SPEAK OUT

Dear "Speak Out,"

I want to wish everyone a very Happy New Year.

As we begin 2022, it is usually the tradition to make New Year's Resolutions. Struggles such as attempting to lose weight is one of the primary New Year's Resolutions which we make each January 1st.

Another one is to try to change our lifestyle so our health can become better.

Still another is to get out of and remain out of debt. Compulsive buying is a gigantic problem which we all have had at one time or another.

In the end it can lead us to financial difficulties and sometimes bankruptcy.

Becoming a better son or daughter or spouse or parent is often on our list of resolutions because our families are often falling apart as differences among us increase.

The truth is, in most cases, we in our own strength and will power, cannot carry through on these resolutions. The reason is because our will is subject to our selfish desires which overrule our wish to change.

The solution is that we need help in fulfilling our New Year's resolutions. Often having a friend to work with us will help to some extent because we need to have an accountability partner to assist us in these endeavors.

Often our spouse or a good friend can give us advice and hold us accountable for our actions. Because our own human nature is selfish and resists outside influence, we often fail in our struggles to change.

I have found in the Bible that God the Holy Spirit is available to assist us in our struggles and help us overcome our own selfish desires. There is one prerequisite to tapping into His supernatural strength and help, and that is, we need to be "born again".

To possess the ability to change our lives and achieve our New Year's resolutions and all our other struggles, we first need to possess God the Holy Spirit to live within ourselves.

Before this can happen, we must first listen to God the Holy Spirit as He endeavors to lead us to Jesus Christ as our Lord and Saviour. Until we acknowledge that we are sinful people and need God's help to overcome the struggles in our lives, we will never be successful in our endeavors to change for the better.

God's Word says in John 3:3 "Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

As unsaved human beings our sinful souls inherently defy any involvement of God in our lives because we wish to run our lives as we wish.

Unfortunately, this decision only perpetuates our failures and continued involvement in the things of this world which affect our lives. Often our behaviors affect our lives adversely as we know that we must stop gossiping, improve our relationships with other people, stop our dependence upon alcohol and drugs, stop our online addictions to pornography, stop our propensity to viewing television programs which contain violence and many, many more habits which we know are not in our best interest.

To possess a successful and fruitful life we need God's help to change our old sinful nature into a new spiritual one in which we are relying upon Him to change our lives for the better. I realize that relying upon God to help us be successful with our New Year's Resolutions is not an easy one, but in the long run, our lives will improve when we submit.

Lord willing, I will submit a new article next week. I look forward to hearing any and all comments you may have.

Ron Powell
