THE LAW AND YOU

BY NATHAN D. PACE ATTORNEY AT LAW

MINOR OFFENSES NEED PROFESSIONAL DEFENSE

As any parent knows, kids can sometimes get in trouble, whether it's being in the wrong place at the wrong time or just teenage mischief. Criminal defendants under the age of majority (usually age 18) go through a different criminal justice system designed for juveniles who commit crimes. Having a juvenile criminal record can affect many facets of life once juveniles become adults. Even charges that are eventually dismissed or diverted to probation or court supervision can still often negatively influence future educational or employment opportunities. When a child is charged with a juvenile offense, seeking the expert advice of a qualified criminal attorney is invaluable to navigating the complex legal system and help protect the child's future.

Relying on age as a sole determinant for adulthood has been criticized by many criminologists and policy makers because individuals develop at different rates. Some youths are more mature at 17 or 18 than are some adults. Because of this discrepancy, juvenile court judges have been given broad discretion to waive juveniles to adult court for trial and sentencing. To schedule a consultation, please call the Law Office of MACK & PACE. Our areas of emphasis include criminal law, family law, estate planning, and business law.

P.S. Although minors under the age of seven are not usually tried, parents can be held accountable for the actions of the child.

Auto Tech Student Flexes Writing Skills with Book Publication

Auto Technology student Brooke Johnpier says the reason she takes the Auto Technology program at the Niagara Career and Technical Education Center is because her dream job is to be a motorsports journalist. "I want to be able to write about cars and motors from an expert point of view. I really love my teacher Mr. Jeckovich. He is the best and I am learning so much in his class."

Brooke, a junior from Wilson, has also been flexing her writing skills in the fiction realm as well. She recently self-published her first book, "The Fort Niagara Bayonet". The story follows Lilac, Lily and their father on an adventure to Fort Niagara and has a paranormal spin to it. "Lilac has purple hair and green eyes and wears funny clothing," explains Brooke. "She is also psychic and can see and talk to ghosts."

Brooke says publishing her first book is a dream come true and she needs to thank her family and a former teacher for inspiring her efforts. "I feel very fortunate to have had someone assist me and help me with my writing," she says. For anyone interested in purchasing her book you can go to www.libertylilac.com.

Ladies, it's time to think about your health!

By Michelle Okonieczny,
Family Nurse Practitioner, Oak Orchard Health

Women tend to be the caregivers in families, whether they're caring for their parents or their children and significant others, but they often ignore their own health. It's important that they take time for themselves which is why I'm dedicating this article to that topic.

Yearly exams and preventing Cervical Cancer

Many Moms wouldn't think of skipping their kids' "Well Child" visits each year, but they don't always come in for their yearly physicals. During your physical, we'll take your blood pressure, weight, address any health issues and talk about preventative measures for your future. For women, we'll also do a Pap Smear if that's appropriate.

According to the Mayo Clinic, a Pap smear, also called a Pap test, is a procedure to test for cervical cancer in women. Detecting cervical cancer early with a Pap smear gives you a greater chance at a cure.

How can you manage your stress?

Stress affects women (and everyone) in different ways. It's often a major factor in weight gain and struggles with mental health. Remember, you can't take care of anybody if you're not taking care of yourself.

How can you help yourself? Some simple tips include increased exercise such as walking which gives you the added benefit of some quiet time – time with your own thoughts. If you don't allow yourself some downtime, you're going to burn out. If you'd like to talk with a behavioral health professional, Oak Orchard Health offers counseling that can be done by phone, video, or in-person. Getting outside perspective and advice can be super helpful to your mental health.

Healthy eating

Eating healthy can make a world of difference in your life but it does take planning and thoughtful purchases. Staying away from fast foods, processed foods, and high-calorie drinks can have a big impact on weight loss. Diets that include lots of vegetables or vegetables with fish, are the best for you. I understand that people are busy and often don't have the time to prep fresh vegetables, but you can get the same nutritional value if you microwave or steam frozen vegetables. Be sure to read the labels when purchasing and look for lower calorie and carbohydrate items. You will be surprised that there are healthy items in the frozen food area beyond just frozen vegetables.

Eating regularly is as important as what you eat. Be sure to have breakfast, lunch, and dinner every day, and avoid eating late at night. If you find yourself hungry late at night or in between meals, look to healthy snacking like vegetables such as cucumbers or even a small salad with lite dressing.

Breast cancer and early detection

Breast cancer is the most common cancer in American women, except for skin cancers. It can occur at any age, but the risk goes up as you get older. Because of certain factors, some women may have a greater chance of having breast cancer than others, according to the American Cancer Society.

Many of you reading this article already know that getting a mammogram is the #1 way to detect breast cancer – but when should you get one? The American Cancer Society recommends women start at age 40 for their yearly breast cancer screening and I agree. Should you have a family history of breast cancer you may need to get your mammogram earlier, particularly if that family member was under 40 years of age. If that's the case, you may want to start mammograms at 35.

Shingles, what are they?

The CDC reports that a number of studies have revealed that more women than men develop shingles, although it states that the reason for the disparity is not known. What are shingles? Shingles are caused by the same virus that causes chickenpox. After a person has chickenpox, the virus stays in their body and becomes inactive. Years later, the virus can reactivate, causing shingles.

Often people associate Shingles with a terrible rash, but it can also show up like a fever, malaise, flu-like symptoms, and sometimes the rash can be very minimal. This virus can also cause meningitis so it's extremely important to see your medical provider and get treated. If you are 50 or older, you are eligible to get the Shingles vaccine to prevent getting this often very painful disease.

We hope you've found this article to be helpful. Should you have any other questions, please contact your medical professional or Oak Orchard Health.

Signs of a HEART ATTACK

Some heart attacks are sudden and intense, but most heart attacks start slowly, with mild pain. Often people affected aren't sure what's wrong and wait too long before getting help. Symptoms include:

CHEST DISCOMFORT. Most heart attacks involve discomfort in the center of the chest that lasts more than a few minutes, or that goes away and comes back. It can feel like uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness or pain.

DISCOMFORT IN OTHER AREAS OF THE UPPER BODY. Symptoms can include pain or discomfort in one or both arms, the back, neck, jaw or stomach.

SHORTNESS OF BREATH with or without chest discomfort.

OTHER SIGNS may include breaking out in a cold sweat, nausea or lightheadedness

Women are somewhat more likely than men to experience other common symptoms, particularly SHORTNESS OF BREATH, NAUSEA/VOMITING, AND BACK/JAW PAIN.

If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay!

Call 9-1-1 immediately!

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.

- Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.

- Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custom-molded ones made by our office.

- 95 percent of our patients symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.

- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post-op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques and EPF resulting in minimal incisions and scarring, immediate ambulation and often back in a shoe in one week.

If you can't remember when your feet didn't hurt, now is the time to give us a call!

Electricity/Electronics Program Gets OK to Continue on Habitat for Humanity House

The Building Trades program and Electricity and Electronics program at the Orleans Career and Technical Education Center have been working together on building a modular home Habitat for Humanity.

Bill Leggett and his Electricity students recently got the good word from Tim Enderby from Empire Inspections, that the house passed their "rough in" electrical inspection. "This will allow Mr. Anastasi and his Building Trades students to go forward with our next steps which will include insulation, drywall hanging, taping and mudding, then painting," says Mr. Leggett. "After those are complete, the "finish" electrical happens which is the connecting of the switches and receptacles and lighting outlets."

Mr. Enderby will then return to the Orleans Career and Technical Education Center to make his final electrical inspection so the house may be moved to its final location. Both programs are enjoying the process of building the house and giving a deserving family a home.

Electrical Class during inspection. Top Row: Alex Montgomery (Newfane), Hunter Bullock (Lockport), Logan Balcom (Medina), Camden Rowles (Newfane), Electricity teacher aide Mark McCabe, Jake Miller (Newfane), Drew Sandolini (Barker), Orion Groth (Albion). Travel Thoughts By Kim

Let's go on an adventure together...to Follow the Music!

The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, Cleveland, Ohio. I highly recommend a trip to Cleveland for this experience.

Music....it can take you back to some of the best memories of your life with just a few notes. So, it's no surprise that music was a big part of many of my favorite trips. Some I specifically targeted because of the musical memories they represented and some had a musical element I stumbled on while there. So, let's "follow the music" together.

In 2006, I talked my Mom into meeting me in Las Vegas when I was there for a work trip. It was around her birthday and love of the Beatles was something we shared, so I surprised her with tickets to a Cirque du Soleil show at the Mirage called "Love" - all based on Beatles music. It was a fabulous night and an amazing memory for both of us.

I've talked in these articles a lot about the 2016 Most Excellent Adventure I took in a motor home with my brother and sister-in-law. Our first stop was the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in Cleveland, OH. If you've never been, it is a great adventure and not all that far. The exhibits are wonderful. It made for an emotional and entertaining day. Loved it!!!

On that same trip, I was able to spend three days in New Orleans during our time in Louisiana. While music wasn't the main focus of that trip, it ended up being a huge part of it. The jazz musicians that were all over the city provided lots of special moments while strolling to enjoy the eclectic city and awesome food.

I often say my 2017 trip to Iowa is my most surprising trip. I needed to check it off to meet my "visit all 50 states" bucket list item, but I wasn't expecting much. Well....I ended up absolutely loving Iowa and really want to go back. One of my favorite memories of Iowa was the day I drove to Clear Lake. Just after midnight on February 3, 1959, singers Buddy Holly, The Big Bopper, and Ritchie Valens died when the small plane they chartered crashed in a corn field just north of Clear Lake, Iowa. I spent some time in the Surf Ballroom - the location of their final performances prior to getting on the plane meant to take them to the next city on their tour. It is still in use for performances, but it is also maintained as a wonderful museum to all the artists who have performed there over the years - including a tribute to that final performance dubbed as "The Day the Music Died". After leaving the Surf Ballroom, I drove out to the crash site. It is in the middle of nowhere on a long dirt road. To get to the site, I had to walk about a quarter mile down a path through a corn field in the rain and mug. I found the spot - memorialized with the names of those who died and markers that represent them and cried my eyes out. The entrance to the path is marked with a monument with glasses like the ones Buddy Holly wore.

Earlier in 2017, I went to San Francisco during the 50th anniversary of the "Summer of Love", which took place in 1967, and visited the Haight and Golden Gate Park - both areas made famous by all the hippies and legends from the Summer of Love. What a thrill that was for this old hippy.

When I went to Kentucky in 2019, I got in to my hotel about dinner time and was really tired after a day of delays in airports. But, I happened to notice a theater across the parking lot and decided to look into it. It was called the Derby Dinner Playhouse and I found out that night they were doing a dinner theater performance of "Million Dollar Quartet" - the story of the night of December 3, 1956 when Sam Phillips got Elvis Presley, Carl Perkins, Johnny Cash, and Jerry Lee Lewis together for the first and only time for a jam session and made Rock and Roll History at Sun Records. I suddenly got my second wind, found out the show started in 20 minutes and they could accommodate a single....I reserved a ticket and high-tailed it over there and had the time of my life! What a show....and what a great accidental "find". I sang along with the rest of the audience to every song.

Also in 2019, I was thrilled to get to spend some time in Liverpool, England and walk the steps of the Beatles! I cried almost the entire time I was there! It was part of a cruise and the ship was docked in Liverpool Bay on the River Mersey - you know - the river mentioned in the song "Ferry Cross the Mersey" by Gerry and the Pacemakers. I toured "The Beatles Story" - an exhibition chronicling their amazing career, walked down Mathew Street where the Cavern Club is - the club they got their start in, I saw Penny Lane and Strawberry Fields, the homes where Paul and John lived with their families and where they went to school and church, and so much more! It was an awesome day - the thrill of a lifetime!

Me in the Penny Lane District of Liverpool, England - walking the steps of The Beatles and making wonderful memories.

Then, I crammed a TON musical memories into a single week in Memphis in 2021. I stayed at Graceland and did "all things Elvis", spend a couple days wandering around downtown Memphis with the history of the blues oozing out of every crevice, took a day trip to Tupelo, Mississippi to see where Elvis was born and spent his childhood, enjoyed a couple hours at the Rock and Soul Museum, ate BBQ at BB King's restaurant, strolled along Beale Street, and toured Sun Records - where so many legends recorded their early hits. I even got to go to see The Monkees in concert on Graceland. WOW!!!

There are a lot of other music-related destinations I hope to visit someday....but, if not, I've definitely had my share of thrilling and memorable experiences "following the music" in my travels. There are far too many specific blog links to reference here. So, if you want to read more about any or all of the places I mention in this article, you can go to my blog: www.thoughtsbykim.com, find the "search here" box and enter any key word to find the post that covers the topic you are looking for. The only exception is the Las Vegas reference - that trip was pre-blog, so you won't find more info on that one.

Sun Records - Memphis, TN. This is original microphone in Sun Studios used by all the greats - they held it and sang into it....and, so did !!! Most of the artifacts are behind glass or ropes - not to be touched. But Sam Phillips left this one in the original studio under the condition that it be out where people could take photos with it and touch it and feel the history it represents....so, I did!

Signs of pest infestation at home

Pests come in many shapes and sizes, from the smallest of insects that crawl through crevices or under moldings to larger mammals that find their way into attics and basements. Taking care of a home or buying a new one can be stressful enough without having to contend with a potential pest infestation. Much like any other home issue, like a leak or faulty electrical system, pests can cause significant damage if left unchecked. Furthermore, the droppings left from certain creatures can compromise human health. For example, National Exterminating says rodents can spread hantavirus, while droppings from other pests can exacerbate asthma and allergies. The best way to stay ahead of potential pest problems is to recognize signs that pests are present.

Droppings

A classic sign of infestation, pet waste includes fecal droppings or urine trails. Certain waste is easier to spot than others. For example, bed bug droppings are much smaller than mice or rat droppings. Homeowners can carry out thorough examinations of furniture, bedding, walls, floors, and areas of the home that get little foot traffic to look for pests.

Dead bodies

Another sign that points to pests is the presence of dead insect or animal bodies. A large number is indicative of a pest problem.

Active pests

The experts at Batzner Pest Control say that live animals or insects in and around the home are potential signs of infestation. Most are very good at hiding, so finding live specimens may require some investigating in the kitchen, bathrooms and outdoors near the perimeter of the home.

Evidence of nesting

Most animals want somewhere cozy and comfortable to bed down and will use materials available to them when making nests. Look for shredded paper, feathers, gathered twigs or grasses, home insulation piles, or any other red flags that could be nests.

Smells, sights and sounds

Animals and insects can give off smells and make sounds. Roaches are said to have an "oily" odor, while mice may produce "musty" smells. Homeowners may hear gnawing, squeaking, scurrying, or scratching. In addition, there may be holes, gnaw marks, signs of burrows, and other signs of pests. Wood shavings or sawdust could indicate the presence of termites, which cause serious structural damage.

Stored pesticides

People who are viewing a potential new home and find cans and canisters of pesticides or pest traps should recognize that there is likely a problem with animals or insects there.

Pests can be a concern for homeowners, who can overcome the issue after learning to identify signs of their presence. ■

Why should you give to the United Way?

You get the personal satisfaction of knowing you are giving to the only charity which affects everything .. and everybody . Nobody does it better or more cost effectively. Based on last years income including grants we operated this agency on 7% . We are creating opportunities for 30 non-profits and government agencies today that they would not have without us. For the third year in a row we raised our allocations to local charities. We are the ones who connect everyone. We have the most total impact of any agency in this county and its growing.

Today we do recognize our concern is broader

Because of current needs we are adding an avenue to give locally or more broadly

YOU CAN DESIGNATE 20% OF YOUR DONATION TO THE UNITED WAY WORLDWIDE Ukraine RELIEF

95% OF ALL FUNDS RECEIVED get on the ground

Make One Gift Count Twice

We can't have the impact we need to have until we have resources comparable to urban United Way operations.

United Way of Buffalo and Erie County
per capita revenue $24.12 (919,719 residents)

United Way of Orleans County
per capita revenue of $3.62 (40,612 residents)

Thank you Orleans Ford for donating this ad space to us!
