Slow-Cooker Spicy Bacon Corn Dip

2 (1 lb. each) bags frozen sweet corn
1 brick (8 oz.) neufchatel cream cheese (1/3 less fat), cut into cubes
1 brick (8 oz.) Monterey Jack cheese, grated
3/4 cup sour cream
3 Jalapeno peppers, stem & seeds removed, finely chopped
3 garlic cloves, peeled & minced or pressed through a garlic press
1 tsp. kosher salt
1/2 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
1 lb. bacon, cooked until crisp
6 green onions, green parts only, thinly sliced, then minced

Lightly spritz the crock of a slow-cooker with non-stick cooking spray or lightly grease it with oil. Stir together sweet corn, cream cheese, Monterey Jack cheese, sour cream, jalapenos, garlic, salt & pepper. Put lid on the slow cooker & set to LOW. Cook for 2-3 hrs. or until the contents are uniformly hot, the cheese is melted & the corn & jalapenos are coated with a creamy sauce. While the mixture is cooking, finely chop the crispy bacon & reserve 1 tbsp. of chopped bacon along with 2 tsp. minced green onion. Stir the remaining bacon & green onion into the hot dip. Then scoop the dip into a serving dish. Sprinkle the reserved bacon & green onion over the top and serve with chips or as a side dish. Leftovers can be stored, tightly wrapped, in the refrigerator for up to 5 days. Reheat covered but vented in a microwave on HIGH until hot all the way through.

Hypnosis... So Much More Than Clucking Like A Chicken!

By Lori Kleinsmith, Certified Hypnotist
 Pinnacle Hypnosis and Therapies

Sounds funny, but, clucking like a chicken is the first thing many people associate with hypnosis. The hypnotist has volunteers from the audience doing crazy things they normally wouldn't do. They are on stage, in front of an enthusiastic group of people. The "show" is usually very funny and amazing.

Just like the "show" or as it is called, Stage Hypnosis as in a Therapeutic Hypnosis session people volunteered to be there. They wanted to be hypnotized and therefore were/are open to the suggestions the hypnotist gave/give them.

Some things to keep in mind when considering hypnosis...

1. You cannot be hypnotized against your will. You are always in control and therefore in power.

2. A hypnotist cannot make you perform actions that are against your values or morals. When a person is hypnotized they have the ability to accept or reject any suggestions that are given by the hypnotist. They cannot surrender their will or reveal any secrets.

3. Hypnosis is a trance-like state. It is not sleep.

We enter a natural state of hypnosis multiple times a day. For example: Let's say you are driving to work. You enter your car, start the engine, put it in gear and off you go to work. As you are driving, your subconscious mind starts to think about other things such as what you saw on TV that morning or remembering a conversation you had with your children or spouse. Next thing you know you are pulling into your parking spot at work. You really don't remember the whole drive but you were in control of the car. You were able to brake when needed and accelerate. You still knew what roads and turns to take. Those times your subconscious mind was thinking of other things as you were driving, you were in a natural hypnotic state and still in control. Many people feel very relaxed during a hypnosis session.

4. Hypnosis is a means of communication between the conscious mind and the subconscious mind. The subconscious mind receives and retains, neither accepting nor rejecting, all the messages we receive from our backgrounds, whether genetic, social, religious or experiential, plus all the conflicts (little or big) that enter our lives daily. When for whatever reason the conscious mind (which deals with everyday living, logic, reason, etc.) becomes overloaded, the subconscious prepares us for what the considered appropriate action (usually fight or flight). However the subconscious mind does not analyze, as does the conscious mind but accepts all messages in the literal sense. Many problems, habits, stress, anxieties, attitudes or apparent deficiencies can be traced to interpretations by the subconscious mind, which when understood by the conscious mind, can reduce or resolve specific problems.

The subconscious is also the seat of all memory. Traumatic events can be buried or suppressed in the subconscious. A major benefit of hypnotherapy is its ability to uncover and bring into the light of understanding the buried information or experience which may be the cause of a troublesome disorder.

Why are you suffering when help is available? Offering compassionate, motivational and individualized sessions.

Next event: Sunday, Jan. 24, 2016, 1 to 4 pm, "Exploring the past to lose weight now!" Past Life Regression for Weight Loss. $40.00pp, reservations required.

Stay Safe And Warm During Winter Workouts

Athletes devoted to outdoor workouts do not abandon their routines when winter rears its chilly head. While it can be difficult to embrace the great outdoors when temperatures hover around the freezing point, maintaining your motivation at such times bodes well for your fitness goals the rest of the year. Staying warm is a top priority for athletes who exercise outdoors during the winter months. While there's no guarantee winter winds won't test your willpower, there are some ways to stay warm when working out in colder climates.

- Wear appropriate headgear. For years, many people subscribed to the conventional wisdom that suggested people lose 40 to 45 percent of their body heat through their heads. But in 2008, researchers at Indiana University debunked that myth, suggesting that if humans lost that much heat through their heads, then they would be just as cold when going outside without a hat on as they would be if they left home without wearing any pants. But wearing headgear when exercising outdoors is still a good idea, as the head is more sensitive to changes in temperature than many other areas of the body. A wool hat you can pull down over your ears can protect them from getting too cold. Athletes may also want to consider ski masks or other facial covers that can protect their faces when winter winds are howling.

- Layer correctly. Layering has long been a reliable way to beat the cold when temperatures are at their lowest. But layering must be done correctly to be effective. When choosing your workout gear, choose an inner layer that will move moisture away from your skin. Cotton retains moisture, and that means your sweat will cling to your body and make you feel cold. Once you find a shirt made with moisture-wicking material to wear against your skin, look for a second layer that also wicks moisture so you can more effectively control your body temperature. Your outer layer should be capable of handling the elements, so look for something that is waterproof and wind-resistant.

- Don't forget footwear. Feet can easily succumb to cold temperatures when exercising outdoors, but you can employ the same strategy with your socks that you do with your layers. When choosing workout socks, avoid cotton socks that don't wick moisture away from your feet. Acrylic can be more effective at wicking moisture away from your feet than cotton.

- Know your weather reports. While it's admirable to stay on course with your outdoor workouts in the winter, don't allow your devotion to overtake your common sense. Check the forecast before beginning an outdoor exercise, paying particular attention to the wind chill. According to the Mayo Clinic, frostbite can occur when skin is exposed to wind chill levels below minus 18 F for 30 minutes. If need be, shorten outdoor workout routines and find ways to exercise indoors when wind chills get dangerously low. Exercising outdoors in winter can be exhilarating, but athletes must prioritize staying warm and safe for the duration of their workouts.

Treat Yourself To Some Much Needed Pampering

The daily grind sometimes is exhausting. In fact, a poll from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and the Harvard School of Public Health found that 49 percent of Americans reported having a major stressful event or experience in the past year, and 26 percent of people said they had a "great deal" of stress.

In small amounts, stress can push a person to act and grow. But constant stress can become debilitating and has been linked to a compromised immune system and other unhealthy side effects. This is why a number of people resolve to reduce stress.

In addition to taking on fewer responsibilities, engaging in some activities to promote a relaxed mind and body can help alleviate stress and tension. Though the term "pampering" may not appeal to everyone, a day of pampering might be just what you need to relieve stress and unwind.

- Get a full-body massage. Licensed massage therapists have the training and knowledge to work the kinks out of your muscles and ease aches and pains. Massage therapy works tension out of the body and can help release feel-good endorphins. A massage can improve circulation and help reduce blood pressure. It's difficult to walk out of a spa without feeling relaxed.

- Schedule a manicure and pedicure appointment. If you do not have time for a full massage, having your hands and feet pampered can be a good substitute. Manicures and pedicures are not just for ladies, either. Men can indulge and opt for no nail polish. Many salons offer different types of manicures and pedicures, depending on personal preference. Spa treatments may include warm paraffin wax or hot stones to further ease pain and enhance the pleasure of the experience.

- Take a retreat. Schedule a trip to a resort or even a small hotel that is away from the hustle and bustle of where you live. Such a respite can provide a welcome change. New scenery and a chance to escape the daily grind can effectively relieve stress. Consider low-tech accommodations and turn your phone or tablet off for a few days.

- Try relaxing aromatherapy. Aromatherapy is the use of aromatic plant extracts and essential oils to elicit mental and physical responses. Lavender is a relaxing scent that can be used during a massage or in baths to induce a sense of calm. Experiment with other scents and oils to achieve the desired result.

- Laugh with friends. Plan a friends' night where you can go out for drinks and conversation or huddle around the television and watch your favorite comedy. Laughter is often a great medicine for stress, as is the company of other people who can provide some comic relief.
