TAXING IMPLICATIONS OF DIVORCE

Divorces are complicated, paperwork-filled processes under the best of circumstances, as anyone who has been through one will tell you. Splitting assets can confuse and frustrate even amicable former couples, and just when you think you have read your last document, tax time rolls around. Normally, transferring assets between spouses in a divorce does not come with tax implications, but it could be a different story if you are selling some or all of those assets in order to split the profits. Business interests and real estate or investment holdings also come with different tax rules. When dealing with alimony (often called "maintenance"), the funds are deductible for the payer and taxable for the recipient.

If you lose health insurance coverage due to divorce, you are still required to have coverage for every month of the year for yourself and the dependents you can claim on your tax return. To schedule a free consultation, please call the Law Office of MACK & PACE. Whether you're going through a divorce or a custody case, we will be there to fight for your rights. We always make sure that children are the top priority in divorce cases, making sure they are taken care of above all else. We specialize in family law, business law, estate planning, and criminal law.

(585) 798-1000
534 Main St., Suite 6
Medina, NY 14103

HINT: Since you are not allowed to file jointly for the year your divorce is finalized you may want to consider putting it off if you are only a couple of months from the end of the year.

Medina High School Holds National Honor Society Induction

A distinguished group of Medina juniors and seniors were celebrated in two ceremonies at High School as they were inducted into the Arista Chapter of the National Honor Society. In order to become a member, students must have a cumulative average of 90% or higher. They must also fill out an application and submit an essay to be reviewed by the faculty council made up of high school teachers.

Because of the school shutdown last year due to pandemic, Principal Michael Cavanagh and the planning committee felt it was important to honor this year's and last year's honorees together. Two ceremonies were held on May 5th, coordinated by National Honor Society advisors, Mrs. Alissa Dunham and Mrs. Samantha Rennie, with guest speaker Mrs. Jaqualyn Gardner. Mrs. Gardner is a community member who has been a leader in many organizations like United Way and GCASA. In addressing the students, she talked to them about the four pillars of National Honor Society: scholarship, leadership, service and character and how to incorporate them into their lives now and in their future. She encouraged students to get involved in their community. The school district would like to thank her for impact on their community.

The ceremonies included excerpts from essays that students submitted with their applications for the National Honor Society. The topics for these essays were: an adult that made the greatest impact on them, being an A student or the four pillars of the National Honor Society. The ceremony was concluded with a candle lighting ceremony, the receiving of their gold cords from Assistant Principal Mr. Joel Reed and the reciting of the National Honor Society Pledge.

Congratulations go to:

Seniors: James Bieliski, Arella Biesinger, Abigail Blount (Vice President), Tessa Boyce, Brooklyn Brown, Sophia Cardone (President), Emma Carson, Alwyn Cayea, Morgan Crossett, Ianah Drisdorn, Carter Green, Devin Griffin, Alexis Hare, Makayla Heideman, Corinne Hill, Kylie Hinman (Social Chair), Bailey Jackson, Hannah Kenward (Treasurer), Carina Kingsbury, Emma Leonard, Madison Meyers, Abigail Neuman, Jaden Pencille, August Pietrafesa, Emma Roush, Jack Rutkowski (Secretary), Corey Saj, Evie Schultz, Emma Schwarzott, Sarah Sones, Madison Stewart, Ryan Taylor, Faith Ann Vanderwalker, Jacob Velesko, Sydney Watts and Amanda Woodruff.

Alexis Jones (Social Chair) and Micaela Erway (Vice President), graduates from the Class of 2020, also participated in the ceremony for the seniors.

Travel Thoughts By Kim

Let's go on an adventure together....to Napa Valley and Muir Woods, California!

We visited San Francisco last time, so let's stay in that area of the west coast. Today, I'll take you to Muir Woods, Sausalito, Napa Valley, and Sonoma. I spent two wonderful, sunny California days touring these four locations. Getting to visit Napa Valley was the main reason I decided to extend my time in the San Francisco area – the whole week there was amazing, but I especially enjoyed the two days I spent on these tours.

Muir Woods National Monument, 12 miles north of San Francisco, is a dense forest of massive old growth coastal redwoods.

I used Gray Line and chose two full day tours – the first took me to Muir Woods and Sausalito and the next day focused on Napa Valley and Sonoma. Both tours were awesome! So relaxing and so much natural beauty to enjoy along the ride and at each stop. And, it is always a pleasure to sit back and let someone else do the driving and provide interesting information along the way.

Sausalito, California – a quaint harbor town directly across the bay from San Francisco.

Muir Woods is designated a National Monument. It is 12 miles north of San Francisco and covers 554 acres with 240 acres of old growth coastal redwood forest. We were dropped off and told we had a couple hours to walk the trails and enjoy the park. And, I did just that. Due to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean, dense woods, and streams, it tends to always feel damp and cool within the park, which was welcome on that hot, sunny day California day. It was very difficult to get any really good photos of the trees because they are so tall, but I did the best I could and got some really nice shots along the trails as I walked and sat on benches along the way and just gazed in awe at the massive trees and God's splendor. It really was incredible.

After we left Muir Woods, we were dropped off at Sausalito – a lovely little harbor town located directly across the bay from San Francisco and loaded with high end shops and restaurants. I wasn't really interested in shopping – I much preferred to spend my time sitting on a bench overlooking the harbor and watch the boats and birds! I wandered around the town a bit and was so happy for the breeze off the bay and the beautiful scenery.

Sutter Homes Winery is famous for their White Zinfandel wine and interesting story with stunning gardens and Victorian Inn.

The next day was spent in Napa Valley and Sonoma. WOW! What a treat to gaze upon the beautiful country views throughout these valleys. Of course, it was a wine tasting tour, but even if you don't partake in the wine, these tours are so interesting, relaxing, and full of spectacular sights – rolling hills, farm land, and vineyards as far as the eye could see.

We stopped at two small family owned estate wineries: Nicholson Ranch in Sonoma and Madonna Estates in Napa Valley. Both were stunning wineries and the hosts were amazing with their stories and information. And the wine was pretty spectacular, too. Nicholson Ranch is known for its Pinot Noir and, I must say, it was really quite good.

After the morning stops, we drove to Yountville for lunch. Yountville is a wonderfully quaint little town. We had a couple hours to spend having lunch on our own and enjoying the town. I chose to eat at a very nice restaurant called Pacific Blues and then strolled the streets to explore and get some photos. I found a bakery that is part of one of the four Michelin Star restaurants located in the small town. They had an assortment of goodies that made me melt just looking at them in the showcase. I bought an assortment of French Macarons to take back to my hotel for later in the evening – WOW – they really hit the spot after a long day of touring.

After lunch, we stopped at the Sutter Homes Winery – I had hoped we'd stick with smaller, family owned estate wineries, but this large, internationally known winery was pretty amazing. They have gorgeous gardens and an impressive Victorian Inn that I had a field day photographing. But, it was their cool story that I was most intrigued by. They started out as a small family run farm vineyard. The current family used all their savings (their last $20,000) to purchase the vineyard and winery from the original owners. They were so broke as they worked to get started that they didn't even have enough money to pay to have the name legally changed – so they just left it as Sutter Home. Then, they "accidentally" developed the first ever White Zinfandel wine – they were working on a red zinfandel and it came out looking more like a rose' and had a very unique taste. They decided to market it and America fell in love with it. It made them millionaires literally overnight. They served us tastings of a higher end version of that White Zinfandel that they only sell at the winery and some other signature wines that are not sold commercially and they were all excellent.

Nicholson Ranch Estate Winery seen from the road. One of many beautiful landscapes, farm lands, and vineyards in the Napa Valley and Sonoma areas near San Francisco, CA.

On the way back to the hotel, we drove by several beautiful wineries, including the Robert Mondavi Winery and other well-known brands. I also saw several pastures with a type of cow I've never seen before – Belted Galloway Cattle – a.k.a Oreo Cows. They originate from the west side of southern Scotland and are mostly black with a large white "belt" around their middle section. So, lots of cool things to see and do in and around that area of California.

SCOUTING ABOUT

Some people like to go on adventures that are hair raising like bungee jumping. For me a good adventure involves a little less adrenaline. That is why when on holiday, I decided to participate in the Scout About. Totally my speed. No heights or fast speeds involved. Truth be told I am pretty sure it was meant for children, but since my inner child is still alive and well, I concluded it qualified me to participate. The location was South Seas Island and the mission was to collect colored wristbands at 15 different discovery points. First obstacle, learning to drive the golf cart we rented. It was a bit intimidating, but in no time at all I moved freely at 5 miles per hour. Each day brought new adventure and new opportunity. Many times I ventured out alone since my husband declared it too hot outside. That was fine with me because I am my own best company and audience. Alone time with myself is always lovely. If I don't have fun then there is no one to blame but myself! Map in hand with sheer grit and determination I braved the South Seas in search of the colored bracelets and the knowledge gained at each point of interest. There was a Key lime Tree, Osprey, Sea turtle, Manatee hunt and more. Not every hunt actually involved seeing the actual point of interest. However, there would be a placard with pictures and information on the South Seas Subject. This treasure hunt found me at the Attitude Beach Bar one afternoon. Which was perfect because I was all full of attitude because I was successfully collecting colored bracelets daily... all on my own. The most fascinating thing to learn about was the Green Flash. The Green Flash is when conditions are perfect enough in the atmosphere where at either Sunrise or Sunset a Green Flash will appear atop the Sunrise/Sunset. It is very fleeting and only lasts a couple seconds. Unfortunately, I was not lucky enough to actually witness The Green Flash, however it is something to aspire to see someday. And The Green Flash Restaurant where I ate a hearty breakfast each morning more than made up for it... because all things are forgiven with good food. Oh, and my husband never missed the breakfast, it was never too hot for that. Some hunts were easily found and others required a bit of hiking or searching. In the end I collected all 15 bracelets. Proudly I hopped into the golf cart and with tremendous spirit I presented my bands to the Counselor at Camp Scullywags. They awarded me with a final bracelet and sent me to the board with my official paperwork to post this great accomplishment. Just like all the kids under the age of 15 on the board, my inner child was also alive and well. No matter how old you are, keep your inner child alive and let them out to play. Adulthood is awesome, but sometimes the simple pleasures of childhood are just as rewarding. What adventure keeps you young?

Culinary Students Learn the Art of Wood Fired Pizza

The Culinary Arts students of James Atzrott got all fired up about making pizza. Special guests from Dubby's Wood Fired Pizza food truck stopped by the Orleans Career and Technical Education Center to show the students how they use a wood fired oven to make pizza, pretzels, turkey and cinnamon bites. They also talked about what is involved in owning and operating a food truck.

Owners Brian and Rebecca Alexander told the classes that they would have parties at their house where they would make wood fired food. "Everyone loved it and they also wanted us to host parties," laughs Rebecca. "So Brian, who is an engineer, designed a mobile cart with a wood fired oven and we decided to take the party to other people's homes and our food truck was born."

The students and Chef Atzrott got a chance to make their own pizza after the demonstration. Brian then loading them into the oven and showing them how to turn them so they get properly cooked, which takes three minutes. He told the students how cooking has always been a hobby for him. "This was something to do for fun and it just sort of exploded." Rebecca talked about how they have been exploring pizza styles from all over the country and she is looking forward to going to Detroit and taking classes on their pizza style. "Brian is from Detroit, so I thought it would be cool to learn how to make that kind of pizza. It is usually rectangular with a thick crust that is crispy and chewy. It is topped with tomato sauce and Wisconsin brick cheese that goes up to the edges. It will be great to be able to offer that to our customers."

Their food truck has proved so popular that it is not unusual for them to make 400 pizzas in five hours where they are set up. "We make 10 inch pizzas with high hydrating dough and we have gone everywhere from fairs to catered events," says Brian. They usually set up between Rochester and Buffalo area and have proven so popular that they will be announcing a brick and mortar restaurant in the near future in Albion. "We are very excited about that," says Rebecca. "It will be great to help revitalize Albion and offer more options to our customers."

Chef Atzrott says he is very thankful to Brian, Rebecca and their daughter Lillian Strickland spending the day with his students. "I found it amazing that Dubby's Wood Fired Pizza could cook 500 pizzas in an afternoon. The result was beautifully charred and tasted amazing."
