Dear "Speakout",
Get Out and Stay Out of Debt.

In the past few years, I have watched as families compete with other families in their lifestyles. One family buys a new four-wheeler or car, and the family next door must buy a bigger and better one.

During the past two years of the pandemic, families became much more conservative in their view of personal savings. Personal savings in the United States was expected to be about 9.5 percent by the end of 2021. This would have been great because for decades American families have saved on an average only about 1 to 2 percent of their income.

The problem is that Americans have reverted to their old lifestyles with the intent of accomplishing all the things which they were forced to abandon during the height of the pandemic.

Recently when the economy and inflation became much more volatile, we decided that nothing was going to keep us from enjoying ourselves as we did in the past. Banks have disclosed that many Americans are now adding to their credit card balances at an alarming rate with many accounts approaching their credit limits.

With the Federal Reserve increasing interest rates several times this year, these rates are being passed on to the American consumer and minimum monthly payments are increasing. Because these banks are viewing a possible economic recession and the probability of an increase in bankruptcies, credit lines are being lowered and frozen to prevent consumers from adding even more debt.

Americans are traveling on our roads and in the air at pre-pandemic levels, with much of the cost being added to their credit cards. With housing costs skyrocketing at an alarming rate, many home buyers are selecting adjustable interest rate mortgages much like before the 2008 economic collapse.

We just do not seem to learn from the mistakes of our past. Both the Old and New Testaments mention the attitude of most human beings: Isaiah 22:13 KJV "And behold joy and gladness, slaying oxen, and killing sheep, eating flesh, and drinking wine: let us eat and drink; for to morrow we shall die." 1 Corinthians 15:22 KJV adds to this idea: "If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? let us eat and drink; for to morrow we die."

According to the Bible, we are to lend and not borrow. Deuteronomy 28:12-13 KJV warns us: "The Lord shall open unto thee his good treasure, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his season, and to bless all the work of thine hand: and thou shalt lend unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow. And the Lord shall make thee the head, and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath; if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the Lord thy God, which I command thee this day, to observe and to do them."

Parents are supposed to leave an inheritance for their children and grandchildren: Psalm 13:22 KJV "A good man leaveth an inheritance to his children's children: and the wealth of the sinner is laid up for the just."

God has warned us repeatedly in His Word not to get into debt. Unfortunately, our selfish sinful natures demand gratification now and not later. We live in an I want it now culture.

Lord willing, I will submit an article again next week.

Ron Powell
 Nunda

Dear "Speakout",

People need to remember, especially those who submit Speak Out letters, that the United States of America was founded upon (among other things) the separation of church and state. This means that, contrary to England, the place that colonists left for what would become the U.S., we do not have a national church.

Let me repeat that: We do not have a national Church.

We do not have a national religion. It's a cornerstone of the first amendment and quotations from the Founding Fathers are replete with condemnations of states with officially sanctioned religion. It is both ironic and extremely frustrating that the same people who believe (and shout, loudly) that the USA is the greatest civilization to ever grace the Earth are often the same people who believe our nation's founders made such a central mistake in refusing to revolve the constitution around the Christian Bible.

This is not as frustrating, however, as the confusing gymnastics some people play in order to lay the blame at the feet of "socialism." Oh, how I wish our government was even half as "socialistic" as all of the conservative fear-mongers made it out to be.

Socialism is not, despite popular belief, "more government intervention." This "the bigger government is, the more socialist-y it is," logic is simply untrue. Socialism is, very (very.) basically, when workers and people own the means of production – an economy where the concept of "record profits for corporations while people are houseless and starving" is not a thing. It is an economic system where everyone has a voice, where everyone can meet their basic needs, where everyone is free.

Our Overton window is so disturbingly toward the Far Right that today's mainstream centrist Democrats are called Socialists and anything anyone doesn't like is Socialism. Reality check: both political parties are served by capitalism, not socialism (anyone who doesn't believe me is more than welcome to look up the campaign donation rosters for either Red or Blue team). This is why no matter if their slogan is "Make America Great Again" or "Build Back Better," profits are soaring while wages are stagnant; why the stock market is thriving but people can't afford housing, or gas, or food; why no matter who is in office (or what letter is in the parentheses after their name) we have no educational, childcare, unemployment, healthcare, or physical (say it with me) infrastructure.

The last, most frustrating point of irony is that, while the US is not a Christian nation...if our country followed the teachings of Jesus Christ, we'd be in much greater alignment with socialism than would likely be comfortable for Christian conservatives. Feed the hungry, shelter the houseless – with no profit motive? Heal the sick, even if they can't afford the co-pay?!? Jesus sounds like a socialist!

Respectfully,
 Lauren Berger

BE WELL IN MOUNT MORRIS

Be Well in Mt. Morris is a group focused on activities for eating well, moving more, and stressing less. We want to bring new, exciting opportunities and respond to needs the community has -- such as a new grocery store and investing in ways for families to access safe recreation. Help us connect to others in Mt. Morris when you can. Meetings are the 4th Thursday of the month. Learn more at the Be Well in Mt. Morris Facebook site: <https://www.facebook.com/BeWellMM> or contact Kim R. (585-243-7279) or Lisa B. at the Department of Health (585-243-7531). This is an initiative of the Genesee Valley Health Partnership (gvhp.org).
