A RED "HINGED" MESSENGER

My Sister Brenda, (after 30 years together we are truly Sisters rather than Sisters In Law), delivered this sweet token to me late fall. It's a "Lucky Little Cardinal". This is very meaningful because she is one of my principal touchstones. She has heard me laugh loudly and cry just as hard at times. Her messages are always ones of compassion and understanding. Considering this Cardinal, meant to bring renewal, faith, and good luck, came from her I have no doubt it has special Cardinal Powers. Cardinal by definition means it holds the greatest powers and is fundamental to it's cause. Cardo is Latin for hinge. This is important since many believe Cardinals are the hinge between Our world and the Spirit world. The red of the Cardinal protects us from harm. Certain cultures view the Cardinal as a Truth teller. If you see a Cardinal it is thought they are sending truth. This message may be one of encouragement to keep you on the path you are on, affirming you are doing right by yourself. Or the message may be a warning to beware that someone in your circle is not being truthful with you and proceed with caution. This person could be your own self! How often have we been on a path that we know is not right for us. Take this sighting as an opportunity to examine your path. Some believe that the Cardinal is a compass of support. The legend tells that if you see a Cardinal speak your message to the East and the Cardinal will carry that message on It's wings in flight to where it needs to be heard. Modern Western civilization feels that if a Cardinal visits you up close, it is a sign that those we love which have passed on are watching over us. These visits assure us that we are not alone, and that our loved one's are in our orbit helping to guide us, watch over us, protect us and keep us going in the right direction on our Path. In our London family that faith is expressed as we exchange symbols and gifts of Cardinals frequently. It is often at times of transition, anxiety or joy that visits from Cardinals or gifts of Cardinals appear. I have looked out to my bird feeder and seen a Red Cardinal staring right at me, sometimes more than one! Has that happened to you? Makes you feel seen and comforted, doesn't it? There are no coincidences. The red of the Cardinal is a symbol of renewal. Makes sense since oftentimes the Cardinal is seen and stands out so vibrantly against the white of the snowy branches in Winter. Reminding us that even in the cold harshness of Winter, when everything lies dormant and lifeless, beauty and life do exist. It's sighting reminds us that Spring's renewal is not far off, just another reason for gratitude and hope. To hear the Cardinal's song of renewal please click this link and hear the Cardinal's charming yet graceful melody <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=CMSIMrCynyg>

RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS

It can be tempting to make a bad decision when coming across a great deal, but if you know or suspect that the goods you are about to purchase were obtained illegally, you could be found guilty of receiving stolen goods. Even if you did not know at the time of purchase that the items were stolen but found out later, you could still be found guilty. However, if you can prove that you intended to either return the items to their owner or turn them in to the police once you learned they were illegally obtained, you are not guilty of a crime. Penalties for receiving stolen items range from monetary fees to imprisonment.

There are many kinds of theft crimes. For information on the law on such a crime in your jurisdiction, consult an attorney. If you face charges, a criminal defense lawyer with experience in the local court system and with cases like yours should be able to explain the relevant law and procedure. If you have been charged with a crime and are worried about a way out, consult the Law Office of MACK & PACE by calling (585)798-1000. We emphasize criminal law, business law, family law, and estate planning.

534 Main St., Suite 6
Medina, NY 14103

HINT: The crime of receiving stolen goods can be prosecuted as either a felony or a misdemeanor depending on the value of the stolen items.

Substitute Teacher Shows Creativity with Orleans Learning Center Students

Orleans/Niagara BOCES employee Adam Clause will tell you he basically grew up in a classroom. "My mom is a special education teacher at Orleans/Niagara BOCES and I have been fortunate to have the influence of her coworkers as well."

After graduating with a History degree from SUNY Geneseo he has been working with his mother, Theresa Clause, at the Orleans Learning Center as a teacher aide. When the school's Multi-Occupations teacher retired in the middle of the school year, Adam was asked if he could step in until a replacement was found. "Since I can't use power tools with the students, I am not certified in that area, I had to really use some intuitive learning to try to keep the students engaged." Intuitive learning takes in information that is abstract, original and oriented towards theory. Students are encouraged to look at the big picture and try to grasp overall patterns. It involves discovering possibilities and relationships and working with ideas. "We were talking a lot about shapes, like pyramids, cubes and how to construct things to make shapes. We then started talking about how to take things that are fragile and put them together in such a way that they would be strong and be able to bear weight."

Using some creativity, Adam had his students make towers out of spaghetti and marshmallows and then see how many grams each tower can hold. The students loved the project. "It was cool to see the enthusiasm about doing the work," says Adam. "They were very excited to show off their end results. It surpassed my expectations on how much they embraced the project." "It was really entertaining and was interesting building with spaghetti," says Kaleb, one of the students. His classmate Lisheen adds, "It challenged my mind during the building process! It was fun comparing and contrasting everyone's project with the directions because everyone made a variety of towers." Some of the towers carried as much as 631 grams and the students had a lot of fun competing. One student Hayley says, "I liked seeing how much weight everyone's tower could hold." Darold says he learned a lot of lessons from it. "I loved the project and it taught me how to build a solid foundation for a tower." Desiree chimed in that keeping track of each layer of the tower taught her about patience.

Adam says the next project will be building a balsa wood bridge. "I have really been having a blast working with the students like this. I am very fortunate that my mom and the other teachers have been giving me a lot of advice and strategies on working with the kids. I really love working at Orleans/Niagara BOCES and with these students."
