The Romans Road to Heaven

"There is none righteous, no, not one."

"For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God."

"But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us.

'So that as sin reigned in death, even so grace might reign through righteousness to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

"For the wages of sin is death but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord."

"If you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead, you will be saved. For with the heart one believes to righteousness and with the mouth confession is made to salvation.'

"For whoever calls upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

A "POWER ANIMAL"

The Plain Eastern Scorpion of Tennessee on the Cumberland Plateau, respect and coexistence. It was quite a shocker when my husband informed me he unearthed Scorpions in our Pop-Up Garage in the middle of our new Home away from Home. In Albion NY, these creatures, with pincer claws, don't skulk under cardboard. For a split second panic set in. Then I decided there was no need to panic unless Google told me to. Google informed me that the TN Scorpion is a native breed of TN and is not poisonous. Their sting is no worse than a bee sting. Phew, that was good news. I hope to never find this out first hand. Days passed and as most of us do, when we put caution to the back of our mind, we get complacent. So down to the Pop-Up I go. My chore for the morning is to situate rain barrels for showers and relocate the wood pile to the top of the property. First, I spotted a lizard on the wood pile. Awe, he's so cute, I decided to leave that log behind so he could continue his morning meditation. I reach through the rest of the wood and, yikes! A Scorpion. It was daytime and the Scorpion is nocturnal. Once she woke up and we did our due diligence on each other, she moved right along. I faced down the Scorpion and lived to tell the tale.. but my husband's story took a turn, more than once. It was the middle of the night and he started doing some kind of Jig around the room in the dark. What in the world?? One of those nocturnal little crawlers was laying in wait under our nice warm covers and was pinching on his toe. They use their pincers to hold their prey before they give them a good zap with their curly tail. After that, we learned to adapt and adjust to our new environment by checking all shoes before putting them on and shining a flashlight under the covers each night. I tried a natural Scorpion repellent by sprinkling cinnamon around the bed. This sent me on a 3 hour sneezing fit. We moved our bed away from the wall, removed any climbable objects from under the bed, and bedding never would be allowed to touch the floor again. Don't walk around barefoot at night either. I spied a rusty brown, low crawling creature moving quickly in the dark on the floor. I read they travel in pairs so I kept a look out for her buddy, and she did turn up. Scorpions are moisture lovers. While enjoying my outdoor shower one crept onto my shower mat! My husband picked up a branch in the woods, grabbed a Scorpion and she back handed him with her stingy tail. I read when trying to evoke a "Power Animal" you should call on the Scorpion because they represent a good dose of determination. So in that spirit, when striving for a dream puts you living outside your comfort zone and in a new reality, this dose is greatly appreciated! I hope to harbor the craftiness, grit and self preservation that my tangos with Scorpions taught me. What is your "Power Animal"? # Lost Weight: where does it go?

Obesity is a significant threat to public health. The World Health Organization says global obesity rates have nearly tripled since 1975. There are now more than one billion overweight adults across the globe, and at least 300 million people are classified as clinically obese.

Many people want to lose weight and unhealthy fat for personal reasons or at the suggestions of their doctors. Weight loss often involves a combination of increasing exercise and decreasing calorie consumption. As excess weight starts being shed, it becomes evident that a biological process is taking place. Many people refer to it as burning calories. But may be excreted as sweat, breath or tears, fat loss is a complicated process that's spawned various misconceptions.

Breathing to lose weight?

fat lost during weight loss efforts occurs researchers at the University of New South Wales, the body stores excess protein or carbohydrates in a person's diet in the form of fat, specifically triglycerides, which consist elementally of hydrogen, carbon and oxygen. When people lose weight, triglycerides are breaking up into these sevenfold. building block elements through oxidation.

or come out in urine - water excretion is the lesser-known component of the biological process.

Many people may not know that a lot of the Researchers who authored the University of New South Wales study determined through simple breathing. According that, when 22 pounds of fat are oxidized, to Live Science and a 2014 study from 18.5 pounds of it leaves the body as exhaled carbon. The amount of carbon that is lost can be increased through exercise, according to Medical News Today. By substituting one hour of moderate exercise (like jogging) for one hour of rest, a person can increase his or her metabolic rate of triglyceride usage

SIGNS OF A STROKE

Sometimes symptoms of a stroke are difficult to identify. The stroke victim may suffer severe brain damage when people nearby fail to recognize the symptoms of a stroke. Now doctors say a bystander can recognize a stroke by asking a few simple questions:

i.e. It is sunny out today.

3 Ask the person to RAISE BOTH ARMS.

Ask the person to STICK OUT HIS TONGUE. If the tongue goes to one side or the other, that is a sign of a stroke.

OTHER STROKE WARNING SIGNS

• Sudden numbness or weakness of the face, arm or leg, especially on one side of the body

- Sudden confusion, trouble speaking or understanding
- Sudden trouble seeing in one or both eyes
- Sudden trouble walking, dizziness, loss of balance or coordination
- · Sudden, severe headache with no known cause
- If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay!

CALL 9-1-1 IMMEDIATELY! Source: The American Stroke Association

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

 Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.

 Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.

· Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custom-molded ones made by our office.

• 95 percent of our patients symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.

 We also offer surgical procedures with the best postop success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques and EPF resulting in minimal incisions and scarring, immediate ambulation and often back in a shoe in one week.

The researchers found that, during oxidation, triglycerides are used up in a sleep, while sitting and doing daily process that consumes many molecules of oxygen while producing carbon dioxide and water as waste products. The study found that, during weight loss, 84 percent of the triglyceride fat that is lost turns into carbon dioxide and leaves the body through the lungs. The remaining water

Carbon excretion also occurs during activities. However, the amount excreted during these activities is minimal and can be offset by eating too much food. Simply breathing more and faster during regular activities is not recommended, either, as doing so increases the risk for hyperventilation.

If you can't remember when your feet didn't hurt, now is the time to give us a call!

ONE IS NEEDED

Everyone needs some kind of estate plan. Young, healthy, married, with children, without children, with no significant other or unusual assets, all should have an estate plan to be sure beneficiary designations are completed and up to date. The six pertinent documents that should be part of every estate plan are: estate planning questionnaire, will, power of attorney for health care, power of attorney for financial matters, disposition of person property, and disposition of final remains. These documents ensure clarification and legal standing to family and loved ones regarding specific delegations, obligations, and wishes. An attorney can easily assist in compiling these documents and can update them as circumstances change to prevent future protracted probate or legal battles.

The Law Office of MACK & PACE can work with you to get a complete look at your estate to sort out all the details, making sure all debts and taxes are covered and all assets are distributed properly. Get your will and estate in order and rest easy knowing your loved ones will be covered. If a loved one has passed away, whether they have a will or not, the estate must go through probate before assets can be liquidated and/ or distributed. We can work

Travel Thoughts By Kim Let's go on an adventure together....to Seattle!

So, let's go back to my 2017 West Coast Adventure! A quick recap of the previous articles: It was a little over 2 weeks where I crammed in a cruise that went from San Francisco to Ensenada, Pike Place Fish Co, Pike Place Public Market, Seattle. Watching the "fish mongers" throwing fish and should not be missed when in Seattle.

Mexico and back, several days exploring San Francisco and the surrounding area, an overnight train ride to Seattle, and then spent some time in Seattle. I planned the timing of my trip so that I would have two full days in Seattle. I didn't think I would need more than that and I knew that by the time I got to Seattle, I would be at the end of a two joking with the customers is an experience that week trip and would most likely be ready to head home. Well, in hindsight, I wish I had allowed more time there – at least one more day - maybe two!

I stayed at the Hyatt Place Seattle Downtown - a great hotel in an amazing location and I got a really good deal through Expedia. It is right downtown - just 2-3 blocks from the Space Needle and my room was very comfortable and spacious. Complimentary breakfast buffets in hotels usually leave a lot to be desired, but theirs was really very good. They also have a free shuttle that is available 24/7 to take you just about anywhere you want to go. It has a route, much like a hop-on-hop-off bus, that covers a large area of the city and most of the usual attractions. You just tell them when and where you want to go, the shuttle takes you, and you call when you're ready to head back. Sweet!!!

I crammed a lot into my two days. On Day One, I took the hotel shuttle to Pike Place Public Market. This was THE main thing I wanted to do in Seattle. If I didn't get to see anything else, I would have left a very happy lady! More specifically, I had to see the fish mongers at Pike Place Fish Co – you know, the flying fish guys! The company I worked for (before the wonderful experience of retirement took me to a whole new understanding of loving life and being adventurous) had adopted the Fish Philosophy – a motivational program based on the employees of Pike Place Fish Co. I took the class and then taught the class several times over the years – I loved the video and the guys that throw fish around for a living. So, I always said that if I ever got to Seattle, I would definitely go see this place! So....I did! I stood there for a long time just watching them throw fish and joke around with Fresh crab for lunch at Pike Place Public Market, the customers. It was a blast!

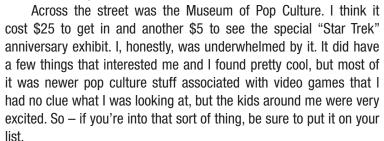

There was a lot more to the Pike Place Public Market. Lots of Hanks sat on while he was filming "Sleepless vendors and restaurants and street entertainers and things to see and do.....inside and out! I spent several hours there just wandering around, looking, and....of course.....enjoying some fresh seafood for lunch - I found a little place that advertised fresh crab. The best part was that I ended up sitting at a lunch counter to eat right where Tom Hanks sat when he was filming Sleepless in Seattle - one of my all-time favorite movies - there was a plaque and everything! That was a thrill! I ended the day with a cupcake at a place nearby that was by far the best cupcake I've ever had! I called the shuttle and got back to my hotel, exhausted.

On Day Two, I decided to walk the 2-3 blocks to the Space Needle. I waited in a LONG line to get tickets to the observation deck (my tip would be to get your tickets ahead of time). When I finally got up to the ticket window, I asked about the possibility of having lunch in the revolving restaurant at the top. As luck would have it, they had room in the next reservation time for one walk-in for brunch. I found out the three course brunch meal was a flat fee of $50, but, I was there and it was a once in a life-time experience, so I did it! It was nice - the views were amazing as it revolved around and the food was really good and I'm glad I did it, but now it is a "been there, done that" kind of thing. After I ate, I went up to the observation deck to enjoy the views in the fresh air – now I can say I was at the top of the Space Needle in Seattle! My advice, though? Unless you really want that experience – which, again, was very nice – save the $$$ and just go up on the observation deck for the stunning views and have lunch somewhere else.

A MUST SEE in Seattle is the Chiluly Garden and Glass Museum next door to the Space Needle. It

The very BEST thing I did while in Seattle....well, probably actually tied with getting to watch the fish throwing guys.....was the Chiluly Garden and Glass Museum next door to the Space Needle. You can get a combo ticket for the observation deck and the Chiluly Seattle. I got to sit in the same seat that Tom in Seattle".

museum for a discounted price at the Space Needle ticket window. The museum is all glass sculptures created by an amazing artist, including outside gardens all around the museum where the flowers are actually glass sculptures mixed in with live foliage --- the place was INCREDIBLE....a MUST SEE in Seattle!!!

On my walk back to the hotel, I noticed a Duck Tour and had time left in my day, so I took it. I got to see pretty much the entire city on land and from the water out in the harbor. It was great – sometimes it is good to just be spontaneous.

That evening I walked a few blocks from the hotel to Zeek's Pizza and had a delicious pizza and a glass of a very good local micro-brew. It was a great way to end my second....and last.....day in Seattle. The next morning, I had to get up very early to catch my long flight back home.

I really want to go back, someday. Maybe I'll take Amtrak's Coast Starlight Train all the way from Los Angeles to Seattle and then spend some quality time in Seattle!

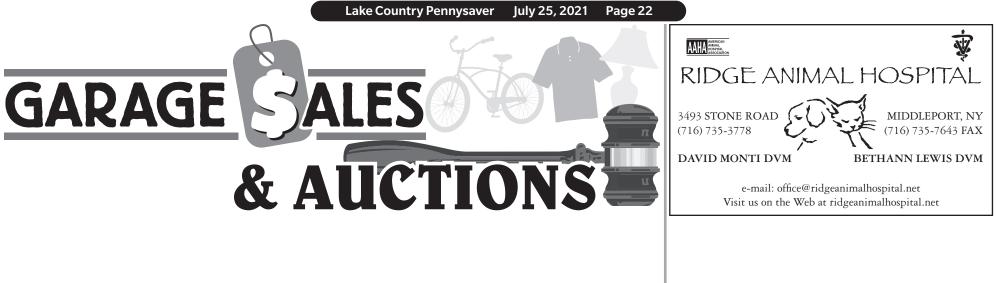

Check out the Blog post I wrote about my short, but awesome time in Seattle: https://thoughtsbykim. com/2017/06/01/seattle-adventure/

Happy Adventuring,

Kim Pritt

STICK TO YOUR DIET while dining out

ining out is a treat many people enjoy one or more times a week. Restaurant meals are often delicious and enable people to sample foods they may never try or prepare at home.

While flavor is something restaurant foods have in common, so are huge portion sizes. And foods served at a favorite restaurant may not always align with personal diets.

Restaurants have no standard serving guidelines for meal portions. Customers have to rely on asking servers what's in the foods and seeing if nutritional information, including calorie counts, are offered on menus.

Being on a diet doesn't mean you have to Check the menu online give up on your social life and nights out on the town. Learning to navigate restaurant menus and following some tips can help people stay healthy while dining out.

Cut out calorie-heavy beverages

Why drink your calories when you can reserve them for tasty foods? Sodas, sweetened iced teas and alcoholic beverages contain calories that can quickly add up. Choose calorie-free beverages, such as diet soft drinks or plain water.

fend off extreme hunger pangs that can lead to overeating once you are at the restaurant.

If you are unfamiliar with a restaurant, look online to preview its menu before arriving. Doing so will allow you more time to scour the menu and make healthy choices before you arrive at the restaurant.

Select simple meals

Opt for the most basic, lean meals when dining out. Grilled chicken or seafood

Limit salt, if possible

Avoid foods that are prepared with extra salt, such as foods that are smoked, cured or pickled. Items with soy sauce or broth also may be sodium-laden. Salt adds flavor, but people monitoring their salt intake Shane portions due to hypertension should cut back on it. Choose fresh fruit and salads for appetizers, and ask that foods be prepared without salt or MSG.

Snack before you leave

Don't skip meals on the day you will be eating out. Also, have a nutritious, light snack before going to the restaurant to without added sauces or toppings make for simple, healthy choices. Also, starchy foods may be high in calories, and some are seasoned with butter and oil, which adds significant fat content. Choose fruit, vegetables or salads (without dressing) for side dishes.

Split a large dish with someone else. If no one wants to split a meal, immediately CUP. wrap up half or two-thirds of the portion for later. This will help prevent overeating • 2012: MORE THAN during a meal. 300 MILLION PEOPLE IN
