ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Temper your typical Aries urge to charge into a situation and demand answers. Instead, let the Lamb's gentler self emerge to deal with a problem that requires delicacy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You are aware of what's going on, so continue to stand by your earlier decision, no matter how persuasive the counter-arguments might be. Money pressures will soon ease.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) By all means, have fun and enjoy your newly expanded social life. But don't forget that some people are depending on you to keep promises that are very important to them.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You need to wait patiently for an answer to a workplace problem and not push for a decision. Remember: Time is on your side. A financial matter needs closer attention.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You now have information that can influence that decision you planned to make. But the clever Cat will consult a trusted friend or family member before making a major move.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Good news: You're finding that more doors are opening for you to show what you can do, and you don't even have to knock very hard to get the attention you're seeking.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your gift for creating order out of chaos will help you deal with a sudden rush of responsibilities that would threaten someone less able to balance his or her priorities.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Congratulations. Your energy levels are coming right back up to normal -- just in time to help you tackle some worthwhile challenges and make some important choices.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The sage Sagittarian should demand a full explanation of inconsistencies that might be cropping up in what had seemed to be a straightforward deal.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A conflict between obligations to family and to the job can create stressful problems. Best advice: Balance your dual priorities so that one doesn't outweigh the other.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Don't guess, speculate or gossip about that so-called mystery situation at the workplace. Bide your time. An explanation will be forthcoming very soon.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Boredom might be creeping in and causing you to lose interest in a repeat project. Deal with it by flipping over your usual routine and finding a new way to do an old task.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can warm the coldest heart with your lyrical voice and bright smile. You find yourself at home, wherever you are.

Sunday School

A young boy came to Sunday school late. His teacher knew that he was usually very prompt and asked him if anything was wrong.

The boy replied that he was going to go fishing, but his dad told him that he needed to go to church.

The teacher was very impressed and asked the boy if his dad had explained to him why it was more important to go to church than to go fishing, to which the boy replied, "Yes, Dad said he didn't have enough bait for both of us."

PIEDMONT PETS

April 29, 2021 By Paulette Dean

Have you ever felt that no matter which way you turned or what choices you had, you faced a wall? Many years ago, we had an experience that forever changed the way I look at how to endure problems and challenges.

I had not been a court-appointed humane investigator for very long when we received a complaint about animals not being taken care of. The caller mentioned a cat in a rabbit hutch. When we arrived at the address, we saw several dogs chained in a yard. They all had doghouses and, at that time, Danville did not have a chaining ordinance that prohibited constant chaining. What was especially troubling, though, was the cat in the rabbit hutch. The hutch was on a stand and piles of feces reached from the ground almost to the wire bottom of the hutch. In other words, it was filthy. What was especially troubling was the fact that the hutch was entirely encased in black plastic. The owner proudly told us that she loved the cat and his name was Nelson.

The owner told us that the cat was about 12 years old and they had had him his entire life. When he was a kitten, he was put in the hutch, the plastic was put in place to provide some protection from weather, and he was left in there. I was so disturbed by what I had just heard that I had to ask for confirmation. The fact was that the cat had been in that rabbit hutch for 12 years with no view of anything except the black plastic. Once a day, a corner of it was lifted so food and water bowls could be slid in. For 12 years, that had been the cat's life.

I told the owner that was unacceptable and she had to find a better way to take care of the cat. I told her I would be back in a couple of days to see what she had done. When we went back to the address, poor Nelson was now chained to a post in the yard. He had no shelter, so I seized him. We took Nelson to the shelter; we were thrilled that he was finally going to know freedom. We innocently and naively put him on the floor in the cat room. He slowly walked to the nearest wall and pressed his head against it. He stayed there for a long time. When we put him in a cage, he blankly stared at us. After giving him privacy so he would eat and drink, we took him out of the cage and put him on the floor. Again, he walked slowly to a wall and pressed and his head against it.

Thinking that something could be done for him, we took him to a veterinarian who said nothing was wrong with him physically, but his psychological damage was profound.

By the time we went to court for the custody hearing, Nelson had spent his time outside the cage with his head pressed against the wall. When he was in the cage, he stared blankly into space. I told this to the judge, and told him that whatever made a cat a cat was completely gone and the only reason Nelson was still alive was because his heart had not stopped beating.

We received custody of Nelson and then I stood beside him as we did what the veterinarian urged us to do - we sent him to heaven where there is no isolation that comes from being surrounded by black plastic. I think of Nelson a lot. When I have problems that seem insurmountable and I feel like I have my head pressed against the wall, I force myself to press forward with hope.

Thank you for the lesson, Nelson. I am so, so sorry it came at such a great cost to you.

Colonoscopies 101: Why they're important, why it might be time to get one and why they're easier than you might think

Remember the good old days? Did you have a favorite disco outfit? Did you ever get dropped off to meet your friends at the roller rink? Or spend hours by the radio in high school during the 80s, waiting to record your favorite songs for a new mixtape? If you did, then it's probably time to think about scheduling a routine colonoscopy screening. According to the American Cancer Society, those at average risk for colon cancer should start getting screened at age 45. Those at higher than average risk may need to begin screening prior to age 45, and more frequently and/or with specific tests.

Colorectal cancer is the third most common cancer diagnosed in both men and women, excluding skin cancers. And while the majority of these cases occur in people 50 and older, the disease can happen to men and women at any age.

The good news is that the overall incidence of, and death rates associated with, colorectal cancers have been on the decline for more than a decade, thanks in large part to effective colonoscopy screenings that can detect the disease in its early stages.

"Colonoscopies are vital to improving our ability to find colorectal cancer quickly and early, which makes the disease much easier to treat," says Kareem Hamdy, MD, a general surgeon at Sovah Health. "This simple procedure also aids in prevention, as we have the ability to identify and remove colorectal polyps before they become cancerous in the first place."

Another reason that colonoscopies are so important is because the early stages of colon cancer often do not come with symptoms. Still, you should see your doctor if you have any of these warning signs:

- Bleeding from the rectum;
- Blood in the stool or in the toilet after a bowel movement;
- Change in your bowel habits, including diarrhea or constipation or a change in the consistency of your stool;
- Persistent cramping or discomfort in the lower abdomen;
- An urge to have a bowel movement when the bowel is empty;
- Constipation or diarrhea that lasts for more than a few days;
- Decreased appetite;
- Nausea or vomiting; and
- Unintentional weight loss.

While these symptoms can also be indicative of other health conditions, your doctor can help you get to the root of the issue and determine the underlying cause.

Fortunately, colonoscopies are an easier procedure than many people realize. You will be given pain medication and a sedative shortly before to minimize discomfort, and the procedure typically takes approximately 30 minutes. During that time, any polyps found will be removed by the doctor and tissue samples will be sent for a biopsy.

"We recommend that everyone talk to their doctor about their colorectal cancer risks and discuss when a colonoscopy could be right for them," Dr. Hamdy says. "The benefits can be tremendous – and even life-saving."

You can also be proactive when it comes to prevention in other ways. Living a healthy lifestyle that includes daily exercise, a healthy diet, maintaining a healthy weight, limiting your alcohol intake and eliminating smoking can reduce your risk for colorectal and many other forms of cancer. Knowing your family's medical history is also important, as a history of the disease in your immediate family puts you at a higher risk.

Your health affects every other aspect of your life. Without it, it's a lot more difficult to enjoy the people and things in your life that bring you joy. So, don't make it wait. Get the care you need. Start a new healthy habit. Schedule that check-up and screening. Take care of your health. It means everything.

Contact Sovah Health at 844.GO.SOVAH or visit SovahHealth.com to learn more about colorectal cancer and to schedule your colonoscopy today.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Lucie Winborne

* Kim Walker played clique leader Heather Chandler in the movie "Heathers." Her character was noted for stinging one-liners, one of which -- "Did you have a brain tumor for breakfast?" -- had a tragic echo. Walker died of a brain tumor 13 years after uttering the line onscreen.

* The fingerprints of a koala are so indistinguishable from humans that they have occasionally been confused at a crime scene.

* Charles VI of France, aka Charles the Mad, believed he was made of glass and could shatter at any moment. One method he used to avoid this dire fate involved ordering his tailors to sew iron rods into his clothing.

* The world record to remove and replace a car engine is 42 seconds.

* Rabbit jumping, shin kicking, toe wrestling, bog snorkeling and aggressive sitting are all actual sports.

* Discarded shoes can take up to 1,000 years to break down.

* Jerry Seinfeld was such a fan of comic book hero Superman that he included a reference to the character in every episode of his eponymous sitcom.

* It only takes 23 people to enter a room to give you an even chance that two of them have the same birthday. Put 75 people in the room and the chances rise to 99%.

* Chinese paintings from as far back as 200 B.C. depict people participating in the sport of mountain climbing.

* The US government trains sea lions to find and retrieve equipment lost at sea and to identify intruders swimming into restricted areas. While they don't have sonar like dolphins, they do have excellent eyesight.

* In some countries it is not illegal to escape prison as long as no laws are broken.
