New Community Resource Center, Laundromat

Coming to Benton Heights

A new community resource center has been announced for the Benton Heights area by the New Heights Christian Community Development Association. Association Director Chris Britton tells us the plan is to begin constructing a 3,000 square foot facility at Euclid and Red Arrow Highway next year.

“In the spring, we hope to break ground on a community resource center,” Britton said. “The goal of the center is twofold. It’s to create capacity for area human service agencies and social service agencies to have a space where they can do outreach and deliver their services to the Benton Heights Community. It’s also going to house a laundromat, and the laundromat will be available for the community to use so they can wash their clothes and have access to clean laundry.”

Britton says there is a need for a laundromat in the area.

“We actually conducted special market research on the community, and the market research showed that there is demand for a laundromat. Also, beyond that, we have done door to door surveys and gotten to know the community over the years. This idea started ten years ago, and for ten years we’ve continued to hear we need a laundry facility here in Benton Heights.”

Britton says the nearest laundry facility is four point four miles away from Benton Heights. He hears anecdotally about the need on a regular basis.

“The market research showed and statistically we know that there are many households that don’t have adequate access to washers and driers. We’ve heard anecdotal stories of people telling us that they were drying their clothes in hope. Fans can expect to hear uplifting holiday favorites like "Carol of the Bells," "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas," "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas" and Bergamot originals from their recently-released album "Mayflies." Building quite a fan base in the region, it's easy to see why People Magazine called The Bergamot, "The hottest emerging music talent".

The second holiday offering is The Empty Pockets Christmas Show, December 12, incerity, pathos and powerhouse vocals. "Polished yet rootsy Chicago outfit Empty Pockets" (Rolling Stone) celebrates old-school classic rock, folk, and the blues, skillfully blending singer/songwriter catharsis with rich harmonies and real players. Bold Americana flavors straight from the soul. When not busy recording in their personal studio, The Empty Pockets are out on the road headlining or opening for acts like Bob Schneider, Rev. Peyton's Big Damn Band, Dickey Betts (Allman Brothers) and Dave Mason (Traffic), among many others. They also have passionately served as backing band for a number of artists of note, including Kenny Loggins, Al Stewart, Gary Wright, Richie Furay (of Buffalo Springfield), and Simon Kirke (of Bad Company).

Last at The Acorn is the Acorn Holiday Open Mic Night, December 22. Acorn's annual holiday open mic will feature a fabulous array of talent performing beloved holiday music. Great for the whole family! There is no admission fee, however, donations are encouraged.

Our next two holiday performances will take us to The Mendel Center at Lake Michigan College and also qualify for Creative Connections stamps. The first is The Spirit of Southwest Michigan, December 11. Join the Southwest Michigan Symphony Orchestra as they celebrate the sights, sounds, and talents of Southwest Michigan. The SMSO, led by Music Director Candidate Rachel Waddell, will present a family friendly evening filled with Christmas and holiday favorites that capture the fun, joy, and spirit of the season. The orchestra will be joined by local talent including the return of acclaimed vocalist and songwriter, Jenna Mammina. Don't miss this dynamic and poignant program and the opportunity to make the SMSO part of your annual holiday traditions.

The second holiday performance at The Mendel Center is A Steamed Nutcracker, December 18, brought to you by the Citadel Dance & Music Center. Experience Tchaikovsky's beloved Ballet "steampunk" style performed by a professional chamber orchestra at the Mendel Center. Story and choreography by Lari Lawrence-Gist, Director of Dance. Steven L Reed, Music Director. Delight in amazing special effects, lighting, costumes as you are transported to the 19th-century industrial, steam-powered era. A little bit of science fiction and fantasy incorporated with technology, aesthetic design with a Victorian flare. Fifty dancers will WOW you with creative and imaginative choreography danced to Tchaikovsky's original score.

We'll be back in a couple of weeks with a glimpse of what's to come in January. In the meantime, be sure to visit www.swmichigan.org for details on all of the events listed in the calendar.

Prayers of Intensity

During the days of Jesus' life on earth, he offered up prayers and petitions with fervent cries and tears to the one who could save him from death, and he was heard because of his reverent submission.

Hebrews 5:7

It's said that early African converts to Christianity were fervent and intense when it came to their prayer life. Each would go to a private place in the thicket to pour out his heart to the Lord. Over time, each person's path into the thicket became well-worn. It also was clear whenever someone's prayer life began losing intensity. Whenever that happened, a fellow Christian would gently say, "Brother, the grass grows on your path."

When it comes to the intensity of your prayer life, does the grass grow on your path? Think over the past seven days. Pin-point specific moments when you talked to your Heavenly Father in prayer. Were many of them simply memorized mumbles at mealtimes and before bed? Were they automatic recitations in a worship service? Were they half-hearted daydreams while you listened to the traffic report on the way to work? Each of us must confess that all kinds of grass have grown on the intensity of our prayer life from time to time. And for that flippant act of neglect, each of us deserves to be ignored by God.

But consider Jesus. God's Word in Hebrews chapter five gives us riveting visual footage. It pictures Jesus while he lived on this earth. It pictures him praying to his heavenly Father with such intensity that loud cries pour out of his mouth, and tears flow from his eyes. And because of Jesus' perfect submission, God listened to the prayers of his Son.

And there's the beauty: Jesus' prayer life was one of perfect intensity and perfect submission on our behalf. And the blood he shed at Calvary's cross has washed away our every sin of neglect.

Because of Jesus, the privilege of prayer is ours. Because of Jesus, we have a Lord who is ready to listen at any moment. And so beat a path to your prayer time with God. Make the grass on your path go away.

Prayer: Thank you, Jesus, that because of your perfect prayer life in my place, I am forgiven for my imperfect life of prayer and now have the privilege of praying to my heavenly Father. Amen.

When You Wish Upon a Bone

This Thanksgiving, we (meaning me, my wife, four out of five sons, and the incomparable No. 2 granddaughter!) are breaking bread with family and friends from environs near Buffalo. We (meaning my wife, my daughter-in-law, and assorted other persons other than me) will once again prepare a grand holiday meal for everyone (meaning, mostly, me, who usually eats a meal the size of a buffalo.)

We always roast a turkey on Thanksgiving. No one has ever suggested anything different, and frankly, THEY BETTER NOT, EVER! (I figure if I'm EMPHATIC about this then nobody will ever bring over a gobbler-shaped wad of soy known as – really – "tofurkey.")

Our Thanksgiving traditions also include several huge, steaming portions of football. Some of our party guests (meaning me and the boys) cherish Turkey Day football to the point where we (meaning my wife) must ask for help cleaning up in THE SAME EMPHATIC MANNER that I use to reject tofurkey.

One ritual that's been missing since we began hosting family get-togethers is breaking the wishbone. As we storm the table, everything is consumed: bones, gizzards, the plastic thingie that holds the drumsticks together.

(Actually, that plastic thingie has a name: it's called a "hock lock clamp." Where did I learn this obscure factoid? Well, one evening, idly looking for something to read myself to sleep with, I picked up my wife's copy of "Fifty Shades of Grey". . .)

What makes the wishbone lucky, anyway? How did something scientists call the "furcula" become infused with magical properties? Here are some possible explanations:

- In the 1920s, many scientists were trying to understand how birds were related to dinosaurs. One scientist, named Gerhard Heilmann, developed a hypothesis based on "Dollo's Law of Irreversibility." This sounds like an NFL instant replay rule, but it's actually a theory that complex structures – such as furcula, or my excuses for not raking the leaves – never develop the same way twice. I forget what this has to do with turkeys, dinosaurs and lucky wishbones, because unfortunately, Heilmann's hypothesis bored me right to sleep. "Fifty Shades of Grey" it ain't.

- Maybe the wishbone's mystery derives from a 1960s rock band known as "Wishbone Ash." Among the members of this band were two guys named Ted Turner and Steve Upton. At a raucous Thanksgiving party in 1969, Steve revealed that he wanted Ted out of the band. They broke a wishbone on it, and Steve won. Wishbone Ash soon skyrocketed to a fame comparable to mine, while Ted Turner slunk off to the humdrum life of a billionaire with unfulfilled rock-n-roll dreams.

(OK, that's actually not the Wishbone Ash Ted Turner, but the other guy's life story is even less interesting than Dollo's Law of Irreversibility.)

- Some say the wishbone's karma dates to precisely 322 B.C., when the Etruscans of Etrusca taught the Romans of Rome the ritual in exchange for a chariot-load of hock lock clamps. The Romans were still wishboning when they conquered the English of England, who brought the custom to America aboard the little-known Pilgrim ship, "The Furcula."

Whatever the truth, my wishbone wish this year is that vegetarian readers are okay with this column. Because honestly, you just can't tell fascinating stories like these about a tofurkey's wishbone (scientific name: "tofurcula").

BOSS Services Adds Windows to Their Growing List of Home Services

From the company's inception in 2016, it's been BOSS Services' goal to provide Southwest Michigan homeowners with one trusted company for any home service they could possibly need. 5 years ago, BOSS started as just a heating and cooling company. Over the years, they have added plumbing, electrical, and 1-day bathroom upgrades, and now they are proud to announce their newest home offering: Windows!

Before embarking on this new service, owners and brothers, Jerry and Jeff Street did extensive research to ensure their line of windows will continue to uphold the company's reputation for raising the standard in home services. Jerry elaborates, "We are relentless in our pursuit to raise the standard in every area of service we provide. When we decided to add windows to our service lineup, it was our goal to provide homeowners with the highest quality windows possible. We are proud to say our BOSS Windows not only lead the way in quality construction, but they are also custom-made locally. It means a lot to us to support our local economy and workforce."

Jeff and Jerry believe in standing behind every service they provide, and windows are no different. In fact, every window comes with a best-in-the-business lifetime warranty. If a window needs to be replaced or repaired within a 20 year time period, BOSS Services will provide parts, materials, and even an entire window replacement free of charge. "We stand behind our windows with a lifetime warranty because we are confident in the quality of their construction. They are built to last and almost entirely hand-made. All of our custom windows feature double-strength glass, triple weatherstripping, heavy-duty welded vinyl frames, and they are energy efficient using hard coat Low-E and Argon gas." Jeff says.

You can visit thebossservices.com/more-services/windows/ to learn more about BOSS Windows and take advantage of $750 off a complete window upgrade now until November 30, 2021. If you would like a free window consultation with a BOSS Services Comfort Advisor, you can call 269-468-6682 to schedule an appointment any time!

an oven. They may have had a washer, but they didn't have a drier. That's not a safe situation."

Britton says the new center will be about helping community members in other ways by connecting them to vital resources offered by community partners. They will account for the bulk of the space used at the new facility.

"We already have agreements. We have an agreement with Kinexus. They're going to have personnel on site helping people with job placement and job readiness. Mosaic CCDA is going to be doing the same thing. They're going to be doing some professional development work out of the facility. LifePlan, which does parental and prenatal resources, is going to be present. I've had a conversation with the population health department at Spectrum Health Lakeland. They want to deliver services out of the facility as well. That's just a handful of the agencies that we've talked to. We continue to talk to area agencies, and there's been a lot of interest by these agencies to partner with us and deliver their services out of the facility.

Britton says Benton Heights does have a need for those special services. He tells us 66% of the population of Benton Heights does not make enough money each month to make ends meet.

"It's a very hard-working population, it's a very proud population. It's a group of people that come together and have a lot of pride in their community. It's just the resources aren't there to help them get what they need to make it over that hump to financial sustainability. So that's what we're hoping to do by bringing these resources to them."

About 800 square feet of the center will be dedicated to the laundromat, with most of the rest will be an open, multi-purpose space to be used by service organizations along with three huddle rooms for private consultation. Britton says that will enable people to get financial advice behind closed doors if they so choose.

The facility is being helped with donations several local organizations and businesses.

"We actually are in the middle of raising funds," Britton said. "We still need to raise about $70,000 to fund the project. We've had several great corporate and foundation partners step forward. The Whirlpool Foundation is providing $250,000 and all the commercial equipment. First Church is providing $250,000. The Frederick S. Upton Foundation gave us a $100,000 grant, but they've also thrown in a $20,000 matching grant for donations that come in toward this. Then the Spectrum Health Lakeland Foundation has also committed $50,000 toward the project."

While there's still a little way to go with that $70,000 still needed, Britton said he's confident the community is going to continue to come through in a big way. He calls the center's support so far "amazing."

"This project is rooted in the community," Britton said. "We've partnered with the community to develop this project, and we've listened to the community. This is really the community coming together and us walking alongside them. This is not New Heights doing this, but this is the community doing this. It was their idea, they've helped create the concept. And that's not just the community of Benton Heights, but also the broader community. All the foundations and corporations that have come and backed us to make this happen. So this has really been a great collaborative effort, and I'm really excited to see the difference it's going to make."

Barring any disruptions in the supply chain due to COVID, Britton says the New Heights Christian Community Development Association hopes the new center will be open in October of next year.

Michael Moran Keeps Shipping News Current

Since taking a trip to the Soo Locks in Sault Ste Marie as a teenager, Michael Moran has been fascinated with commercial shipping vessels. Just one trip to the 150+ year old National Historic landmark instilled a passion in him that he would eventually use to educate and intrigue the people around him. His interest led to him joining the Coast Guard in 2005, where he was able to board commercial ships, become familiar with how they operate, and learn the tracking technology they use. A veteran of the Coast Guard since 2008, Michael used his GI Bill towards college to become an Emergency Department Technician and Unit Clerk, where he has been employed at Spectrum Health Lakeland since 2008.

On his off-days from the ER, you could see him driving back and forth across the Blossomland Bridge checking the harbor for activity, or sitting somewhere near the docks taking photographs. Eventually, Automatic Identification System technology, the same technology used by the Coast Guard, was released as a smartphone app. Being able to hold this technology in the palm of his hand allowed Michael to further his exploration into the shipping world. He would occasionally post his harbor findings on his personal Facebook page, accumulating quite a bit of feedback from friends and followers. By happenstance, Michael was present for Reith-Riley's first vessel arrival after their purchase of Central Dock, and this sparked a friendship with their dock manager. Daily, he received shipping updates and made new contacts, which paved the way for the completion of his Transportation Worker Identification Credentials, allowing him unescorted access to maritime vessels and facilities.

The popularity of his social media posts inspired him to start the St. Joseph And Benton Harbor Shipping News Facebook group in October of 2020, and it has since grown to over 3,200 members. By the 2021 shipping season, Michael was in contact with three local docks, and frequently spoke with captains and crews of various vessels. He started the ever-popular Donut Delivery tradition, where he personally takes dozens of treats to the crew onboard whichever vessel is docked in our area. He also gained local media attention when he assisted in the partial crew change aboard the Manitowoc freighter, with the help of Blue Water Boat Rentals, as the river currents were extremely dangerous and forced them to anchor offshore for nearly one week. Every Monday morning, you can read his Weekly Harbor Report, a compilation of the previous and upcoming weeks' harbor activity and information. You can also find a complete list of all arrivals and departures on the group page.

Michael Moran has become our local go-to guy for shipping news, and he offers many insights on how you can get involved. If you're interested in just watching the ships, "You can get great views from both piers, from the Arboretum, and, if you are going to the inner harbor, go just past the Blossomland Bridge or the areas around the Inn at Harbor Shores," Michael states. There are multiple apps that allow you to track the vessels, or you can visit websites like ais.boatnerd.com. If you are interested in joining the Coast Guard, he recommends contacting a recruiter, and checking out their website to find one closest to you. Michael adds, "If anyone has any questions about shipping, I invite them to check out our group on Facebook and to post them there. I personally don't know all of the answers, but we have captains, crew members, and dock personnel who are proud of their respective jobs and who can fill in details."

Dave Ramsey

Dave Says

Cutting costs during the holiday season

Dear Dave,
We're doing our best to stick to our cash Christmas budget this year. Are there any traps to avoid, and do you have other advice on ways we can cut costs during the holiday season?

René
Dear René,

If you're getting out of debt, the phrase "extra money" probably isn't even in your vocabulary. Regardless, stores will do everything they can to convince you to toss a couple of extra items into your cart when Christmas rolls around. Their festive marketing is everywhere, and most of it tries to get you to spend extra on things you don't need or can't afford.

It might be Christmas, but that doesn't mean you need to buy a bunch of high-end electronic gadgets for everyone. Any way you slice it, electronics add up to be way more than most people want to spend. Try focusing on more personal—and less expensive—gifts that will be truly meaningful to the ones receiving them.

Set a reasonable budget, determine what's fair for each person and stick to it. Be sure you're following realistic gift guidelines before you go out shopping. If you have kids, don't let their Christmas lists dictate how much you spend. Your budget should do that. Look out for sneaky buys that drain your wallet, too. Some people spend as much on stocking stuffers as they do regular gifts under the tree.

Whether you're shopping online or out and about, remember that extended warranties are not a good deal. Neither are store credit cards and the accompanying "discounts." It seems everyone from big-box retail stores to mom and pop operations have their own store credit card these days. Sure, they'll be happy to offer you 10 to 20 percent off a $7 purchase of socks if you'll just open an account. But there's a good chance you'll still be paying off this year's Christmas next December.

If gift wrapping at the store is complementary, go for it. If not, just do it yourself. Sure, it takes a little time and effort, but you'll save a ton of money buying a few rolls of wrapping paper at the local dollar store. Don't wait until December 20th to order your Christmas presents, either. Plan ahead — like right now — so you don't have to worry about expensive overnight shipping rates.

Finally, I know many folks want to send Christmas cards to everyone they know every year. Some people go completely over-the-top, with their family (including the dog and cat) dressed to the nines and a photo taken by a professional photographer. Come on! You can cut costs by sending cards to just your closest friends and family. It's okay to be a little selective here, and the cards don't have to be expensive.

I hope this helps, René!
