THIS IS AN UPDATE FROM SUE MACHETTA OF YANTIS, TEXAS WHO IS A DIRECTOR IN THE MEXICAN CHILDRENS REFUGE ORGANIZATION SERVING IN THE NUEVO PROGRESO AREA IN MEXICO

Blessings in South Texas and Mexico! 2020 has been a very different year and while we are happy to see it go, Christ is still in charge. There were times throughout the year where we felt so pressured to get everything done – How can we take care of so many people? How can we get everything donated and into the right hands when so much is coming our way? Will we have the strength to do it all? What does God really want from us?

The last question was easy – He wants our best. We remembered that God wouldn't ask us to do something if he didn't provide a way. Somehow, someway, from East Texas to all across the United States, people were quietly working. Friends helped me with woodworking in East Texas so we could provide 145 families in Mexico three weeks of groceries. Other friends were quietly making donations of needed items and dropping them off for delivery south. Friends in their late 70s that travel to South Texas for warmer winter months helped us distribute all of the non-perishables, fresh meats and vegetables.

For some of the children's families, Christmas gifts were not possible due to poverty, but again, because of friends all across the country, we were able to distribute over 1400 Christmas stockings filled with small toys, school supplies, soap and candy plus we were able to distribute over 500 pairs of shoes, 300 new blankets (some handmade by our quilters in East Texas!), three tubs full of new gloves, hats and stockings, and much more. And all of this was distributed while keeping people in small groups with social distancing!

Another blessing, fresh drinking water is now on its way to Mexico in the form of many donations of filtering systems which should greatly increase the people's quality of life. COVID is still in Mexico as well. Treatments are available but in most cases, the people can't afford to purchase the medicine. Some recover and some cannot. We have been well, and despite all challenges, will continue the Mexican Childrens Refuge ministry with God's help!

Residents of small communities received food distributions in small groups to prevent COVID spread.

Distribution center volunteers package foods, clothing for the families.

Children served by the refuge received Christmas stockings filled with candy, health needs.

Til next week, let's watch for winter weather, watch out for family and friends, and count our many blessings

Andrews, Texas has a Christmas light display that rivals something you might find at Disneyland. It all takes place on a vacant lot which has a screen mounted on a frame that resembles a football goal post. And the lights are every where, all synsynchronized to music. They flash on and off and seem to dance in sequence. Although it can be controlled by a laptop from a remote location, even a beach, the control panel mounted on a wall resembles an airline cockpit.

It's the brainchild of Randall Roberts, who started buying strings of light that were on sale after Christmas in stores all over the Permian Basin. He bought pallets of lights and decorated his house with them. The resulting display was so spectacular it was featured on the second episode of ABC TV's Christmas Light Fight.

Randall is really into computerized lights synchronized to music. He goes to seminars all over the country and beyond to get ideas and find out new products and new ways of controlling the display. He showed me a string of lights that must have stretched 50 yards. Every 3 or 4 inches there was a rectangular device that had 3 tiny light bulbs in it. The lights can go on and off with the click of a mouse. "Millions of times a second it's sending commands that tell the 4th one on this string to come on or go off, blink or be part of a sequence," says Randall. In the beginning it took him 20 hours to program one minute of display. That was using 500 channels. Now it's much faster and he uses 300,000 channels. He's hiring others to do a portion of the display now.

He got started doing this back in 2005 or 6 when the Chamber of Commerce had a synchronized display around the courthouse and people could sit in their cars and watch it and hear the music on their car radio. "I thought I'd like to do something like that, but maybe a little bit bigger." When he moved to the vacant lot in 2015 people stopped to ask him if he was building a new high-rise apartment building. "I told them I was just building a town for Santa."

He changes the music every year but wouldn't dare take off some of the regular songs. He does a special with GOD BLESS THE USA. "At the end of the song I've had Viet Nam veterans come up to me with tears in their eyes and tell me it was the first time they've ever been appreciated." This year he has added a Christmas rap song.

The display is lighted at dark from the day after Thanksgiving until the night of January 1st. It lasts until 10 PM weeknights and 11 on weekends. Sometimes there is a manger scene with live animals. The same Santa has been in Andrews for 37 years. The chamber serves cups of hot chocolate. That's how they measure the number of people who attend. One single night they passed out 5,000 cups of hot chocolate. Some people stay in their cars, others get out and walk around Santa land. Most of the visitors are from out of town. You can see his light show if you Google Andrews Christmas lights. People all over the world have seen the display and let Randall know they appreciate it.
