LOCAL BANKERS. LOCAL DECISIONS.

When FB Financial Corporation Executive Chairman Jim Ayers bought Farmers State Bank in 1984, it had been serving the small West Tennessee town of Scotts Hill since 1906, providing loans to farmers and merchants, keeping hard-earned deposits safe, and playing a pivotal role in the life of the community. After moving the charter to Lexington, Tennessee, and changing its name to FirstBank, Ayers began expanding the Bank across Tennessee, establishing the franchise in metropolitan areas while continuing to serve smaller community markets. We continue to operate from the Bank's roots and operating philosophy of growing the Bank one relationship at a time.

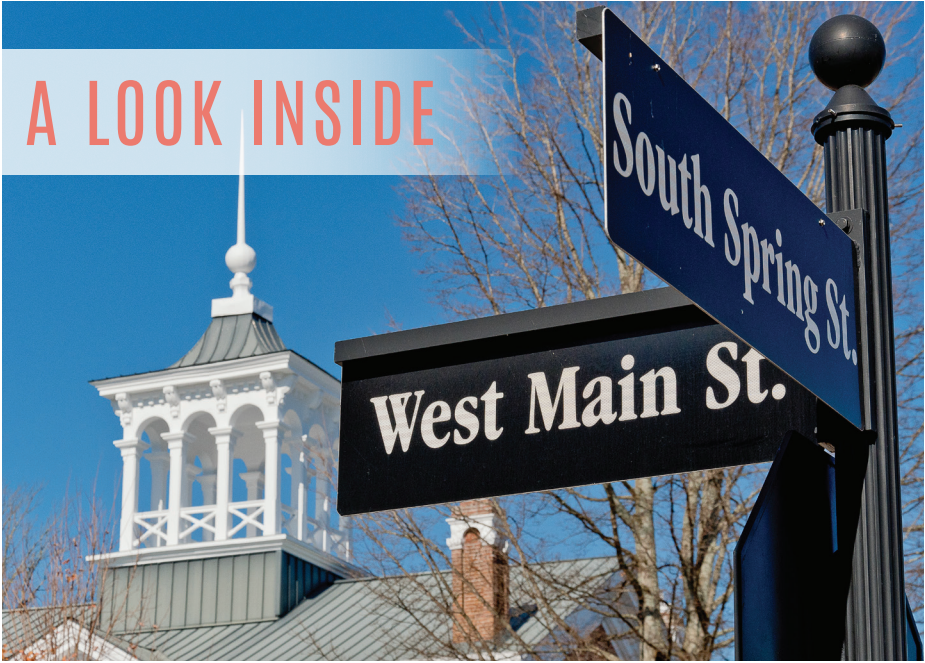

Today's world of banking is much more complex than it was in 1906, but FirstBank keeps it simple - A TRADITION CONTINUES.

Katy Riddle
Executive Director

Katy Riddle has over a decade of experience in the chamber of commerce industry and currently serves as executive director for the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. She believes in the power of partnerships and strives to create engaging programs that help Manchester's business community thrive. Prior to her current role, she managed the branding efforts for the Rutherford County Chamber, and before that, worked for two Nashville-based public relations firms, and at Middle Tennessee

State University in both the alumni and career development offices.

Katy earned a bachelor of science in public relations and a master of education from MTSU. She is chairman of the Coffee County Joint Economic Development Board, a member of the Tennessee Chamber of Commerce Executives Association and serves on the board of directors for the Sportsmen & Businessmen's Charitable Organization. She and husband Brad have two children, Karsyn, who's navigating the wild ways of middle school, and Clay, who manages a wolf pack during recess at elementary school.

Katie Anderson
Director of Membership

Katie Anderson joined the staff of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce as Communications and Marketing Coordinator in June of 2020. She is now the Director of Membership.

Katie has an extensive background in sales, marketing, and business development. She has created community partnerships between former employers and non-profits with a passion for small business and economic growth. She is married to Scott Anderson and has three children: Dustin, Victoria, and Elizabeth; two stepchildren, Ashley, Jessica; and two grandchildren, Sophia and Alexander.

A Letter From Our President

WELCOME!

Manchester is on the move, and we're glad you're here.

Whether you're a Chamber of Commerce member or new to the area, we appreciate your presence in our community. Manchester is home to great recreational offerings, including state and local parks and access to beautiful waterfalls and hiking trails. Our business community is thriving. We have a variety of boutiques, restaurants, and hotel options to meet the needs of residents and visitors.

Our small business environment is healthy and robust, and our industry partners continue to impact our economy through the creation of jobs and opportunities.

And we're not the only ones who've noticed. Manchester experienced the highest amount of growth in Coffee County, with a 20% population increase reported in the last U.S. Census. The Manchester Chamber strives to play an active role in the directed growth of our community, adding both to the value of your Chamber membership and your overall quality of life.

Please know that this is YOUR Chamber! We rely on your input and involvement to continue to move forward in the right direction.

We love Manchester and hope you do, too!

Hospice Care

Our interdisciplinary Care Team is comprised of Physician(s), a Hospice Medical Director, Nurses, Social Workers, Home Health Aides, Chaplains, Counselors and Volunteers from your own community. Our team works closely with your current Physicians and to create a care plan that addresses your clinical and emotional needs. We recognize that hospice care does not abide by standard hours of operation. A Care Team representative is available to you and your loved ones, 24/7 including holidays, ensuring the best possible experience and quality of life for all.

A Manchester Staple of Seven Decades

Serving Manchester for a Lifetime

By Wesley Bryant // Photos by James Jordan

Every community has businesses that remain a staple for decade after decade. Like a lighthouse shining on a hill, these businesses help create the identity of our town. The love and connection between employees and customers are more than a nod ‘hello’ and a wave ‘goodbye.’ The cashier is your friend, and the person stocking the shelves is more than just a worker you pass in the aisle. Stores that are this valuable to a community come once in a lifetime, and if you’re lucky, for more than one lifetime.

Generation after generation has walked through the doors at Spring Street Market. The same store a grandmother picked up her groceries in 60 years ago is the same grocery store her granddaughter now stops at on her way home from school. Spring Street Market is not only a part of the lives of the people in Manchester but can also be credited as a vital establishment keeping the community alive.

While ownership of the store has traded hands throughout its more than seven decades in business, the quality customer service and heartfelt passion for helping the community has stayed the same. The current owners, Ken and Mary Duke, share the same passion for Manchester that owners before them did.

Shopper Melinda Harmon shared her experience with Spring Street Market in late 2021.

“[Spring Street Market is] the best grocery store in Manchester. They may be smaller than the big chain stores, but the friendly service makes you want to come back!” she shared online.

Spring Street Market helps make everything from backyard barbeques to holiday celebrations something special for the people of Manchester. It’s not just an alternative to Walmart or Target; Spring Street Market is a family-owned business with a true connection to the people in the community. They offer custom and specialty meats, fresh produce, groceries, gift cards, special orders, and weekly savings. But the list doesn’t stop there. For those in Manchester who are not able to get out and make it to the store, they can deliver the groceries.

“We still deliver to people here in town. We take their orders over the phone and take it to them,” owner Ken Duke said. “We try to take care of the people in the community.”

When you think of businesses that are ingrained in the history of Manchester, Spring Street Market comes to mind. And rightfully so, because it has made a positive impact on families in town, visitors as they pass through, and lifelong customers alike. Manchester is better off with people like Ken and Mary Duke and stores like Spring Street Market. M

Making Manchester HOME

A family from Portland, Oregon moves to Manchester to find peace, community, and a place to call home.

By Wesley Bryant // Photos by James Jordan

Brienne Melcher and her family moved more than 2,400 miles, calling a new place across the country home. The switch from Portland, Oregon, to Manchester, Tennessee was exactly what the Melcher family needed: community, peacefulness, and a comfortable environment to raise a family.

“We have been talking about moving out of Portland since we got married,” Brienne said. Brienne and Gray Melcher have two children: Francine, ten, and Mina, nine. Manchester provided not only the privacy and peacefulness they were looking for, but also the close proximity to cities like Nashville and Chattanooga when needed.

Making a move as drastic as this one can be scary, and after the move is over, it's easy to feel "buyer's remorse." But that's not the case for Brianne and her family. They feel like Manchester is their new home and are excited to raise Francine and Mina here.

"I definitely feel like we made the right choice. And so far, we really love it here," Brianne said. "We haven't been disappointed. We haven't thought 'ah, maybe we made the wrong choice.' All in all, it's been super positive."

Brianne is working on opening a business in downtown Manchester on the square. She plans to open her coffee shop, Bakehouse Coffee in 2022. Moving to a whole new location and looking to start a business is not easy—and rarely happens alone. The life of her coffee shop began by visiting the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. She walked through the doors and met with the Chamber. Through working together, the Chamber was able to help Brianne make valuable connections to benefit the opening of the coffee shop. Brianne is one of countless entrepreneurs and business owners in Manchester who have been able to follow their dreams with the help of the Chamber. Small towns to large cities across the nation have Chambers of Commerce, but it takes a special town with kindhearted neighbors to make a town feel like home.

"I definitely feel like we made the right choice. And so far, we really love it here."

Manchester has exactly that.

The peacefulness of Manchester has given the Melcher family the opportunity to continue their lives across the country in a different place from what they're used to. They've found warmth, love, and a place to call home in Middle Tennessee.

"We love it. We love where our home is," Brianne said.

The community will sip on many cups of coffee in the downtown area at her new business, and the Chamber will go on to help business owner after business owner follow their dreams... because that's what Manchester is: community, peacefulness, and a place to call home. -M

Manchester's Scouts programs inspire generation after generation

By Kennedee McAdams // Photos contributed by Tammy Lambert & Brad Goodwin

The Scouts were founded over 100 years ago and are still going strong today. Whether you are a part of either the Boy or Girl Scouts, the mission is the same. The two groups—though identifying separately from one another—chase the same goal of youth development in younger individuals. In many ways, the organizations also help in developing the surrounding community.

The Boy Scouts of America have been in Manchester for 70 years now. Troop 314 is currently led by Scoutmaster Brad Goodwin. Presently there are around 20 boys participating; 51 Eagle Scouts have come out of the program. The troop centers around developing leadership skills to help the boys grow into men. Their age range is 11-18. They push their scouts to give back to the community by offering volunteer service hours to the boys. The Manchester boys' troop has helped in food banks and has also had a scout partner with the Veterans of Foreign Wars organization. The troop even has an entire rank dedicated to community service, where the boys must complete a certain number of hours of volunteer work.

In all of our girls—no matter what they can dream or think of or want to be—we want to give them the ability to know, yes, I can do that.

-Tammy Lambert

The Girl Scouts of the United States of America in Manchester can be traced back to the year 1954. They currently have around 140 girls who participate. The girls do many things throughout the year to pour into the community. They consistently donate to the local food pantries. They also partner with Old Stone Fort where the scouts will do loads of different types of volunteer work. During Christmas time, the girls will gather stocking supplies and then donate them to the local nursing homes.

Girl Scouts Regional Executive Tammy Lambert, who is over eight counties including Coffee County, said: “In all of our girls—no matter what they can dream or think of or want to be—we want to give them the ability to know, yes, I can do that.”

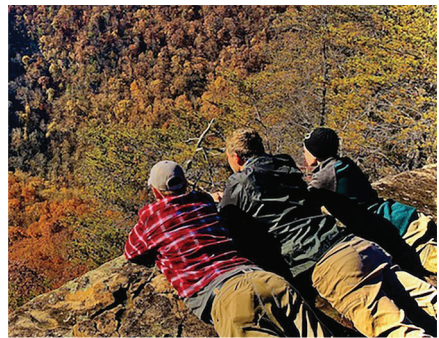

The heart of the Girl Scouts lies in the goal to equip each individual with courage, confidence, and good character.

The Girl Scouts strive to empower young girls to shoot for the stars and dare to achieve their wildest dreams. The Girl Scouts program is designed to help provide opportunities that the girls may not have had without it. Lambert explained that with Girl Scouts, it is not just about selling cookies; many girls are positively impacted their entire lives by their time in Girl Scouts. She even noted that she has seen educational doors open due to girls achieving the highest awards within the program.

Along with benefiting the community, the organizations also benefit the children.

“Scouting provides obstacles and challenges, and it is designed for them to have an opportunity to fail in a safe environment,” Scoutmaster Goodwin said.

The program is set up in a way that teaches persistence, allowing them to develop lifelong skills that can help them navigate through many ups and downs. Goodwin explained that the goal and hope of the Scouts program is that the product will be a well-rounded, humble individual who realizes the importance of citizenship; character development; and mental, physical, and spiritual fitness.

Both the Boy and Girl Scouts ultimately aim to develop individuals ready to take on the world. They push good character, courage, and strength. Both of the programs can be beneficial in a number of different ways. They develop many qualities in young individuals and continually pour out into the community. Manchester truly is lucky to have such programs in the area. -M

Advancing the Theatrical Arts in the Manchester Community

Millennium is looking to make a comeback in 2022

By Gabriel Grant Huff // Photos obtained from millenniumrep.org

In a brick building located in Downtown Manchester, lies a place where the community gathers together and brings theatre to life.

The Millennium Repertory Company is a local nonprofit theatrical organization that began in 1995, created by people who were interested in theatre. Millennium has grown to constitute dozens of members who are volunteers from the community. The organization is based at the Manchester Arts Center.

The local performing arts theatre puts on seven productions every year. Millennium members nominate and vote on the plays for each production. Four shows are composed of adult actors, two exhibit a teenage cast, and one showcases young children who are 12 years old or younger. Typically, half of the adult and teenager productions are musicals, and young children usually perform a Disney musical. The other productions present the usual theatrical genres, such as a comedy or drama.

The people of Millennium aim to stimulate, promote, educate, and advance the theatrical arts in the community as they encourage community participation, the organization's website states.

Joel Longstreth, who is Millennium's managing director and has been involved since 1998, says the organization usually has around 50 or 60 members at one time. One of these members usually becomes the director of any given show; however, anyone who is not a member can volunteer as a director, actor, or some other role in the show. As managing director, Joel tends to all the organization's paperwork, rights handling, show advertisements, and more.

Joel says Millennium fell into rough times when COVID-19 spread around the world. Along with the rest of the world, the organization was forced to cancel shows due to the pandemic, leading up to four cancelled plays in 2020. Millennium also experienced around a 60% revenue decrease in 2020. Show attendance was reduced as well. The amount of people who usually attended before the pandemic varied, depending on a number of factors such as which show was presented. As of late 2021, revenue was still down.

"It's been tough," Joel says. "We've got a couple of shows where people tested positive and then we had to shut down for a while."

And it's an outlet for a lot of creative people who might want to be dancers, singers, actors

-Joel Longstreth

Joel and his partners were able to produce seven shows in 2021; however, they had to reduce the capacities of some productions, leading them to sell less than a third of the seats they normally would have filled in those shows, Joel says.

Making a comeback has been slow as they are having trouble getting more people to return to the shows. However, Joel says 2022 will be better. There is a light at the end of the tunnel. With your help, local theatre can thrive again.

Joel says Millennium is important because it's only one of two live theaters in Coffee County. "And it's an outlet for a lot of creative people who might want to be dancers, singers, actors," Joel says. "And there's people who like to learn technical things: you know, how to run lights; how to run sound."

Joel says the organization relies on ticket sales, sponsors, grants, and donations to fund the costs of the productions.

According to Millennium's website, 2022 productions will include "The Brothers Grimm Speculation," "The Exact Center of the Center," "Cabaret," "Descendents: The Musical," "Catch Me If You Can: The Musical,” “Macbeth,” and “Hello, Dolly!” The first show, “The Brothers Grimm Speculation,” is scheduled for Jan. 21-30. Tickets range from $10-15.

Those interested in participating in Millennium shows can send the organization a message through its website, visit its Facebook page, or call (931) 570-4489. From there, potential participants will be invited to attend one of Millennium’s monthly meetings. To become a member, an individual must pay $5 annually. A family membership cost is $10 annually. -M

THE OTHER FEST

The story behind the start and certainly not the end of The Other Fest

By Julia Eads

The anticipation for the 2021 Bonnaroo Music Festival was off the charts. With the previous year's rescheduling and then later shutdown due to the coronavirus outbreak, this was supposed to be the year of the comeback, and would have been Bonnaroo's 20th Anniversary. Thousands of festival goers, vendors, artists, and volunteers were either already in town or on their way to the farm in Manchester, TN.

However, Mother Nature had another plan. As Hurricane Ida came north, she brought massive amounts of rainfall with her. Most festival-goers are no strangers to the elements such as rain, heat, and dirt. In fact, fickle weather patterns like rainfall have often been celebrated over the years, taking a normally energized concert up a notch into an absolute joyous dancefest. However, the rain was not ceasing and Centeroo quickly turned into a massive mudpit.

The Bonnaroo officials were hopeful the sun would come out and dry everything up in time for Thursday, but there was no sun in sight and the rain was persistent. Finally, at the last minute on Thursday afternoon, the decision was made. Bonnaroo 2021 would not happen. The defeat and disappointment echoed across the country. As many know, this festival is not just a local ordeal. People from all over the country make their way to Bonnaroo each year. Acting out of compassion, Chamber Executive, Katy Riddle got on the phone with Ryan French, executive director of the South Central Tennessee Tourism Association. As a team, they rallied together ambassadors, vendors, volunteers, business owners, and Nashville Unsigned in attempts to salvage festival-goers' time in Tennessee.

Within 48 hours, the Other Fest, named in honor of one of Bonnaroo's stages, was founded. The festival itself ended up being a four-day event series with concerts running all afternoon to about 11 each night. There were stages at three different locations in town including Common John Brewing Company, Prater's Bar-B-Que, and Bites of Europe. Over 30 artists performed including Andy Frasco, Big Something, as well as many fan-favorite local artists. There were food trucks and vendors that hung around and served everything from hoagies, snow cones, pizza to Mexican food, including a Bonnaroo favorite, Spicy Pie. The festival attracted more than 1,300 attendees from 26 states.

With all the success, fun, and positive feedback that the Other Fest had, Manchester is looking to make this an annual event. For more information on the possibility of the second Other Fest, see what the future holds by periodically checking the event website at theotherfest.com. -M

The Manchester Giftcard brings shopping local to a new level

A one size fits all option for gift giving

By Julia Eads // Photos by James Jordan

It's safe to say the last two years of navigating through a pandemic has changed each one of us in one way or another. The pandemic illuminated both our humanness and fragility. It showed many of us that we truly need each other. With this deepened understanding, a call to action to look after and consider one another pushed forth. In response to the subtle yet still very present outcry, the Manchester Chamber staff and Ambassadors gave serious thought as to what they could do to leverage their resources and relationships to further serve our community. The goal was to promote growth and sustainability now, but also for many years to come. The Manchester Gift Card, which does not benefit the chamber monetarily, was birthed out of this desire to encourage local shopping and dining.

The Manchester Gift Card was created to drive local commerce and keep resources flowing within our local communities.

Gift cards can be purchased online at manchestertnchamber.org. Typically, if you are gifted a gift card, it only works for a specific store. However, the Manchester Gift Card gives you options and the card does not have to be spent all in one place. Rather, it can be redeemed all over Manchester with participating retailers such as Marcrom's Pharmacy; Jehovah Java; Owen's Provisions and Apparel; and many more. To see a full list of participating retailers or to sign up to be a retailer, visit the Chamber website. Only Chamber members are eligible to become a retailer at this time. If you want more information on how to become a Chamber member, feel free to give the Chamber a call at (931) 728-7635 or stop by the office during business hours. -M

GIVING WELDING STUDENTS GREATER OPPORTUNITIES

Coffee County Central High School offers students welding dual enrollment classes

By Gabriel Grant Huff

Manchester's Coffee County Central High School is taking its welding program of study to a higher level in the upcoming fall semester. It will offer students post-secondary credits for its welding program through the TCAT McMinnville program.

Coffee County School's Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs, which offer training and knowledge in academic and technical skills to students, obtained the ability to offer dual enrollment welding courses on its own premises. They received a Tennessee government grant that allowed the school to update and purchase the equipment necessary to teach the classes. The grant — called Governor's Investment in Vocational Education (GIVE) 2.0 — is partnered with the Tennessee College of Applied Technology (TCAT) McMinnville program, Tennessee's premier college provider of technical training. That helps workers acquire the technical skills and professional training needed to progress in the job market. There are 27

TCAT colleges across the state. Through a $25 million competitive grant process, the GIVE program assists the local workforce and education partners, providing institutions up to $1 million.

Richard Skipper, who is the CTE director for Coffee County schools, says Coffee County Central High School is partnered with TCAT McMinnville. Previously, the only way for dual enrollment was for students in the welding program to travel to TCAT McMinnville to take dual enrollment classes on its campus. However, they were not truly able to participate in dual enrollment due to the distance, which did not leave them with enough time to travel from one school to another between periods, Skipper says.

Seeing the need to bring dual enrollment welding courses to the school, Skipper in conjunction with TCAT McMinnville applied for the GIVE grant in Fall 2021. When November came around, Skipper learned his efforts paid off as the school received around a $200,000 GIVE grant through TCAT McMinnville.

It will benefit their families because they're going to be able to earn a living wage very, very quickly immediately after high school.

-Dr. Charles Lawson

Paul Parsley, the principal of the high school, praised Skipper for having the drive to obtain the grant.

“He’s willing to spend the time necessary to apply for various grant money that potentially can help us, so he’s spent a considerable amount of time with the grant application,” Parsley says. “And fortunately for us, we were one of the few schools in the state to receive the grant.”

Skipper says GIVE funding will also cover all the students’ dual enrollment fees, giving the school a reason to enroll all of its juniors and seniors into the classes.

“We want to make sure that those kids that are interested in welding — they’re taking the welding program but have never really thought about going on and getting their post-secondary certifications to become professional owners. They’re gonna at least have that ability and opportunity because they’re going to be gaining hours,” Skipper says.

Dr. Charles Lawson, director of Coffee County Schools, says he is excited that students will have the opportunity to engage in a trade after high school and benefit local businesses in need of them.

“Because it’s all about having that certificate. And if they can come out of high school with that certificate after being in our welding program for several years, it really benefits them,” Lawson says. “It will benefit their families because they’re going to be able to earn a living wage very, very quickly immediately after high school.”

Skipper says there is a significant need for people with technical skills like those within the welding program, and those people are offered high salaries. He wants students to take advantage of these needs.

“They are already taking the welding programs,” Skipper says. “We just feel like the numbers are there, and our industry is screaming for these types of workers, and it’s a skill trait that they will always be able to kind of name their own salaries and kind of work wherever they want to because it’s a skill trait”.

Manchester City Schools prepares students for the real world through STEM education

By Todd Reinholtz

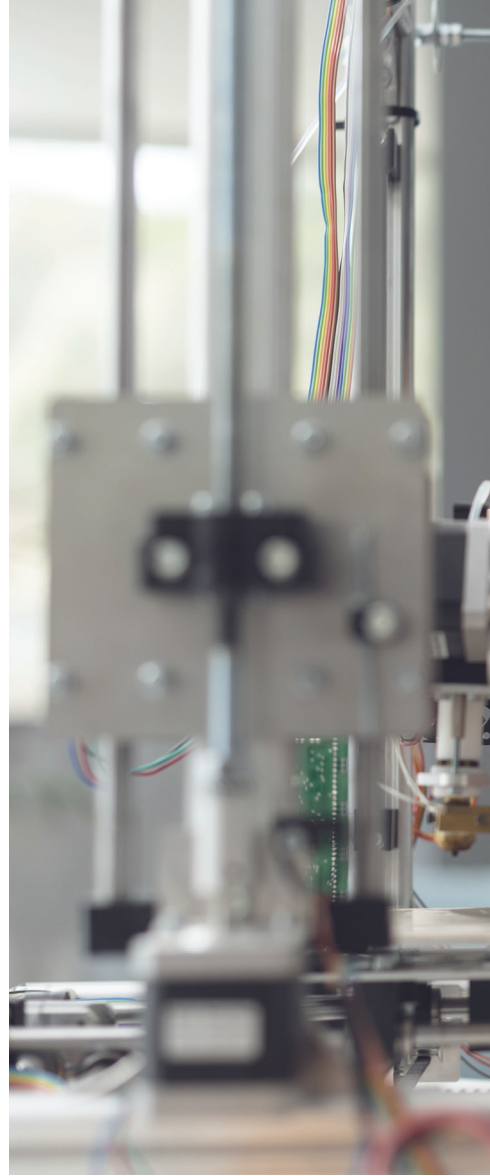

The modern economy is transforming to be more technology-focused, collaboration-based, and rewarding to the industries that can innovate and adapt quickly. It is necessary to prepare our students with diverse, real-world, problem-solving skills so they can be critical thinkers to capitalize on the evolution of industry and commerce in Middle Tennessee. We have recently seen a diverse group of major companies create footholds in our area and we need to prepare our community to be able to best capitalize on the opportunities they offer.

STEM education cannot simply be defined as a “class” that students take. Rather, STEM, in its simplest form, is an answer to the age-old question students have: “When are we ever going to have to use this?” STEM creates learning opportunities for students to bring together the isolated learnings of each individual class into a melded and joined learning experience that is authentic and purposeful.

At the moment, Manchester City Schools has a full-time STEM lab in Westwood Middle School where all students have the opportunity to engage in computer science and programming, 3D modeling and printing, laser cutting and engraving, digital design and fabrication, media production, video and streaming lab, robotics, and web development (to name a few). The class is part of the Related Arts schedule rotation, though students and teachers are encouraged to utilize the resources throughout the year to enhance their core curriculum. We are eager to spread the practices and resources across the district as we evolve to meet the needs of our students and community.

The STEM learning experience is a paradigm shift for many learners and educators.

The mindset of rigid textbook work, silent reading, guided note taking, test on Friday, and linear learning is turned on its head. Instead, we have small-group or team-based learning where we do not compete with each other or other teams—we all collaborate. If the classroom is silent then it gives one concern. Loud is OK! Failure, as you try to solve a challenging real-world problem, is expected and encouraged.

Each student on the team brings diverse backgrounds and experiences that we can all benefit from. Each student has a voice that is heard and valued. The teacher is not the one that holds all the answers. We all keep an open mindset to learn and grow from each other. In our experience, students love this environment and would like to see it spread across their whole learning path. Lifelong adaptable learners are the ultimate goal and we are encouraged to see these practices grow across the district. -M

We're here for good.

All our physicians take an oath to “do no harm,” but we know there’s more to health care than that. Good hospitals do good. And they commit to the communities they’re a part of. They go all in—for good.

With the arrival of Vanderbilt Tullahoma-Harton Hospital, we plan to do just that.
