Culinary Students Learn Science of Culinary Arts

Niagara Falls Culinary Institute Executive Chef and Hospitality Instructor, Benjamin Loomis, recently spent time with the Culinary Arts students at the Orleans Career and Technical Education Center.

Chef James Atzrott, who teaches the program, invited Chef Loomis in to talk to the students about careers in culinary and the classes at the Institute. The students were definitely inspired by his demonstration which was Bananas Foster and making homemade ice cream from liquid nitrogen. "Cooking is chemistry," Chef Loomis explained to the students. "Liquid nitrogen boils at negative 320 degrees and it can be dangerous if not handled correctly."

Chef Loomis showed the students the safety procedures to make the ice cream and some of the students were able to put on the safety garb and make the dessert. Everyone got a chance to participate with the hands-on demonstration and then got to enjoy the finished product. "The students really enjoyed the demonstration and the dessert. I really appreciate Chef Loomis taking the time out of his busy schedule to come in and talk to my students," says Chef Atzrott.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY NATHAN D. PACE
ATTORNEY AT LAW

THE NEED FOR A FAMILY LAWYER

According to the website www.laws101.com, Family Law topped The Legal Hotlist with a 2450% increase in demand during the pandemic. Spousal support was the top area of practice in Family Law, while elder care, adoption, guardianship, custody, legal separation, divorce, child support, and paternity rounded out the list. During these unprecedented times, having legal affairs in order has never been more important. Consulting a family law expert for guidance will not only eliminate stress, but may help also avoid future legal battles and fractured relationships. A Power of Attorney, Guardianship, and a Last Will and Testament drafted and in place before they are necessary provides peace of mind and eliminates the need for future litigation and court intervention.

Estate planning is a smart step for everyone, regardless of income, wealth, or the size of your estate. At the B, we help individuals and families craft estate plans that suit their needs and provide stability and security for the future. To schedule a consultation, please call. Our areas of emphasis include living wills and trust, powers of attorney, and advance directives.

Travel Thoughts By Kim

Let's go on an adventure together...a Maple Syrup Adventure!

Maple season in Western New York is about to get started, so I thought I'd talk about some great maple infused adventures I've experienced. A big spring crop that is very plentiful in our area is maple syrup and all things maple. There is an abundance of "sugar shacks" that harvest the sap from maple trees and produce the sweetest of delights....fresh, pure maple syrup and maple sugar. And, by the way, New York is second only to Vermont when it comes to maple production and the sugar maple tree is the state tree of NY.

Bruce at Merle Maple Farm was our tour guide and took us through the entire process from tapping trees to processing the maple into syrup and sugar. So interesting!

There are typically two weekends in the spring that are officially called "Maple Weekend" where you can visit many of the area's maple producers for tours and a chance to purchase and, in most cases, taste the freshly made treats. I searched for the dates for this year's Maple Weekends and found two sites that list it as March 19-20 and 26-27, 2022. I'm not absolutely sure that's correct, but you'll be able to easily confirm that as we get closer to the season. I see that Cartwright's Maple Tree Inn has announced they will be open for their famous pancake breakfasts starting February 8 through April 10.

My very first taste (literally) of Western New York maple was in 2016. That time I went with a group from my church. We gathered early in the morning and carpoled to Cartwright's Maple Tree Inn in Short Track, just outside Angelica, NY - about a one and a half hour or so drive. Cartwright's is famous for their all you can eat buckwheat pancake breakfast - it includes ham, sausage, beverage of choice, and the never ending pancakes....and, of course, their own pure maple syrup. I'm not sure, but I think you can get an option that also has eggs, but why??? You will want to save as much room as possible for as many of those buckwheat pancakes as you can possibly eat. Hahaha (I don't want to brag, but I believe I ate 6) Cartwright's also has a gift shop near the dining room and a museum in the lower level that has lots of antique equipment. If they are processing, you can also go in and see that happening, as well. I got to see that on this trip and the aroma in that room was enough to make me a bit dizzy --- so amazing. It's a really cool place and the breakfast is TO DIE FOR!!!

A griddle loaded with delicious buckwheat pancakes waiting to be served with pure maple syrup at Cartwright's Maple Tree Inn, Short Track, NY - just outside Angelica.

In 2018, I made the trip on a bus tour hosted by the Cobblestone Society. Our first stop on that adventure was the Merle Maple Farm in Attica, NY, where we learned all about the process of tapping trees, getting the sap to the sugar shack, and producing pure maple syrup and maple sugar. This was the first I had heard words like "Permeate", "Retentate", and "RO" since I retired from the Pharmaceutical industry. I'm proud to say I understood everything our guide was saying about the process of extracting and purifying the sap into syrup and sugar products. If memory serves, I think some of the others on the tour also enjoyed some maple ice cream while at Merle's, too. After our tour, we went to Cartwright's for that wonderful buckwheat pancake breakfast.

In 2019, I also went on the Cobblestone Society's bus tour. This time, we went to downtown Angelica to shop, first. We even had the opportunity to pre-order some pies from the bakery in Angelica - I treated myself to an egg custard pie that was heavenly and brought back wonderful memories of my grandmother, who made the BEST egg custard pie. After shopping, we....of course....went to Cartwright's for buckwheat pancakes. We also had an amazing guide on the bus - Georgia - who was a walking encyclopedia of knowledge about maple production and products. She was fascinating and I learned so much. If the Cobblestone Society does this bus tour again, I highly recommend it.

Downtown Angelica, NY is full of unique shops, antiques, bakeries, and the famous salt-rising bread. If in the area, it makes for a wonderful stop to shop and relax.

There are a lot of other sugar shacks around the area that participate in Maple Weekend every year. A little research could provide you with so many options to make the two weekends jammed full of wonderful adventures and delicious treats. In 2020 and again last year, I had hoped to venture out and explore some of the other locations, but Covid pretty much threw a wrench in that plan. Maybe I'll get to do it this spring.

Visit these blog posts for more information and photos from three separate maple infused adventures:

Happy Adventuring,
Kim Pritt

Got a sweet tooth? Well, this will surely satisfy it for you. These are pure maple sugar forms that were freshly made when we were offered a sample. So good....so sweet....but so good!

After breakfast, we drove to downtown Angelica to shop. Angelica is a tiny little town full of unique shops and antiques. I remember it was a nice, warm, sunny spring day and I enjoyed sitting on a bench soaking in the fresh air and enjoying the feel of the quaint little town after I finished shopping. Angelica is also famous for their salt-rising bread - that was my first time having that local treat, as well. After we left Angelica, some of us took a drive through Letchworth State Park on the way home. It was an amazing day.

Impress fellow fans with smoked brisket for the big game

Sports is often credited with bringing people together. That tendency to connect people from different walks of life is even more noticeable when sports is combined with food.

Food and sports go hand in hand. Food is never too far away when getting together with fellow fans. That's true if fans are hosting a game watch at home or if they're tailgating in a stadium parking lot. Certain styles of food are synonymous with sports, and that includes grilled and smoked items. Smoking has become particularly popular among sports fans in recent years, and many modern smokers are now portable enough that they can be taken on the road when following a favorite team.

Game day can be the perfect time to master the art of smoking. Smoking can take a long time, which makes it an ideal option for day-long tailgates or game watch parties. Fans who have volunteered for cooking duties this season can impress guests with their smoking skills by following this recipe for "Texas-Style Beef Brisket" from "The Essential Kamado Grill Cookbook" (Rockridge Press) by Will Budiaman.

Texas-Style Beef Brisket

Serves 6 to 8
 1 8- to 10-lb. beef brisket
 3 tablespoons kosher salt
 3 tablespoons freshly ground black pepper

Dry-brining time: Overnight
Prep time: 15 to 30 minutes
Cook time: 7 hours, 30 minutes to 9 hours, 30 minutes; plus 1 to 2 hours to rest
Grill temperature: 250 F to 275 F

- Smoking wood: Oak or pecan
1. Trim off any hard fat from the brisket and square off the edges. Trim the fat cap down to an even 1/4-inch thickness. Sprinkle evenly on all sides with the salt and pepper. Refrigerate overnight.
  2. Prepare the grill for smoking at 250 F to 275 F.
  3. Place the brisket fat-side up on the grate over the drip pan. Close the lid. If desired, wrap in aluminum foil after 5 to 6 hours or once the bark (crust) is dark brown.
  4. Turn over the brisket, close the lid, and continue cooking for 2 hours, 30 minutes to 3 hours, 30 minutes more or until an instant-read thermometer inserted into the center registers 200 F.
  5. Rest the brisket, wrapped in foil, for 1 to 2 hours before serving. Cut across the grain into 1/4-inch-thick slices. Pour over as much of the drippings from the pan as you like, and serve.

Cooking tip: The grain in each part of the brisket — it's made up of two different muscles, known as the flat and the point — runs in two different directions. Roughly speaking, the grain in the point runs perpendicular to the grain in the flat, so you'll want to slice the two sections separately.
