Hormones may not protect women from heart disease or stroke after menopause, but when combined with cholesterol-lowering statin drugs, they may help protect women from these killers, shows a population study from Sweden to be published in the April issue of Menopause, the journal of The North American Menopause Society (NAMS). During the study, women who took both hormones and statins had a significantly lower risk of dying of any cause and a moderately lower risk of dying of cardiovascular disease.

Many patients with type 2 diabetes in the United States may be discouraged from taking metformin- a proven, oral diabetes medicine-because the U.S. Food and Drug Administration inappropriately labels the drug unsafe for some patients also suffering from kidney problems, researchers report in JAMA Internal Medicine.

Obesity guidelines recommend an initial weight loss goal of 5 to 10% of start weight to improve health. A recent study found that patients who received liraglutide 3.0 mg, combined with fewer calories and more physical activity, were more than twice as likely to achieve at least that level of weight loss, compared to patients on placebo who made similar lifestyle changes. Patients who achieved that weight loss showed improvements on a number of health markers, compared to those who lost less, and the patients on liraglutide showed greater improvement on measures of blood sugar control and blood pressure. The results were presented at ENDO 2015, the annual meeting of the Endocrine Society in San Diego.

Peter was called Satan when he rebuked The Holy Messiah (Mt 16:21-23). Who causes unbelief in any of The Holy Messiah's Words is a minister for Satan (2Cor 11:13-15). Then Satan is teaching in many churches against Christ's Word to sin no more (Jn 5:14, 8:11) and the law was not changed (Mt 5:17-19). Born again through faith in Christ (Jn 3:3-7,16) unto The Holy Father Elohim, and live by Christ's law (Mt 22:37-40, Jn 14:6,15, 24, 2 Cor 5:14-17) the devil's work is destroyed and we cannot sin (1Jn 3:1-24, 5:17-21). A sinner through Christ can wear white (Rev 3:5). So Be It!
