SPEAK OUT

Dear "Speak Out",

The election of 2020 is now a part of our history. We should now reflect on both the good and the bad of this experience.

Regardless of whether our candidate won or lost, there are more fundamental issues which we should examine to enable us to become better Americans for the future.

We must, as a nation, accept the votes of all our citizenry and the candidates who were legally elected. If we refuse to honor our country's election process, our country will be in dire condition.

Anyone who looked at the red and blue states on the map of America had to see a country severely divided and polarized. Just look at a map of the United States during the Civil War and you will see many similarities.

One way in which our country could come together as one people and not many separate factions is when we are the victim of a military attack. I personally do not wish that to happen, but we seemed to unite as one nation after Pearl Harbor and 911.

President George Washington warned us in his farewell address on Saturday, September 17, 1796, when he said "However political parties may now and then answer popular ends, they are likely in the course of time and things, to become potent engines, by which cunning, ambitious, and unprincipled men will be enabled to subvert the power of the people and to usurp for themselves the reins of government, destroying afterwards the very engines which have lifted them to unjust dominion."

Benjamin Franklin said "The different factions, which at present divide us, aim all at the public good; the differences are only about the various modes of promoting it."

There were differences back then as there are today. The presidential election in 1800 saw America very divided. Thomas Jefferson, in his first inaugural address on Wednesday, March 4, 1801, said "But every difference of opinion is not a difference of principle. We have been called by different names brethren of the same principle."

Abraham Lincoln said on Wednesday, June 16, 1858, "A house divided against itself cannot stand." This is as true today as it was back then!

Teddy Roosevelt said "We have become a great nation, forced by the fact of its greatness into relations with the other nations of the earth, and we must behave as be seen as a people with such responsibilities." All the nations of the world are watching us to see how a real republic conducts itself after an election.

President Barack Obama said on Wednesday, November 9, 2016, after the presidential election "We all go forward with a presumption of good faith in our fellow citizens. That's how this country has moved forward for 240 years."

I believe that both presidential candidates should make similar statements and encourage all of us to come together for what is best for our country. We cannot expect our elected officials to heal all the divisions of our country.

We as Americans must repent of our racial, religious, ethnic and political differences and ask God for His assistance with the continuance of our wonderful country. The candidates we elect are only a mirror of our own values and prejudices. One thing I have learned from the past few presidential elections is that we Americans are very fickle people.

Each political party possesses very different beliefs but we seem to vacillate between one party and the other. It seems that we don't really know what our beliefs are as they seem to change with the wind every four years. I would encourage anyone to send an article to the "Speakout" expressing your views on this election.

Lord willing, I will see you next week.

Ron Powell

Is Healing For All?

One of the greatest barriers to the faith of many who need a healing in their physical body, is the uncertainty in their minds about the will of God to heal all who are sick. In John 6:38, Jesus said "For I have come down from heaven not to do My own will, but the will of Him who sent me." So what did Jesus do while living upon the earth? He healed all who came to him.

In fact, 6 times in the gospels we see Jesus healing all who needed healing. One example of this is Matthew 8:16, "When evening had come, they brought to Him many who were demon-possessed. And He cast out the spirits with a word, and healed all who were sick."

Not once in the accounts of the life of Jesus do we see Him refusing to heal anyone who came to Him to be healed. And God does not discriminate. If you are sick, it is God's will to see you healed.

We encourage you to look up and read all the following scriptures that say Jesus healed all who came to Him: Matt 4:23-25; Matt 12:15; Matt 14:34-36; Luke 4:40; and Luke 6:19. Let faith touch your heart as you read. Believe what His word tells you. If Jesus healed all who came to Him, then come to Him for your healing.

If you would like to talk about the above, or would like us to pray with you, let us know.

State Imposes New COVID-19 Restrictions

With the number of positive COVID-19 cases climbing in New York State, Governor Andrew Cuomo is imposing new statewide restrictions effective Friday, November 13, 2020 at 10PM. According to the Governor's website, the restrictions are as follows:

- Indoor and outdoor gatherings at private residences are limited to 10 people or fewer.
- Bars, restaurants and gyms or fitness centers, as well as any State Liquor Authority-licensed establishment, will be required to close in-person service from 10PM to 5AM daily.
- Restaurants will still be allowed to provide curbside, food-only pick-up or delivery after 10PM but will not be permitted to serve alcohol to go.

Empire State Development provides these additional details from New York State:

- Social clubs – Elks, American Legions, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Knights of Columbus, Sons of Italy, etc. are included in the restrictions.
- Restaurants without liquor licenses – They are also included in the restrictions but are allowed to continue delivery and to-go service after 10PM.
- Casinos – the entire casino floor operation must close at 10PM (not just the bars, restaurants, and drink service).
- Movie theaters that have SLA licenses – If a movie theater has an SLA license, all movies in the theater have to be over and closed by 10PM.
- Last call must take place before 10PM.
- 24 hour establishments such as diners may reopen at 5AM.

For the latest information on these new COVID-19 restrictions, please visit <https://www.governor.ny.gov/>.

Is Your Home Safe from Radon?

According to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Livingston County is one of many counties in New York State considered to have a high potential for high radon levels. Radon is a cancer-causing radioactive gas that you cannot see, smell, or taste. It can be present in your home without you knowing and has been identified by the Surgeon General as the second leading cause of lung cancer in the United States. The EPA reports that radon is responsible for approximately 20,000 deaths annually.

Radon is produced naturally by the decay of radioactive material in soil, rock and in groundwater. It moves upward in the soil and can enter your home through cracks and other holes in your home's foundation or with groundwater from a well. Houses located (i) on highly permeable, gravel concentrated soils or (ii) on or around limestone rock formations may be at higher risk for elevated indoor radon levels.

The only way to determine if radon is a concern in your home is to test for it using a radon detection kit. The Livingston County Department of Health reminds residents that these kits are available free of charge to Livingston County residents who are homeowners. Contact the Center for Environmental Health at 585-243-7280 for more information on radon or to get a free radon detection kit.

November is National Hospice Month

Mount Morris, NY, November 2020 — Hospice is a team-oriented approach to providing specialized care for people facing a life-limiting illness or injury. It includes expert medical care, pain management and emotional support for patients and their families. But more simply, hospice care supports living one's life to the fullest with dignity regardless of how much time remains. Seven in 10 Americans said they would prefer to die at home according to a Time/CNN Poll. Statistics show that 25 percent actually do according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. In a recent national survey, the overwhelming majority of respondents agreed that expertise in keeping a terminally-ill patient as comfortable and as pain-free as possible is the single most important service to consider when caring for a loved one and the end-of-life experience. This is the essence of hospice care. One of the great myths of hospice, for many who have not experienced it, is that hospice patients are merely lying in a bed, barely conscious. This is not the case. When a patient is admitted at an appropriate time, hospice care can improve his or her quality of life. Research shows that health care providers feel responsible to discuss hospice with their patients when the time is right, as it provides a kind of care that they are unable to give. Nearly three-fourths of family caregivers agree that hospice care is a better choice for a terminally ill patient. Of this group, 69 percent believe that involvement in hospice makes a better impact on the patient's family as well. Another hospice myth is that families lose control over what happens to their loved ones. The facts are that a family is generally able to choose their preferred hospice provider for a loved one, and can be trained to serve as a primary caregiver, with a specialist to provide support when needed. It is the unique nature of hospice that allows for the feeling of family and comfort to become embedded and vital in the patient's care. This concept of more family interaction explains the overall goal of hospice – creating more moments of life before a life is over. Hospice enables moments and memories that would otherwise not occur. It is the quality of these final moments, after all, that can define a "good death."

It's never too soon to explore your end-of-life options. Livingston County Hospice is a program of the Livingston County Department of Health, which provides home visiting using CDC precautions regarding COVID-19. For more information on Hospice care, please call 585-243-7290 or visit our website at www.livingstoncounty.us/179/hospice.
