Donald E Cook • May 4, 1943 – Jan. 11, 2021

It took an instant for God to take you home. It will take our lifetime to grieve our loss of you. Grief does not end because love does not end. With our hope and faith in Jesus, we will be together again. Our hearts are broken and we have to learn to live with memories. Not a day goes by without shedding a tear. God took away so much of your pain. You did not go away, you still walk beside us each day. Unseen, unheard, but always near. So loved, so missed and so very dear.

With love- Your wife Lynn and family

from your Sassy Small Town Missus

IT IS NEVER TOO LATE...

"For what it's worth: it's never too late or, in my case, too early to be whoever you want to be." F-Scott Fitzgerald. That is the beginning of a great positive message that I lean on often. Drink up each message in this quote like it is life's tonic of hope and possibilities. Kinda like, it's not over until it's over. The month of May being Mental Illness Awareness Month, it is not lost on me that this quote comes from a man who suffered from alcoholism his entire life and was married to a woman who suffered from mental illness that eventually left her hospitalized at the end of her life. I wish he could have experienced the wisdom of his words. No matter who you are, you have had struggles. Perhaps physical, emotional or both. To that extent you can laugh or cry; make the best of it or the worst of it. There are times to cry because we need to be able to feel grief, strife, anxiety in order to truly appreciate and feel gratitude for the good times. The trick is not to let those times of despair take control in a way that life seems hopeless. For me, I use laughter alot. Whether I see someone struggling or am struggling myself, I feel compelled to create a light hearted moment. Laughter truly is the best medicine. You can not buy it at the pharmacy, but if you are lucky enough you can pop that top off your own inner bottle any time and feel the anguish slip away, even if only for a moment. I pray everyone can do that. F-Scott brings home the point that we are all capable of creating a life we are proud of. If not yesterday, then today is a new day and tomorrow is full of hope and possibilities. If you suffer from Mental Illness I heard that one of the best things to do is create moments to look forward to. Perhaps a long walk in a beautiful park, a home cooked meal with family, a concert, special cuddle time with your dog, game night with your friends, reacquainting yourself with a movie that always made you smile. To have nothing to look forward to or aspire to, creates a lonely and sad space in your brain. Start creating spaces that are full of daydreams and dreams come true. Joyful moments, creating memories and carving out a plan to make you proud of yourself is a powerful motivator in creating self worth. And as long as you are breathing in life's beautiful air, you can choose to stay the same if that sameness brings you joy! Or you can choose to find purpose and make positive changes that will bring you joy. Maybe you need the help and kindness of others. That is totally appropriate and nothing to be ashamed of, because we all need help sometimes and truth be told, sometimes those helping reap the greatest rewards. Pack your pride away and reach out when needed, because there is always light at the end of the tunnel, sometimes you need to put your binoculars on to see it... but trust it is there. What do you look forward to?

UNDERSTANDING HIP REPLACEMENT SURGERY

More than 450,000 total hip replacement surgeries are performed in the United States annually[1], making it one of the most common orthopedic procedures performed today. With so many adults looking to stay active into their 60s, 70s and beyond—it's important to be aware of the procedures, and how to establish realistic expectations for your post-recovery goals.

Are You a Candidate?

Experiencing joint pain doesn't automatically mean that you need a joint replacement. Total hip replacement surgery is generally performed for late stage conditions, most commonly osteoarthritis, or irreversible damage caused by fractures, torn cartilage, or torn ligaments after other options have failed.

What to Know

Currently the approaches for hip replacement include posterior, lateral, and anterior. Of the three, the anterior approach offers less post-surgical pain, shorter recovery, and fewer post-surgery limitations in movement, such as bending over and crossing your legs. Why? According to Dr. Nicholas Valente "The anterior approach, doesn't require cutting through muscle to get into the hip joint, it maneuvers in between muscles, so it's less compromising. That means being able to get rid of a walker or cane faster, returning to work sooner, and taking less pain medicine after surgery."

The First Step

Despite the post-surgery benefits from the anterior procedure, not every person is a candidate for this approach. But regardless, hip replacements in general can restore movement and reduce pain—and the No. 1 factor should be choosing a surgeon who will offer a one-on-one consultation, assessment, and personalized rehabilitation to help you reach your goals.

When replacing a joint is necessary, we pride ourselves on bringing quality orthopaedic care to all of our patients throughout the Western New York.

"The anterior approach, doesn't require cutting through muscle to get into the hip joint, it maneuvers in between muscles, so it's less compromising."
