When Special-Lite found a new home in Benton Township several years ago with the help of Cornerstone

Alliance, they clearly found a place that they have been able to succeed, but also where they continue to expand dramatically. The dynamic company has announced that they will be moving their fiberglass pultruding and manufacturing operations to their facility on Empire Avenue in Benton Charter Township. The company anticipates investing up to $2.3 million for building renovations, machinery and equipment for its facility located on Empire. In addition to hiring 35 new employees immediately, this expansion will create more than 60 new jobs over the next three years. Founded in 1971, Special-Lite designs, engineers and manufactures high-performance architectural building products, which include commercial entrance systems, interior aluminum (Type II) framing with swing or sliding aluminum framed doors, and FRP restroom partitions. The company originated the use of fiberglass reinforced polyester (FRP) material for door skins in the early 1980's and is the largest volume producer of commercial FRP doors in the United States today. This expansion will provide new job opportunities for Benton Charter Township residents. Cathy Yates, Supervisor of Benton Charter Township, says, "Special-Lite is very good for Benton Charter Township, as it allows our residents to get jobs with medical and retirement benefits. I want to thank them for bringing this warehouse of opportunity to our community," and adds, "I did a personal walk through of the location and was very impressed with the modernized equipment and safety procedures now in place." Cathy Tilley, Cornerstone Alliance Business Development Manager, led the project from start to finish, and says, "We are thrilled that Special-Lite is transferring all fiberglass pultruding and manufacturing from Arkansas to its facility in Benton Charter Township. Special-Lite knows first-hand the benefits of doing business in the State of Michigan, which includes working with groups like Kinexus to find the talent necessary to be successful. MEDC was also a valuable resource, providing a Michigan Business Development Program performance-based grant, and without their support, this project would not have happened." Special-Lite President and CEO Steven Bencotter is thrilled, saying, "We are very excited about the expansion of our Benton Harbor manufacturing operations and the positive impact it will have on the community."

Your Chamber Update

As you may recall, I recently penned two columns discussing the $5 billion in federal funds awarded to Michigan by the Trump Administration in December of 2020.

First, I covered Governor Whitmer's Michigan COVID Recovery Plan and the $225 million it would spend on three new small business support initiatives through the MEDC. Then, I covered the Michigan House's Help and Hope for Struggling Michiganders plan which almost doubled the amount appropriated to help our struggling small businesses through a variety of targeted relief proposals.

In both columns, I stressed the need for these funds to be released into the hands of struggling businesses, and the need for it to happen quickly. Three months, two major proposals, and a slew of executive vetoes later, exactly zero dollars have been released to support Michigan's small business community.

To recap, the Governor's proposed plan would have provided $225 million for three new programs from the MEDC:

- The Michigan Mainstreet Initiative would help stabilize our small business community by securing grants for restaurants and other place-based businesses to keep our Main Streets vibrant and our communities resilient.

- The Michigan Microenterprise Support Initiative would help us put small businesses with less than nine employees on the path to recovery by creating greater access to much needed support.

- And the Business Accelerator and Resiliency Initiative would provide grants to high-tech startups that can help our communities thrive.

Shortly thereafter, the legislature crafted a proposal which instead allocated $555 million to the following:

- $150 Million to stabilize the Unemployment Trust Fund

- $300 Million in a Property Tax Relief program

- $55 Million in an Unemployment Insurance Relief program

- $16.5 Million for an on-premise Liquor License Relief program

- $22 Million for a Food Establishment License Relief program

- $11.5 Million for a License and Inspection Fee Relief program

We reviewed both plans in depth and believed the legislature's proposal differentiated itself by crafting a plan that not only allocated more dollars towards relief for businesses but did so in a more targeted manner. We advocated strongly for its passage and, thankfully, the House and Senate were able to send it to the Governor's desk. Unfortunately, on Tuesday, March 9, Governor Whitmer utilized her line-item veto authority to strip every cent the legislature allocated towards these small business relief programs while signing off on the rest of the bill.

To start, this came as a shock because the legislature's proposal (HB 4047 S-2) passed with wide bipartisan support in the Senate (34 to 1) and in the House (85 to 25). Second, the funds were not tied to any curtailment of her executive authority. Instead, the veto letter attributed the move to a lack of negotiation between branches.

I'm sorry, but we should not accept that answer. This funding had been on the table for three months. The two proposals were well publicized and had plenty of overlap. Her authority to act in a pandemic was not at stake and she approved plenty of other spending elements contained within the bill. Is small business survival just not a priority for the administration?

Thankfully, the Michigan Senate has rolled the vetoed small business relief dollars into another bill (SB 114) which will likely be voted out of the Michigan House next week. From there, it will go back to the Governor's desk for approval.

When it does, Michigan's hardworking businesses and employees deserve better than another excuse. They deserve action. We'll continue to do everything within our power to advocate for that action to occur.

Temptations

At once the Spirit sent him [Jesus] out into the desert, and he was in the desert forty days, being tempted by Satan. He was with the wild animals, and angels attended him.
Mark 1:12,13

Jesus knows what it's like to be tempted. He began his public ministry this way. The Holy Spirit sent him into the desert where Satan tempted and tempted and tempted Jesus. The good news is that Jesus never once gave in to any of those temptations. He knew that doing so would be wrong and a sin against God. If he did, he would fail to be the Savior. It didn't matter if no one else was looking. Sin is still sin whether someone sees our sin or not because God sees all.

Jesus lived each day as a sinless one, overcoming every temptation. The good news is that Jesus lived this perfect life in our place. The blessed result is that through faith in Jesus, God sees us clothed in the perfect righteousness of Jesus, our Savior.

Such a wonderful message not only lifts us up when we're mindful of our many failings, but it also strengthens us with the resolve that we, by God's power, can overcome temptations. God gives us the strength to walk away. God empowers us to say "No," even when no one is looking. And when we fail, God's promise of his full forgiveness strengthens us to return once again to the fight, knowing full well that Jesus has defeated the tempter, who has no power over us.

Prayer: Lord Jesus, when my thoughts, words and deeds become impure, have mercy when I become defiled. Forgive, lift up, restore me, your child. Amen.

Don

Change A-comin' to Gross US Cities?

Stuart

Oh my gosh, did you hear what the federal government is doing to some gross cities?!?

Wait, let me clarify – the federal government is doing something to a gross-worth of cities.

One hundred and forty-four – that's 144 – American municipalities are probably going to be redesignated from Metro to Micro.

See, there's a thing called the "Metropolitan Statistical Area" or MSA. Any city with a population above 50,000 – people, that is, beloved pets and imaginary friends are not included – is an MSA. But nowadays, cities above 50,000 people, but below 100,000 people, shouldn't be MSAs anymore. Instead, they should be MSAs. As in, Micropolitan Statistical Areas. This is all according to several official U. S. Federal Offices of Counting Stuff.

As you can imagine, there were newspapers and TV stations in 144 cities that were all over this story. MailMax readers may be alarmed to hear that the proposed change affects St. Joseph!! But chill, my peeps – it's St. Joseph, Missouri. But there are MI places about to go MI-cro: Monroe, Bay City, Midland, Battle Creek, Niles, and Jackson.

Other affected cities around the country include Jackson, and no, I'm not suffering from echolalia. I'm talkin' bout Jackson, Tennessee.

When the hammer comes down on this alteration, it will also be a tough day for Lewiston, the ones in Idaho and Maine, and Longview, in Oregon and Texas (thankfully, the Oregon folks are remaining calm and taking the longview). It'll also be the day many Falls fall –Great Falls, Montana; Twin Falls and Idaho Falls, Idaho; Wichita Falls, Texas; and Glens Falls, New York.

I personally think quite a few of the other targeted cities could make a case for remaining "Metro," due to some special attribute that separates them from the rest of the gross.

For example, Morgantown, West Virginia – Joni Mitchell wrote a lovely song called "Morning Morgantown." Morgantown is 30,000 people short of 100K but having your own song should merit a special dispensation.

Similarly, there's a line in the best song the Marshall Tucker Band ever did – sing along with me if you like!: "Texarkana's an hour ahead/and I gotta keep my wheels rollllllll-in'." Yeah, it's the tune "24 Hours at a Time," and the 13 or so minute-long live version is the jewel in MTB's crown, and don't give me no guff 'bout any of their other songs.

Anyway, Texarkana, Texas, remains Metro because of this.

Pittsfield, MA, is being targeted. I've been to Pittsfield. Sorry, but it deserves to be Micro'd.

Towns – oops, CITIES! – that sound just plain fun when they roll off the tongue should be taken off the list: Fond du Lac and Oshkosh, Wisconsin; Altoona, Pennsylvania; Homosassa Springs, Florida; and my favorite, Walla Walla, Washington.

You can't be serious about Rapid City, South Dakota! – Cary Grant pursues Eva Marie Saint all the way to Rapid City for the famous final scenes in "North by Northwest"! You can't get more Metro than Cary Grant!

There are a LOT of "populated places," as statisticians put it, named Springfield. One of them is going Micro. Guess which one, and I'll send you a prize – a framed copy of this column! (just $35 shipping and handling!) I'll even give you a hint: It's NOT the Springfield The Simpsons live in!

We are also very appreciative of all that our Marshall Arkansas team has done in support of the transfer as they continue to support our customers." Bencotter also mentioned the importance of Special-Lite's partnership with Cornerstone Alliance, saying, "One of the keys to our success is the ability to attract talent and we are counting on our partnership with Cornerstone Alliance and MEDC to support our efforts in this area." Special-Lite, Inc. is a privately held firm with its headquarters in Decatur, Michigan, and manufacturing locations in Decatur, Benton Township, and Marshall, Arkansas. The company began in 1969 when Ed Smola began working on ideas that in 1971 became Decatur Quality Glass. In that same year, Grant O. Young, who had partnered with Smola in building the business, organized the aluminum flush as well as a stile and rail door company. From the very beginning, the company's mission has been to design, engineer, manufacture and sell high-performance products for selected segments of the commercial entrance market.

Regan Holgate from Stevensville wants to be a storyteller. She admits, "I want to wake up every day, not knowing what will come next," and adds, "The idea of the unknown that journalism inhabits is exhilarating." Oh, and there's something else that is exhilarating of late for Ms. Holgate. A first place victory in heated competition for a highly prestigious award. Holgate, a 2018 graduate of Lakeshore High School, is celebrating her junior year at Michigan State University having garnered a 1st Place national win for the Broadcast Education Association's 2021 Student Competition for Short Feature Reporting. Her broadcast video features a story regarding the manner in which the pandemic challenged many small businesses, but specifically the business of a resale boutique in downtown Williamston forced to innovate in order to continue creating relationships with their customers despite the impact of COVID-19. Regan says, "I actually reported regularly on Williamston, which is like 20 minutes outside of Lansing. I had that beat two semesters ago, and I had met these store owners who had just celebrated their six-month anniversary right before COVID hit and I wanted to go back there." She goes on to say, "Since I'm focusing on broadcast — I have a broadcast minor at Michigan State — I really wanted to go in-depth with them and find out a little bit more of their story." The award winning video is a 90+ second wrap titled, "This Was Kind Of Our Wish." Regan says, "I knew the background of the store, because I had talked to them before, but I just wanted to learn more and we got into this whole Facebook Live and how that's the manner in which they were showing their merchandise throughout the COVID shutdown, revolutionizing the platform to use it in a way that they could still stay open, still sell merchandise to their customers, and survive as a small business which is really hard for a lot of small businesses through the pandemic." Holgate produced the entire piece from voice tracking, to video shooting and editing, including an on the scene stand-up outside of the shop. It's her final product from beginning to end, and features great creative video content. Regan admits, "I didn't necessarily know going in what angle I was going to take on the story, but then as I was talking to them...it's a mother and son...I wanted to make sure I included that fact and then I really just wanted to focus on their use of Facebook Live and how the community members were continuing to support them throughout the pandemic. I thought it was a really cool story." Clearly the national Broadcast Education Association judges concurred, granting her 1st Place Award for Short Feature Broadcasting. Regan says the project was originally produced strictly for a class assignment, largely to earn a grade from the Michigan State University School of Journalism. She says, "I love talking to people, and I love interviewing them, but my professor came back and said he loved the story so much he wanted it to air on Focal Point News, our Friday newscast here at Michigan State." She readily admits, "That was really exciting for me, something totally unexpected going in, but then we ended up submitting it into a few competitions and it won first in the nation." Regan didn't learn that she had won the prestigious award until she heard the news from her professor. She says, "I cannot even explain to you the shock that I got when my professor texted me, in all caps, telling me that I had won first place in a very competitive field for short feature reporting which is something that is done a lot across newscasts in college every day, so there are thousands of stories." You can watch the award-winning video at www.youtube.com/watch?v=9P91ms-t-Js

Regan Holgate is majoring in journalism with a minor in sports journalism and broadcast journalism. As for her future, she says, "My career goal would be to either be reporting or producing anywhere in the sports industry, specifically in golf. I love golf. I love talking about it. I love playing it. So that would be the dream goal, but I think right out of college, I really want to focus — because I love being on camera, and I just I just love telling stories — on being a multi-media journalist at a local station. That's something I see happening right out of college and then moving on from there." I asked if her drive toward journalism stems from influence by her father, David Holgate, who is the Group President at Paxton Media Group and Publisher of The Herald-Palladium newspaper in Southwest Michigan. Surprisingly, she says, "No, it doesn't, and I get that question a lot, but I was actually really big into marketing in high school, and I always thought I would go into business. However, journalism is always at the back of my mind. I love being in front of the camera and I visited the University of Oregon's journalism school and then Michigan State and when I met with some professors at Michigan State when I was a senior in high school, I just knew that's what I wanted to do. That's how I decided on Michigan State and honestly could not have made a better decision." Holgate's resume is rapidly filling with work as a Production Intern at HOMTV in Meridian Township, her work as a Producer at Focal Point News in East Lansing, stints as a Videographer Intern at WILX Channel 10 in Lansing, and a Producer Internship at the Big Ten Network Student U, as well as community leadership roles including her current Vice Presidency at the Association for Women in Sports Media's MSU Chapter, and as Chief Recruitment Officer for KAPPA ALPHA THETA, BETA PI Chapter. Regan's motivation is decidedly locked in. She says, "I'm really passionate about journalism and telling stories, whether that's short stories or news stories like this one and I just really want to continue doing that. This (her 1st place award) has kind of really gotten my foot in the door. I just want to continue growing and getting better from here." Looking at her career options, Ms. Holgate says, "I love sports, but right now there's so much going on in news, and I honestly have to say that these past two semesters with everything going on with the pandemic and storytelling being different with having to find a more unique way to continue talking to sources and continue telling those stories, I think it's given me a greater appreciation for news and that's really something I want to continue pursuing." Looking behind the scenes at her personal life, Regan says, "I love my family, and Stevensville, Michigan will always be like home to me. As I said before I love golf, that's my big thing." She's still an Honor Caddy at Point O'Woods Golf & Country Club in Benton Harbor, and a scholarship recipient of the SW Michigan Caddy Foundation. She adds, "As a woman golfer, I think I do have a greater appreciation for the LPGA. I know they have an internship program every summer which they aren't doing this summer because of COVID, but that's definitely something that really interests me." There's not much doubt that the future is bright for national award winning broadcast journalist Regan Holgate, so pull up a seat and let's watch her career soar in the role she so clearly loves. Or, as they say, Stay Tuned!

The team that works routinely to provide young people with an education in financial literacy, entrepreneurship, and career readiness is inviting fans to some fun team-building in support of the organization. Junior Achievement — or simply JA — serving Berrien and Cass Counties, hopes you and your friends and family are up for some fun team-building while at the same time supporting young people engaged in JA. The Junior Achievement organization is hosting their inaugural Play 4 JA event, presented by United Federal Credit Union. Teams consisting of 4-to-5 players can choose their way to play by selecting to either attend virtual trivia on March 25th from 6-7 pm, or to bowl on their own time at Peat's Cider Social with a gift certificate provided following registration. The gift certificate will be valid from March 25th-through-June 30th, 2021. Prizes will be awarded for top fundraisers and for those who win the trivia challenge. Businesses and community members are invited to register and raise funds online at www.secure.qgiv.com/event/jabcplay4ja/ Linda Tinsley, Director of Development for JA Serving Berrien & Cass Counties, tells us, "Junior Achievement has always been about empowering youth to own their future economic success. It also connects students to area volunteers from our business community to create mentoring opportunities," She adds, "These mentors share their life-experiences to inspire the next generation to turn their own 'big ideas' into profitable realities." Students involved in JA complete the programs feeling motivated to explore their interests and develop a plan for their future career path armed with the tools necessary to achieve prosperity. Tinsley says, "This past year has inspired us to add new programs to our traditional methods to increase access for students and to meet them wherever they are. These programs are provided at no cost to students or educators due to generous area partners, grants, and fundraising events." If you'd like additional information on how you can become a JA Ambassador, you are encouraged to contact Linda Tinsley at linda.tinsley@ja.org. Get ready to strap on your bowling shoes at Peat's Cider Social or your thinking cap for the virtual trivia event and have some fun while helping JA students across the region.

That's it for this week, folks. See you Saturday, right here in MailMax!

The Pet Corner

I'm sure by now that most everyone has heard of the troubles at the Humane Society of Southwestern Michigan and am just as saddened as I am about the whole thing. I have no inside link to what is going on there, but I do know, and can speak from experience, that no one who works at an animal shelter or rescue does it for the glory or the prestige, nor do they do it to gain recognition. They do it because they truly love animals and want to better the lives of the ones who are awaiting new homes. It is certainly isn't a glamorous job but one that requires the staff in attendance 7 days a week, 365 days of the year, holidays and weekends, every single day, to clean, feed, exercise, comfort, fund raise, and deal with the millions of reasons why other people need to surrender their pets. Sometimes it's a sad job, as when an old and often sick pet is brought in because the owner can no longer care for it and the animal feels abandoned and afraid. Or someone brings in a litter of kittens or puppies, for the second, third, or fourth time from the same unfixed pet, because they can't seem to bring themselves to have that pet spayed. Shelter workers deal with these and too many other situations on a daily basis, but they do it with love and patience, for the sake of the animals. Not everyone is cut out to do the job.

When our kids were younger, they worked first as volunteers and then later as employees of HSSM, when it was still on Crystal Avenue in Benton Harbor. I remember the countless hours they and we spent volunteering at fund raisers, the hours spent at the Berrien County Youth Fair (my husband built the board that is still used for the Favorite Pet Contest), Christmas Parties for the Animals, and on and on.

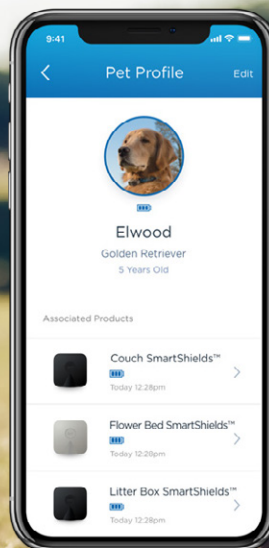

We loved doing it. It was super rewarding and our kids learned invaluable lessons. Many years later, when HSSM was able to move into a new and beautiful shelter, everyone celebrated, but probably not as much as the staff! Finally, they could work in a place that wasn't old and falling down. Finally, the animals staying at the shelter could have spacious runs and kennels. Cats could have their own kitty rooms. When we toured the new shelter, so I could write about it here, we were amazed at how state-of-the-art it was and certain to be the envy of other shelters everywhere. The director was gracious to speak with us for a little while, and we left with the feeling that the HSSM was heading into a new future.

In the nearly 20 years I've been writing the Pet Corner, I've always supported our Humane Society, as well as our other local rescue groups, by mentioning whatever activities and fundraisers were planned for the upcoming months. Once this pandemic is behind us, I hope to continue to do so, but even more than that, I hope there will be a Humane Society of Southwestern Michigan. Please, whatever is happening, whomever is responsible for the current problems, this needs to be worked out fairly so that the dedicated director and staff can continue the good work they do. In the end, it is really all about the animals, their safety and welfare, but the community deserves truth and transparency. We deserve to know. It is, after all, a community shelter. It belongs to every person who has ever donated an hour or a dollar. To children, who have donated pet food items gathered at their birthday parties instead of gifts for themselves. High school seniors, who have done their community service projects at the shelter, and parents who have willingly driven their kids to fundraisers, so they might volunteer. It belongs to all of us in southwestern Michigan, who would hate to see that beautiful shelter close forever.

CHOW!

The official dining guide
of Southwest Michigan

The flavors, the food, the deliciousness that is Southwest Michigan and #BerrienRestaurantMonth continue on! You've likely noticed multiple municipalities have taken to declared a specific "Restaurant Week" for their community during the month. This allows them to highlight and showcase all things food and beverage that make up their respective community and show them a little extra love and support.

You still have a few days left to celebrate St. Patrick's Day Week with the Shamrocks in Berrien Springs through March 21st. Participating restaurants include AJ's Uptown Bar & Grill, American Legion Post 83, Hopper's Family Restaurant, Healthy Springs, Melendez Imports, and Town Hall Pizza. Within these establishments, you'll find a wide variety of health options, comfort dishes, Caribbean and Mexican flair, steaks and sandwiches, and cheesy pizza goodness. Plus, if green is your color, you've got a few additional reasons to wear it proudly with that Irish/Shamrock pride.

Looking ahead to the week of March 22nd, you'll find Coloma, Buchanan, Chikaming Township, New Buffalo Township, and all of the Harbor Country® area proudly declaring Restaurant Week in their respective communities. There are so many amazing and delicious offerings in each, it will be hard to not find something you'd enjoy! These include places like Blackbird Waterhouse, Eddie's Drive-In, El Asadero, Mike's Pit Stop, and Soulards in Coloma; Cameron's, Hickory Creek Winery, Orchard Hills Country Club, River Saint Joe, Tabor Hill Winery and Restaurant, and Union Coffee House in Buchanan; Black Current Bakehouse, Blue Plate Café, Froelich's Kitchen & Pantry, Jackie's Café, Journeyman Distillery, Red Arrow Roadhouse, and Timothy's Restaurant in Harbor Country®. That's only a small listing of them too!

An added bonus is that many restaurants all across the county are still offering takeout options as well as have transitioned to providing outdoor dining. With the weather change, it couldn't be a better time to enjoy! Speaking of outdoor dining, have you checked out The NODE yet? The Niles Outdoor Dining Experience at Second and Main St is still going strong! It has firepits, indoor public restrooms, picnic tables, and provides a great central location for you to eat some of your favorite Niles restaurant foods and shop the downtown area.

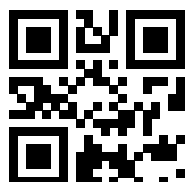

If you don't feel comfortable yet dining-in or on an outdoor patio, there are other ways that you can support all restaurants through the end of the month. This includes getting takeout, leaving a positive review for them from a previous experience, or purchasing gift card to use in the future. If you are posting on Social Media, make sure to use the hashtag #berrienrestaurantmonth, as well as one for the community you're in – such as #berrienspringsrestaurantweek, #colomarestaurantweek, etc.

See the full list of Berrien County Restaurants, hours, specials, and contact information by visiting www.buylocalberrien.com.

Let's continue to #supportlocal and enjoy something delicious together!

Have questions, or need recommendations? Reach out to me directly at sspoonholtz@smrchamber.com or 269-932-4040. I look forward to seeing and connecting with you soon!
