YOU KNOW ... The Cemetery Where Your Family Members Are Buried Is Important

Some cemeteries are well preserved, especially if they are adjacent to a church. Some are in danger of disappearing as communities change, and interested families move away. And some have already disappeared into the kudzu, blackberry briars and privet hedge of northern Alabama.

Cemeteries provide rare opportunities to study and honor our ancestors and our communities. And even if we don't know the people interred there, these memorials to past generations can tell us about settlement patterns, family relationships, religion, lifestyle and craftsmanship.

JULIE BURKS, of the Cullman County Museum, will present a program at this month's Cullman County Historical Society meeting recounting how her attempt to find a "lost" Cullman County cemetery drew her to the Alabama Historical Commission's list of historic cemeteries in Alabama. And to her interest in their historic cemetery register program. Everyone is welcome at this meeting.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved Unituxuin (dinutuximab) as part first-line therapy for pediatric patients with high-risk neuroblastoma, a type of cancer that most often occurs in young children. Neuroblastoma is a rare cancer that forms from immature nerve cells. It usually begins in the adrenal glands but may also develop in the abdomen, chest or in nerve tissue near the spine. Neuroblastoma typically occurs in children younger than five years of age. According to the National Cancer Institute, neuroblastoma occurs in approximately one out of 100,000 children and is slightly more common in boys. There are an estimated 650 new cases of neuroblastoma diagnosed in the United States each year. Patients with high-risk neuroblastoma have a 40 to 50 percent chance of long term survival despite aggressive therapy.

Overall survival for women who received standard chemotherapy treatment plus bevacizumab (trade name Avastin), was a median five months longer than for women who received the standard chemotherapy treatment alone. The preliminary findings were reported here at the Society of Gynecologic Oncology's Annual Meeting on Women's Cancer.

Nearly all women and people over 65 in the U.S. with atrial fibrillation are advised to take blood thinners under new guidelines based on an analysis published in JAMA- Internal Medicine. Atrial fibrillation, or Afib, is an irregular heartbeat that can lead to blood clots, stroke, heart failure and other heart-related complications. It affects about 2.7 million people in the U.S. Anticoagulant drugs help prevent blood from clotting and potentially causing stroke.
