REB set to meet April 19th as petition to terminate manager circulates

*John Pilati
 Franklin Free Press*

The Russellville Electric Board will hold its April 2022 business meeting next Tuesday, April 19th, and the question remains whether board members will consider voting themselves a raise at that meeting.

The meeting will take place at the Electric Board Warehouse and will begin at 6 p.m. Several Russellville residents have told the FFP they requested to be placed on the agenda for that meeting.

Last month, board member Bill Jackson said at the March meeting that he had heard another local utility board had given itself a raise to $600/month per board member. Russellville Electric Board members receive $400/month and the chairman, James McDuffa, receives $450/month.

Board members also received 'performance and safety incentive' bonuses, authorized by REB Manager Charles Canida, that totaled $5,000 each in 2021. In February, four board members returned $28,800 in incentive bonuses they were not legally allowed to receive.

"I don't think it's fair for one to be drawing more than the other," Jackson said. "I've heard a rumor another board has gone up. I don't think we are any different than they are."

The REB meeting agendas do not itemize New Business items, so it is

RHS graduate among more than 30,000 set to run in Boston Marathon

*John Pilati
 Franklin Free Press*

As the 30,000 or so participants gather to start the Boston Marathon next Monday, there will be at least one Franklin County native among them.

Scotty Aycock, who was raised in the Bethlehem community, qualified for this year's Boston Marathon. It will be Aycock's first time to run the famous 26.2 mile course.

Aycock, who works at Brown's Ferry and lives in Central, was an avid cyclist until four years ago. That's when his passion for running overtook his enjoyment of cycling.

"In the last four years, I've gotten more serious about running. I always liked it," Aycock said. "I just got away from cycling and wanted some other way to stay active."

Aycock has completed four marathons, including the Walt Disney World Marathon, the Soldier Marathon in Columbus, Ga., and one in Gulf Shores and one last fall in Chicago.

Aycock, 45, had to meet qualifying thresholds in order to run in the Boston Marathon. For men 45-49, you must have a qualifying marathon time of 3 hours, 20 minutes or less since September 1, 2019.

Aycock's personal best time, 3 hours 10 minutes, opened the door for him to participate.

Even for an athlete as well-conditioned as Aycock, running 26.2 miles puts some serious wear-and-tear on the body.

"After a marathon, I'm sore for a couple days at least," Aycock said. "I usually take a couple weeks off from running just to recover." Along with the New York City Marathon, the Boston Marathon is one of the premier athletic events in the country. Aycock's trip to take part in the Boston Marathon is a bucket list experience for avid runners.

"It's kind of a goal for a lot of runners just to qualify," Aycock said. "I wanted to take part in something special like the Boston Marathon, and it would be nice to PR (personal record), too."

Aycock attended Tharptown School through the ninth grade before attending Russellville High School, where he graduated in 1995. After he and wife Brittney married in 2001, the Aycocks lived in the La Grange community before moving to Florence a few years later.

Aycock's advice for someone who wants to start running is to take it slowly.

"There are several programs and apps you can use, like Couch to 5K, to get you started with a run/walk routine," Aycock said. "Just start slow and don't overdo it. Build up and pretty much anyone can do it. It takes dedication and you've got to be consistent."

Letter to the editor

Submitted to the FFP

If the Russellville Electric Board has an issue with a news entity, organization, or an individual exercising the First Amendment Right to Speech, the REB should not be sending laminated letters of the issues that they have thru the U.S. Mail.

How much did REB spend on the laminated letter and postage?

If there is just cause for action by the REB on statements, verbal or written, insinuated or made about any activity, decisions, audits, or employees, that is within the REB scope of oversight, jurisdiction, functionality, policies and procedures (I could not find them), should not be made public unless there are charges filed. Then the legal system should issue any legal statements.

If false statements have been made, REB has a right to prove that in a court of law.

Don't spend my utility payments to send me a complaint in the mail.

I don't think that the board members paid any cost of the letter out of their personal money.

Was the decision to send the letter discussed at the board meeting?

I will be interested to find out how much money was spent and how it was accounted for in the expenditures.

I personally will look outside of Russellville to seek additional information on the most effective way to stop, in what seems to me, that the REB is not acting within the function of a board that should have the customers interest as their first priority.

In the case of REB, I believe that the Board of Directors at Tennessee Valley Electric will agree.

These are my thoughts. I take ownership of what I have written.

Award-winning books for your reading list

Lori Skinner
Franklin Free Press

Awards season is in full swing for both movies and books. Given the popularity of many of the well-known awards, I thought we would take a look at the Alex Award and a few of the books that have achieved this award.

The Alex Awards began in 1998 and are awarded annually to 10 books written for adult audiences that also have broad appeal for youths aged 12 through 18. There are many well-known and bestseller titles on this list, but there are a quite a few that you or your young adult may not have encountered.

This year's winners include Crossing the Line: A Fearless Team of Brothers and the Sport that Changed Their Lives Forever by Kareem Rosser. Kareem Rosser, author and captain of the first all-black squad to win the National Interscholastic Polo championship, shares the story of how during a bike ride he and his siblings encountered a barn full of horses in Philly's Fairmount Park. The owner of the stables offered an opportunity for riding lessons which led to a passion for polo and provided opportunities that would allow him to expand his future beyond "The Bottom" of West Philadelphia.

A fantastic 2020 winner, A Boy and His Dog at the End of the World, by C.A. Fletcher features a dystopian future where the world's population can be counted in the thousands. When a stranger visits the remote island where Griz lives with his family, Griz wonders "At the end of the world, what matters more than loyalty?" after one of his beloved dogs is stolen. If you like post-apocalyptic fiction, be sure to give this one a try.

A winner in 1998 is a personal favorite of mine, All Over but the Shoutin', by Rick Bragg. His memoir begins in 1959 Alabama and provides a moving and absorbing look at growing up poor in the South. Told in a way that makes you feel the red dust from the earth, Bragg does not shy away from the rough nature of his father and allows his love and deep admiration for his mother to shine through. Bragg went on to win a Pulitzer Prize for his work at The New York Times and is a prolific author of works that evoke deep emotion.

The Alex awards also appreciate books that have a sense of humor. In 2008, The Spellman Files, the first of a six-book series written by Lisa Lutz, received the award. Be ready to laugh as we see the twenty-eight-year-old daughter of Spellman Investigations try to exit the family business after becoming fed-up with her family's constant surveillance of her private life. This is definitely a cozy mystery and a delightful introduction to an eccentric family that will have you coming back for more.

not yet known whether board members will consider approving a raise. The April meeting comes as Canida and board members face increasing public scrutiny about expenses made by Canida and the board, ranging from the purchase of an $83,000 luxury SUV for Canida's use to $2,000 meals while Canida and the board attended a conference on the Gulf Coast.

Russellville City Councilman Darren Woodruff, a former REB member and chairman, started a petition last Thursday calling for Canida's termination. As of Monday morning, more than 550 people signed the petition in less than two days.

This came days after a mailer, signed by the Board Members of Russellville Electric, was sent to thousands of area residents, many of whom are not REB customers. The mailer explained that REB was responding to "certain individuals who have chosen to disseminate information regarding REB that is simply not accurate."

Board members stated they had the letter reviewed by their attorney. The writing of the mailer, printing of the mailer and postage for the mailer were not discussed or approved at any meeting of the REB Board, calling into question how or when it was approved outside of a business meeting.

Neighbors announces Democratic nomination for District 4 Congressional seat

Submitted to the FFP

Decorated Army veteran Rick Neighbors has a long history of fighting for our freedoms. He vows to bring that same fight to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Neighbors will be on the Democratic Primary ballot for the District 4 seat on May 24 vying for enough votes to again take on the 13-term incumbent Robert Aderholt in November.

"I continue to have faith in the good voters of District 4 to choose a representative in congress who will fight for the things that matter to us all," said Neighbors. "Having served three tours in Vietnam, I understand that our veterans need better healthcare. As a long-time manager in the textile industry, I understand the need to fight for better wages and equal opportunities."

"I've seen the discrimination against women and minorities. And it is heart-breaking to see our representative vote against every bill that would help women including the Violence Against Women Act," Neighbors added.

Neighbors also believes that everyone who wants an education should have the opportunity to get one. He cites Alabama's poor education system and the lack of proper funding to rural schools as an important priority.

Born in North Carolina, Neighbors was one of five children and was raised around small farming. He learned his work ethic from his parents. His father, a veteran of both WWII and the Korean War, quit school after a wagon turned over and killed Rick's grandfather. His parents were married during the war in 1942. His mother, Gladys Norris, also the daughter of a sharecropper, supported the war effort by assembling ammunition. Afterwards she worked "graveyard shifts" in spinning mills to care for their children while her husband was away in the Army.

Neighbors began his military service when he dropped out of high school after his junior year and joined the Army at age 17. He was fortunate to score high on his entry tests and was sent to the Signal School in New Jersey where he studied electronics for fourteen months. Initially deployed to Germany as a communications specialist supporting our tactical nuclear defense strategy, he volunteered for Vietnam arriving in January 1967. He eventually served three tours, the last ending in the spring of 1971. His main duties involved tactical communications to include running contingency teams throughout the 3rd and 4th quadrants. He was airborne qualified and was awarded the Army Commendation medal.

As a veteran, Neighbors joined Bethel Baptist Missionary Church. In 1973 he was awarded a small scholarship from the Southern Baptist Association and enrolled in Campbell College as a ministerial student.

He switched his major frequently, going from religion to psychology, philosophy, and art. After his junior year he switched schools to attend the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, graduating in 1979 with a B.A. in Political Science.

After graduating from UNCC and intending to go to law school but needing to work, Neighbors took what he thought would be a temporary job with an apparel company. This temp job lasted thirty-five years. He trained in Greensboro, NC for six months, transferred to Oneonta, Alabama to mentor for a year under a sage practitioner, and transferred in 1980 to Hackleburg, Alabama as Division Quality Control Manager for Wrangler.

He met and married his wife Judy in 1981 and made Alabama his home. They have three children, six grandchildren, and eight great grandchildren.

His work in apparel took him to many states and he soon became an international businessman and negotiator. Then In 1993 he started his own apparel consulting firm, but the impact of NAFTA eventually led to Mexico where he was general manager of a maquiladora. He started and closed a manufacturing company during this period. The maquiladora closed in 2005 because of trade agreements with China.

Neighbors returned to Northwest Alabama in 2006. Neighbors continues to support international trade and understands that trade is essential for rural Alabama to earn a middle-class income once again.

"However, our trade agreements must serve all Americans, not just a few," he said. "I'll fight for all workers – for better wages, expanded health-care and equal pay for women. I'll put the working middle class, the disadvantaged, and the elderly in District 4 above the tax breaks for the rich. And I am committed to protect Medicare and Medicaid and to raise Social Security to help lift the elderly out of poverty."

Neighbors also stressed the importance of fighting for better educational opportunities. "We're selling our children short on the education they need and deserve. Our teachers are underpaid and often spend their own money for school supplies," Neighbors lamented.

Neighbors continued his education and earned his MBA from the University of North Alabama in 2015 He received a graduate certification in Project Management from UNA in 2017 and earned CAPM certification from the

Franklin voters to decide if mayors may participate in RSA

John Pilati
Franklin Free Press

Franklin County voters will decide whether mayors in the county may participate in the Employees' Retirement System of Alabama (RSA) when they go to the polls November 8, 2022.

House Bill 437, sponsored by Rep. Jamie Kiel (R-Russellville) and Rep. Poncey Robertson (R-Mount Hope) passed by a 57-0 vote on March 15th.

The bill allows for Franklin County voters to consider a constitutional amendment on the November 8 ballot that, if approved, would make mayors eligible to participate in the state retirement program.

Any mayor would be allowed to purchase service credit in RSA for the amount of time he or she has served as mayor.

The specific language of the amendment as it will appear on ballots is as follows: Relating to Franklin County, proposing an amendment to the

'NEIGHBORS,' from page 8

Project Management Institute in the spring of 2017.

Unlike the incumbent, Neighbors will be an "open door" representative to the people in District 4.

Constitution of Alabama of 1901, to allow mayors to participate in the Employees' Retirement System.

Since the bill cleared the House with no opposing votes, it will appear only on Franklin County ballots, as opposed to having to be approved statewide.

Kiel said he received resolutions approved by the Russellville City Council and the Red Bay City Council that asked for legislation allowing their mayors to participate in RSA. Both resolutions were passed unanimously by the two city councils.

Kiel said he is not taking a position for or against the amendment.

"My stance is because both Russellville and Red Bay's City Councils did resolutions supporting and requesting this, the people of Franklin County should have the opportunity to vote on this amendment and decide if they want it to become law. That vote will happen in November," Kiel said.

"I want to hear their needs and concerns," he said. "I don't think that a representative can live in Virginia and stay in touch with the people."

Monster second inning propels Bobcats to county championship

Staff reports

Phil Campbell rode a pair of huge second innings to a county championship on Saturday, blasting Belgreen 14-0 and then routing Red Bay 17-1.

Leading Belgreen 1-0 in a semifinal matchup, the Bobcats (19-6) sent 18 batters to the plate in the bottom of the second inning and scored 13 runs on seven hits, six walks and three errors. Hunter Baker had two hits in the big inning, and Phil Campbell also got a two-run single from Cole Pace, RBI singles from Jacob Barnwell and Cam Habada, and a single and a sac fly from Sage Raper.

That was more than enough run support for Kyle Pace (2-1), who needed only 61 pitches to throw a five-inning shutout. Pace held the Bulldogs to just two hits and one walk, striking out seven. He tossed an immaculate inning in the top of the third, striking out Cole King, Canaan Stough and Carson Cox on just nine total pitches.

Raper finished 2-for-2 with an RBI and a run, recording his team-leading 10th multi-hit game of the season. Habada went 1-for-2 with a pair of walks, driving in three runs and scoring another. Baker was 2-for-3 with two runs, notching his seventh multi-hit game of the year.

Barnwell and Cole Pace each went 1-for-2 with two RBIs and two runs scored. Mason Swinney was 1-for-2 with a walk and a run, and Bryant Anthony drove in a run and scored twice. Kyle Pace had two RBIs, and Bryant Hyde walked twice and scored a run. Isac Hill stole a base and scored a run, and Cody Quinn also scored a run.

After dropping their first game of the tournament by a final of 1-0, Belgreen went on yo outscore their opponents 40-10 across the next four games to win the Franklin County softball tournament.

Battling back from losing your first game in a double-elimination tournament is hard enough.

But bouncing back to win five straight games en route to a tournament title? Well that's just relatively unheard of.

However, that's just what the Belgreen Lady Bulldogs did over the weekend to capture the Franklin County varsity softball tournament championship.

After dropping game one against Red Bay by a final of 8-3, Belgreen won their second game by a narrow final of 1-0 over host Tharptown as the Lady Bulldogs got five innings of shutout pitching from Lily Blackburn in addition to five strikeouts.

Following up their win in game two, Belgreen would go on to win their next four games in the tournament against Vina (11-2), Phil Campbell (14-2), and Red Bay (7-4) to set up a finals showdown against Red Bay for all the marbles.

The Lady Bulldogs would once again turn to the reliable arm of Lily Blackburn to kick things off in the circle for Belgreen in hopes of returning for a second straight season as county champions with a win.

Red Bay jumped out to an early 1-0 lead over Belgreen but it wouldn't take long for the Lady Bulldogs to climb back into the game.

In the top of the second inning, Belgreen got three runs to take their first lead of the game over Red Bay. The bottom half of the second saw Blackburn settle back into a rhythm and retired the Lady Tigers without allowing a run in the inning.

Both Belgreen and Red Bay scored one run each in the third inning, making it a 4-2 game in Belgreen's favor headed into the second half of the five inning game.

The Bulldogs broke out for another big scoring inning, plating three runs in the top of the fourth inning to extend the lead for Belgreen and inch closer to the finish line and a title.

Two runs is all Red Bay would score in the game as Blackburn would shut out the Lady Tigers in the fourth and fifth innings as the Lady Bulldogs plat-
