grandfather had brought it back with him when he returned from the Far East, having served there during World War II.

SENIOR NEWS LINE

A Comfy Nest for Winter

Since it looks like this horrible coronavirus isn't going away soon, we might as well take a few steps to make our lives more comfortable over the winter. Here are some ideas:

- Investigate a new wireless router to speed up your Wi-Fi connection, especially if you have multiple devices that put a drag on your connection. Be sure it's at least Wi-Fi 5, not Wi-Fi 4. The newest, Wi-Fi 6, is top of the line.
- Buy a warm fleece blanket, one-person size, for watching TV at night. These 50x70 throws are just the right length.
- Consider getting a Kindle, with a free three-month subscription to Kindle Unlimited. You can grab up to 10 free books or magazines at a time. Once you've read one, delete it and get another one. After three months you can decide if you want to spend $9.99/month to keep the subscription going. Depending on your reading habits, this can be a good deal.
- If you have someone who can deliver and assemble it, an outdoor propane grill can be a bit of summer fun in the middle of a cold winter.
- Keep an eye on sales if you need an additional pot for the extra cooking you're doing. Stores like Target and Bed, Bath & Beyond have curbside delivery, so if you pay online you don't have to go in the store. Get freezer bags to store individual portions you can pull out and heat up without cooking every day.
- Splurge on one good, thick sweater or zip sweatshirt to wear in the house.
- Think about getting an air cleaner for inside the house to clean up dust mites, stale air and pet dander. Be cautious about the price of replacement filters.
- Reorganize your kitchen cabinets, pantry or linen closet shelves.
- And don't forget to stock up on batteries!

Memory Lane

I came across this phrase in a book yesterday: "fender skirts."

I haven't heard this term in a long time, and thinking about "fender skirts" started me thinking about other words that quietly disappear from our language with hardly a notice, such as "curb feelers" and "steering knobs."

Since I'd been thinking of cars, my mind naturally went that direction first. Kids, you will probably have to find some elderly person over 60 to explain some of these terms to you.

Remember "continental kits"? They were rear bumper extenders and spare tire covers that were supposed to make any car as cool as a Lincoln Continental.

When did we quit calling them "emergency brakes"? At some point "parking brake" became the proper term. But I miss the hint of drama that went with "emergency brake."

Didn't you ever wait at the street for your dad to come home so you could ride the "running board" up to the house?

Here's a phrase I heard all the time in my youth but never anymore: "store-bought." Of course, just about everything is store-bought these days. But once it was bragging material to have a store-bought dress or a store-bought bag of candy.

"Coast-to-coast" is a phrase that once held all sorts of excitement and now means almost nothing. Now we take the term "worldwide" for granted. This floors me.

On a smaller scale, "wall-to-wall" was once a magical term in our homes. In the '50s, everyone covered hardwood floors with, wow, wall-to-wall carpeting! Today, everyone replaces wall-to-wall carpeting with hardwood floors. Go figure.

Most of these words go back to the '50s, but here's a pure '60s word I came across the other day: "rat fink." Ooh, what a nasty put-down!

Here's a word I miss: "percolator." That was just a fun word to say. And what was it replaced with? "Coffee maker." How dull. Mr. Coffee, I blame you for this.

I miss those made-up marketing words that were meant to sound so modern and now sound so retro: words like "Dyna-Flow" and "Electrolux." Introducing the 1963 Admiral TV, now with "SpectraVision"!

Here's food for thought: Was there a telethon that wiped out lumbago? Nobody complains of that anymore. Maybe that's what castor oil cured, because I never hear mothers threatening kids with castor oil anymore.

Some words aren't gone but are definitely on the endangered list. The one that grieves me most is "supper." Now everybody says "dinner." Save a great word. Invite someone to supper. Discuss fender skirts.

Cinnamon Apple Pie Bread

Forget the pie crust and get all the flavors of fall in a quick and easy bread with brown sugar and cinnamon topping that's as sweet as apple pie.

Ingredients

- 1/3 cup light brown sugar (not packed)
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 2/3 cup white sugar
- 1/2 cup salted butter, softened (or use unsalted and add 1/4 tsp salt)
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 3/4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 apple, peeled and chopped (I used Granny Smith)

Instructions

- Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 9 x 5-inch loaf pan.
- Mix brown sugar and cinnamon together in a mixing bowl and set aside.
- Beat white sugar and butter together in a bowl using an electric mixer until smooth and creamy.
- Beat in eggs, 1 at a time, until incorporated; add vanilla extract and stir until incorporated.
- Combine flour and baking powder together in another bowl; stir into creamed butter mixture.
- Mix milk into batter until smooth.
- Pour half the batter into the prepared loaf pan. Next add half the apples and half the brown sugar cinnamon mixture. Lightly pat/push apple mixture into batter.
- Pour the remaining batter over apple layer; top with remaining apples and add more brown sugar/cinnamon mixture.
- Lightly pat/push apples into batter; swirl brown sugar mixture through apples using a finger or spoon (I cleaned my hands and used my finger because it was easier).
- Bake in the preheated oven until a toothpick inserted in the center of the loaf comes out clean, 30 to 40 minutes.
