Protect Yourself and Your Pets from Rabies

Rabies is a viral disease present in saliva and nervous tissue of an infected animal that attacks the central nervous system of humans, which includes the brain and spinal cord. Rabies is transmitted from infected animals to humans; all mammals can get rabies. People can contract rabies by coming in contact with a rabid animal through a bite. Exposure may also occur if saliva from a rabid animal enters an open cut or mucous membrane, which includes your eyes, nose or mouth. It is almost always fatal once symptoms appear.

Livingston County has had confirmed rabies in raccoons, bats, cats, foxes, skunks, woodchucks and even cows in the past. With warm weather approaching, the potential for contact with wildlife increases. The Livingston County Department of Health urges residents to be aware of the danger of rabies and follow these guidelines to protect themselves against rabies:

◆ If you are bitten by an animal, immediately wash the wound with soap and water, seek medical attention and report the incident to the Livingston County Department of Health.

◆ Avoid contact with any wild animal. Be suspicious of wild animals that are unusually tame or aggressive, especially those that attack your pets. Do not attract raccoons, stray dogs, stray cats or other wild animals to your yard by feeding them.

◆ Avoid contact with any stray animals. Call the Livingston County Health Department regarding any contact with an animal that may be rabid.

◆ Teach children not to touch any animal they do not know and to tell an adult immediately if they are bitten by an animal.

◆ By law, all dogs, cats and ferrets must be vaccinated against rabies. Make sure horses and valuable livestock are also up-to-date on rabies vaccinations.

◆ Keep family pets indoors at night. Don't leave them outside unattended or let them roam free.

◆ Wear gloves when handling pets after any involvement with suspected rabid wild animals. Pet owners should keep a pair of thick gloves handy for just such situations. Bathe pets after wildlife encounters using rubber gloves.

◆ If a bat is found in your home or cabin, do not let it go. Isolate it in a single room and contact the Livingston County Department of Health to discuss the potential for exposure. In some cases the bat can be tested for rabies. Immediately report any possible contact with bats, especially contact with sleeping persons, unattended children, or individuals with impairments.

For more information about rabies or our upcoming rabies clinics, please contact the Livingston County Department of Health at 243-7280 or visit our website at

SPEAK OUT

Dear "Speak Out,"

We continue with week eighteen of our study of the United States Constitution. Article II – Section 1 – Clause 7 reads "The President shall, at stated Times, receive for his Services, a Compensation, which shall neither be encreased nor diminished during the Period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that Period any other Emolument from the United States, or any of them."

On Sunday, May 14, 2000, the House of Representatives Appropriations Subcommittee on the Treasury, Postal Service and General Government included a provision in a Treasury appropriations bill that would increase the President's salary to $400,000, effective on Saturday, January 20, 2001. President George W. Bush was the first president to receive the $400,000 salary which was increased from the $200,000 which President Clinton received.

According to Title 3 of the United States Code, a president is still on government payroll after leaving office. The President's salary has been increased by Congress five times since George Washington became the nation's first president in 1789.

There is a provision that the president's salary can not be increased for a sitting president but only for his successor. Article II – Section 1 – Clause 8 reads "Before he enter on the Execution of his Office, he shall take the following Oath or Affirmation:– I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the Office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my Ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Article II – Section 2 – Clause 1 reads "The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual Service of the United States; he may require the Opinion, in writing, of the principal Officer in each of the executive Departments, upon any Subject relating to the Duties of their respective Offices, and he shall have Power to grant Reprieves and Pardons for Offences against the United States, except in Cases of Impeachment."

Obviously, there was no United States Air Force during the founding of the Constitution. The United States Air Force was founded on Thursday, September 18, 1947, as part of the Defense Department which also organized on the same day. The "Militia" in the 1700s is now the National Guard. The United States Space Force was founded on Friday, December 20, 2019, as part of the United States Air Force. To clarify the concept of pardoning cases of impeachment, this is still unconstitutional!

Article II – Section 2 – Clause 2 reads "He shall have Power, by and with the Advice and Consent of the Senate, to make Treaties, provided two thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the Advice and Consent of the Senate, shall appoint Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls, Judges of the supreme Court, and all other Officers of the United States, whose Appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by Law: but the Congress may by Law vest the Appointment of such inferior Officers, as they think proper, in the President alone, in the Courts of Law, or in the Heads of Departments." Making treaties, appointing ambassadors, diplomatic envoys and Supreme Court Justices all must be approved by the Senate.

Lord willing, we will continue our study next week.
