Iconic building's new name to be unveiled

One of downtown Aitkin's oldest and most historically significant buildings is getting a new name and brand vision.

Owners Dwight Marwede and Christine Bright will unveil the new name and brand vision of the building formerly known as the Butler Building as part of the Aitkin Chamber of Commerce Business After Hours on Fri., July 1 from 5 p.m. to -7 p.m.

The ribbon cutting and name reveal will happen at 5:30 p.m., followed by happy hour with food and drinks, and live music by Skål Klubb, a Scandinavian village folk orchestra that plays traditional Swedish, Norwegian, Finnish and Danish music on fiddles, accordion, pump organ, and double bass. The public is invited to attend.

The new name of the building is still a mystery, but its vision is not. Marwede and Bright are determined to reclaim the building's place at the heart of Aitkin's growing entertainment pantheon. The building has already played host to concerts by Duluth Transit Authority, Dave Simmonette of Trampled by Turtles, and most recently Jennifer Grimm Sings Judy Garland.

"The building has had many names and iterations, but from the very beginning it was the hub of entertainment and culture; the place where people gathered for a great time," Marwede said. "That's been missing in recent years. We want to become that place again."

In addition to the name of the building, names of the interior rooms, and convention and entertainment spaces will be unveiled. These names will pay homage to the long and rich history of the building.

"We want people to know and see for themselves that this building will once again be a bustling hot spot for music, theater, and the arts," Bright said.

The new building's brand vision as the heart of entertainment is part of an ongoing effort by a number of organizations to reposition Aitkin as a regional entertainment destination. These efforts have been led by Aitkin's Chamber of Commerce, Aitkin Friends of the Arts, and Block North Brew Pub.

The building will remain home to a variety of businesses, and be available for weddings, events, conventions and public gatherings.

OBITUARIES

MARIE CHRISTENSEN

Marie Christensen, 87, a longtime resident of Aitkin, died on Thursday, June 9, 2022.

A memorial service was held for immediate family at Avon, IN on June 12, with burial at Lakeview Cemetery in Aitkin.

Born in Cumberland, WI on March 30, 1935, to Blair and Edna (Barrows) Sweet, Marie was raised in a family with six sisters. Growing up she attended the local country schools and then Cumberland High School, where she was active in the Glee Club and 4-H. She was confirmed in the Methodist Church in 1948. She married Seward Christensen, Jr. of McGregor in 1961 and has been a resident of Aitkin County since the early 1960s. Seward and Marie operated a dairy farm near McGregor for many years before moving to Aitkin. As a homemaker Marie was an accomplished gardener, a wonderful baker – especially of homemade bread and rolls – and a caring mother and grandmother. Her hobbies included taking care of her toy poodle and feeding the hummingbirds. She loved music, singing, and playing the accordion.

Marie's beloved husband of 60 years, Seward Christensen, Jr., died on November 30, 2021.

She is survived by their children: Kathryn (Ed), Anthony (Denielle) and Joy and two children from a previous marriage: Steve (Deonn) and Rick (Dianna) Perry, and ten grandchildren.

Arrangements were with the Sorensen-Root-Thompson Funeral Home and Cremation Service of Aitkin www.srtfuneral.com.
