LECO'S PRESIDENT
EMERITUS, ROBERT
WARREN, HAS PASSED AT 88

The collective community of Michigan's Great Southwest has lost a major industrial leader, and a generous, philanthropic man.

We've learned that Robert J. Warren, the President Emeritus of LECO Corporation, has died at the age of 88. Warren helped build LECO — a pioneer in the development of carbon determination instrumentation for use in the iron and steel industry, and other types of analytic instrumentation for use in organic and metallographic analysis and separation science — into a scientific juggernaut. Thanks to his leadership, industries around the world have trusted LECO to deliver technologically advanced products and solutions for analytical science for more than 86 years.

The LECO team worldwide was notified Sunday morning of Warren's passing by his wife, Elizabeth. Here is her message:

Dear LECO family,

It is with deep sadness that I share with you that my husband and our former President, Robert J. Warren passed away peacefully yesterday surrounded by family and friends.

Bob's integrity, vision, and leadership were key components to our company's growth and success for nearly 50 years. The diversification of our product base beyond the steel and metals industries as well as the expansion of our global footprint were some of his most notable accomplishments.

Bob will be remembered by many for being bold and direct. He was never afraid to tell you exactly how he felt! His quirky personality built a storied reputation amongst colleagues, employees, and members of the community, but beyond that tough exterior was a man with a very caring heart.

Bob gave so much of himself to his company and his community, and rarely accepted acknowledgement or recognition from anyone. He preferred to stay "behind the scenes", keeping a watchful eye from the background, often leaving only a cigar behind as evidence of his presence.

Aside from all of his professional accomplishments, it is his family Bob was most proud of, which includes our four sons, their wives, 10 grandchildren, and 3 great-grandchildren. He will be missed by all who knew him.

Please keep our family in your thoughts and prayers at this difficult time. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Sincerely, Elizabeth S. Warren

Fun & Interesting Things to Do in Michigan's Great Southwest!

Spring is such a beautiful time of year. Blue skies, green grass and foliage, and those wonderful scents of hyacinths, daffodils, and tulips. I am always amazed by the beauty of southwest Michigan. Even though it happens every year, I never tire of the renewal of nature in all its glory!

Another glorious thing about spring is what was old becomes new again. We start the month of May with the return of the Antiques on the Bluff. Something old is new to you! Find hidden treasures along Lake Bluff Park at this premier antique show that overlooks Lake Michigan. This event features over 50 vendors and runs the first Sunday of the month, May through October. Rain or shine.

Our next event will happen rain or shine as well because the weather won't be an issue. Elizabeth Vargas – part of the Economic Club of Southwestern Michigan Speaker series will be at The Mendel Center on May 10. Emmy Award-winning journalist Elizabeth Vargas has traveled the world covering breaking news stories, reporting in-depth investigations, and conducting newsmaker interviews. She is the host of America's Most Wanted and of the podcast Heart of the Matter. She most recently co-hosted the hit newsmagazine show 20/20 and previously served as co-anchor of World News Tonight and anchor of World News Tonight Sunday, among other notable host, anchor, and correspondent roles.

During "Behind the Headlines with Elizabeth Vargas," Vargas bravely discusses how alcoholism has affected her life and career, and why she chose to publicly share her struggle with the disease and her ongoing recovery. With her signature candor and insight, she also provides a behind-the-scenes look at today's live news reporting and ever-evolving media.

Next up, the Moersch's invite you to enjoy sangria – the wine "punch" of summer! They are kicking off the Jammin' in the Vineyard live music plus event series with their annual, fan-favorite, Sangria Party, which will take place on Saturday, May 14.

All new is the special event only at the Sangria Party! Their new "Sangria Station" experience allows guests to be able to create their own handcrafted sangria cocktail by selecting their favorite sangria flavor and topping it with their fruit(s) of choice. It will be sure to be muy deliciosa! (very delicious). The music schedule for this day includes: Leroy Winn and the Rebecca Ann Band.

We'll end today's column by reminding those who love the Makers Trail Passport Program that there is a one-time special reward this year. At the KitchenAid Senior PGA Championship this year there is an opportunity to enjoy the game from the Makers Trail 19th Hole. Purchase your ticket to the 19th Hole (includes entrance to the championship as well) and scan the QR code, enter your information and you will receive a red t-shirt with 19th Hole logo to add to your collection of passport t-shirts. This area will feature some local makers, a pavilion (on the 17th hole), beer garden and food truck. It's the perfect location to sit back and enjoy the game with family and friends. To purchase your ticket go to: www.srpgachampionship.com/attend/2022/tickets.

There is really nothing better than being able to sit outside on a summer Saturday soaking in the sunshine, listening to live music, and simply enjoying the start of festival season in Southwest Michigan. While we tend to take for granted the artists, ambiance, and even gorgeousness that summer brings us, one thing is for sure, the return of summer concerts is one that we are all looking forward to!

Grab your sunscreen, flip flops, and sunglasses as we officially kick things off with St.

Joseph Today's inaugural Compass Music Fest on Saturday, May 21st at Whirlpool Centennial Park. This 8-hour music festival begins at noon and is one that people of all ages will enjoy; featuring continuous live music, delicious food, regional craft brews and wines all with the backdrop of Lake Michigan.

The band line up is an outstanding mix of local and national artists which includes:

A trio of three talented ladies that you'll likely recognize who all share a love for music which brought them all together. The Backups and The Get Downs is a soulful, harmony driven lady trio made up of Leslie Sypian, Meredith George, and Morgan Ingle. All hailing from Southwest Michigan, these ladies play originals and covers from all genres, and can be summed up in these words - Sweet and Smooth.

Next up is a group of friends, a friend of a friend, and one stranger from Grand Rapids that make up Jack Droppers & The Best Intentions. Their music has been described as craft music that exemplifies the ethos of Furniture City: thoughtfulness, craftsmanship, and good ol' protestant work ethic. Currently they are promoting their third record "Dad Rock" which was independently released in 2021.

If you ask Daniele from St. Joe Today what the excitement level for the next performer was, she'd probably say pretty high. Back in 2012 Mary Lambert rose to fame with her heart-wrenching work on the marriage equality anthem "Same Love" from the Grammy-winning Macklemore & Ryan Lewis album, The Heist. Mary has gone on to have success on her own album releases, and is currently co-starring on the Netflix animated musical and series, I Heart Arlo.

Morningsiders will take the music energy level from that of soulful pop to one of a folk-pop feel. This NYC based indie band helps bridge the gap between intimate live performances and the atmospheric studio-produced pop. As a guitar-fiddle-piano trio, you've probably heard one of their songs and didn't even realize it as their song "Empress" was featured in a Starbucks commercial with Oprah, and topped Spotify's Viral 50 list.

Headlining the Compass Music Fest is Canadian born and Grammy nominee JP Saxe, who you might recognize from his hit collaboration with singer Julia Michaels called "If The World Was Ending." The song was re-recorded in 2020 featuring additional artists such as Sam Smith, H.E.R., Alessia Cara, Sabrina Carpenter, Niall Horan, Keith Urban, and Finneas O'Connell. JP's debut album Dangerous Levels of Introspection reached number 7 on the US charts and has since been re-released in a Deluxe Edition.

Tickets are on sale now, $30 in advance or $35 day of, kids 10 and under are free. You can purchase them online, by phone or in-person through The Mendel Center Box Office, or in-person only at the St. Joe Today Welcome Center.

As previously mentioned, food and beverages will be available for purchase. Inside the Bud Distributing beverage tent, you'll be able to sample a variety of local and regional brews and wines, plus a soda stand will be available with a variety of non-alcoholic soda flavors!

The Compass Music Festival is produced by St. Joseph Today, with support from Edward J. Todd and Bud Distributing. Event sponsors include: Holt Bosse, Beaudoin Electrical Construction, the City of St. Joseph, 97.5 Y-Country, 98.3 the Coast, WIRX, and WSJM.

If you'd like to learn more about the Compass Music Fest visit their website at stjoetoday.com/compassmusicfest. For additional details about the Chamber including upcoming events visit smrchamber.com or connect with me directly: sspoonholtz@smrchamber.com or 269-932-4040.

But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenward in Christ Jesus. ~ Philippians 3:13,14

It seems like, every few years, another movie comes out about time travel. We love these movies because we all wish we could go back and change our past. We all have regrets and guilt from things we've done or left undone. The problem is: ruminating on the past keeps us from living the Christian life in the present. It's like a sprinter who keeps looking back instead of running to the finish line.

The apostle Paul was tempted to look back. In the past, he persecuted Christians even to the point of death. He thought it was God's will to destroy Christianity. But then God called him not only to believe in Jesus but to be the lead missionary to bring the good news about Jesus to the ends of the earth. With such an important mission, he couldn't waste time obsessing about his past.

So, he wrote: "But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenward in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 3:13,14).

Paul would not let his shame and guilt from the past stop him from doing the ministry in the present. Jesus had overcome his past through his death and resurrection. God wanted him to run the race God had set out for him.

Even if someone invented the time machine, you wouldn't need it. God has forgiven your past. Now he wants you to focus on what's ahead. Keep taking hold of the love and acceptance you have in Christ, and live out the calling that God has given you.

Prayer: Lord God, you have forgiven my past. Lead me to keep my eyes fixed on following you in the future and the heavenly home you are preparing for me. Amen.

I recently visited Florida to help out my wife's parents, and, being focused on doing their bidding, I didn't get out much -- a bummer because the weather was nice, but perhaps also fortunate, because it kept me from having any encounters with Florida Man.

You may already have heard of Florida Man -- Floridians who make headlines with amusing and/or outrageous behavior. In all seriousness, many Florida Man stories are troubling, because they're a result of substance problems, poor mental health or criminality. But in all unseriousness, many are goofy/weird/laughable -- right up my alley!

Having admitted that I've not had personal encounters with Florida Men, nor personally witnessed any of their goofy, weird or laughable behavior, I thus also have to admit that the following items are dredged up from surfing the worldwide web. (Yes, I'm aware that Progressive Insurance's Dr. Rick, trying to help young homeowners from becoming their parents, tells one "we don't print the internet," but remember, if you're reading this from a physical paper, Farrell and Head are violating that tenet, not me!)

So here we go:

Item: A Florida (police) Man complained on Facebook that Burger King sprinkled dirt on his lunch.

Officer Tim McCormick of the Fort Myers PD was munching his fast-food repast when -- well, here's his Facebook post: "I was the officer who was served a burger at Burger King at 4004 Cleveland Avenue in Ft Myers with dirt in it. At first, I thought it was just burned old bacon. I was hungry and ate the burger. at the last bite I saw dirt and grit on the burger. In disgust, I threw it out of the window."

The post, which was shared 18,000 times, got to the attention of the CEO of Burger King's parent company. An "investigation" ensued, and it turns out that the "dirt" was actually a salt and pepper blend that Burger King applies to every burger patty before it hits the grill.

So, the story ends with handshakes and goodwill. Although, for throwing his unfinished sandwich "out the window," Officer McCormick did receive a citation for littering.

Item: In September 2017, some 80,000 Florida People (not just Men) showed interest in an effort to stop Hurricane Irma in its tracks. By shooting at it.

It started out of "boredom and tension." Two friends in Pasco County, Florida, near Tampa, set up a Facebook "event" to drive the storm away with bullets. "Shoot at Hurricane Irma" motivated more than 24,000 people to RSVP, with another 55,000 replying "maybe."

The response astounded multiple observers: The Pasco County Sheriff's office felt compelled to issue a Twitter warning: "DO NOT shoot weapons at Irma. You won't make it turn around. Bullets fired into a storm system have unpredictable and potentially dangerous trajectories." And one of the guys who created the original post told Time magazine "I'm amazed anyone could see it as anything else than a joke."

I personally love the additional Facebook events that popped up in the wake of "Shoot at Irma": "Yell like h*ll at Hurricane Irma!" and "Spin your arms really fast to push Irma away!"

And I love making fun of this garbled advice from Florida Politi-Man Marco Rubio: Shelter inside and "catch up on Games of Throne."

A scientific journal, Select Science, summed up Warren's career nicely in 2017 saying, "His integrity, vision, and leadership have been key components to the company's success for the last 40 years. A driving force behind the diversification of products within the company, it was Warren's leadership that moved LECO beyond its trademark carbon determination business and expanded into areas of analysis for the organic, metallographic, and separation science industries."

It was in that year, 2017, that he was honored with the Pittcon Heritage Award for his contribution to scientific instrumentation. The Heritage Award has been given since 2002, presented jointly by Pittcon and the Chemical Heritage Foundation, and is meant to "honor visionaries whose entrepreneurial careers shaped the instrumentation and laboratory supplies community, and by doing so have transformed the scientific community at large."

In 1968, Warren joined the family-owned Laboratory Equipment Corporation (LECO) which was founded in 1936 by Carl E. Schultz and business partners including George Krasl and Joseph Sauer. Carl Schultz's sister was Olga Krasl, George Krasl's wife, and Bob Warren's wife Elizabeth was Carl Schultz's daughter.

LECO has long been recognized as a leader in materials analysis. The company's first product was a carbon analyzer, a rapid carbon determinator designed to analyze the amount of carbon in steel or iron automatically within minutes. They expanded into die casting, ceramics, glass blowing, plating, and electronics. The company developed a wide range of products for laboratory analysis, including induction furnaces for the analysis of carbon and sulphur, metallurgical apparatus for rapid field analysis, and zircon porcelain and glassware for laboratory use.

In 1967, LECO opened its first international office in Germany, and Warren was instrumental in the company's ongoing expansion into Europe and Asia. In 1971, the company received an "E" Award for Exports from President Richard Nixon (authorized on his behalf by Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans.) The company reported an increase in overseas sales from 17- to 50-percent of its production, over the previous five years. LECO had expanded its production facilities as a result of the demand. As executive vice president and general manager of the firm, Robert Warren was chosen to receive the "E" Award on behalf of the company, which attributed its success in part to the establishment of high customer service standards, including careful handling of equipment, selection and training of distributors, and support for staff and customers in their local languages.

In 1976, Warren was named President and General Manager of LECO, and his wife Elizabeth became vice-president. By 1977, LECO had established international subsidiaries in Brazil, Canada, England, France, West Germany, Sweden and South Africa, in addition to its headquarter offices in St. Joseph and manufacturing plants in the United States. The company also has facilities in Henderson, Nevada, and Fort Meyers, Florida, and more than 30 subsidiaries worldwide, plus additional international distributors. On June 8, 1977, the Warrens bought the company's outstanding stock from the George J. Krasl Trust, represented by his widow Olga S. Krasl.

Under Warren's direction, LECO's research and development expanded, from manufacturing analytical instruments for metals and inorganics, to add manufacturing analytical instruments for organics. Analysis of organics brought LECO into the coal, oil, agricultural, and food industries. Warren also encouraged the incorporation of computing and data management capabilities into LECO's instruments. By the 1980s, LECO was developing multi-element analytical instruments for inductively coupled plasma, glow discharge, atomic emission spectroscopy, and time-of-flight mass spectrometry. In 1997, LECO introduced a 500-spectra-per-second time-of-flight mass spectrometer, suitable for use in separation science. LECO also developed instruments for comprehensive two-dimensional gas chromatography.

In 2006, the company opened the doors to their Global Support Center in St. Joseph — a facility dedicated to providing customers with service, training, and additional support after the sale of their instrument. A global network of service professionals help ensure customers around the world receive the service they need.

Metallographic and analytical laboratories at LECO's new Customer Experience Center on Hilltop Road and their mass spectrometry lab at the Elizabeth S. Warren Technical Centre, opened in 2012, provide application assistance, instrument demonstrations, and technical presentations for new and current customers, while their optical service laboratory offers accredited calibrations for hardness testing and microscopy equipment.

Bob Warren retired as President of LECO in 2016. The following year, 2017, LECO announced construction of a new building on the St. Joseph campus to be named in his honor.

In 2004, the Warrens and others arranged for the sale of LECO land in the Silver Beach area, to be transferred to Berrien County and the city of St. Joseph for educational and recreational use. The Warrens greatly supported the Silver Beach Carousel Society, which built a new carousel in that area, to replace one previously located in the Silver Beach Amusement Park. They were also instrumental in the creation and growth of one of the longest-running and most popular annual community events, the Venetian Festival.

In his retirement role as President Emeritus, Warren was an advisor to LECO's Co-Presidents Carl Warren and Chris Warren as they continue to shepherd the firm through its third generation of family ownership.

Bob Warren was decidedly a force to be reckoned with...but he truly loved this community and built his legacy here to live on for decades.

Dave Ramsey

Teach them, don't enable them

Dear Dave,
My younger brother and his wife did their taxes last month and learned they owe $15,000 to the IRS. I love them both, but they are extremely irresponsible with money. I know they have a lot of credit card debt, too. I am debt-free, including my home after following your plan, and would like to help them. I was thinking about taking out a one-time loan from the bank to help cover what they owe the IRS, because my emergency fund is a little low after a recent car accident. Under the circumstances, would this be okay?

Carson

Dear Carson,

In my mind, "help" would be aiding them in changing their ways with money. I don't say this to be sarcastic or mean, but it's the truth about where they are in life right now. They both need to be educated, not enabled, when it comes to their behavior with money. This doesn't mean they're bad people, but it does mean you don't need to be a party to, or a temporary fix for, their bad financial decisions.

Some people might say taking this attitude would mean you don't love and care about your brother and his wife. Those people would be wrong. You've already told me they won't behave with money, so at this point it would kind of be like giving a drunk a drink. You don't give more money to people who won't behave with it. That solves nothing, and in most cases it just reinforces the negative behavior.

This might be a good opportunity to sit down with your brother and his wife, and have a firm—but gentle—talk about their situation. Maybe you could offer to teach them the things that worked for you when it comes to finances, using the Baby Steps as your guide. And make sure they get in touch with the IRS about a payment plan.

I know you love them, but you can't fix this for them. In some cases, the best thing you can give someone is the understanding that they need to change their behavior. Hopefully, with you as their inspiration and support, they can learn how to manage their finances wisely.

Good luck, and God bless you all, Carson!

— Dave
